The downtown association has purchased a block of 500 tickets to the rides and these will be given out by the clowns over the three days.

Other attractions of the sale will be the food booth sponsored by the Jaycees and the booth sponsored by the Quinte Sports Foundation.

The foundation will be soliciting signatures during the sale as a form of poll to see how many people in the city want to see Bobby Hull play hockey for the Canadian National Hockey Team.

The signatures will become part of a petition.

The Belleville Santa Claus Parade committee will be sponsoring several games of chance to be played on the street in an attempt to raise funds for the parade this Christmas.

The final touch for the sale will be the musical accompaniment of a 12-piece circus band.

Musicians in the band are provided through a joint financial agreement between the Belleville Downtown Association and the Music Performance Trust Fund.

Pet Contest Highlight

How long is your dog's tail? This will be a prime consideration in the pet contest to be held in conjunction with this year's downtown association sidewalk sale this weekend.

The contest is open to youngsters all across the city and its categories will include the most pointed ears, the biggest tail and the list goes on so that as many children as possible have a chance at a prize.

The competitions will begin at 2 p.m.

Judges for the events will be president of the downtown association, Roger Porter and Alderman Robin Jeffrey.

Sidney Plans Roads Survey

A road's study being undertaken by Sidney Township is expected to yield recommendations for the 1974 road's budget.

Consultants will be hired shortly to determine priorities and provide guidelines on road developments. They will prepare a report for release in the fall of 1973.

Cost of the study — estimated by Reeve Jack Bush at between $16,600 and $18,000 — will be divided 75:25 between the province and the township. Such studies, usually involving counties or large municipalities, are sponsored through special grants provided by the provincial ministry of transportation and communication.

Mr. Bush said advantages to the township would be two fold.

"We'll have something laid down in actual principle, so that when ratepayers and others come to us, we will have something."

Secondly, he said, the township would have a better argument when requesting government funds for road building. "The road expenditure envelope is up with the needs," he said.

The consultants' team will conduct traffic counts, investigate movement patterns and survey existing road equipment.

Brawl at Rhode Island

Mick Jagger and His Lead Guitarist Arrested

BOSTON (AP) — Mick Jagger and Keith Richard, the leader and lead guitarist of the Rolling Stones, were arrested Tuesday night after a brawl with police, but they still made it to Boston Garden early today and put on a concert.

Thousands of fans waited 5½ hours in sweltering heat to hear the British rock group.

The delay in the concert occurred when Jagger, 29, Richard, 25, and three other members of their party were arrested in Warwick, R.I., on charges resulting from a scuffle when a photographer tried to take a picture of the group.

Their plane had been diverted to Warwick when fog socked in the airport here.

"I called and I got them out and they're on their way," Mayor Kevin White told a capacity crowd of 15,500 persons who had packed the Garden for the scheduled 8 p.m. concert.

Despite the delay the crowd generally remained orderly.

Authorities used many ploys to keep the crowd occupied, including at one point passing out small, rubber footballs," which the fans tossed around the Garden for several minutes.

When the Stones arrived on stage at 12:50 a.m., they were greeted by a long, loud ovation.

After their first number, Jagger told the audience that the group was delayed because "we tried out the jail for a while."

"Our thanks to the mayor of Boston," Jagger added, "He helped to get us out of that jail."

Earlier, Jagger, Richard and the three others arrested appeared before a justice of the peace in a special session at Warwick police headquarters. They were arraigned on charges resulting from the airport scuffle. All pleaded not guilty, were released on bail and sent under police escort for the 60-mile drive to Boston.

They were ordered to appear Aug. 23 for a hearing.

Police were sent to the Warwick airport after Andy Dickerman, a photographer for the Providence Journal, called and complained that he had been assaulted by a member of the group in a fire shed where they were awaiting their baggage.

Sgt. Frank Ricci, who led a police detail to the fire shed, said that when officers arrived he saw Richard punch Dickerman with a belt he had wrapped around his hand.

Art College Seeks President

TORONTO (CP) — The council of the strife-torn Ontario College of Art Tuesday decided to hunt for a new president and a public relations man to repair its image.

The council appointed a three-man search committee to find suitable candidates.

"We should go to the minister (of colleges and universities) and say we need someone very badly," Toronto lawyer Roy McMurty told his fellow councillors.

The search for a president resulted from the suspension of English artist Roy Ascott April 19, hired as president last year. After two months of controversy the council decided to pay Mr. Ascott $45,000 and ask him to resign.

Mr. McMurty said in an interview he was of support the new president of the OCA to be someone "outside the art world . . . without an axe to grind," who would run the college for the forthcoming academic year until a full-time artist president is found.

Monetary Accord Seen as Flash in Pan

LONDON (CP) — A display of accord on international monetary reform by finance ministers from the 10 countries expected to form the enlarged Common Market is likely to prove little more than another flash in the pan in the long search for European agreement.

The countries involved, the six present members of the European Common Market and four applicant states, announced agreement on a series of broad principles for reform during a two-day meeting, which ended here Tuesday.

But they skirted the controversial and pressing questions of the future role of gold, the value of the dollar and the use to be made of special drawing rights, a type of international reserve asset.

Unless a far more substantial accord can be reached by the ministers at a meeting set for Sept. 11-12, the Europeans will be without a common bargaining position when they meet representatives from Canada, the U.S. and other members of the International Monetary Fund later in September.

The IMF meeting in Washington will be devoted largely to the reconstruction of the international system of finance and trade, disrupted since the U.S. suspended the gold convertibility of the dollar last August.

The Europeans are extremely anxious to reach a common bargaining figure, not only to counter American influence within the IMF but also to make sure recent events which have cost some doubt on whether an enlarged Common Market will ever be able to agree on a single economic system.

One step toward a common economic arrangement within the EEM was the decision of the 10 countries last April to support each other's currencies within a narrower margin than that permitted internationally.

This policy was shattered in June, however, when Britain allowed sterling to float in international exchanges in response to intense selling pressure in major markets.

The ministers' reluctance to discuss the dollar and other areas requiring attention was seen by observers here as a clear indication that wide differences still exist among the 10 countries on the basic issue of what form a new international financial system should take.

Basically, the points agreed to are a re-affirmation of the position taken by the British during negotiations in 1943 and 1944 leading to creation of the present system.

These include provision for fixed exchange rates, international control of liquidity—the reserves available to help countries finance deficits, provision for securing necessary adjustments in the balance of payments of participating countries and for maintaining convertible currencies.

Britain now is pressing for an enlargement of special drawing rights, or SDRS, to form the basic unit of reserve and a phasing out of the dollar from its reserve role. But British treasury officials say they do not insist that this be done quickly.

"It might take several years," said one treasury source.

The French, however, are less patient. French negotiators contend that unless the dollar is first removed from its reserve position, SDRS cannot be increased. Otherwise, an increase in SDRS would only help prop up and prolong the dollar's reserve role, they argue.

In addition, the countries have reached no common position on whether gold should remain retained as part of an new system or gradually reduced by SDRS as well.

The French insist that the dollar's convertibility in gold be restored. They say new system of exchange rat negotiated in Washington in December is meaningless unless the dollar is made convertible. The Americans contend that an agreement on convertibility is impossible until mess have been found to alleviate the U.S. payments deficits.

However, another ad test of whether the futureenlarged Common Market can hammer out a common policy say come over the next few months if pressure continues o the dollar. Some sources believe this might force the Europeans to consider closing their exchanges and preparing a joi currency float with wide centres.

Convicts Seek Compensation For Beatings by Prisoners

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Four convicts of Kingston Penitentiary told a tribunal Tuesday of mass beatings administered to them by fellow prisoners during a 1971 riot in which two prisoners were beaten to death.

The four testified before the Ontario Criminal Injuries Compensation Board, which is holding a two-day hearing here. Three more injured inmates are scheduled to appear today along with Terrence Decker, a correctional officer who was taken hostage as the riot began.

The prisoners told Tuesday of being taken forcibly from their cells in a segregated area of the penitentiary and tied to chairs and beaten with iron bars or pipes while hundreds of other prisoners looked on.

All testified that rioters threatened to kill them during a night of terror.

The board has never made awards to prisoners in federal jails and chairman Arthur Wishart said at the hearing that the province's responsibility for incidents in federal prisons is not clear.

At the hearing Julius Martin, doing 14 years for wounding, said one captor told him:

"You're gonna die and you're gonna die slow."

He said that at one point during a beating, hot glue or lacquer was poured over the captives. Beaten unconscious, he woke up with the dead body of Brian Ensor on top of him.

Allan Saunders, 45, serving seven years for bank robbery, said he played dead after being struck over the head four times —his wounds needed 47 stitches.

Leslie Zimmer, 32, said he suffered head injuries and lost four front teeth in the beatings.

He said it was 30 days before a dentist attended his teeth and "I finally tried to yank them out with a pair of pliers myself."

Robert Sheehan, 36, in jail for a sexual offence, said he and others were methodically beaten for seven hours and he was chained beside Ensor, also a sex offender.

Sheehan said that shortly before the beatings ended, he played dead to avoid further blows.

Ensor beside him was moaning.

Sheehan said he heard one of the prisoners conducting the beatings say:

"This one is still alive. Let's kill him."

"I remember exactly the moment Brian Ensor died," said Sheehan.

"I think his last words were, 'Oh, my God. I think I'm finished.'

"I thought I was next."

Woman Left Note Saying She Had Poisoned Herself

TORONTO (CP) — A coroner's jury was told Tuesday that a woman who lived for a month after swallowing a liquid herbicide wrote a note to her doctor saying: "I took poison for personal reasons."

The inquest is investigating the death of Gertrude Marple, 40, of Bolton, Ont., who died in a Toronto hospital June 1.

The woman's husband, John Ralph Marple, testified he had bought a 48-ounce bottle of weed killer for his lawn. He said he used it in his basement for a month until April 30 when he, his 14-year-old son and his wife took it out and remember read instructions on its use.

That night, Mr. Marple said, his wife became ill with a sore throat and vomiting. He took her to a Bolton doctor who prescribed penicillin for what he diagnosed as strep throat, Mr. Marple said.

Several days later, when she was no better, she was taken to Peel Memorial Hospital in Brampton. The next day, May 6, there was evidence of kidney failure and she was admitted to Wellesley Hospital here.

Dr. C. Williams, who treated Mrs. Marple, testified she acted peculiarly. He said he learned from a note she wrote to him May 23 that she had taken the herbicide April 30.

No Lobster This

An old, grizzled Bermudian shows off a Bermuda spiny lobster caught in one of his pots. These brown-ish-yellow creatures are not really lobsters at all or true crayfish as many people think, but marine crustaceans also found off Florida and in the Caribbean. Because the spiny lobster goes through a planktonic larval stage — at which stage it is microscopic and free - floating in the ocean no one has yet discovered a way of hatching and raising them in captivity.

Leo Bernier, Touring Parks, Says Beach No Place for Car

IPPERSWASH, BEACH, Ont. (CP) — All parking will be banned from beaches at Ipperwash Provincial Park, Leo Bernier, provincial minister of natural resources, said Tuesday.

Talks Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial government representatives and officials of Central Park Lodges Ltd., were to meet today to discuss the fate of 123 elderly lodge residents who have been given notice to find new accommodation.

At issue is the status of lodges operated by the company which have, in the past, held dual licences as nursing and residential homes.

Most of the eight units operated by the company have set one floor aside for nursing care, but new Ontario regulations which came into effect in April say 75 per cent of a home must be used for nursing care if a nursing-home licence is to be issued.

Few Lifeguards

TORONTO (CP) — A shortage of lifeguards combined with crowds driven to city swimming pools by the hot weather has resulted in many would-be bathers being turned away. Regulations require the city to have two lifeguards for every 100 swimmers.

The minister, touring Ontario's park system, said the move may take effect in about a year's time.

Killed Calf

STRATFORD (CP) — Gordon K. Swan, 19, of Mitchell, Ont., was sentenced Tuesday to one year in jail after pleading guilty to beating a calf to death with a two-by-four.

Court was told that Earl O'Grady, who employed Swan as a farmhand, found the dead calf and a note from Swan saying he was quitting.

Swan had two previous convictions of assault on females and one of indecent assault on a male, court was told.

Subway Locks Cars

TORONTO (CP) — Even the recent delivery of 46 new cars by Canadian Car in Thunder Bay won't prevent a serious shortage of equipment when the new extension to the north-south subway opens, says a report to the Toronto Transit Commission.

Abortions Rise

LONDON (Reuter) — The number of abortions performed in Britain increased by more than 18 per cent last year compared with 1970, rising to 122,691, the department of health and social security said Tuesday.

Greeks Can Leave Country

ATHENS (AP) — The State Council, Greece's highest court, ruled Wednesday that any person holding a valid Greek passport cannot be prevented from leaving the country. The court nullified a police order forbidding the departure of Alexander Floros, former Supreme Co Judge and opponent of the mi tary regime. Many such former politicians have been forbidden to leave the country.

He said all motorcyclists should not suffer because a few are rowdy at parks, referring to a government move earlier this year which banned motorcycles from Pinery.

Shulman Out

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman has declared himself out of the race to succeed retiring Mayor William Dennison and has urged voters in his area to support Ald. David Crombie.

The New Democratic Party member of the Ontario legislature for Toronto High Park said he would have been forced "reluctantly" to seek the office if a "reform candidate" like Mr. Crombie had not.

Find Wreck

LIMA (Reuter) — Japanese mountaineers have found the wreck of an airplane which crashed 18 years ago with 29 persons on board 5,000 feet up a snow-covered north Peruvian peak, police said Tuesday. The plane, a Douglas C-47 belonging to Peru's military transport airline T.A.M., disappeared Nov. 16, 1954, on a flight between the Amazon city of Pucallpa and Lima. Most of the passengers were soldiers.

Tribute Paid to Chamberlain

Chamberlain, 61-year-old veteran television, radio and stage performer, died Sunday of heart disease and lung congestion in hospital at Bathurst, about 25 miles from here.

Met Manager Dies in Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — Stunned by the death of Gerard Gentele, the new general manager of the Metropolitan Opera, the Met's board of directors meets today to discuss the company's future.

Gentele, 54, and two of his daughters, Cecilia Anne 21 and Beatrice, 15, were killed Tuesday when a car the Swedish director was driving collided head-on with a truck in Sardinia, where the family was vacationing.

Gentele's wife, Marit, and daughter Janeiz, 27, were taken to hospital in Olbia, Sardinia. Their conditions were reported improved today.

George Mauro, the Met board chairman, said: "The company will carry on with the whole season just as Mr. Gentele planned it."

Moore said there would be no quick decision as to Gentele's successor. "We're all in shock," he said.

The board meeting already had been scheduled. In the meantime, it was believed that Moore planned to recommend that Schuyler Chapin, Gentele's assistant, be appointed acting manager.

Although he assumed full control of the Met only weeks ago when Rudolf Bing stepped down, sweeping changes had taken place at the opera house since Gentele was named general manager 18 months ago.

He hired the company's first black conductor, Henry Lewis.

Gentele also planned a Piccolo Met, to offer small-scale operatic concerts.

Treason Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Representative Fletcher Thompson, (Rep. Ga.) Tuesday accused actress Jane Fonda of treason and said the U.S. justice department should take action against her.

Miss Fonda, Thompson told the House of Representatives, was entertained last week by Radio Hanoi as urging U.S. military personnel in Vietnam to disobey orders. "This is treason," he said, and "is giving aid and comfort to the enemy."

Unemployment Rises

Unemployment in Canada in June rose to 568,000 from from 552,000 in May, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday. However the rate of unemployment remained unchanged at 6.2 per cent, due to a jump in the labor force to 9.15 million. The increase in unemployment occured despite a greater-than-usual gain last month in over-all employment. But the creation of new jobs failed to catch up to the growing numbers of job-seekers. Sadat's Ousting of Russians Is Seen As Bid to Halt Rising Egyptian Unrest

LONDON (CP) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's call for an end to the Soviet military presence in his country is seen in many world capitals today as a bid to preserve his hard-pressed regime against growing domestic unrest.

The departure of thousands of Russians will be popular in Egypt. Student demonstrators questioning relations with the Soviet Union blocked Cairo streets for nearly a week last January.

In London, The Guardian comments: "Mr. Sadat appears to have taken his drastic decisions . . . in order to head off an army coup d'etat that would have removed him from power."

The newspaper, which accurately predicted Sadat's move well before it was announced Tuesday, adds, however, that neither Israel nor the Western powers should cheer too loudly. The wholly good consequence of Russia's involvement in the Middle East has been the restraints that she has imposed or tried to impose on the Arabs' military ambitions.

"Our danger is that the Egyptians, deprived of their Russian advisers, will now believe what they want to believe and risk another war (with Israel)," the newspaper says.

There was no official Israeli comment. One source said the government was waiting to see if the Russians really withdraw.

Israeli newspapers described Egypt's action both as "daring" and "dangerous." The Jerusalem Post said the Soviet withdrawal could clear the way for Egypt to undertake "some kind of military adventure," but Cairo could not think in terms of major war without active Soviet assistance.

The Independent Haaretz said Sadat "has given into pressure from his army officers and the Russians."

Silence was the initial reaction of the Soviet government to the action by a government in which it has invested billions of dollars.

But some diplomats in Cairo speculated that the Kremlin and not Sadat was responsible for the withdrawal as the result of a secret agreement during President Nixon's visit to Moscow to reduce Soviet-American activity in the Middle East.

Announcing that his own soldiers will replace Soviet advisers and experts, Sadat said the Russians had let him down by not delivering arms promised in 1971 for confrontation with Israel.

Sadat also indicated friction over Soviet attempts to restrict the use of arms supplied Egypt. He said he had rejected such attempts and made clear on a visit to Moscow in April that Egypt would not tolerate dictation of its military policies.

The decision to send Soviet military advisers and experts home does not include the sizable handful of instructors teaching weapons and tactics to Egyptian military schools, the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram says.

The training personnel started coming to Egypt in 1967, with the equipment to replace the losses in the six-day war.

Military advisers and experts began arriving in force in 1970 to set up missile sites, pilot planes and operate advanced equipment.

The International Institute for Strategic Studies here says the total number of Russian military personnel in Egypt is about 20,000, following a dramatic buildup from a modest 2,500 at the beginning of 1970.

The Institute says 15,000 of these are troops manning SAM-3 ground-to-air missiles sites; 200 are pilots for roughly 150 jet-built aircraft; others are ground staff on numerous military bases or are among more than 4,000 technicians who are classed as advisers.

In addition, elements of the Soviet naval air force have been flying maritime reconnaissance aircraft, based near Cairo and from new naval air bases opened last year at Aswan od Alexandria.

Commentators today express serious doubt that Egypt possesses the necessary skilled personnel either to operate or maintain the expensive Soviet equipment which has been installed during the last two years.

McGovern Is Target

Meany Seeks Labor Blackball

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Labor leader George Meany throws the full weight of his personal prestige behind an effort today to cut off national trade union support for Senator George McGovern's Democratic presidential campaign.

Meany, outspoken 77-year-old head of the AFL-CIO, called a closed-door meeting of the confederation's executive council to try to persuade union leaders not to back the Democratic ticket.

The AFL - CIO traditionally supports Democratic candidates with financial backing and endorsements that carry weight among rank-and-file members.

Reports said labor leaders were deeply split over Meany's implacable opposition to McGovern and would support their chief only out of personal loyalty.

One way out of the difficulty it was said, was for the board to refuse to endorse either McGovern or President Nixon, leaving each union to make up its own mind. But such a move could damage the AFL-CIO's future political standing, some officials believe.

Many union leaders were believed to be ready to back the Democratic ticket.

Vice-presidential candidate Senator Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, picked by McGovern partly because of his ties with the labor movement, spent much of Tuesday on the telephone to union officials seeking their support, or at worst, a promise to do nothing rather than endorse President Nixon.

Eagleton said he received encouragement or outright endorsements from officials of the Machinists Union, the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, the State, County and Municipal Employees Union and the International Association of Meat Cutters.

Palestinian Booby Trapped

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Another Palestinian leader was the victim of a booby trap today, the second in less than a month.

Anis Sayegh, 41, was severely injured when a bomb exploded as he opened his desk.

On Tuesday, a group that called itself Supporters of Free Lebanon claimed it was responsible for the death on July 9 of Palestinian commando leader Ghassan Kanafani.

Sayegh, who is well known in the Arab world as a writer on Palestine and Arab affairs, works at the Palestine Research Centre backed by the Palestine Liberation Organization. The PLO is dominated by Al Fatah, the largest and least ideological of the commando groups.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers Union, met with Eagleton Tuesday and said he would work for the Democratic ticket and expected the union to endorse it.

The executive board of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union, voted to endorse the Democratic ticket, union president A. F. Grospiron said in Denver Tuesday. The union represents approximately 180,000 persons in 42 states.

But despite his expressed desire for rest and relaxation after his gruelling 18-month campaign for the presidential nomination, he was acting like a man as if he were already in the middle of the election campaign.

He toured the famous Mount Rushmore national memorial Tuesday, chatting and joking with a crowd of about 200 tourists who clustered around him, signing autographs and even kissing babies.

Union Merger Surfaces Again

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — The possibility of a merger of the Teamsters and Longshoremen's unions surfaced again when it was learned that their leaders were meeting here secretly.

A Seattle longshore source, who asked not to be identified, said the meeting Tuesday was the first of several "exploratory talks" on a possible merger.

He said the Vancouver meeting involves top officials of the Western Conference of Teamsters and the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, including President Harry Bridges.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, JULY 19, 1972

Dick Bird of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club puts the finishing touches to a sign for this weekend's Ontario Fireball Championships to be held at the Belleville Club. A total of close to 40 competitors from across the province are expected to be on hand for racing competition in the sailing dinghys. The races will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Fireball Sailing Races Saturday

By ERIC EMERSON
Staff Sports Writer

The hottest things on water this weekend will be appropriately - named fireballs.

The craft, fastest of the sailing dinghys, will be making their first competitive appearance on the Bay of Quinte this weekend when the local yacht club plays host to the Ontario Fireball Championships.

The 40 competitors who are entered in the event will have more on their mind than just the provincial championship. Sailing enthusiasts are attempting to have the class declared eligible for the 1976 Olympics, joining the six other sections which make up the sailing events.

Fireballs are made of fibre glass or wood and have three sails, a jib, a main and a spinnaker. Another prominent feature of the boats is a wire suspended from the mast to a harness from which hangs one of the two-man crew. Because of the agility required in the boats, most of the competitors will be quite young.

The class was the biggest at the CORK regatta, held in Kingston the site of the '76 Olympic sailing, mainly because of the inexpensive price tag (you can build one for as little as $800).

The competitors, who hail from all over Ontario, will sail a three-mile triangle. Provided with good sailing conditions, they will have to round the course three times per race and there are expected to be at least five races this weekend.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club will be represented by two entries with Bruce Cook and John Locke vying for the Ontario title.

The races will get under way Saturday morning and are expected to wind up about 5 p.m. Sunday.

Industrial Race Warming Up

The heat is beginning to show in the Industrial Softball League standings as the schedule enters its drying weeks and with the new playoff arrangement decided upon the action should be hectic as teams jockey for position.

The top four teams in each division will play a round-robin series with their counterparts from the other groups to decide the four teams to advance to the semi-final.

UIC and the Lenders paced their insurance of being near the top of division A and B, both coming up with wins last night.

Terry Murphy fired the two-hit shutout, striking out eight and walking one. Wayne Casselman supplied the runs necessary for victory smashing a homer and rbi double. Fred Smith had two singles with Jim Fazackerley and John Belanger adding doubles.

UIC had little trouble in disposing of Constellation Carpets 15-6, to strengthen their hold on third spot in division B.

Clint Halladay had a perfect night at the plate for the winners pounding out four singles and a double. Joe Clark knocked in six runs with his triple and three singles as UIC erupted for 18 hits.

Pete Hamilton threw the win allowing seven hits including a home run to Jim Thompson and two singles to Ron Mitchell.

Ellis Juniors Burned

Howard and Roberts Printing were too hot for the Ellis Juniors to handle but Quinte Hotel stayed cool by not handling the Globe Hotel at all in the Commercial Softball League schedule last night.

The Printers remained alone in second place after stopping the Juniors 4-0. Quinte moved into third place by themselves after winning a forfeit from the Globe who failed to field a team.

Howard and Roberts sent the Juniors reeling to their 18th loss of the year with three runs in the second and one in the sixth. Singles from Pug Kellar and Larry Potter, an error and two sacrifices brought the winners their first three scores then back to back singles by John Campbell and Dwight Rathwell added the final marker.

Bob Ethier hurled the win firing a three hitter. He allowed singles to Brian Garlepy, Wayne Andrews and Rick Graham but fanned seven other Junior batters.

Ron Hill went the route for the Juniors giving up five hits and fanning one. His team mates were unable to produce a run for him despite seven errors committed by Howard and Roberts.

Tornado Not Able To Help Broadloom

Mary Ann Sills was a one-woman tornado in last night's Belleville and District Ladies Softball League contest, but she wasn't quite enough as her Belleville Broadloom squad fell 13-8 to Bob Blaind-Red Barn.

Mary Ann struck out 16 batters while on the mound and stroked a home run and three singles while at the plate but was unable to offset the winners 16-hit attack.

Valerie Brown had a homer and single and Judy Sager a double and two singles for the winners.

Hull Should Be On Team

Editor,
Sports Department

I see no reason why the National Hockey League bars Bobby Hull so he will not be able to play hockey against the Russians this September. If it is supposed to be Hockey Canada, why not give Bobby Hull an opportunity to play against the Russians for he is a damn good hockey player.

Without having Bobby Hull, I don't agree the name of the team is Team Canada. It should be the name of the team "Hockey NHL All-Stars". If the NHL officials want to keep the name of the team "Hockey Canada", I strongly recommend that Bobby Hull should be eligible to play hockey against the Russians since there are more NHL players in the United States than in Canada preparing to play against the Russians.

I am wondering why it's called "Team Canada" although there are more NHL players in the United States like Boston, New York, Chicago, Detroit, etc. If the name of the team is called "Hockey Canada", I think that the NHL players from Vancouver, Toronto and Montreal should be eligible to play against the Russians because three cities are from Canada, therefore it is called "Hockey Canada". I strongly recommend that the players in the United States are not allowed to play against the Russians because the cities in the United States are not in Canada.

I know that Bobby Hull will be disappointed for he will not be able to play against the Russians. If I were Harry Sinden, I would let Bobby Hull play because of the name of the team "Hockey Canada".

I am fully hoping the fans across Canada will encourage the officials to let Bobby Hull play against the Russians. I think it is commendable for Bobby Hull to sign a contract for the new World Hockey Association and the Winnipeg Jets as well as my brother-in-law, Gary Hull has signed his contract for the Ottawa Nationals.

Frontenac Downs Opens Tonight

It will be the 'new look' Frontenac Downs when the McAdoo's Lane harness racing plant opens for season No. 2 tonight.

There have been numerous changes since the track held its last racing date April 30th.

The second floor betting area has been re-arranged and enlarged to suit the racing patron better. On the subject of betting, the horsemen themselves will be allowed to wager in the ship - in bars this year.

The ¾-mile oval has been resurfaced with 16 ton of stone dust and it's hoped the track will be lightening fast by Wednesday.

Another change the clubhouse patrons should enjoy is the lifting of the cover charge on the third-floor. Besides the major changes, area horse enthusiasts will notice many other changes on the three-floor layout such as a great number of benches placed on the track apron.

Post time for the opener, which features the $700 Edwards Ford Mercury Pace is 7:45 p.m.

Dawson Prefers No Series

The man who pulled Canada out of the world hockey championships two years ago says he would prefer no series against the Russians in September to a series without Bobby Hull in it.

Earl Dawson of Rivers, Man., was president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association when Canada withdrew from the world tournament in 1970 because the sport's international governing body, denied the Canadians permission to include nine professionals on their team.

Today he is a director of Hockey Canada, the organization set up by government, business and sports officials sponsoring a team of professionals which is scheduled to play eight games against Russia this fall.

Hull, who recently signed a lucrative contract as playing coach of Winnipeg Jets of the new World Hockey Association, is barred from joining the team by a clause in the agreement between Hockey Canada and the National Hockey League requiring all team members to sign their NHL contracts before turning up at training camp Aug. 15.

Dawson, who will attend a meeting of Hockey Canada directors shortly to review Hull's status, told a Winnipeg news conference Tuesday "the people don't want the NHL dictating to us."

Furthermore, he contended that the Hockey Canada directors had never approved the clause requiring players to sign their contracts. It was an "exclusive" arrangement between NHL president Clarence Campbell and Hockey Canada executive committee that had not been submitted to the board for ratification.

Dawson, a 47-year-old former Liberal member of the Manitoba legislature, said the issue bears a strong resemblance to the 1970 dispute with the International Hockey Federation.

"We said we wanted to be allowed to play any Canadian and the Russian or Swedes or whoever are not going to dictate who is going to play on our team.

Bunny Backs Bobby

LONDON (CP) — D. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said today there is no reason why Bobby Hull cannot be selected to play for the Canadians in their coming hockey series with the Russians.

"There is no reason why Hull should not play especially if the Canadian population wants him there, and the composition is based on the selection of "an unrestricted Canadian team."

"Whether Hull plays is up to the Canadians. We say there is no reason why he cannot be selected, but we cannot force the Canadians to select him."

Ahearne, whose federation is sponsoring the Canadian-Russian series, said the composition of "an unrestricted Canadian team" is up to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

"Now we find ourselves in the position where Mr. Campbell and company are telling us who is going to play on the team."

Douglas Fisher, chairman of the executive committee, said Hockey Canada board meeting was made necessary by Prime Minister Trudeau's refusal to meet with Campbell and representatives of the NHL Players' Association after intervening last week on Hull's behalf.

In his reply to Campbell's invitation, the prime minister suggested it would be more useful to negotiate with Hockey Canada.

Fisher said his six-man committee will make a presentation to the board when it meets in approximately 10 days.

"There are people on our board who are disturbed, who, I gather, agree with the prime minister," he said.

"They'll be heard. I wouldn't want to predict the consequences of the meeting. But we do have to respond to the prime minister's initiative."

Dawson said Toronto lawyer Allan Eagleson, one of the organizers of the executive committee, may be involved in a conflict of interest. Eagleson is legal adviser to the NHL Players' Association and also represents a number of players individually.

"I would suggest he probably represents other people who are negotiating contracts with the NHL, and until such time as their contracts are signed that he wants to keep Bobby Hull in the wings as one of the things he can deliver at a later date.

Eagleson was in Moscow with other team officials working out details for the games to be played there.

TORONTO (CP) — Tom Gayford, white hot jumper was eliminated from equestrian competition by an unknown attacker last Friday, says he's considering retiring from international competition.

Gayford is a veteran of one Olympic and two Pan-American gold medal-winning teams. His chances of qualifying for this year's Olympics were ended Friday with the beating of his mare Big Doc.

An unknown attacker broke into Gayford's stables at nearby Gormley and beat the horse about the shoulder and left leg, putting the animal out of action for about a month.

"It's too bad that the attack on Big Doc happened at this time. I guess that wiped me," make my decision about being semi-retired."

Top AL Batters Show Reasons Why

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The top three batters in the American League played key offensive roles Tuesday night as Kansas City Royals swept a doubleheader from Cleveland Indians 8-5 and 11-8.

Jim Piniella led the Kansas City attack with six hits in the doubleheader, including a homer. He drove in five runs and scored two.

Of his outfield mates, Amos Otis scored twice in each game and Richie Scheinblum drove in one run in the opener and scored two in the nightcap.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, New York Yankees blanked Minnesota Twins 6-0, Boston Red Sox trimmed California Angels 4-1, Baltimore Orioles nipped Texas Rangers 2-1 in 15 innings, Detroit Tigers edged Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 11 innings and Oakland Athletics split a doubleheader with Milwaukee Brewers, winning the first game 4-0 but losing the second 7-4.

Vacation-time News Conference Scheduled Today

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau will signal the start of summer vacations for his government today with a formal head-to-the-news conference discussing government plans and philosophy.

Nobody claiming to be close to the government thinking is expecting any major announcements, although Mr. Trudeau may have some appointments to make publicly to get things rolling.

Press conferences following the adjournment of Parliament for summer or Christmas breaks are designed more to give public exposure to Mr. Trudeau's views on unfinished business and plans for the future.

One gossip topic that has been uppermost in political circles off and on for months is the date of the next general election. Latest speculation centres on an October date, although the prime minister has the right to wait until next year or—if he wished to push the rules to the limit—until 1974.

The government is understood to have some pre-election programs in the works to deal primarily with unemployment, but they are not expected to be ready for announcement until next week.

Since Parliament adjourned July 7 until Sept. 28, the cabinet has been busy at a series of meetings tidying up government programs and had at least one session in which election strategy was believed to be the main topic.

During the news conference today, ministers still around Ottawa are expected to take off for their home constituencies and vacations. Mr. Trudeau was planning to spend some time late this month and in August away from Ottawa, probably in British Columbia, home province of his wife.

Incorrect Valve Turn Suspected

BARRIE (CP) — Incorrectly turned valves could have caused the explosion of a 21,500-gallon vat which killed two men at the Formosa Spring Brewery near here March 23, a coroner's inquest was told Tuesday.

Alan J. Broadfoot, 29, and Wayne T. Hunter, 17, were working near a vat which exploded and hurled them 40 feet into an adjoining room through a steel refrigeration door. They were transferring water under pressure from one vat to another.

Plant engineer Paul De La Fraser testified that when he was admitted into the vat room, he found the valves on the tank which exploded were opposite to the way they should have been during the operation. He said the incorrect procedure could have doubled the pressure on the vat being measured, causing it to explode.

The inquest continues.

Horizons Plan Said Useless

TORONTO (CP) — Three spokesmen for the elderly have described as virtually useless the federal government's $10-million New Horizons Program for Canada's retired people, similar in some respects to the Opportunity for Youth plan.

Under the program, launched by the government Tuesday, groups of senior citizens can get together and plan projects with government assistance.

Jack Lerette, 79, president of the national Pensioners and Senior Citizens Foundation, said Tuesday the program will not accomplish anything as old people are unlikely to initiate programs on their own.

He said his group had been led to expect $1 million for salaries as well as expenses "to get old people involved and get them out of their rooms."

But the program will pay only expenses—unlike the $34-million youth program that pays students up to $30 a week in salaries.

Morley Zurbrigg, 62, director of the 1,200-member Second Mile Club, said the world could exclude 59 per cent of the people over 80 and said few would set up their own projects.

Ed Jones, president of the 800-member senior citizen' club in the borough of Etobicoke, complained the $10 million is only a drop in the bucket."

Pot on Back

TORONTO (CP) — Customs officers said Tuesday three men who had 45 pounds of marijuana strapped to their backs and in their baggage when they arrived here by air from Jamaica boiled when the illegal drug was discovered. Three men were captured after a chase through Toronto International Airport. Charged with possession of marijuana for trafficking were Thomas Patrick Boyle, 28, of Coral Gables, Fla., Bradford Rush, 26, of Tallahasee, Fla., and Steven Nissenbaum, 21, of Long Meadows, Mass.

Move Cemetery

CALGARY (CP) — The Alberta government has sold 1,280 acres of land to the Stony Indian Band for $1 so they can move a traditional burying ground that is to be flooded by water behind the Bighorn Dam.

Government's Privacy Study Group Proving to Be Most Secretive Itself

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's study group on privacy is so secretive itself that it refuses to let the press see the blank questionnaire sent to 2,500 credit offices and other organizations dealing in personal information about individuals.

The group's report, based mainly on information gleaned from the questionnaire returned by businesses, is in the final stage of preparation and is due to be presented to the cabinet sometime this fall. It may be the basis for legislation designed to limit or control the use of information filed by government and private organizations.

The questionnaire, drawn up jointly by the justice and communications departments, is not a classified document but the bureaucrats involved say they want to avoid any suspicion that they "loaded" it.

Ken Katz, one of the communications department workers on the study team, said in an interview that the report itself will not be a policy document, but an examination of the extent of personal data files, the voluntary agencies determining their use and the adequacy of existing laws controlling them.

How personal information is collected, stored and used and whether the subjects themselves had access to their files are among the approximately 50 questions asked.

Mr. Katz said the report won't be as wide-ranging as the British report on privacy released last week. It recommended that individuals be given the legal right to see any private files about them and the adoption of a voluntary code of ethics for the computer storage of such files.

No attempt was being made in the Canadian study to comment on the right of credit offices, schools or government agencies to keep dossiers on individuals. The report would try to point out areas where personal privacy could be in jeopardy.

The study group members generally hope the cabinet will make the final report public, said Mr. Katz, but there is no guarantee that would happen "if the government decides it doesn't like some of the findings.

When he was asked to let a reporter see the blank survey questionnaire to learn what's going on, he refused, saying: "I'm afraid to."

He did not want to risk an accusation of leaking the blank form

Discrimination Charges Aired

TORONTO (CP) — Decision was reserved Tuesday at an Ontario Human Rights Commission hearing into allegations by three Pakistanis that they had been discriminated against by the city's budget and accounts department.

The hearing, before Prof. Hence Krever of the University of Western Ontario's law faculty, concerned Pakistani-born Shakil Ahmad, Roy Sato, a Canadian of Japanese origin, and Archi-Lyn, a Jamaican born Chinese.

The three alleged they had been discriminated against because of their racial origins.

However, Sydney L. Robins, lawyer for the city, said Mr. Ahmad, 30, was dismissed from his $15,000-a-year supervisory position because he was clearly incompetent and there was no other comparable paying position open to him at city hall.

Mr. Robins said Mr. Sato, 38, had a persecution complex that prompted him to interpret each move by the administration as acts of racial bias.

Mr. Sato, who is still with the department, alleged that he had been discrimination when his supervisor told him to improve his work and also when he did not receive an annual raise of between $1,200 and $1,500.

Mr. Lyn alleged that he had been harassed by the department because of his race.

Summer Presents Added Hazards

Use of gasoline, cigarette fluid or paint thinner to start camp fires or barbecues is not only labelled dangerous but could lead to the rather sudden discovery of how not to prepare a weiner roast.

Commenting on a number of summer fire hazards, Belleville Fire Department Inspectors Paul Stephenson and Reg Christopher have recommended use of products specifically manufactured for fire starting purposes. When the old match and newspaper routine fails, dad can nip down to his neighborhood supply store and pick up a handy chemically treated block which ignites easily, or a container of liquid fire.

However, once the flames begin to appear and the family begins eyeing their uncooked hamburgs or steaks with an anticipatory eye, dad shouldn't try to add any more of the commercial fire starter.

This, plus any unused matches, should be kept well away from the fire.

Children are always ready and willing to try their hands at campfire or barbecue starting sessions. While the inspectors have no specific objections to this practice, they caution children not be allowed to light a fire unless an adult is right at hand and watching carefully.

With summer dry spells come the hazard of brush and forest fires. Campers following the back-to-nature routine with a cosy campfire, should remember to locate it in the centre of a well cleared circle 'about a dozen feet wide. Flames should be kept away from dry grass, leaves, twigs or other debris.

Thunder and lightning storms are always a source of concern during the warmer weather. Several safety suggestions have been offered.

Anyone caught outdoors during such a storm should seek shelter, leaving open spaces such as golf courses, beaches, fields or hilltops. Swimmers are warned to vacate the water with haste.

In buildings that are not lightning protected, contact with metallic lighting and plumbing fixtures, telephones, and electrical appliances, should be avoided.

Shelter from an electrical storm should be sought in roofed buildings, an enclosed automobile or any good-sized structure. If caught out in the open, a low area such as a cave or ditch or a heavily wooded area, can afford protection.

Standing beneath a single, isolated tree, has proven fatal in many instances.

Home care should not be overlooked, whether it be at home, summer cottage, motel, trailer, or tent.

Before leaving home, trash and litter should be cleared away both inside the house and outside. Paint and other inflammable liquids should be safely stored in capped, metal containers. Heating appliances . . . especially television sets . . . radios, fluorescent lights and all other appliances, with the possible exception of the freezer or refrigerator, should be unplugged.

Because each new place on the vacation trip affords a new environment, either a building or camping spot, emergency escape planning should become a matter, of course at each stop. Corridor exits, windows and stairways, should be searched out. "Never rely on elevators in case of a fire emergency," the inspectors warn.

An outdoor cooking place should be decided upon beforehand, possibly the family car if it is parked well away from sleeping quarters. Children should be reminded of the danger of returning to a burning building once they have escaped.

"Beware of still - burning cigarettes when checking out of a vacation site and leave the place as litter - free as possible. Thoroughly douse all campfires and have a happy and fire safe summer."

THE CHANDLER HERITAGE — Ben Haas

Set in South Carolina and ranging in time from just after the Civil War, this is a story involving three generations of the Chandler family. Bolivar Chandler is a strong, God-fearing man who eventually dominates the cotton industry of the South. His son is a different kind of person who flees to New York and carves out a career as a test pilot. However, the Chandler heritage draws him home again to conflict and finally death.

THE COURTNEY ENTRY — John Harris.

More adventures of the hardbitten Cornish airman Ira Penaluna, who first appeared in Mr. Harris' novel "The Mercenaries." In "The Courtney Entry" he is involved in the aviation world of the 1920's and the early attempts to cross the Atlantic by plane. During a storm the instruments fail, leading to a suspense-filled climax. As always with this author, technical details are exact.

THE MOLECULE MEN — Fred Hoyle and Geoffrey Hoyle

This book contains two stories by a famous father - and - son team of science fiction writers. In the first, a witness at a trial suddenly vanishes, and a swarm of bees appear. The second story, titled "The Monster of Loch Ness" revolves around investigation of why the Loch is heating up.

SUMMER'S LEASE — Susan Fritz

A novel which concerns the interaction of two families, one English and one American. Professor Gorlan brings his family to Oxford to spend the summer and meets Rachael Van Bolan and her son. How the situation affects both adults and children, and how Rachael and the Professor come to a more mature acceptance of their situations, is the theme of this novel.

THE DAY MISS BESSIE LEWIS DISAPPEARED Doris Miles Disney

Here is the 43rd suspense novel from Miss Disney's pen. Henry tries blackmail on Mr. Krupusiak and gets involved in hide and seek with a couple of killers. Written with skill and a great deal of humor.

WE SPEAK NO TREASON — Rosemary Jarman

In 1485 the last truly English King died bravely in battle defending his crown. In this long novel, Richard III lives again through the eyes of his intimates; the woman whose ill-starred love brought him joy; the jester who diverted his hours of weariness; the men-at-arms who obeyed him and then suffered for him.

I AM MARY TUDOR — Hilda Lewis

No one was more maligned in her day than the eldest daughter of Henry VIII. Called "Bloody Mary", she was a true Tudor and a woman of strong passions. Against the background of Henry's successive marriages, her fate was played out with alternating triumph and humiliation until at age 37 she became Queen of England. This fictionalized biography is one of Hilda Lewis' best.

Questions And Answers

By The Ontario Motor League

QUESTION: Can you give me details on Kootenay and Yoho National Parks in British Columbia, and how to reach them by car?

ANSWER: Kootenay National Park, a reserve of 543 square miles, is along the Vermillion-Sinclair section of the Banff-Windermere Highway. The park, rich in scenery and big game, was established to preserve natural conditions along this mountain highway. It extends 5 miles on each side of the road for 65 miles. The western entrance to Kootenay National Park is Radium Hot Springs.

The deep canyons, Iron Gates, Vermillion Range, glaciers and icefields are among the natural beauties and wonders of the area. Bear, deer, moose, elk and Rocky Mountain sheep may be seen. Camp grounds are open from about May 15th to September 30th. A variety of accommodations are available in the park itself, as well as at Radium Hot Springs. Information for two walks, the Marble Canyon Nature Trail, the Paint Pots Nature Trail, may be obtained at the Park Information Office which is located near the western entrance in the vicinity of Radium Hot Springs.

Visitors are required to obtain a park motor vehicle license at the entrance before driving through the park. Boats, canoes, rafts and floats are not permitted. All mountain travel off park trails must be registered with the District Warden before and after the climb. Cats and leashed dogs are permitted.

Marble Canyon a hundred yards from the road, is one of the most beautiful canyons in the park. Its walls are formed by gray limestone and quartzite, through which runs a stratum of white and gray ish marble that has given the canyon its name. The sheer, narrow walls have been eaten down for about 200 feet by the waters of Tokumn Creek which drains Prospector Valley.

Radium Hot Springs, near the western entrance, have been known to man since the days of the Indians. The natural temperature of the main spring, as it issues from the rocks, is about 113 degrees. The Aquacourt, with two outdoor pools, is operated by the National Parks Administration. The Springs are open daily 8:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. in summer, 10 to 5:30 in winter. Admission fee charged; check locally.

Yoho National Park covers 507 square miles lying in British Columbia just west of the Great Divide and Banff National Park. The Trans-Canada Highway, continues westward from Banff National Park, traverses the park and provides access to most of the park's roads and trails.

The word "Yoho" is an exclamation of wonder or astonishment in the Cree Indian tongue. Yoho Valley, a narrow gorge between high wooded mountain slopes, is 14 miles long and drops in places to a depths of 700 feet. Takakkaw Falls drops 1,231 feet in all, its highest sheer fall being 1,000 feet. Other sights in the park include Laughing and Twin Falls, Lake O'Hara, the Natural Bridge, Emerald Lake, Wapta Falls and the Spiral Tunnels of the Canadian Pacific Railway. A viewing point of the lower Spiral Tunnel is from Mt. Ogden, 6½ miles east of Field. Check locally for train schedules.

The park headquarters are at Field. There are public campgrounds at the Kicking Horse Campgrounds at the entrance to Yoho Valley, at Takakkaw Falls, at Chancellor Peak, at Hoodoo Creek and at Lake O'Hara (accessible only by bus).

Airline Owner Shoots Pilot

BOGOTA (Reuter) — The owner of a small Colombian airline ran amok Tuesday night and shot dead the pilot of one of his own planes carrying 52 passengers.

The co-pilot, also shot and severely wounded, brought the aircraft under control and made an emergency landing in Cartagena, northern Colombia.

A government communique said the killer, identified only as Suarez, apparently suffered a fit of insanity, possibly because of financial problems.

He was arrested in Cartagena after the drama 15,000 feet above the Caribbean on board the four-engined Vickers Viscount airliner.

Radio reports said Suarez, who was travelling with his family, was overpowered by several passengers after the shooting.

The communique named the dead pilot as Capt. Miguel Beltran.

Now Chess Tourney Wide Open

REYKJAVIK (Reuter) — The world chess championship series still looked wide open today after titleholder Boris Spassky allowed American challenger Bobby Fischer to escape with a draw from what seemed to be a hopeless position in the fourth game.

The Russian champion leads the 24-game series 2½ to 1½, but he and his four grandmaster advisers are probably still pondering what went wrong Tuesday night.

There was some speculation that Spassky might not be in top form—possibly a legacy of the developments during the last two weeks which have included a steady stream of complaints and delays from Fischer over money and playing conditions.

Psychological warfare and battles of nerves are an integral part of Fischer's chess arsenal and observers have been impressed up to now by Spassky's ability to remain cool.

But the strain may now be telling. Tuesday night Spassky, playing black, opened aggressively, built up a powerful attacking position at the cost of only one pawn and seemed to have the game well under control when he faltered.

Perhaps because time was running out on his clock, he failed to put together the decisive combinations and Fischer slipped out of the net with an exchange of queens.

It was then only a matter of some half-hearted skirmishing before the draw as reached on the 45th move.

Fischer had the white pieces and with them the first move and led off with his favorite Sicilian attack, P-K4. The Russian pulled a surprise by counter-attacking aggressively and sacrificing a pawn to open up useful lines of attack.

Spassky appeared to have the edge after about four hours, then Fischer pinned the Russian's queen against his king and forced the swap of queens.

Health Plan Pays All Cost Heart Surgery

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's health insurance plan will cover all the hospital and medical expenses for 25-year-old Sandra Frederick's heart operation in Houston, Tex.

Under normal circumstances the plan would pay only 75 per cent of the costs in such a case, but Health Minister Richard Potter issued a statement Tuesday saying that "because of the special nature of the case 100 per cent of (the) . . . hospital insurance" will be paid. Mrs. Frederick, who has three children, lives on a mother's allowance of $141 a month. She estimated that the operation, including the cost of their return flight to Houston, would cost her $2,500.

Mrs. Frederick is suffering from Marfan's syndrome—a disease of the great vessels of the heart which has affected her aorta and aortic valve. The Houston hospital has personnel who are highly experienced in treating the disease.

Mrs. Frederick will enter the Texas hospital July 24.

Mounties Laughed Says Widow

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Christine Quilt, widow of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt, said Tuesday that two RCMP officers were laughing as they drove her, her injured husband, and two other members of her family to an Indian reserve in the Alexis Creek area.

Mrs. Quilt, 43, testified through an interpreter at the second inquest into her husband's death that an RCMP officer had "jammed on my stomach" on her husband on Nov. 28, 1971.

Mr. Quilt, 55, died Nov. 30 from peritonitis caused by a ruptured bowel. A Williams Lake coroner's jury ruled in January his death was unnatural and accidental but the first inquest was quashed by the British Columbia Supreme Court because of an "association" between two jury members and the RCMP.

Mrs. Quilt said two RCMP officers, one in uniform and one in plainclothes, approached the pickup truck in which the Quilt family half-been riding when it was stopped on the highway 20 miles east of Alexis Creek in the Chilcotin area of central B.C.

She said the two "looked drunk." She said the officer in plainclothes pulled her sleeping husband from the driver's seat, jumped on him, and yelled "Get up, you son of a bitch."

She said the policemen then drove them to the Anahim reserve, where they had been visiting earlier in the day. The Quilts live in the neighboring Stone reserve.

She said her husband, groaning with pain, could barely walk. He was taken to a friend's house.

Mrs. Quilt said she tried all night to get an ambulance to take her husband to hospital. The next day, she said, a doctor and a public health nurse visited her husband. "He told them not to touch him because it hurt too much."

Mrs. Quilt said an ambulance arrived for her husband that day but he would not ride in it because it was carrying another person and there was no room in it for him to lie down.

She said he was driven to hospital in a private car that night.

Hospital records showed he died just an hour after arriving.

Mrs. Quilt said she did not learn of her husband's death until Dec. 1 when she heard it on a radio newscast.

At least 28 more witnesses are expected to be called at the inquest, which began Monday.

Chdren Suffer Chorine Poisoning

MONTRL (CP) — Two Montreal ddren were kept in Montreal hildren's Hospital overnight today after they suffer chlorine poisoning while swiing in a municipal pool.

Hospital ja kesman a said Clement Lair, seven, was in the intensive care unit and Sylvie Marano nine, was under observation but her children were said to be in satisfactory condition.

The two re among 16 overcome by chlorine, which had accumulat in a closed pipe under repair, suddenly gushed into the shallow end of the pool in the city's southwest area.

Authorities said the chemical gathered in the pipe while a faulty valve was being repaired. The valve controlling the chlorine was not closed and the chemical gathered in full strength in the pipe, diluted only with residual water already in the pipe.

When work crews opened the water valve, the chlorine gushed into the pool, its strong fumes overcome children in the immediate area.

Bacteria Thrives On Crude Oil

BURLISTON, Ont. (CP) — A stra of bacteria that thrives exclusively on oil has been isolated ate Canada Centre for Inland Waters in a development timay one day provide a sophisticated new method of combatting oil pollution.

Although the idea of using bacteria to destroy spilled oil has been considered before — at Chedabucto Bay, N.S., and in waters of the United States — there is been no widespread use.

The bacteria tested here were ten from enriched soil reat refinery and cultured to produce those strains that come oil most efficiently. e cultured bacteria destroy rude—oil about 20 times fher than bacteria normallound in the environment.

The bacteria work by breaking down the long chains of molecules found in oil into smaller units. They also are effective in breaking down hydrocarbons used as commercial oil dispersants and the centre hopes, ultimately, to perfect a strain of bacteria that can reduce oil to harmless carbon dioxide and water.

Plan Tub Race

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) — Rub-a-dub-dub. They'll be out in a tub.

Aldermen and councillors in both the city and townships of Orillia have accepted a challenge from Toronto aldermen Jame Marks and Joe Piccinnini to compete for individual promotional honors on Orillia Day at the Canadian National Exhibition bathtub races.

The CNE will honour the city and township this year Aug. 24.

Luck Held

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — Arnaldo Bastos won a ticket for a domestic airliner that crashed and killed 25 persons, but he missed the flight because he lacked proper identification for boarding. Feeling lucky after words, he bought a weekly lottery ticket—and won.

Sinatra Denies Any Mafia Link

WASHINGTON (AP) — Entertainer Frank Sinatra told House of Representatives investigators Tuesday he knows nothing about the Cosa Nostra and insisted he merely made an investment in a New England racetrack allegedly backed by organized-crime money.

In fact, said Sinatra, he withdrew his $50,000 investment in 1963 when he learned that he had been elected, without his permission, as a director and officer of now-defunct Berkshire Downs in Hancock, Mass.

Sometimes hoarse and edible, other times on the offensive, the 56-year-old Sinatra appeared for 90 minutes before a standing-room-only crowd at a hearing of the House select crime committee.

Even before he made his appearance, Sinatra won a precedural point with the committee when he refused to testify in the presence of radio-television cameras.

Sinatra accused the committee of being irresponsible in permitting a convicted felon to link Sinatra's name with organized crime.

Joseph (The Baron) Barboza, self-described killer of 25, told the committee May 24 that Raymond Patriarca, now imprisoned New England Cosa Nostra boss, had unspecified hidden interest in Berkshire Downs.

Barbara also said Sinatra invested money for Patriarca and another underworld boss, Genaro Angiulo, in the Fontainebleau Hotel in Miami Beach and the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas.

"It was indecent and irresponsible to permit the witness to hand my name around to bitter himself," said Sinatra.

"Why didn't the committee refute it when he said it?"

Pollution Probe Would Save Energy

TORONTO (CP) — Pollution Probe, a watchdog on environmental abuse, proposed guidelines for Ontario Tuesday* to lessen energy waste which it said is both costly and unhealthy.

In a brief to the province's advisory committee on energy (ACE), Pollution Probe urged an energy regulatory board with broad powers which, among other things, would curtail the use of the automobile. Probe is a member of ACE, which is to make recommendations to the Ontario government this fall.

Among Probe's recommendations:

—Encourage freight transport by train and ship and discourage the use of less efficient trucks and aircraft. For tonnage moved, it said, railways are 10 times as efficient as trucks and charge and discourage the use 18 times as efficient as planes in terms of fuel use.

—Make public transit free of charge and discourage the use of the "grossly-inefficient" private auto, ultimately banning it from downtown areas.

—Encourage the use of durable, easily repaired and long-lasting goods. Impose a durability tax—the shorter the life of a product, the higher the tax. Include the cost of disposal in the retail price.

—Encourage the use of natural gas for home heating and discourage the use of electricity, the production of which is both less efficient and more polluting.

Cabinet Is Shuffled

FREDERICTON (CP) — Premier Richard Hatfield announced a major shuffle of the New Brunswick cabinet Tuesday.

Municipal Affairs Minister Jean-Paul LeBlanc will fill the newly-created treasury board portfolio, assuming responsibility for the 21-month-old conservative government's long-range fiscal policy.

Three new faces in the cabinet will be former speaker Lawrence Garvie (PC—Fredericton) who becomes health minister, Omer Leger (PC—Kent) who becomes provincial secretary, and Carl Mooers (PC—York), former government whip, who fills the newly-created supply and services portfolio.

Cat Survives Fall Of Sixteen Storys

TORONTO (CP) — Fat Olive, a black and white tomcat, has survived a 16-storey fall of 160 feet and broken the record for distance record before survival.

Fat Olive came up with only two broken legs as he landed on a pile of grass after squeezing way through a torn window screen on a penthouse.

His feat ably outdid the "greatest five cats" listed in the Guinness Book of World Records which shows a championship list of 11 storeys for a Big feline called Fussycat in 1

Graduate Students Will Quit Union

WATERLOO (CP) — Graduate students at five Ontario universities have agreed to withdraw from the Canadian Union of Graduate Students, it was announced Tuesday.

However, the final decision to withdraw must be voted on by the individual councils, the decision-making bodies representing the graduate students at each university.

Fred Hetzel, president of the graduate union at the University of Waterloo, said in an interview "there is no doubt at all but the councils will agree with the unions." He said Waterloo council will vote tonight.

The other universities are Queen's in Kingston, University of Toronto, University of Guelph and the University of Western Ontario at London.

Union members from those universities met in Toronto on the weekend and agreed upon the withdrawal because there is a lack of national union support in a fee dispute with the Ontario government.

The group has organized an Ontario clearing house for graduate business in Toronto which it hopes will develop into an Ontario-based organization, Mr. Hetzel said. Graduate students at other provincial universities have been invited to join.

In addition, the graduate students of the five universities have established informal contact with the Ontario Federation of Students which represents undergraduates who are also protesting a $100 increase in student fees effective in September.

Town Fined for Fires

RIDGEWAY, Ont. (CP) — Judge Johnstone Roberts found the town of Fort Erie guilty Tuesday on two counts of illegal open burning at municipal dumps.

The town was fined $400 by the provincial court.

Judge Roberts agreed with the prosecution's argument that the town was responsible for fires at its dumps even if they were set illegally. The court battle revolved around the issue of whether the town did "cause or permit" the fires to be set.

Hydro Drops Move To Limit Picketing

TORONTO (CP) — An application by Ontario Hydro for an injunction to limit picketing at the Bruce nuclear power development at Douglas Point on Lake Huron was adjourned indefinitely in the Supreme Court of Ontario Tuesday.

A Hydro spokesman said the application was adjourned when officials of Local 1000, Canadian Union of Public Employees agreed to conduct picketing in an orderly manner.

The spokesman said the union promised to send a notice clarifying picketing policy to union stewards, picket captains and others involved in picketing across the province since the 12,000-member union began a series of strikes June 25.

The Hydro spokesman said, however, the application could be reopened on 12 hours' notice if the public utility desired. The case was heard by Mr. Justice Peter Wright.

Hydro had sought a limit of two pickets to each of the two main access routes to the Bruce site. The utility said that 12 pickets at the two roads have been checking vehicles before allowing them to enter the site or turning them back.

About 2,000 striking workers returned to their jobs in the Toronto area Tuesday but at least 1,000 of them walked out again in sympathy with a few workers who claimed they were locked out.

Almost all of the 12,000 union members in Hydro have been off the job since last Wednesday when 4,600 workers joined about 8,000 already on strike.

Montreal Police Chief Not Planning to Resign

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean-Jacques Saulnier says he does not intend to resign his post as Montreal police chief despite a Quebec Police Commission report labelling him incompetent.

He said Tuesday he "cannot accept the verdict" and is studying how to contest or "bypass" the judgment.

"I'm still head of this police force," he told a Gazette reporter in the first interview he has granted since he studied the report of the commission, made public last Thursday.

"Some people are sadly mis-taken if they think I will step down, or fade away, just because of a report that was but a short summary of the evidence given at the inquiry. . . .

"On the contrary, my lawyer and I are considering several avenues through which this report can be bypassed, or its validity contested."

Mr. Saulnier said:

"After 36 years with this department, I could easily resign. But the fact is I cannot accept the verdict passed on my competence, nor the way in which it was reached."

South Hastings Leaders Can't Gain Ground

The top two teams in the South Hastings Baseball League couldn't decide on a winner Tuesday night but Latta just couldn't win.

Plane's Concrete and Melrose battled to a 1-1 deadlock while Latta was being thumped 10-1 by Read.

Brian Coughlan fired a two hitter for Planes but failed to shake Melrose for the win. Coughlan struck out seven and walked four in his battle with Ted Abrams, the Melrose hurler. Abrams fanned six and gave up five hits.

Wayne Harrison had a double and Reg Abrams a single for Melrose while Bob Neilson, Garnie and Larry Adams, Bob Robb and Coughlan had singles for Plane's.

Read had a 'Coffey' break in their convincing win over Latta letting pitcher Larry Coffey stop Latta on four hits.

The winning chucker fanned eight and did not walk a man. Carm Milligan had a triple and two singles and Steve White snapped a double and two singles for the winners.

John Hill and Bob Smith shared the Latta mound allowing 12 hits and combining for seven hits. Smith had a double for the only extra base hit off Coffey.

Canucks Conquer

The National Billiards mosquitoes didn't mind the trip at all but the Golden Mile discovered it was far from golden after dropping an 8 - 1 decision in a Belleville Minor Soccer contest last night.

Elvis Leonarduzzi netted four goals for the winners with George Malletta potting two, Ward Munro one and Robin McKinney one.

Bantams Finish Strongly

Both the C.J.B.Q. Expos and Ellis Printers finished strong in a Belleville Minor Baseball bantam contest last night, but the Printers were a bit stronger in taking a 16-13 win.

The Printers came up with all 16 runs in the last four innings to stave off a nine run rally by the Radio boys. Stapley led the winners with a triple and single in support of Peter Hall's pitching efforts. Hall struck out 12 in his seven innings of work.

Hamilton had a triple and single and Rick Culkin two doubles for the losers.

In a tyke contest Sidney Inn put the gears to Jerry's Motorcycle Sales 18-6.

Meads Moving

The squirts stretched their Belleville Minor Softball oeere house league record to eight wins and a tie by smashing the Red Shark 15-0.

Tim Soule blazed third strikes past 15 batters in recording the victory. Shortstop Rob Rossit banged a pair of triples and Soule two doubles and a single for the winners who have wrecked up 154 runs and allowed only 39 in nine games.

Roughies Edge Esks

EDMONTON (CP) — Fumbles and pass interceptions were the order of the day as Saskatchewan Roughriders defeated Edmonton Eskimos 16-11 in a Western Football Conference exhibition game Tuesday night.

A crowd of 16,741 had some uncomplimentary remarks for their hometown Eskimos as Saskatchewan collected all but one of their points after Edmonton miscues to win their first game in three pre-season starts.

A second-down fumble by Edmonton quarterback Bruce Lemmerman got the Roughriders started early in the first quarter. Tim Roth recovered on the Eskimos' 21-yard line and Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster threw a 19-yard touchdown pass to flanker Bob Pearce.

The second Rider touchdown came midway through the second quarter, three plays after Edmonton fullback Sam Scarber was stopped on a third-down try at the Saskatchewan 3. Moments later Jack Abendschan converted both touchdowns.

Edmonton's only point in the first half came after Jerry Griffin intercepted the first pass attempted by rookie Saskatchewan quarterback Mike Jung. Dave Cutler got the single when he was wide on a 16-yard field goal attempt.

Saskatchewan went ahead 16-1 in the second half on missed field goal attempts by Abendschan that went for singles. The first followed an interception by Roth.

Edmonton got a touchdown early in the fourth quarter when linebacker Therman Couch intercepted a Jung pass and ran it 61 yards to score. The Eskimo convert attempt was a weird affair that eventually covered 25 yards. The snap was fumbled, recovered and flipped the ball to Lemmerman who then passed 35 yards to Tyrone Walls for the win.

The Eskimos got on the scoreboard again after defensive halfback Garry Lefebvre intercepted a Bubba Wyche pass in the Saskatchewan 38. Cutler was good on a 31-yard field goal a few plays later.

Steve Goulsh and Kevin Jeffs struck out 13 for the win. Kevin Coons had a triple and three singles.

In a tyke encounter it was Legion 99 downing Plane's Concrete 17-0. Drake and Soule pitched for the winners allowing only two hits, while striking out 10. Heggie and Blakely yielded 10 safeties for Plane's.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, July 20

Aries (March 21-April 19): Ask, and all things open to you. It is time to organize group effort toward selected goals. Home and property improvements are favored.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Smoothing out yesterday's differences comes easier than hoped. Ask for an earned increase or better working conditions.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Proceed with a determined effort to improve yourself and your resources. Later hours provide excitement, interest in new subjects.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Stress passes early, leaving you free to deepen family co-operation. Pursue any opportunity for adventure and cultural activities.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Clear up loose ends. Your favorite charity will welcome gifts—give away whatever has lost its function in your daily living.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Intellectual pursuits should prevail over physical activity. Expect friends and social situations to interrupt your work.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Pursue contacts with people of great influence. Bring in associates only if you know from experience they're willing to co-operate.

Scorpio (Oct. - 23-Nov. 21): Help comes mainly from outside your local scene, and you have to repay promptly. This day tests your determination and fortitude.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Looking back to see where you erred shows you a chance to make corrections— and a place for a completely fresh start.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Spread out a welcome for all newcomers today—and mean it. Close friends have good ideas, some of which might work.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Using today's benefits means persistent effort and co-operation. A gala atmosphere in the evening is good for social activities.

Milk and Juice Diet Too Drastic

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend being treated for angina pectoris was considered overweight. He was retired and not too active.

His doctor recommended that he go on a diet for one week only, drinking one quart of milk and one quart of fruit juice daily at two-hour intervals. Most of his fat was around the abdomen.

At the end of the week he had lost eight pounds and felt great.

What is your opinion of the diet? Would you recommend it? — M.F.

Well, the diet worked, didn't it? But no, I doubt if I would have recommended it.

Weight reduction does indeed benefit some (not necessarily all) angina sufferers, but if an angina patient is overweight, he should get rid of the excess poundage regardless of whether it makes him feel better right away. It will surely help in the long run.

But this diet you describe is drastic, unbalanced and monotonous in my opinion. Weight loss can be accomplished with a more palatable diet which can be continued as long as necessary without sacrificing any needed types of nutrition.

The unbalanced nature of your friend's diet obviously is the reason why the doctor prescribed it for only a week.

Trying to read between the lines, I would hazard a guess that the doctor tried that method because he didn't have much faith in the patient's following a more reasonable diet. You can tell some people to start cutting down on their calories and they say, "Yes, doctor," and go on eating the way they always have. In this case, maybe the doctor decided that if he laid down an absolutely rigid eating pattern, it might work. Well, evidently it did.

But I suspect that both he and I would have been better pleased if the patient would settle down into a diet that would keep excess weight off instead of whacking it off in crash fashion.

There's no special diet for angina other than one that will keep weight-at a safe level, especially a low-cholesterol diet. But it's a bit late for that after the angina has become established.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can diuretics cause your skin to become dry? I am taking Lasix and but still have swelling if I don't take the diuretics.

Also do they contain hormones, as I have had breast cancer. — Mrs. A.B.

That swelling is from too much fluid in your system; no, diuretics should not cause dryness of skin. And no, they do not contain hormones.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How soon after a woman becomes pregnant is a pregnancy test accurate? A friend says her doctor told her after one week. My physician says six weeks. Why would two PGs have such different answers? — Mrs. K.

Because they know that pregnancy tests depend on changes in hormones that occur with pregnancy, and there is a considerable difference in the sensitivity (and cost) of various tests.

If there is urgent need to know quickly, some tests will be positive within a week. Others may not be positive as late as two months.

For practical purposes, there are other signs and symptoms of pregnancy that suffice unless there is some special need to make certain immediately.

All But One

East dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♣ Q54
WEST		EAST
♠ A3754		♠ KQ6

♣ 99		♣ J1073
	SOUTH
	♥ Q
	♦ AKQJ987
	♣ KQ82

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1♦	1♠	Pass	5♦
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead — ace of spades.

Most squeezes are extremely easy to execute because, given the proper circumstances, all that declarer has to do is cash his winners, whereupon the squeeze takes care of itself.

For example, consider this case where South is in five diamonds and lead the four ace and another spade. Declarer ruffs and — recognizing the possibility of a squeeze if the clubs are divided unfavorably — leads the queen of hearts. This play is rather important. It is an application of the rule that, for a squeeze to operate, declarer should put himself in a position where he has all the remaining tricks but one (but two).

If West wins the queen with the ace, declarer is well on the way to victory. Let's say West leads another spade. South ruffs and plays four rounds of trumps to produce this position:

	North
	♠ 10
	♥ 10
	♦ Q54
West		East
♠ J		♠ K
♥ 98		♥ AJ1073
♦ 96		♦ —
	South
	♦ AK82

Now South leads the nine of diamonds, discarding a club from dummy, and East is squeezed. Whatever he discards, declarer wins the rest of the tricks.

But note that if West ducks the queen of hearts at trick two — as he should, the squeeze does not succeed. East wins with the king and later himself hangs on to his four clubs, feeling no pain at all as declarer cashes all his trumps. West, during this procession of trumps, keeps a firm grip on the jack of spades and ace of hearts and South must eventually go down one.

Prisoners React

Muggy Weather Is Blamed for Riots

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Hot, muggy weather and previous prison disturbances have been blamed for an outbreak at Prince Georges County jail, where prisoners took three guards as hostages in the third major penal disturbance in Maryland since Saturday.

Officials met with 11 convicts in a grievance session Tuesday night after prisoners released the hostages unharmed some 3½ hours after taking over the second floor of the 110-prisoner facility.

Arthur Bremer, 21, who is awaiting a July 31 trial on charges resulting from the assassination attempt on Alabama Gov. George Wallace, was confined in a first-floor annex cell and was not involved in any of the trouble, officials said.

"It's a cyclical thing; you get one, you generally get more," Lt.-Col. John Rhoads, assistant county police chief, said in response to questions about connections between the jail disturbance and earlier rioting at two state prisons.

"They probably were related. When they saw what happened at the other two facilities, they got the idea."

Rhoads and other county officials were unable to say exactly what sparked the disturbance.

The prisoners' representatives voiced complaints about high bail bonds, court delays, the jail library and jail personnel.

The jail library, which prisoners complained did not have current law books, was burned during the disturbance which broke out about 8 p.m. There were no reported injuries.

On Saturday, convicts at the Maryland House of Correction in Jessup rioted for 12 hours and caused an estimated $1.5 million damage.

Monday, prisoners at the Maryland penitentiary in Baltimore, rioted and took four guards as hostages to force a meeting with state authorities, including Gov. Marvin Mandel.

There's a Chef in Soup

TORONTO (CP) — Nelson Grant, 20, made chef at a downtown night club, had a slight accident Tuesday night — he spilled hot soup on himself.

"There's been so many jokes about it we laughed at first," said Colin Kerr, owner of the Mynah Bird where Mr. Grant works.

"Even he laughed after we sprayed his burned stomach."

The burns were not extensive.

Kennedy Appeals To Irish

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Senator Edward Kennedy (Dem. Mass.) and Representative Lester Wolff (Dem. N.Y.) appealed Tuesday to Roman Catholics and Protestants to restore the ceasefire in Northern Ireland.

Kennedy said a ceasefire was the only condition that could lead to a permanent peace in Northern Ireland.

Wolff, who returned recently from a five-da trip to Northern Ireland, warned that all-out civil war loomed large unless another ceasefire is quickl established.

In a statement strongl condemning the resumption of fighting in Northern Ireland, Kennedy, who in the past has criticized the British presence there, said:

"Surel. If the killing of the past 10 das has taught an lesson at all, it is a lesson that no one wins when the gunmen take to the rooftops or the troops advance to battle."

Kennedy said peace could come to Ulster onl through ie gotiations and "not through violence in the streets b the IRA (Irish Republican Army) or military thrusts b the soldiers."

"I appeal to Protestants and Catholics alike in Northern Ireland to give the ceasefire an other chance to dispel the doom, to let the world see that faith in peace is still alive in Ulster. . . ."

Queen Plans PEI Visit Next June

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will visit Canada for ten days next June to mark Prince Edward Island's centennial celebrations, Buckingham Palace announced Tuesday night.

The royal couple last visited Canada in March, 1971, for a 10-day tour of British Columbia with their daughter, Princess Anne.

A brief palace announcement said the Queen had accepted a Canadian government invitation "to visit Canada for a ten-day period at the end of June, 1973, to mark the centennial of the province of Prince Edward Island and to visit Ontario."

Next year will also be the cesitennial of the RCMP, and this will form part of the Royal celebrations.

Air Curtain Keeps Down Mine Dust

TORONTO (CP) — Billowing clouds of dust, a common sight at most mining operations, are being kept under control by one mining company in Northern Ontario with the help of ordinary air.

The company, a subsidiary of Texas Gulf Inc., has installed a series of air jets around its crushing operation near Timmins, Ont., which prevent an estimated 95 per cent of the dust-laden air from escaping into the atmosphere.

The new device, designed by Powlesland Engineering Ltd. of Toronto, produces an air "curtain" that pushes the air above the mine's crusher to a dust collection unit located at one side of the pit.

The Ontario Mines Accident Prevention Association said it compensated 33 miners for various health problems caused by excessive dust or gaseous fumes in 1971.

Jim Powlesland, president of the company which designed the unit, said there are more than 500 air curtains currently in use in Canada. But he said, as far as he knows, the system being used at the mine near Timmins is the first of its kind in North America.

Most of the air curtains are used in place of doors at entrances to shopping malls or to improve ventilation in buildings.

The mining company previously used suction to draw the dust away. But with the new system air is forced across the open pit at the rate of 9,000 cubic feet a minute. The dust, forced into collection units, is separated from the air by fans and is collected into bins. The dust-free air is then released.

New Code Involved

ORILLIA (CP)—Judge A. J. Glass Tuesda invoked recent Criminal Code amendments to give a conditional discharge in provincial court to a man who pleaded guilt to an assault charge.

George Elwood Johnstone of Orillia, was dismissed with the condition that he keep the peace and be of good behaviour for 12 months. The amendment to the code which permits this came into effect Saturda. It allows the accused to avoid a permanent criminal record.

Johnstone was charged with indecent assault after he picked up two teen-age girls hitch-hiking Ma 12, drove them outside the cit and committed an assault. The girls noted his licence number as she drove away and later identified him.

He pleaded hot guilty to indecent assault but guilt to the charge of common assault.

Board Rejects Bid To Have Adjournment

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board rejected Tuesday a motion for an adjournment of its hearing of an applicatio by Toronto Western Hospital to have the strike there declared unlawful.

The board will resume its hearing Thursday.

The motion for adjournment was made by the Canadian Union of General Employees which is scheduled to appeal July 26 in Ontario Supreme Court seeking an order prohibiting the OLRB from hearing the hospital's application.

The strike of 675 non-medical workers at the hospital, members of the CUGE, began July 12, despite a provincial law forbidding strike action by hospital workers.

The strikers, whoare kitchen staff, cleaners, nursing assistants and male orderlies, are protesting wages, job classifications, staff reductions and the work week.

The wage rate for non-medical workers at the hospital was between $1.85 and $3.56 an hour in the previous contract.

Spying Hazard

PARIS (Reuter) — The state security court gave a four-year sentence Tuesday to a French secret service agent who claimed he was seduced in a Prague wood by a pretty Czech ostlovak agent posing as a nurse.

Jacques Blaret, 37, for four years an agent of the French counter-espionage service, was accused of having contacts with the Czechoslovak intelligence service. Blaret was attached to the French embassy in Prague in 1968.

Envoy Retires

TUNIS (Reuter) — The retiring Canadian ambassador to Tunisia, Iberville Fortier, called on Tunisian Foreign Affairs Minister Mohamed Masmoudi Tuesday.

Indians Want Share Of Pipeline Profit

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP) — Indians in the Mackenzie Delta are frustrated enough to blow up the pipeline to the south when it is built, a Roman Catholic priest told Energy Minister Donald Macdonald Tuesday.

Rev. Joseph Adam, a missionary in the Arctic for 35 years, made the statement at a dinner given by Inuvik residents for Mr. Macdonald.

He asked that the government guarantee native rights and native entitlement to a share of pipeline profits. The proposed pipeline route up the Mackenzie would cross land claimed by the Indians.

"These people have a right to their aboriginal rights," Father Adam said. "If people in the south won't understand that, the native people in the North won't let the oil go out."

This might be done through violent action, he said.

He said the natives don't oppose the pipeline. "They just want something out of it."

Team Greeted

WELLINGTON (AP) — The New Zealand government held a reception Tuesday at Parliament House for members of a visiting Chinese table tennis team, the first time it has been host to a delegation from China. Internal Affairs Minister Allan Highet said he hoped barriers between the two countries would soon be dropped.

Aussie Honored

LONDON (Reuter) — Evonne Goolagong, the Australian tennis star and former Wimbledon champion, was formally made a member Tuesday of the Order of the British Empire. The order was presented to Miss Goolagong by the Queen for her services to sport.

Tass Breaks News Gently

MOSCOW (CP) — The Kremlin faces the task of reanimating its Middle East policy after letting the Russian people know that Egypt has ordered Soviet military advisers out.

Soviet television broke the news gently Wednesday night — more than 24 hours after President Anwar Sadat of Egypt announced that he had given the advisers the order to leave — by presenting the move as something Moscow and Cairo had agreed on.

Apparently referring to the visit here last week by Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidkey, a Tass news agency statement said the two countries "deemed it expedient to bring back to the Soviet Union the military personnel that had been sent to Egypt for a limited period."

The statement's only possible hint of tension came in a reference to "an exchange of opinions" that preceded the withdrawal decision. Soviet reports sometimes use this expression to cover disagreement.

Otherwise, the Soviet account played up Sadat's assertion that the move would "not affect the foundations of Egyptian-Soviet friendship." For its part, the Soviet Union planned to continue developing and strengthening relations with Cairo, it added.

Last year's friendship treaty between the Soviet Union and Egypt formed a strong basis for relations, the announcement said.

Observers saw Moscow's response as an attempt to salvage everything possible from what could prove a major setback for its quest for influence in the Arab world.

Observers were struck by the mild Soviet reaction. It appeared from the statement that Moscow was anxious to avoid the impression that there had been a split.

Saigon Forces Flanked

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces battled a North Vietnamese battalion of 200 to 300 troops today that outflanked government forces closing in on Quang Tri City.

The fighting was just south of the My Chanh defence line, about 10 miles south of Quang Tri and 20 miles above Hue. The attack threatened Highway One, less than a mile to the west.

The South Vietnamese turned their tank guns on the North Vietnamese force and U.S. planes swooped down with bombs. The North Vietnamese slammed mortars into the South Vietnamese infantry.

Fighting was continuing at mid-day.

Dancing The Years Away

You're only as old as you feel — and if you feel like dancing there's nothing the years can do about it, as this scene at Zwick's Island proved yesterday. Despite heat wave and miles of travel, elderly residents from around east-central Ontario had a day of fun and frolic as 1,500 attended senior citizens' picnic, For details see page 5.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Hot humid air continues to engulf the lower lakes. The separation between slight drier air extends through the cottage country to a disturbance in Northwestern Ontario. As this system moves northward towards James Bay the sultry air will be drawn into regions north of the upper lakes. Some showers will occur along this dividing line. By Friday cooler air will establish itself over Northern Ontario while the south will remain in the humid heat.

Hay Bay Search Fruitless

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police kept the Hay Bay area under surveillance today after a futile day's hunt for a man thought to be one of the four remaining at large from a July 10 mass breakout from Millhaven maximum security penitentiary.

A statement early today from the armed forces and provincial police, who conducted an intensive search of the area, described the operation as unsuccessful.

"Whoever it is, he is completely at home in the bush," a police spokesman said. He was managing to confuse tracking dogs by using every trick in the book.

He Ate His Victim

LIMA (Reuter) — Police arrested a man in central Peru who, after killing his cousin during a quarrel over a girl, cut off his head and arms, cooked and ate them and then tossed the remains over a cliff, a Lima newspaper reported.

Request Rejected

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Labor Relations Board Wednesday rejected a request by Patrick Murphy, president of the Canadian Union of General Employees, that it issue 2,448 subpoenas for today's hearing into the strike by non-medical personnel at Toronto Western Hospital. The OLRB termed the request an abuse of the board's process but said if the union counsel asks that witnesses be summoned the board will comply on his assurance that they are necessary for the presentation of his case.

Gas Station Robbed

MONTREAL (CP) — Two men who beat and robbed a service station attendant may be two of the convicts who escaped from Millhaven penitentiary in Ontario last week, Montreal police said Wednesday night. "The descriptions are very similar and the two fled in a car that had Ontario licence plates," Constable Jacques Archambault of the Montreal police said.

Kissinger Fails To Get Ceasefire

Ulster Truce Moves Falter

BELFAST (CP) — British troops fought several battles with guerrilla gunmen today amid reports that diehard Belfast leaders of the Irish Republican Army argued strongly against a new ceasefire in Northern Ireland.

The army said at least four gunmen armed with automatic weapons exchanged more than 200 shots with a handful of soldiers manning an observation post at a hospital.

The besieged troopers fired at the shadowy gunmen who ringed the sandbagged post, but none were reported hit. The gun battle began shortly after midnight Wednesday night and was still going on several hours later.

Troops said they hit eight other gunmen in shootouts in Londonderry and several Belfast troublespots. A sharp gunfight broke out around the bullet-scarred Bligh's Lane pub in Londonderry when gunmen opened up from "Sniper's corner," virtually a guerrilla emplacement on the fringe of the IRA-ruled "Free Derry" stronghold.

In a disused club in the Roman Catholic New Lodge area, troops found 25 gasoline bombs and two empty ammunition boxes. The building was known to have been used by snipers recently.

Three bombs exploded in the country town of Lurgan, 29 miles south west of Belfast, damaging an auto showroom, a golf club and an electricity transformer.

In one Belfast shootout, shots hit the home of Paddy Devlin, Northern Catholic-based Social Democratic Labor party legislator. Devlin was in Dublin with the Muhammad Ali-Al Lewis fight, but his wife and daughter lay on the floor as bullets peppered their house in the Catholic Andersonstown district, Neither was hurt.

The violence continued unabated despite increasingly strong reports from Dublin and Belfast that Provisional IRA commanders were willing to reactivate the short-lived truce shattered 11 days ago in a blazing gunbattle in the sensitive Lenadoon district of Belfast.

IRA Leader Not Like Desperado

By CY FOX

BELFAST (CP) — The commander of the Provisional wing of the Irish Republican Army in the Ballymurphy area of West Belfast seemed anything but a gun-toting desperado bent on anti-British murder and mayhem.

"I'll park around the corner and we can talk here," he said quietly after this reporter had climbed into the brand-new car driven by the guerrilla chief.

On the face of it, the only odd feature about this particular interview was the fact that the officer refrained from giving his name.

He was neatly dressed in a brown suit and open-necked shirt. His blue eyes were as soft in his speech—all of which seemed to bolster his comforting prediction that there will be no civil war in Northern Ireland.

But the mild manners were deceptive. He looked much older than the 23 years he admitted to, and he has been on the run from security forces for two years. Inevitably, the toughness beneath the apparently gentle surface emerged strikingly during our conversation.

Hanoi Wants Accord First

Paris (Reuter) — U.S. efforts to negotiate a ceasefire in Vietnam and to separate a military from a political settlement of the war were thwarted today at the Paris peace talks.

The setback for Washington came only 24 hours after a secret meeting here between President Nixon's special envoy Henry Kissinger and Hanoi politburo member Le Duc Tho.

Chief North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy said at today's 151st session of the Vietnam peace conference that a ceasefire could only take place after agreement was reached on all military and political questions.

"Once the military and the political questions are agreed upon, all other questions, including the release of American war prisoners, can easily be settled," he said.

Stressing that agreement on all political and military questions should precede a ceasefire, he added:

"Only such a ceasefire can be lasting and really end the hostilities," he said.

Thuy, who attended Wednesday's 6½-hour secret talks between Kissinger and Le Duc Tho, also demanded that the United States stop its bombing attacks against North Vietnam and lift the blockade of Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports—both of which started early in May.

North Vietnam also insisted that the United States abide by the 1954 Geneva accord which provided for the independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam.

Viet Cong delegation leader Mme. Nguyen Thi Binn denounced U.S. moves to deal with the military questions and leave political problems to be sorted out among Vietnamese.

"Such an approach is obviously one-sided and is not conducive to a settlement of the South Vietnamese problem," she said.

The Viet Cong leader said that U.S. involvement in the war was both military and political. "It is the political responsibility of the United States to eliminate an administration it has placed in Saigon to further its policy," she added.

The Viet Cong also insisted that the political and military aspects should be settled simultaneously.

The question facing the negotiators is who shall rule in Saigon during the period between the withdrawal of U.S. troops and the holding of general elections.

"We hold that this will be a broadly representative administration," Mme. Binh said. "Such an administration which will organize general elections, shall not be a Communist government or a government imposed by us," she added.

New Plane To Fill Role Of Argus

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department had decided its Argus anti-submarine aircraft cannot be updated economically, and it is asking aircraft manufacturers to come up with a replacement.

The 32 Argus planes have been in service since the mid-1950s and for the last year or so the department has been studying the possibility of refurbishing and modernizing them or replacing them with another type.

The decision was announced today when the department said the government will ask aircraft manufacturers to submit proposals for a new long-range patrol aircraft, equipped with a modern, maritime-surveillance system."

Studies had shown that the Argus—a four-engine propeller aircraft—"cannot be economically updated or re-equipped."

U.S. Move Supports Dollar

WASHINGTON (CP) — In a move to keep the six-month old international monetary agreement from collapsing, the United States has begun intervening directly in foreign exchange markets to prop up the dollar's value.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York, which acts as the external limb of the U.S. central banking system, started selling West German marks and other foreign currencies from U.S. reserves for dollars in foreign exchange markets Wednesday in a sudden departure from its previous monetary policy.

The United States moved to support the dollar actively for the first time since President Nixon suspended the convertibility of the currency into other reserve assets last Aug. 15.

The sales had the effect of depressing the price of the West German currency and thus increasing the value of the dollar in relation to the mark.

At the same time, the central bank disclosed that it is reactivating its so-called "swap network" of reciprocal currency credits with foreign monetary authorities.

That arrangement, designed to give quick relief to ailing currencies, had been suspended as part of the Aug. 15 package of economic policy measures.

Thus, for the first time in almost a year, the United States is actively co-operating with other countries to maintain the value of the dollar abroad by selling foreign currencies in international money markets.

Gerald Boyce Is One of Nine New Ontario Museum Directors

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Gerald Boyce, a vice-principal of Moira Secondary School, has been named one of nine new directors of the Royal Ontario Museum.

The appointment was announced Wednesday by Hon. George Kerr, Ontario minister of colleges and universities.

Mr. Boyce, a native of Hampton, taught history in Belleville schools following his graduation from McMaster University and the University of Manitoba. He is the son of the late Egerton Boyce, organist at St. Andrew's Church, Belleville, for many years, and Mrs. Boyce, a music teacher in the city.

A charter member of Hastings County Historical Society, Mr. Boyce has been active in local historical and museum work. He is the author of the county of Hastings Centennial project, the book Historic Hastings.

This spring, again under county sponsorship, he published Hutton of Hastings, the collected letters of William Hutton, first warden of Victoria District and early school superintendent in the Hastings county area.

Mr. Boyce is married to the former Beverly Pigdon of Belleville and has four children.

Other appointees are: John Eleen, 49, research director for the Ontario Federation of Labor; Fernand Ouellet, 43, a professor at Carleton University, Ottawa; Ruth McGill, 32, of Brantford, a member of the board of management of the Glenhyrst Art Museum in Brantford; Dr. William Monk, 44, of Bracebridge, a fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons;

Maureen Myers, 41, active in adult education in her hometown of Chatham; Joan Randall, 41, of Toronto, a life member of the ROM; Walter Revenco, 70, of Burlington, chairman of the board of Hutton County Minerals; and Warren Seyffert, 31 of King, secretary of the Citizen's Committee to save the Museum, which was set up to protest the firing of Peter Swann as director of the ROM.

The provincial cabinet has the right to appoint 15 of the 25 members of the board. There are three ex-officio members and three more members are elected by members of the museum.

Sandbanks Suits Filed

PICTON, Ont. (CP) — A Toronto vacationer has lodged charges Wednesday under the Environmental Protection Act and the Criminal Code against companies involved in sand removal beside Sandbanks Provincial Park south of Belleville.

The private prosecution was launched by Mrs. Agda Rayner, a secretary who spends her vacation at Sandbanks beach resort near the park. She is represented by David Estrin, general counsel for the Environmental Law Association, which is conducting a campaign to halt sand removal by Lake Ontario Cement Ltd. from a leased tract of land owned by the province.

Mrs. Rayner charged this company and Triad Trucking Ltd., which hauls sand for it, with impairing the environment at the private beach resort and Sandbanks Park, under the province's environmental act.

She has also charged each company with mischief under the federal Criminal Code, involving wilful interference with the enjoyment of private property.

A similar mischief charge has been laid against Ronald Norton, described as the operator of a front-end loader on the sand site.

The sand dunes involved have been the issue in a controversy for months, with residents and environmentalists protesting their removal. The cement company has a 75-year lease at $1 a year permitting removal of sand from 18 acres, which was granted in a trade after government workers accidentally reforested a plot of company-owned land.

Last week the provincial government accepted in principle a consultant's recommendation that the company be allowed to remove sand for another two to three years if it then surrenders its lease.

Woman Outlines Reasons for Suits

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Mrs. Agda Rayner, the Toronto holidayer who has filed charges against companies removing sand from the Sandbanks, claims government statements on the issue are "deliberately misleading."

As an example of misinformation the Tyrell report, Mrs. Rayner said the reforestation project was carried out by the crown at private land with the active consent and participation of the owners."

She says officials concerned with the sand quarrying issue are "frightening employees with phony claims of closing Lake Ontario Cement Company's plant at Picton."

Mrs. Rayner has committed herself to single-handedly fighting quarrying on the 18 acre site at the Sandbanks, leased by the Ontario government to the cement company for $1 a year.

An employee of a small Toronto advertising agency, she has spent two to three weeks each summer for the last 10 years camping at Sandbanks Beach Provincial Park.

She has collected 600 signatures on a save-the-Sandbanks petition.

Referring to the private prosecution she lodged Wednesday against the cement company and the trucking company, she said she has been too involved with reporters and lawyers to collect as many signatures as she would like.

"Now I'm home-free and by the weekend I expect to collect 2,000 signatures," she said.

But she won't seek out Prince Edward county natives for their support.

"I haven't talked to them; I'm afraid to," she said.

Mrs. Rayner said she feels sorry for Prince Edward county inhabitants, who, she said, have been deliberately misled

Closed Meeting Protested

PICTON (Staff) — A joint meeting between the Prince Edward county planning board and county council will be called following several councillors' criticisms of "too much authority" among board appointees.

Amelisburg reeve Russell Thompson said he attended a recent planning board meeting erroneously reported as open and claimed he was asked to leave.

He observed if secrets exist in the planning board, township reeves at least should be permitted to listen during meetings.

Hallowell reeve George Vincent, who also left the planning board meeting said, "It left me with a very bad taste in my mouth," as he referred to the incident.

Mr. Vincent noted ratepayers are directing numerous questions to reeves concerning land severance and related matters and they are unable to supply ready answers.

He commented township reeves should be permitted to sit in during planning board meetings in order, to obtain the answers to ratepayers' queries.

Reeve Vincent suggested he and fellow councillors are "not really the public" and said county council supplies funds to finance the planning board.

He also remarked that the planning board meeting which he left was attended by more representatives from Toronto than board appointees.

Hallowell deputy reeve Keith MacDonald cautioned that council should be "more careful" in its appointments to the planning board.

County warden Ross Benway explained that department of municipal affairs representative B. Carney emphasized that he would address only a closed meeting of the board and members of the general public were told the meeting was not open to them.

He added that he expected reeves Vincent and Thompson would stay during the discussion and observed a motion calling for committee of the whole was made but it was not an invitation for the reeves to leave.

Deputy reeve MacDonald urged a meeting between council and the planning board which was endorsed by reeve Vincent who applauded "more heart to heart discussion" between the two groups.

"I think that the planning board has too much authority," asserted deputy reeve MacDonald.

Warden Benway interjected to stress that he attends all planning board meetings on behalf of county council and suggested any authority largely consists of "doing what we are told we can do."

He noted the planning board receives direction concerning what can and cannot be attempted.

Trustees Approve Teachers' Aides

Teachers in the separate school system should have more time to spend in individual instruction next year if a volunteer aide program approved by trustees is utilized.

Pilot projects in use of volunteer aides have resulted in the Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board approving the program for the entire system.

Superintendent E. J. Neville said the volunteer aide program is intended to break down the traditional barrier between home and school and parents will probably comprise the largest group of aides. Retired teachers and other professional people are expected to volunteer, and the program will give students thinking of a teaching career a chance to get some first hand experience.

The volunteers will be used to supervise field trips, to take over craft or skill activities such as woodworking and cooking, to help prepare teaching materials, to supervise drills in various subjects, to hear reading and to mark papers and to supervise lunchrooms.

Mr. Neville stressed that the aides would not free teachers of their duties, but would give them more time to spend in individual instruction when needed.

Mr. Neville foresaw some problems, chief among them indiscretion in talking outside school about progress and performance of some pupils and public criticism of school policy. Some volunteers might offer to serve only because they are interested in the progress of their own children.

He stressed that aides will be placed in classrooms only at the request of the teachers concerned, and will be withdrawn at the teachers' request.

Authority Adds Land

The Moira River Conservation Authority is back in the land purchase business after a year or so of inactivity, mainly because of rising land costs.

The authority executive at its last meeting okayed the recommendation of the Forest Advisory Committee to purchase the Keilty property consisting of 100 acres on Lot 22, concession 7 Hungerford township, and the east half of lot 18 and all of lot 19 on concession 3, Hungerford township.

The 300-acre property fills in a 2,700-acre block already owned by the authority, while another 300 acres adjacent to the new property is also owned by the authority.

Some of the land purchased is already tree covered and reforestation will be commenced next spring on the cleared areas.

The authority now owns more than 17,000 acres of reforestation property in the Moira watershed.

Warden Urges County Body

PICTON (Staff) — "Let's leave a mark for Prince Edward other than that damned green mark the have printed all around it," county warden Ross Benway told councillors Tuesday, discussing county government.

Warden Benway reminded council "time is running short" and county government should be considered now while there is still time for action.

He urged councillors to discuss ideas for county government among themselves and forward them to council's county government committee.

The committee has is continuing an engineering study of a suitable site for garbage disposal.

Eaton's Pilot Site

Eaton's of Canada's Belleville catalogue office will be the site of a pilot financial services project. The company this week announced the start of an insurance service in the catalogue office. Consecon farmer and agent Stanley Goodfellow, will be their independent representative. Present in Belleville for the announcement were A. Sandy Thain, general manager of Eaton's Insurance Company, centre, and Harold Rooke, superintendent of agencies.

Male Teacher Supply Short

There will be a shortage of male teachers in the separate schools next year, and the boys' physical education program may suffer as a result.

Hastings - Prince Edward separate school superintendent E. J. Neville noted Tuesday that few male teachers were available by the time the board began hiring late in the school year.

Teacher resignations are not required before May 31 and the board could not hire new teachers until the number of vacancies became apparent.

Mr. Neville told trustees some small schools would have no male teachers in 1972-73 and he feared the boys' physical education programs might suffer.

"Next year, we will hire a backlog of about six men in February," he assured the board.

Of 19 new appointments reported Tuesday, only four were men, this prompted the query by Odenek Kvarda about an apparent shortage of male teachers.

Mr. Neville said there are fewer teachers now being graduated from teachers' colleges and males have always been few in number in the colleges.

Also contributing to the shortage is board policy that all teachers in the system must be practising Roman Catholics.

Mr. Neville said there have been 53 staff changes this spring, including both replacements for teachers who resigned and transfers within the system. The separate school board employs a maximum of about 175 teachers.

Councillors Tour Museum

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward county councillors toured the newly renovated county museum Tuesday following a regular meeting at Shire Hall.

Several commented on vandalism in the old church yard surrounding the building and noted tombstones have been toppled and cracked.

The museum, formerly the Old Church of St. Mary Magdalene, has been completely renovated and a second floor included for exhibits. A substantial portion of the work was accomplished under a winter works program this year.

Although the building is not expected to open this summer an open house may be held soon to allow visitors to view improvements.

Tombstones in the church yard have been carefully preserved and repaired including one which bears a date of February 29.

This unusual stone once was featured in Ripley's Believe it or Not.

Industrial Accountants Officers Elected

The Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial Accountants has announced the appointment of its 1972-73 directors. They are: chairman, Larry Mellor; vice-chairman, Mrs. Dorothy Smith; secretary, Richard Hall; treasurer, Mrs. Margaret Joynes; program, Donald Potts; student affairs, James Nuttall; reception, Peter Unger; public relations, Arthur Jones; attendance, Mrs. Dorothy Caverley; meeting arrangements, Wayne Paisley; registrar, George Lewis; delegate to provincial and national council, Grant Maidment; past chairman, Carl Coons, and directors Fred Abrams and David Irvine.

Retailer Adds Insurance

Eaton's of Canada has joined the ranks of catalogue retail sales offices offering financial services. Belleville has been selected as the site for their pilot project.

Although Eaton's Financial Services officers hoped to make this insurance sales service available at their Front Street office this month, interior refinishing has proven cause for delay.

Stanley Goodfellow, who will be their local independent representative, hopes to open his office sometime later in August.

The Consecon farmer and independent insurance agent for the past 13 years will be handling home, auto, life and accident insurance sales at the catalogue office.

Both Eaton's superintendent of agencies Harold Rooke and A. Sandy Thain, general manager of Eaton's Insurance Company, have stressed this is a pilot project which could eventually be incorporated into the more than 300 company catalogue offices in Canada.

Eaton's entered the financial services field in 1971, with employees located at various retail stores in larger centres. The Belleville experiment is the first to use an independent agent who will act in the company's name.

Mr. Goodfellow, apart from raising horses and cattle at Consecon for the past five years, has been selling insurance for the past 19. In 1957 he sold his private independent insurance business in Scarborough, to make his home in the Quinte area.

He and his wife Dorothy have two daughters. One is married, the second, Bonnie, is a nurse at St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto.

Waterfront Scheme

The prospect of an apartment complex in the South Front Street area of Foster Ward overlooking the bay is one we are sure will meet the approval of most citizens. It is in line with suggestions we have made concerning this interesting section of the city.

People need has an atmosphere to be found nowhere else in the community, but no one would deny that it is in need of redevelopment. Some has been under way for a while in the environmental sphere, as manifested by extension of parkland and picnic facilities along the waterfront. If it is little used, let alone appreciated by the general public at the moment, construction of the apartments and the influx of population to the area will surely remedy this. For the children especially, the open spaces being provided and the general program of tidying up the waterfront will be of inestimable value.

There is mention of recreation facilities, including a swimming pool, landscaping, possibly some offices and boutiques as well as parking. We think tennis courts would be an excellent idea also, in view of the growing popularity of the game here, perhaps even putting (golf) and lawn bowling greens.

All in all this area could be one of the more desirable parts of the city for fresh development, without destroying its present character or neglecting the needs and desires of those who live there now and to whom Foster Ward has been home for many years.

We think this could be the beginning of an interesting new era of development in the area and in the city as a whole.

Nursing Homes

In making changes aimed at streamlining and economizing an operation, governments sometimes overlook the disruption and even grief it may cause to people. In other words they fail to consider the human element.

An example of this is afforded by the plight of the old people — residents of Central Park Lodge in Thorneliffe — affected by the absorption of nursing homes under the health insurance program. Central Park is closing nursing care facilities in its three Toronto lodges where 123 people live, and others across Ontario. Instead of the extended care facilities which come under the provincial regulations Central Lodge is setting up retirement homes, open to anyone who can afford them and free of restrictions governing the nursing homes.

Officials of the lodge say there is nowhere for its displaced people to go. Health department officials, on the other hand, insist they will all get good facilities with no difficulty.

However, this still omits the human element. Even if they can find another home the old people will lose friends. As one woman of 84 put it, "they are all I have got." At a meeting in the Thorncliffe establishment recently, health department officials were faced by the relatives of the old people and Dr. Frank Ellingham of the department's extended health services branch was quoted as saying he finally realized "the deep pain and problems involved."

Health Minister Dr. Richard Potter is reported to have told reporters at Queen's Park that some home operators have deliberately emptied their homes to get patients. For example, some claim that couples must be separated because the husband and wife require different types of care. "There is nothing more untrue," said Dr. Potter. "I'm concerned that there are some people trying to make an issue of this."

Well it depends on which issue he has in mind — having all the homes fall into line (most of the people in the nursing homes have decided to close because of the new rules) or the human factor. The latter cannot be ignored — and Dr. Ellingham has admitted as much. It may be that some of the relatives are over-reacting because they face the prospect of having to take over the care of elderly relatives themselves — a factor which, needless to say, is not always in the best interests of either. But this aside the department of health will at least have to assist the old people to find other accommodations and if possible ensure that friends stay together. Losing new friends is also easy at that age, for in senior citizen groupings jealousy, intrigue, unfriendliness and a sense of alienation are not uncommon.

Dr. Potter is also quoted as saying the plight of the old people is due to the nursing home's decision rather than government regulations. But surely the former stems from the latter — in other words it is a chain reaction.

Straight Questions From Toronto Kids

The PM on 'Fuddle-Duddle' [Again] and on His Job

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Prime Minister Trudeau, great from the very start at handling kids, has had four years of intensive practice, polishing the performance to the gloss almost of an art form.

But this bunch was different.

They were underprivileged youngsters from Toronto, some 160 of them, including a few cases of mild mental retardation.

And right from the start they were different than any other kids the Prime Minister had met.

They did not swarm around at his arms-open-wide invitation to hug and kiss and beg for autographs.

They just sat there on the floor of the Senate Railway Committee Room, staring at him as he perched on the side of a table, both legs dangling.

There was silence.

Maybe 30 seconds of it, strained and just a bit embarrassing.

"Questions," prompted someone on the sidelines, "any questions?"

Still silence.

"How about you?" asked the Prime Minister of a small boy, maybe age nine or 10, squatting on the floor in jeans and a sweatshirt, which read "vote."

"Yeah," said the boy, "tell us about that fuddle duddle."

It floored the PM. But only for a moment.

"You know how it is," he grinned, "you kids say things like that."

There we were — and here the PM made signs indicating the yacking that goes on in the Commons — and I was moving my lips and the opposition wanted to know what I was saying and that fuddle duddle seemed to fit. Isn't that right, Mitchell?

"That is right," reported External Affairs Minister Sharp, attending the PM along with a couple of other Toronto Liberals. "I was sitting right there beside the Prime Minister and that is what he said, just 'fuddle duddle,' moving his lips."

Silence again for a moment.

"Sir," spoke up another youngster, "when you win the next election are you going to proclaim yourself king of Canada?"

No, replied the PM playing it straight, no need to, prime ministers have more power.

Anyway the constitution says it cannot be done. And as it will follow the constitution which is a basic law, like we obey all laws — not because of any big stick or threat, but because that is the way we run our society and country.

If the PM wondered what question was coming up next, he could scarcely have been prepared for what came singing in from a sweet-faced girl of perhaps eight.

"Has nobody tried to kill you yet?" she asked, just like that.

That one made him blink and then laugh.

Well, yes, he shrugged, they had been trying to kill him in the House of Commons every day — the opposition with questions, that is — not assassins with guns — killing him politically, not physically.

Canadians, he went on, are not, the kind of people who dispose of their leaders with bullets.

They use ballots.

So if they do not want me around any more, all they have to do is fill in the X under fuddle and I will be on my way.

At that point in came Toronto Liberal MPs Barnett Danson and Ian Wahn to round out themselves beside the PM and Mitchell Sharp, Barny D so overwhelmed by the Prime Minister's introduction he looked as if he might break into a soft shoe step.

"Why," spoke up a 10-year-old, sizing up the PM with a squint, "did you want this job?"

Here I was in the House of Commons, related the PM, trying it on for size and liking the feel of it and cajoling what I was doing when the former prime minister, Mr. Pearson, decided to retire.

When you are doing something you like, and I was, you want to keep on going, but you like to have more of a say in the action.

The party that forms the government is a team, and I already was a member. So why not try to be the captain? That was it — you kids must know that — how it is when you are on the team and want to run it, eh?

There was a nodding of young heads; they all understood.

It was quite a show — especially when you remember they were underprivileged kids and come of them mentally slow — and asking sharper questions than you often hear in the Commons.

And what would they tell their Moms and Pops when they got back to "big" city and told of meeting "the guy who does not want to be King of Canada."

A Further Look at the Citizen Survey

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

If it takes wading to go through my letter of July 8 (according to Mr. Cooperman) then many must have drowned trying to read "The Senior Citizen's Survey" as well as Mr. Cooperman's letter in The Intelligencer, July 11.

First, let us look at the statements in Mr. Cooperman's letter. He mentions six points as a result of the survey:

1. An element of "Pensioned Concerned" will be in Belleville in September to help Senior Citizens. Of course this can be achieved without the $50,000 report. A simple letter would have done the trick. "Pensioner's Concerned" is available to every group who wants to get started.

2. Belleville Public Utilities Commission consists of a very sensible group of people. I'm sure that they would have changed the billing system if many Senior Citizens "actually would have lost" their 10 per cent discount rather than merely "be in jeopardy of losing".

3. The Health Unit, which consists of doctors but not individuls people, dedicated to their work, will send a Public Health Nurse to visit every home where it is indicated this should be done. They have done this for years and will continue to do so. It makes no difference to them whether the referral comes from you, me, Joe Blow, or a report. Many referrals come from doctors, a group of people who according to Mr. Cooperman and I quote: "Don't seem to be interested". If the report has not found any yet, it will not at all. If the report did find some and did refer them as yet, the person might have died in the meantime.

4. How good the shopping service will be and how long it will last will be determined in the future.

I will come back to 5 and 6 later on, but first, back to the report for a moment. On page 12, 2,278 people said they didn't belong to a Senior Citizen Centre. Right underneath this, 2,680 people (11 more) tell us "why not". Page 13 states that 21 people in 9.1 per cent, of course, it should be 0.8 per cent.

Now we start reading page 26, "there is a natural tendency to refrain from cooking for oneself". If 37 people (on page 28) don't prepare meals, which is roughly 1.25 percent of the total and the rest (98.75 percent) or 2,853 do prepare meals, then I say that there is an indication that people continue to prepare meals. It states people should eat more often in restaurants, page 26, if they can't afford to prepared meals. (ha, ha, ha). Also, anybody in the business can tell Mr. Cooperman that smaller packages will increase prices.

There is no emphasis on the figure 675 of those who "can't afford" a well balanced meal. As I stated, people who "can't afford" these don't seem to be taken seriously in the report.

On page 11, it is stated that very few Senior Citizens are interested. This is true, the proof is in the figures. From this the "total illogical" conclusion is made that a full time director (I guess for roughly $10,000 a year) should be hired. Where does the survey indicate, very strongly, that inactivity is one of the greatest problems they have? The figures do not even indicate it mildly.

If Mr. Cooperman wants to meet me anywhere, anytime in public debate or discussion, I'm available.

It Is Not A Playground For Others

The Trentonian

Readers of these columns know that we have been for a long time pressing the idea that planning should turn this area into a playground for Toronto people. Others are finally waking up to that issue. We recommend it from the start as not just, and were lambasted as reactionary for saying so. We still think it, and are happy that others are finally seeing it and saying the same thing.

It is an immoral idea. To make us heavens of wood and drawers of water for big centres is to deny the fundamental human rights about which this government has made so much noise, and issued so many proclamations. We are entitled to first crack at everything in our area. To make us servants to tourists and to make everything else their benefit is wrong.

Tourism is useful. But it is not an industry. We want park preservation, the setting aside of land for recreational development and conservation. There, successively, will be the things that our own people, as well as for others, where they live. We have had a developed fear of that. That is our right.

We are being plagued by groups of noisy dissidents who come from outside the area, and want to take away our industries and use us as doormats while they trample over our natural resources.

We must not be penalized because we do not choose to live in the big concrete jungles. Maybe the government of Ontario should move out of Toronto and spend some time in these areas, to see what we have and why we want it that way.

Social Breakdown

Guatemala and Uruguay Are In Grip of Terrorist Groups

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

What happens when society can no longer cope with its problems? Two frightening examples of almost complete social breakdown exist in this hemisphere — Guatemala and Uruguay.

Both are smaller Latin American countries. Guatemala the richest and largest of the Central American nations. Uruguay, once one of the very few examples of genuine democracy in Latin America.

Guatemala City's public life has been at a standstill for many times it was in the last eight years. In Montevideo, capital of once-democratic Uruguay, the now world-famous Tupamaro urban guerrillas block off whole sections of this once-dynamic South American city to show off their power.

Why do countries go this way? Why cannot their national institutions cope with the pressing needs for social and other kinds of change? No one, not even the sociologists who claim to measure human behavior, is sure.

In the case of Uruguay, an extension of the welfare state beyond the resources of the people to pay, the loss of an historic beef export market helped to bring about decay in public life.

A severely over-taxed middle class took to the streets. The Tupamaros are not jungle fighters, but former professionals, doctors, lawyers and journalists.

Guatemala, a country with a basic Indian population, is quite different. There, successive right-wing and military regimes have turned their backs on genuine Indian reform. And in the remotest regions of that sad republic the jungle terrorists first organized and were the strongest.

The longer a society reverts to gunmen, the longer it will take to restore law and order which is not repressive. The great tragedy of urban guerrilla outbreaks is that they become stronger as the traditional problem-solving methods become weaker.

Dock to Be Resurfaced

Harbormaster Don Barrett said today, "the dock used to accommodate visiting boaters by Victoria Park, has grown progressively worse over the past few years and will now have to be completely repaired."

The surface of the dock in recent months — has taken on the look of a patchwork quilt, with pieces of tin and odd-shaped boards covering holes and cracks in the pier surface.

"The only thing we can do is totally recover the dock, it has rotted pretty good," said Mr. Barrett.

The urgency of the situation is because the extent of the rotting is difficult to determine.

"We don't know how badly the surface has deteriorated, so for the safety of boaters, the department of transportation has authorized the harbor commission to have work assessed and completed," the harbormaster said.

Engineering, to determine costs and needed repairs will be done by the federal department of public works and a public tender will be issued immediately after their report.

Mr. Barrett expects this assessing will be done by public works in the next week or so.

This department has been down to see the pier on several occasions but has failed to make any recommendations.

Only the surface of the dock needs repairs.

The supports were inspected recently and found to be in very sound shape.

Mr. Barrett could offer no estimate on the cost of recovering the structure.

In all probability the dock will be recovered with wood.

"We have found in the past that wood generally stands up better than asphalt and is a safer and cleaner covering," said Mr. Barrett.

It is hoped that the dock will be given the necessary repairs this summer.

Taping to Continue

Separate school board meetings will continue to be recorded on tape, trustees decided last night, but the tapes will be kept for only two months instead of two years.

It is believed that the Hastings-Prince Edward separate school board and Belleville's industrial commission and public utilities commission are the only local public bodies that tape their meetings.

The separate school board has kept the tapes for two years before erasing and reusing them. Each board meeting requires about a half reel, and each reel costs $4.15.

Superintendent E. J. Neville told the board that trustees have not had recourse to the tapes during his term of office but the staff has used them in preparation of the minutes.

Joseph LaChapelle suggest that since only six or seven reels are used each year, the board keep the tapes for a year instead of the former two years or the recommended two months.

A counter motion by Zdenek Kvarda and Edmund Cornejea that taping not be compulsory, but be continued at the discretion and convenience of the secretaries, was defeated.

Rev. L. P. Casartelli said the tapes should be kept until the minutes are approved because they are the only way available to verify the minutes.

Sidney Proposes Authority Move

All of Sidney Township may soon lie within the boundaries of the Lower Trent and Moira Conservation Authorities.

Council voted Monday to recommend that the remaining one-third of the township — located in the southern end between Belleville and Trenton — be divided between the two bodies. This area was not previously included because waterways in it failed to drain into either river.

Subject to approval by the authorities and by the provincial ministery of the environment, the proposal would place the region west of Jones Creek (near Dexter's Cabins) under the administration of the Lower Trent Authority, while the area to the east would fall under the Moira Authority.

Such an arrangement would enable government financial assistance should the township wish to develop part of the land for recreationa, parkland or conservation purposes.

Kennedy Gives Views

OMB Should Be Kept Until Substitute Found

TORONTO (CP) — The province should not dispense with the services of the Ontario Municipal Board until some acceptable substitute can be found, board chairman J. A. Kennedy said Wednesday.

He agreed with one member of a select government committee investigating the OMB that some municipal councils in Ontario "pass the buck" to the board instead of making their own decisions.

Mr. Kennedy, first witness at the hearings which began Wednesday, also accused Metropolitan Toronto chairman Albert Campbell and Toronto Mayor William Dennison of "vendetas", against him to the detriment of the public.

Wednesday, Philip Givens (L—Toronto York - Forest Hill) said there was a tendency for some members of municipal councils to vote for a project they thought was wrong, trusting in the OMB to pull it right.

"In other words passing the buck," he said. "I think that is a serious and dangerous thing."

Mr. Kennedy agreed.

Mr. Kennedy, 69, who retires Oct. 31, also said he had yet to receive complaints from "the governed" on OMB decidons; the complaints come from municipal councils whose decisions are overruled.

"And the criticisms are mostly those of philosophy—that we've overruled a decision of an elected government body," he said.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating," he told committee members. "If the decisions we make are right, then the decisions made by elected councils are wrong," and should be overruled.

Mr. Kennedy, chairman of the OMB for 12 years, said:

"We've never upset a decision (of councils) unless there has been substantial objection to it and the objection is valid."

Records Secret

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Health Minister Dr. Richard Potter warned mental hospitals in the province Wednesday to keep patients' medical records confidential unless release is authorized by the hospital's administrator and by the patient or guardian.

The warning, which Dr. Potter said would be followed by "more drastic steps" if not heeded, followed allegations by members of the Church of Scientology in Toronto that they learned patients' diagnosis and treatment methods by telephoning hospitals and the ministry of health.

A ministry spokesman admitted there had been cases of information being obtained over the telephoning from hospitals though it is prohibited under the Mental Hospitals Act and Public Hospitals Act.

Map locates the three East African countries of Kenya, Tanzania and Uganda, whose presidents signed a pact five years ago linking their nations' futures in a single community. The proposed federation never materialised but a recent spate of soul-searching over the future of the area suggests that momentum may be slowly gathering for a fresh attempt at reviving the spirit of co-operation.

Valve Set Too High

BARRIE (CP) — A safety release valve on a 21,500-gallon vat which exploded and killed two Barrie men at the Formica Spring Bevery near here March 13 was set to release at more than twice the recommended pressure, a coroner's inquest was told Wednesday. Trevor Jones, engineer for an independent firm engaged after the explosion to test the vat, said the valve was set to release pressure at 28½ pounds per square inch—15 pounds over the limit set by the brewery

Anxiety Keeps Kingston Pen Guard Off Job

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Guard Terrence Decker said Wednesday that anxiety following his kidnapping by Kingston Penitentiary prisoners in April, 1971, rioting has kept him from returning to his job in the cell block.

"I've never been able yet to work with inmates in the wing," he told the Ontario Criminal Injuries Compensation Board, which concluded two-day hearing on claims for recompense by Decker and several prison-ers, beaten by fellow convicts.

After the hearing, board chairman Arthur Wishart said the board has not yet decided whether it should accept responsibility for compensating victims of crime arising out of incidents in federal institutions.

The provincial attorney - general's [illegible] submissions to the federal justice department. Decisions on the Kingston Penitentiary claims would be issued when the point of law was cleared up.

Decker, first guard to be taken hostage when prisoners took over the recreation hall, said he had been jumped on and knocked down. He had suffered a flattened spinal disc, but even more debilitating had been his nervous condition since the riot-ing.

The board concluded its sittings without hearing from Willfrid Lacelle and James Rice, among about 15 prisoners beaten. Lacelle is ill in hospital. Counsel for Rice said his client was not in a position to testify at this time.

The board also heard an application from Donald Arseneault, a former prisoner at the Dorchester institution who was stabbed in the neck by another prisoner in 1970.

Arseneault, now on parole and working in Kingston, had been a country and western singer before his imprisonment for breaking and entering in 1966. He told the board the knifing had ended his singing career.

A new way to really get your mail moving: Postal Codes.

If you haven't already received it, in the next few days you'll be getting your new Postal Code in the mail. It's not very exciting to look at. But it is very necessary. And it's really not as complicated as it looks.

After two years of studying the systems of most of the countries of the world, here's how we developed Postal Codes for Canada.

To uncomplicate your Postal Code, you will be receiving a Postal Code Package. It contains your code, instructions on how to use it, a handy address book, special Postal Code stickers for your envelopes, and postage paid address cards that you should send to your friends. If you don't have enough, you can get as many as you need at your nearest Post Office. Because, after all, your Code doesn't move your mail unless your friends use it.

And if you haven't received your Code by July 31st, please call your local Post Office. We will mail it to you immediately. It is possible however, that you are not in the EASTERN ONTARIO POSTAL DISTRICT, in which case your area may not have been coded yet.

Get the habit.

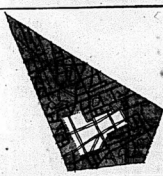
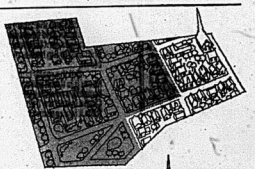
K:
Canada was first divided into 18 large areas, each designated by a letter.

K2:
By adding a number, we narrow that area down — for example, a city.



K2P:
By adding another letter, we indicate a specific section of that city.



K2P 0P4:
And by adding three more characters that section of the city is further narrowed to one side of a street between two intersections.

Codes can also represent:
—an office building with 10 or more companies.
—or a company that receives large volumes of mail.
—or an apartment building with over 50 suites.
—or, in less densely populated areas, a code will represent the whole town.

New Games Book Supplies Family Fun

By DORIS CLARK

New games book supplies family fun

Puppets are heaps of fun and if the small fry in your family are bored for something to together, there are some games in the new "Games I Missed Family Games" book which tell how to make your own. Even suggests a typical puppet complete with words and motions.

You can make puppets out of peanut shells or paper bags or handkerchiefs. You can make them out of potatoes or hollow rubber balls. You can wear them on your fingers and thumbs and operate from behind a sheet.

These make up just one small section in the 64-page book of family fun. There are musical quizzes and rhythm bands; dramatic plays and Quiet Olympics" — if you can imagine that.

I get distracted mothers and even many designers like writing in for something to do, some kind of a party to put on. There are games here for the physically handicapped and the mentally retarded. And many another.

If you are looking for a good birthday present for keen to-do-it-but-nothing-to-do sons or daughters, get a copy of the latest Readers' Digest inspiration.

Dear Doris: My son, 19, is deeply involved with a 33-year-old divorced mother of three girls.

She was teaching in the high school here where my son went. This female was chasing my son. Recently quite by accident I found a letter left open on his dresser for all to see the love which she expressed.

I thought he was entitled to step out, but did not realize it was this older divorced woman.

I don't know what kind of a wife she is going to make for my boy. She will soon be going through the change of life and he is already so blinded by her that he will not look at other girls. — Aching Heart.

Dear Heart: In the past 19 years you have done what you could; he now has a right to make his own choice.

Yet involvement with an older divorced woman — so much older — could be trouble. An experienced woman in her 30's may know all the tricks of the trade.

One thing which may help is that in Saskatchewan (where you are), a boy or girl needs parents' consent to marriage before the age of 21. You could stall for time. Then invite her to your home; let him see her against the background of his family.

Talk him into giving a party and bringing his own boy friends with their girls. Help him to start operating in his own age group, at the same time assuring him that his decisions are his own.

If he does not have to defend her all the time, this may really free him to take her or leave her.

Dear Doris: Right now I am getting together my trousseau. I have heard from various sources that sheets should not be stored in their plastic wrappers or they will get brown edges. Is this true?

What should be done with towels, pillow cases, tea towels, thermal and electric blankets, and bedspreads? — Engaged.

Dear Engaged: Your linens won't discover if the plastic wrappers are completely sealed from the air.

But you can store them in the cedar chest without any wrappings. The fresh cedar will keep them fragrant, and they will still be in fine condition several years from now.

Would you like a copy of my leaflet "Household Treasures"? It can be yours for 20 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Tells you what your linen supply of linens ought to be.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Should newlyweds put off decisions?

SOME should, especially newlyweds who seem to be having trouble adjusting to the great changes they have already made. For them, taking on additional burden of deciding if they should buy a new home, say, may increase their tensions. In some cases, the newlyweds might even become depressed with a new trouble problem being there as soon after they had just made the biggest decision of their lives.

Does a fat teenybopper enjoy eating?

WATCH her gunk the goodies—the overweight teenaged girl seems to get more pleasure out of food than anything else. At least that is the act she puts on for everyone's benefit, but more particularly to entice herself. Perhaps she is afraid she is not being accepted as a person, and to cover up her disappointment, she has overdosed herself that she would rather eat than work to win approval from her contemporaries.

Can post-vacation blues be prevented?

YES, despite the fact that some individuals are become so afraid of getting the blues after their vacation that they almost hate to take one. One possible solution is for such a person to get a job to spend his leisure. The other is to cultivate a more positive attitude about his present job. If he tries to find the "challenge" in it, he may be more anxious to get back to his job after he has had a vacation from it.

Ann Landers

Ann Answers Query on Sex

Dear Ann Landers: We are normal, decent girls, 15 and 16 years of age who have been friends since kindergarten. None of our parents ever mention sex because they believe people shouldn't think about sex until they get married.

We get most of our information from each other. Naturally some of it is wrong because the "facts" come from crummy magazines. We need answers to two questions. 1. Is it possible to get pregnant the first time? 2. Do you know of a birth control method that is 100 per cent harmless and foolproof? Thanks, Ann. You are more of a mother to us than our own mothers.—Tenessee Five

Dear Five: 1. It is indeed possible for a girl to become pregnant the first time. Abortion clinics' records indicate that the inexperienced girl runs the greatest risk of pregnancy.

2. There is no known birth control method that is 100-per-cent harmless and foolproof. The closest is the pill—if the girl holds it between her knees at all times.

Dear Ann Landers: We have four sons under 11 years of age and our place is headquarters for all the boys in the neighborhood. We've had as many as 20 kids in our rec room at one time.

This sounds great, but it has its drawbacks. The mother of one of the boys who was here last week is furious with me.

It seems her son Jimmy was playing around in our backyard, and he ran into a post and knocked out a front tooth. Jimmy is 81 years old and the tooth was, unfortunately, a permanent one. I felt awful about it, put some cold compresses on the boy's mouth and sent him home.

His mother called me a few hours later, wild with anger. "Where's Jimmy's tooth?" she asked. "How do I know?" I replied. "Go out and find it," she screamed. "It can be transplanted."

We have half an acre, Ann. Hunting for a kid's tooth out there was ridiculous. But I said I'd try, and I did. Of course I didn't have any luck.

I'd like to know if I had found the tooth, could it have been successfully transplanted? I've never heard of such a thing.—Corning, N.Y.

Dear Corn: Dr. Paul Goldhaber, dean of the Harvard school of dental medicine, says a knocked-out tooth can be successfully "re-planted" if the root is kept moist and intact in a weak salt solution and the tooth and the patient are in the dentist's office within 24 hours. He made it clear, however, that the tooth will probably not last more than five or six years but these are important years in the dental history of an adolescent, and it's worth the trouble.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a beautiful 19-year-old sister. Everyone tells her how pretty she is and she eats it up. She has a super boyfriend. I'm 17, a pimple-faced freak, miserable and unhappy. I used to have a darling steady but he told someone my complexion was so sickening he was embarrassed to be seen with me. The friend who repeated this to me was not trying to be mean. She just wanted me to know I lost the boy because of my skin and not because I was dumb or boring.

What can I do? I've sent away for every "cure" under the sun. I've scrubbed my face raw with alcohol, laundry soap —you name it, Ann. I've tried it. Mom says I'll grow out of it. I can't wait that long. Please help me.—A Mess

Dear Friend: See a skin specialist and stop fooling around. Thousands of kids with acne have been helped and you can be among them. Get yourself an appointment at once.

Home Dialysis Keeps 28 Alive

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario has 28 persons keeping themselves alive at home by operating their own artificial kidneys.

According to statistics from the Toronto General Hospital, which has trained the 28 home operators, 70 per cent are able to hold jobs. About 23 per cent have been partially rehabilitated for work, while the remaining 10 per cent cannot work.

Home treatment consists of having the surgeon join an artery and vein under the skin at the wrist to allow the insertion of two short, thick needles attached by tubes to the artificial kidney machine. Dials on the machine enable the patient to check the flow of blood into and out of himself.

Officials say it is a psychological boost for the patient and also saves everyone money. Dr. Stanley Fenton, director of the dialysis program at Toronto General, estimates it costs between $15,000 and $20,000 a year to maintain a patient on dialysis in hospital. At home, the cost is cut to $2,000, excluding about $5,500 in capital cost of a machine.

One of the hospital's typical at-home patients is Ronald Church, 25, a Midland cost accountant, who holds down a 9 a.m.-to-5 p.m. job.

Six months after his marriage in 1968, he was stricken with glomerulo-nephritis, an inflammation of the kidneys for which there is no known cure in adulthood, and his kidneys had to be removed.

Now he lives an almost-normal life. Last year he bought a three-bedroom bungalow.

VD 'Increase' Is Partly Just Better Checks

OTTAWA (CP) — A 47-per-cent increase last year in reported cases of venereal disease is partly because people are better informed about the diseases and seek examination and treatment more than before, said Dr. R. G. Grenon of the Ottawa-Carleton Health Unit.

Syphilis cases have totalled 57 in 1971 compared with 40 in 1970 and 14 in 1969.

Case reports of gonorrhea, the most common venereal disease, numbered 765 in 1971, 512 in 1970 and 426 in 1969.

Statistics Canada reported this month that the incidence of venereal disease across the country jumped last year to 170.2 cases per 100,000 people from 150.3 per 100,000 in 1970.

Schreyer's Motion Defeated

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba legislature prorogued early today, minutes after rejecting Premier Ed Schreyer's bid to tackle the decades-old issue of aid to private and parochial schools.

By a vote of 30 to 22 the house turned down a resolution from the premier asking it to set up a special committee for between-sessions study on ways of broadening aid to the province's 48 private and parochial schools.

The premier, introduced the resolution for a free vote.

Syl Apps Unveils Program To Rehabilitate Criminals

TORONTO (CP) — A plan that places greater emphasis on the total rehabilitation of the law breaker—with the separation of juvenile and adult offenders in training grounds—was announced Wednesday by Syl Apps, Ontario minister of correctional services.

The plan involves reorganizing the correctional system to set up regional administrative centres in four areas of the province.

The province also intends to intensify community rehabilitation programs.

Another highlight of the reorganization is the abolition of separate administrative systems for jails and correctional centres for adult male and female prisoners.

Mr. Apps also announced in a news conference that the government plans to set up a co-educational juvenile training centre in Thunder Bay within two years. It will be the first of its kind in Canada.

By separating adult and juvenile programs, Mr. Apps said, more attention can be given to the individual by a case worker who will be working exclusively in one area.

Mr. Apps said the difference between a jail and a correctional centre is disappearing because of expanded programs within jails, establishment of regional detention centres and the temporary leave program.

The leave program permits selected individuals to be absent from the centre during the day for two or three days for reasons of employment, education or personal family situations.

Mr. Apps said that since the program started Aug. 26, 1969, there have been 169 cases where the conditions of the leave were broken out of 9,005 absences granted. Only eight persons committed an offence while on leave, he said.

By decentralizing the administration of jails, Mr. Apps said, regional administrators will be given more latitude developing rehabilitation programs that emphasize local community involvement.

There are 13 volunteer programs during the probation stage where local people work with the offenders.

Concerned that the public may feel the correctional system is too soft on offenders, he said, persons in the provincial system are not the same "hardened criminal" that might be found in the federal system. He noted that persons in a provincial centre have received sentences of less than two years.

The reorganization that will set up western, central, eastern and northern administrative regions for adults will be completed by March 1973, he said. The juvenile system will be split into a western and eastern region.

The co-educational training centre for juveniles at Thunder Bay will include integrated classroom, recreation and meal facilities but separate accommodation.

Jelly Up Works

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese authorities blamed jellyfish for cutting off electric power in Tokyo and vicinity for about 30 minutes and causing a minor panic Wednesday. The power cutoff blacked out about 300,000 homes, factories and subways. Millions of jellyfish, jammed the screen covering the inflow of water at a thermal power generating plant at the Tokyo Electric Power Co.

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police reported Wednesday that the explosion which blew in the front of a North York delivery equipment office did about $5,000 damage.

MONTREAL (CP) — George Maxwell Bell, 59, one of the most successful newspaper publicists in Canadian history, an internationally-known horse breeder and racer, and a millionaire many times over, died here Wednesday night.

Funeral arrangements were not available.

Mr. Bell was chairman of the board of FP Publications Ltd., publisher of the Calgary Albertan, president of Sun Publishing Co. Ltd. and a director of CP Rail.

A free-wheeling dealer whose career became a saga of the Canadian West, he began with a job on the family-owned Calgary Albertan at $35 a week.

His once-wealthy father had owned a string of dailies in the West but at his death in 1935 his last remaining paper, The Albertan, was in pawn to the bankers for $500,000 in debts.

Max not only got it back years later but made it the nucleus of his own group.

He came to own, or share in the control of, the Victoria Times, Victoria Colonist, Ottawa Journal, Winnipeg Free Press and its prosperous Weekly Prairie Farmer, Lethbridge Herald and Vancouver Sun as well as The Albertan. He is also was the last owner of the Edmonton Bulletin before it folded in 1951.

Then in late 1965 his group acquired the Toronto Globe and Mail, the eighth daily to enter the Bell organization.

But while his holdings grew and a horse in which he shared reached the pinnacle of Canadian racing by winning the Queen's Plate, the years from 1967 on were troublesome ones for the Calgary publisher as he underwent several long bouts of neurosurgery in Montreal. Before his death he had been unconscious and ill for weeks and had undergone several operations.

Windsor Air Pollution Report Is Completed

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian chairman of the International Joint Commission says the commission has completed a report on Windsor-Detroit area air pollution and will present the report to Canadian and United States government within two weeks.

Louis Robichaud, former Liberal premier of New Brunswick, said in an interview Wednesday night: "I'm delighted with the conclusions of the report."

The report was completed during a series of meetings, closed to the press and public, which began in Port Huron, Mich., Monday morning and ended at noon Wednesday.

Mr. Robichaud refused to divulge details of the report but said the 110-page document indicates that air pollution over Windsor and Detroit has not decreased in recent years. He said the report contains a number of recommendations—"matching the governments can do something about."

"If the governments want to do something about air pollution, they will have the instruments they need to act in a practical way."

Mr. Robichaud, 46 year-old lawyer, also said he will "definitely take some action" within a week to stop the city of Windsor from dumping untreated nutrients into the Detroit River.

The city ended a 2½-month experiment Sunday, which had removed 80 per cent of the nutrients from the city's daily sewage output of 20 million gallons.

Permanent equipment is to be installed by late 1972. The test equipment was not designed for extended use.

Mr. Robichaud arrived here Wednesday afternoon from Port Huron with Christian Herter, U.S. chairman of the IJC, for a meeting today with officials of the Great Lakes Water Quality Board.

Creation of the board, provided for which was made in the recently-signed $2.5-billion Canada-U.S. water quality agreement, is the first step to implement the agreement. The board held its initial meeting in Windsor Wednesday.

The chairman, who was New Brunswick premier from 1960 to 1970, said he is optimistic about Great Lakes cleanup programs and added: "You will be able to drink water out of Burlington Bay and Lake Erie within five to 10 years.

"In the late 1970s, both Lake Ontario and Lake Erie should be almost completely restored."

CAHA Disputing IIHF Re-election of Bunny Ahearne

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has withdrawn from all standing committees of the International Ice Hockey Federation in a dispute over last week's election of officers.

In a report of the annual IIHF meeting held July 5-13 at Namais, Romania, CAHA president Joe Kryckza of Calgary says:

"... We have withdrawn from all standing committees for the present and will study our position very carefully before making any decisions."

He said the problem stemmed from the nomination for president, which under the IIHF constitution drawn in 1947 was this year to come from North America.

The North American zone nominated Fred Page of Vancouver, IIHF vice-president and past CAHA president.

But at the meeting, J. F. (Bunny) Ahearne, scheduled to step down after his current three-year term as president, demanded a vote on Page's candidacy. Page, the only candidate, was defeated 32-17.

North America then nominated Kryckza, who declined because of his inexperience, and the zone then nominated Gordon Juckes, CAHA executive director and a long-time adversary of Ahearne.

Juckes also was defeated as Ahearne allowed the Netherlands to nominate him, along with Helge Bergland of Sweden. The result was a narrow victory by Ahearne for an unprecedented second consecutive three-year term as president.

"The ridiculous part of that," Juckes said Wednesday in an interview, "is that unless the Netherlands has suddenly been uprooted and deposited in the North American zone, Ahearne's nomination is totally against the 1947 agreement."

Under the agreement European and North American zones were to alternate every three years in nominating for the presidency.

"By Bunny's own standards," Juckes continued, "the country in which the international president resides is considered the home of the IIHF.

"Since he lives in England, I wonder how a British court might react to his election procedures and disregard of rules if an injunction was ever sought.

"I'm sure his ruling on the seed of a vote in a one-candidate race is foreign to most people . . . and probably even to Bunny.

"But it served his purpose."

Ticats Release Zuger

HAMILTON (CP) — Joe Zuger, quarterback with Hamilton Tiger-Cats since 1962, was released by the Eastern Football Conference club Wednesday but hopes to continue his career as a punter.

The 33-year-old graduate of Arizona State University suffered a dislocated shoulder in a game at Toronto last October and has been unable to throw the ball more than 30 yards since.

Zuger, who set a Canadian Football League record as a punter last season with a 48.5-yard average, said he hopes to play this season for Detroit Lions of the National Football League, the team that drafted him in 1962.

Zuger set another CFL mark in his first game as a quarterback with the Tiger-Cats in 1962 when he threw eight touchdown passes in a 67-21 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders. He led Hamilton to Grey Cup victories in 1963 and 1967.

Wally Gabler, Zuger's understudy last season, and rookie Chuck Ealey are the quarterbacks remaining on the Hamilton roster.

Park Hits Paydirt

NEW YORK (AP) — The Times says New York Rangers have agreed to pay star defenceman Brad Park $200,000 a year for the next five years and centre Walt Tkaczuk $150,000 annually.

The Times, in a story by Gerald Eskenazi, says Francis will go to Boston today to negotiate the salary of left winger Vic Hadfield.

The Times says Hadfield probably will agree to a $200,000 annual salary, less than he has been offered by the WHA.

The WHA has offered Hadfield a $250,000-a-year, four-year pact and The Times says the new league proposed to pay it in the same fashion that Hull is being paid—a collection from all WHA teams.

Park, long considered the second-best defenceman in the NHL behind Boston's Bobby Orr, will pass Orr in earnings with his new contract. Orr is under a pastime contract calling for $180,000 annually.

WHA Plans Czech Series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A hockey series between the Czechoslovakian national team and an all-star group from the new World Hockey Association can be expected early next year, Gary L. Davidson, WHA president, said Wednesday.

Bobby Hull, who could not get National Hockey League approval to play against the Soviet Union in a forthcoming meeting' would be able to play against the Czechs as a representative of the WHA.

The Czechs won the 1972 world hockey championship series.

Court Case Looms

NEW YORK (CP) — The prospects for a court test of the National Hockey League's option clause mounted Wednesday when New York Raiders of the World Hockey Association announced the signing of Garry Peters and New York Islanders of the NHL said they'd sue.

Peters, a native of Regina who has played for fourNHL teams, was most valuable player in the American Hockey League last winter with Boston Braves.

The Raiders revealed they also are considering legal action. Three of the players they announced as signing—Bill Flett, Dave Schultz and Mike Robitaille—later signed contracts with the teams which have the NHL rights to their services.

"There is no question in my mind that we have legal and enforceable contracts with Robitaille, Fleet and Schultz," said Dick Wood, Raiders president.

Fleet and Schultz signed with Philadelphia Flyers and Robitaille with Buffalo Sabres after allegedly coming to terms with the Raiders.

Ottawa Tramples Argos 51-7 for Third Win

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders swamped Toronto Argonauts 51-7 in a testy Eastern Football Conference preseason contest Wednesday. It was the Rough Riders' third win in as many games.

Kicker Gerry Organ led the Riders with 14 points, nine of them from first-half field goals, before 19,508 fans.

Toronto scored its only touchdown in the dying seconds of the third quarter on a four-yard plunge by Marv Kendricks. Ivan MacMillan converted.

End Rhome Nixon picked up two Ottawa touchdowns, the others going to quarterbacks Paul Brothers and Rick Cassata, defensive half Rod Woodyard and fullback Bob Houmard. Organ successfully converted five of the six touchdowns. Marcel Deleeuw picked up a single in the fourth quarter.

Ottawa players came up with their most decisive victory of the exhibition series. They shaded Hamilton Tiger-Cats 22-21 in their opening game and dropped Saskatchewan Roughriders 19-16 in the other.

The Argos have one win, one loss and a tie in three games.

Nixon scored on two long-range pass-and-run plays late in the final quarter, both from Brothers. He went for 53 yards on the first and 4 on the other.

The opening touchdown by Woodyard came as the game was barely under way and followed a fumble by Toronto quarterback Joe Theismann. Organ then set up Brothers' touchdown and his own first 19-yard field goal with a couple of on-side kitty-corner kicks blasted soccer-style from his own 45.

Both kicks were recovered by Ottawa defensive half Herb Marshall.

Two players from each team were turfed out of the game for fighting. Ottawa defensive half Barclay Allen and Toronto back Eric Allen scuffled in the closing moments of the third; Rider Argo defensive end Joe Vijuk went out in the final quarter. Argos in statistics, running up 291 total offensive yards to 177 for Toronto.

Streit Wins No. 8

BRANTFORD (CP) — Marlene Streit proved her superiority for the eighth time in 21 years Wednesday as she won the Ontario ladies amateur golf championship at the Brantford Golf and Country Club.

Mrs. Streit fired a final round of 75 to match par and finish with 223 for the 54-hole championship, 12 strokes better than her nearest rivals, Gayle Borthwick of Mississauga and Sue Higgs of London.

Despite her overwhelming victory, however, Mrs. Streit declared immediately after the tournament would return to match play instead of medal play.

Early Strikes Pay for Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats struck for two first quarter touchdowns on the way to a 21-9 victory over Montreal Alouettes in an Eastern Football Conference exhibition match before 20,195 fans Wednesday night.

Quarterback Sonny Wade, making one of his infrequent appearances in the game, came on Montreal's second sequence of plays and his second pass was intercepted by Emery Hicks. Six plays later, the Tiger-Cats had their first touchdown.

Wally Gabler, alternating at quarterback with Chuck Ealey, set up the first score with a six-yard pass into the end zone to Tommy Joe Coffey.

The Als failed to make their first down on the next sequence and Gabler came back to surprise them with a 71-yard pass and run play to Garney Henley who sneaked behind the Montreal defence to take the ball.

Doug Mitchell, who converted both touchdowns, added a single on one missed field goal, but was good for three points from 17 yards. Ian Santer added another Tiger field goal with a 42-yard kick.

The Als, scoreless in the first half, picked off a Gabler pass early in the third quarter to set up Jim Correera's 13-yard touchdown pass to Peter Dalla Riva in the end zone.

Walt Thomasin's convert attempt was blocked and the Als picked up a single on a 42-yard punt by Wally Buono. Santer conceded Montreal two points on a fourth-quarter safety.

Correera alternated at quarterback with Jim Chasey for most of the game and completed eight of 15 passes for 89 yards, but had two interceptions. Chasey completed five of 13 for 77 yards and no interceptions.

Gabler, good on nine of 17 for 189 yards, had only one interception, while Ealey completed one of six passes for 22 yards.

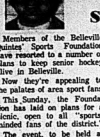
Sport Picnic Latest Boost

by

Maurice Switzer

Sports Editor



Members of the Belleville Quinte Sports Foundation have resorted to a number of plans to keep soccer hockey alive in Belleville.

Now they're appealing to the palates of area sport fans.

This Sunday, the Foundation has laid on plans for a picnic, open to all sports-minded fans of the district.

The event, to be held at Shannonville's Mohawk Beach, will include demonstrations by the Apollo Barbell Club weightlifters, a YMCA trampoline team, archers, and some judo and karate enthusiasts.

It is expected that members of both Belleville's senior and junior hockey teams will be in attendance, along with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hull, Sr. and, hopefully, other members of the illustrious Point Anne hockey family.

The only admission for the picnic, which should officially begin around 10 a.m., is the standard $1.50 per-car normal Shannonville fee. Those who wish to attend should pack their picnic bas-ket for both dinner and supper, since the demonstrations and races will continue most of the day.

Foundation members also have announced they are abandoning plans for an August celebrity dinner, but hope to replace it with a beerfest in the Armories.

Foster, familiar to hundreds of city children in his clown's costume, is deadly serious about a "send - Bobby Hull - to - play - the - Russians" campaign.

He has already petitioned some 400 signatures, and hopes to get more at a special Chamber of Commerce booth set up at Campbell and Front streets during the current sidewalk sale.

Foster has also been offered a booth by the Quinte Exhibition Board to further boost his project.

A more pugnacious method of forcing the National Hockey League to permit Hull to join their team for September's Soviet series was suggested the other day by someone possessing all the devious mental qualities of a chess player.

What would happen, he conjectured, if every hockey fan in Canada boycotted the products advertised on televised games?

Losing their vital television revenues might cost the NHL governors a lot more defections to the World Hockey Association than one Bobby Hull.

Barbers Trim Orchard

Consistency won out over the big inning for Belleville's Morton's Barber Shop in a Prince Edward North Shore Softball game Wednesday night.

Belleville allowed Bayview Orchards' seven runs in the first inning last night but in turn scored in every inning themselves to pull off a 17-8 victory.

Rick Goulah picked up the win allowing 11 hits and fanning two. Mike Redick pounded out four hits for Belleville with Bruce Sutherland, Greg Burkitt and Goulah adding three hits apiece.

Dwayne Doxtator and Gerry Inglis each had three hits in support of Jim Bell and Don Bester on the Bayview mound.

In another North Shore contest Gary Eardley overcame seven boots by his Wannamaker and Body Stable team mates by throwing a one-hitter to defeat Consecon 6-4.

Eardley struck out six and walked only one in taking the win. Ed Calicse, Bill Cannon, Fred O'Brien, and Earl Colton each had two hits in the winners 10-hit output.

Art Kellar was on the mound for Consecon, striking out six and walking two. W. Clarke had the only hit for the losers.

Melrose Makes Breathing Room

Melrose found some breathing room atop the South Hastings League standings by downing Latta 3-0 Wednesday.

The league leaders opened a four-point bulge on Plane's as Terry Flagart turned in a six-hit shutout. The Melrose hurler walked three batters and set 13 down on strikes.

Wayne Harrison paced the Wizzers with a pair of singles with the other hits going to Mike Lazier, Reg Adams and Larry Fawcett. Masterson and Keith Dickey had two hits each for Latta with Bob Smith and Robin Allison adding singles.

In other South Hastings games last night it was Shannonville stopping Plane's 2-1 and Read downing Reserve 7-3.

Head-Hunting

Mike Vokey has learned to take the rough stuff in lacrosse in stride, in fact he was in mid-stride when he took this wooden aspect in the head. Robert Taylor, of the Dairy Queen peewees, was the culprit and he took a two minute penalty but it did little to slow the Queens who whipped the Y's Men's Club 10-2 in a Belleville Minor Lacrosse game Wednesday night.

Flicka Fastest at Frontenac

KINGSTON — Bret Flicka failed to set a new track record Wednesday night in a first attempt at Frontenac Downs, but it looks like 3-5 of a second won't be long in disappearing.

Flicka, owned by Norm Jones of Newboro, set the fastest time of the initial card at the Kingston race track by winning the Edwards-Ford Mercury Invitational in 2:04:3. The time was a new personal best for Flicka but still off of the track record of 2:04 set by Locust Don.

A Belleville track regular Roger Ile pushed his horse Sandy Goin to a new record of 2:09:3 in winning the Ace Motors Invitational Trot in the third while John's Prince ran his best time ever in taking the preferred fifth in 2:06:3.

Dorothy Rick captured the first race of the new season in 2:07:1 and combined with Bell Carey to return a $15 quinella.

The second race was won by Vic's Sam, the horse by Bye Jove, the sixth by Dreamy Chief, the eighth by KMC and the ninth by Glen Jay Bill.

An opening night crowd of 2,000 ventured last night into the parimutuel wickets.

Racing resumes at Frontenac Downs Sunday afternoon with the Belvedere Ontario Harness Horsemen's Stake the main attraction. Post time is 1:45 p.m.

Midgets Whip Bantams

The Belleville Auto Dealer midgets were far from big brothers to their Bantam All-star counterparts in a Belleville Minor Lacrosse game Wednesday night, whipping their younger opponents 9-2.

Rick Belanger netted a quartet of goals for the midgets with Joe Muldoon and Marty Mulovesy adding a pair each and Rick Cook one. Kent Manning and Chris Rutledge tallied for the losers.

The Y's Mens Club came up short of players and short of goals in losing a 10-2 decision to the Dairy Queen in a peewee game.

Jeff Runciman scored four times for the winners, Kevin Gow and Scott Summers twice each and Robert Taylor and John Armstrong once. Steve Vincent fired both Y goals.

A two-goal output from Larry Inwood pushed the Police Association past the T-Birds 6-3 in another peewee contest.

United Wins

United earned a 1-0 lead at the half on the strength of Chris Johnston's successful penalty shot. The other United total came in the second half when Stu Mitton picked the corner on a beautifully-executed free kick. Dick Howe earned the Belleville team's shutout.

Lenders Don't Give Game Away

Belleville Lenders lived up to their names for two innings before springing a 14-Industrial Softball comeback on Stewart Warner Wednesday.

The Alemite team surprised the Lenders with a six - run outburst against starter John Cairns before Wayne Casselman came on to bail them out with five innings of shutout. They gave up six hits a nd five walks, setting down five men on strikes.

Fred Davis worked for Stewart Warner, giving way to Dennis Ray in the seventh inning. They yielded 14 hits and two walks, failing to record a strikeout.

Norm Tetlock had three singles for the winners with Jim Fraserberry, Fred Smith and Herm Van Daalen adding two apiece. For Stewart Warner it was Keith Bertrand and Bob Young getting two hits while Bill Lynch had a homer. The Lenders' win moves them to within two points of the "A" division lead.

CNR continued to sport the best record in the league, downing Post Office 6-2 for their 16th win of the season.

Brian Plumbe stamped out the losers' hitting hopes with a five-hit performance. He struck out two batters and issued three walks. The loss went to Norm Lockhart who yielded eight hits and five walks. He struck out six.

Picking up two CNR hits each were Mill Bell, Zane Plumbe and Brian Plumbe. John Hanna had a triple for Post Office.

Boxing Club Draws Response

At least 25 local residents showed they are ready to throw their hats into the ring by attending the first organizational meeting of the Belleville boxing club.

The meeting was held Wednesday night in the Legion building on Pinnacle Street for the purpose of organizing a boxing and fitness club in this city. Organizers once again stressed that training and conditioning aspects would be the club's main objectives.

Club organizer Terry Bennett confirmed that a number of men with experience in the sport have agreed to serve at club coaches. The club's next meeting is being scheduled for mid-August.

Reds Fatten Division Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tired of hearing about the Big Red Machine? Pete Rose isn't tired of talking about it.

"We've got the name," says the Cincinnati Reds outfielder. "We've got guys who can hit the ball out of the park. We hit and run, we steal . . . we've got pitchers who can pitch and we've got a bullpen."

The Reds also have the lead in the National League West, and fattened it to six games Wednesday after whipping Chicago Cubs 6-1.

Despite all the recent success, though, Cincinnati isn't a relics of the well-known "Machine" that won the league pennant in 1970. That version relied on pure power while this year's model is built for speed. Catquick Joe Morgan is the prime mover in the attack, sort of the Little Red Menace.

PETE ROSE

"I really didn't know how good Morgan was until we got him," said Rose. "You just can't appreciate him until you see him play every day."

Morgan, acquired in a big mid-winter trade, has scored 77 runs, collected 70 walks and stolen 34 bases.

In the other National League games, Pittsburgh Pirates trounced Atlanta Braves 8-3, St. Louis Cardinals stopped Houston Astros 6-0, Montreal Expos trimmed San Francisco Giants 3-2, Philadelphia Phillies took a 3-2 decision from San Diego Padres in 11 innings and Los Angeles Dodgers defeated New York Mets 5-0.

Bobby Tolan, one of the heroes in Cincinnati's pennant-winning season two years ago, delivered a tie-breaking single with two out in the sixth to help Wednesday's triumph. Tony Perez, also a member of the 1970 blasters, drove in two runs with a single and double.

Ken Singleton cracked a tie-breaking home run in the top of the ninth to power Montreal over San Francisco. Singleton's blast over the left field fence at Candlestick Park made a loser of reliever Randy Moffitt.

The East's version of the "Machine," the Pirates, meanwhile, continued to hit on all cylinders. Gene Alley, Willie Stargell and Richie Hebner each drove in two runs to lead their triumph over Atlanta and boost their East lead to six games.

Somewhat overshadowed in the show of brute power was Hank Aaron's accomplishment. The 8-time 40-plus homer slugger smashed his 629th career home run to tie Babe Ruth's record of most homers with one organization.

Rick Wise fired an eight-hitter and batterymate Ted Simmons unloaded a three-run homer, leading St. Louis past Houston.

Philadelphia came up with a run in the 11th on Bill Robinson's double to defeat San Diego. Robinson, a seventh inning replacement, drove home Denny Doyle from first base. Doyle was on with a single.

Claude Osteen outpitched Tom Seaver in Los Angeles' victory over New York. Osteen collected his third shutout of the year with a six-hitter as the Dodgers defeated the Mets for only the fourth time in 17 career decisions.

Weaver Picks Pitchers

BOSTON (AP) — Earl Weaver picked Detroit's Mickey Lolich and three members of his Baltimore Orioles pitching staff Wednesday to lead the American League's nine-man mound corps for the July 25 All-Star game.

In addition to Lolich, the major league's winningest pitcher in 1972 with a 16-6 record, Weaver selected relief headers Jim Palmer and Pat Dobson and southpaw Dave McNally from the pitching staff of his defending American League champions.

Also selected to present the American League were Cleveland's Gaylord Perry, Nolan Ryan of California and Wilbur Wood of Chicago and Ken Holtzman and Jim (Catfish) Hunter of Oakland.

Bosox' Fisk Overlooked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rookie Carlton Fisk's star is on the rise but, unfortunately, it's not an All-Star.

The Boston Red Sox catcher is tearing up American League pitching with a .307 batting average and .631 slugging average but he finished with 223,310 votes, fifth in the balloting for the All-Star Game July 25 and 541,189 votes behind Detroit's Bill Freehan, batting .253.

If Fisk hasn't completely convinced the fans he's ready for the annual classic, he's already done the job on California Angels' General Manager Harry Dalton.

"If he played all the time against us," said Dalton, "he'd be in the Hall of Fame five years before he retired."

The 24-year-old backstop blasted a three-run homer as Boston whipped California Angels 8-2 Wednesday. The circuit was his 15th of the season.

"He should be the starting catcher in the All-Star Game," said Angel Manager Del Rice, apparently another Fisk convert. "He's hit everything we've thrown—pitches inside, pitches outside, pitches low, pitches high. I size him up as one helluva hitter, and I wish we had him."

The victory was Boston's fourth straight. Tommy Harper and Doug Griffin each hit two run doubles to join Fisk in helping Lynn McGlothen, 3-2, get his complete-game triumph.

In other American League games, Cleveland Indians whipped Kansas City Royals 6-1, Chicago White Sox edged Detroit Tigers 3-2, New York Yankees thumped Minnesota Twins 12-3, Texas Rangers trimmed Baltimore Orioles 3-2 and Oakland Athletics beat Milwaukee Brewers 9-6.

Cleveland's Gaylord Perry won his 16th game to tie the Tigers' Mickey Lolich for high in the major leagues. Perry gave up seven singles. Frank Duffy drove in two Indians' runs with three hits while Perry, with two hits had two RBI.

Tiger shortstop Eddie Brinkman set a major-league mark with 57 straight errorless games. His flawless streak began May 21 and has included 261 chances.

Ali Claims Long Count Cost Him KO

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — It won't go into the record book as another famous long count like the one in the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney title fight in 1927, but the Muhammad Ali camp said today a mixup in timing saved Ali "Blue" Lewis from a fifth-round knockout.

Ali, former world heavyweight champion, stopped Lewis of Detroit in the 11th round Wednesday night for his seventh straight victory in his comeback campaign, but the fight had looked over in the fifth.

A shower right from Ali traveled no more than eight inches and laid Lewis in a twitching heap on the canvas at outdoor Croker Park. The bell sounded the end of the round when the count reached nine.

Later Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee, said that the count actually had lasted for 22 seconds according to his own timepiece.

Dundee made no formal protest, but indeed the timekeeper had found that two of his watches had stopped during the first round and he had to borrow another.

Lending further credence to Dundee's contention was that no exact time was given when referee Lew Eskin of New York stopped the fight in the 11th. It was estimated at 1:15 of the round.

And in a heavyweight preliminary in which John Corteh of England knocked out Johnny Mantz of Chicago in the second, the first round lasted an extra 42 seconds because of an apparent confusion in timing.

It was the only knockdown of the fight before an estimated crowd of 22,000 as Ali overcame the affects of a heavyhead cold that has limited him for days for his TKO triumph in Ireland's biggest boxing show in years.

"This head cold slowed me up," said a tired Ali afterwards. "I feared it hard to breathe at times."

"I think I'm fighting far too much and getting a bit stale."

"I am delighted that Lewis proved that he was good and a lot better than some people thought. He gave me a tougher fight than Jerry Quarry last month. I would rate Lewis No. 5 in the world."

Lewis looked dazed in the dressing room and didn't want to talk with newsmen, but he said "I was pleased with my performance and I would like to fight Ali again."

Ali said if he had known Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch was in the crowd "I would have finished the contest in the third round."

Ali, who weighed 217½ pounds to Lewis' 223½ for the scheduled 12-rounder, is scheduled to meet Floyd Patterson, another former world champion, in New York Sept. 20.

Ali was guaranteed $200,000

Greedy Fisherman Exiled to Bush

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Imagine it—a pool with thousands of speckled trout and you are the only fishermen around.

It happened in the Pembroke division of the ministry of natural resources earlier this year but the fishermen got greedy, took 86 trout and got caught.

When ministry officers finally got hold of the rascal, they extradited him deep into the Ontario bush where he could mind his own business.

The culprit, a plotting mink, got into a fish hatchery and stacked his bounty behind a post.

"He killed for pleasure," said Kerry Buckingham, a fisheries management officer. "He had only eaten about two of the seven inches."

"We got him in a live trap and put him back where he belonged."

The mink is only one of nature's predators which prey on the easy hatchery fish. Others are otter, kingfisher, heron and osprey.

The birds are so bad in the Pembroke area that a scow crow is placed in a canoe in the middle of a hatchery pond to ward off the winged thieves.

The mink that got more than five times his limit was one of the more successful fishermen this year.

Last week's report from the ministry shows that angling in the province has not been particularly good although some districts reported relative success.

Trudeau Says Pepin Will Resume Trade Talks

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau offered his views on bilingualism, trade, foreign ownership, electioneering and his family at a news conference Wednesday, then left by train for a western vacation.

The prime minister made only one major disclosure at the news conference, the first he has held since January.

He announced that Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin will meet Wednesday with George Shultz, who recently succeeded John Connally as U.S. treasury secretary, to review Canadian and U.S. positions on trade talks which broke down six months ago.

Mr. Trudeau said the meeting would be only a preliminary discussion. He noted that both he and President Nixon agreed in April to "send our dull teams in" if it were felt that fruitful negotiations could resume.

"We will only know this when the two ministers meet next Wednesday."

On other matters, Mr. Trudeau said:

—He has not set a date for the next election. It could come this fall or next year.

—Canadians are optimistic about their future and Liberal candidates will ride a wave of optimism when the election is called.

—His government has discharged the mandate it was given in 1968 and, when it goes to the polls again it will seek a continuation of the 1968 mandate, rather than a new one, to follow up programs and policies it has instituted.

—He does not want his wife Margaret to get mixed up in the election campaign but will not prevent her from playing a role if she wants to.

—Bilingualism is "a very emotional issue" but it is not being implemented fast enough and French-Canadians will not wait indefinitely for their goals to be realized.

—Building a stronger Canada remains the overriding goal of his government.

Mr. Trudeau also expressed regret that two major government bills—measures to control foreign ownership and to revamp family allowances—were not approved by Parliament before the summer recess.

"The opposition parties would not let them pass.

He indicated the government would continue to act on an ad hoc basis without legislation to control foreign ownership, as it did when it blocked the sale of Dennison Mines Ltd. of Toronto to U.S. interests.

Later in the afternoon, he boarded a special railway car with his wife and seven-month-old son Justin for a three-week vacation in western Canada. The Trudeaus are expected to fly back to Ottawa Aug. 9.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Friday, July 21

Aries (March 21-April 19): Wind up your work week with style. Be sure adequate information is at hand for those who need it. Guard against overconfidence.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Confusion concerning money matters is par for the course today. Calm yourself and keep you the ways to unravel puzzles.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Emotions shouldn't be allowed to affect your goals or plans. Be willing to remain a team player with partner while matters resolve themselves.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Allow for a wide factor of error. Indecision could be a safety move to get further information and a better time in which to act.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Quick money is promised from schemes. Remember that if they would really work, none of them would be open for new investors.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Dividing your time fairly between home life and career is the only way to resolve tensions today. Seek quiet solitude.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It's likely there's something you don't know about the situation —ask questions which force issues. Prepare to cope with strong answers.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Leave personal notes out of business deals—most need further negotiating. Stock up and be well supplied for a busy week-end.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Discussion ends in confusion. Keep your side of it simple. Leave nothing routine for next day. Take a stitch in time.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Recent contacts may be interesting or provocative, more for future reference than for now. Friends have their own plans.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Helpful people unwittingly create a stressful commitment automatically. What you will accept makes the difference.

Thirst Is Early Diabetic Symptom

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I hope you will not wait too long to answer this.

Both of my parents are diabetics. I intend to get a checkup when I get my vacation this summer. I think I am also diabetic.

What damage would be caused if I continue eating anything I want, because I am not sure yet if I am diabetic? Would it injure my eyes? Would it cause heart trouble?

I do drink a lot of water and my mouth is dry most of the time. Is this one of the symptoms?—D. B.

You want me to answer in a hurry—so you can keep on procrastinating! I don't think I'd lose your logic.

However, with your history and your symptoms, you ought to cut out sweets (candy, cake, all other sugary foods) at once.

You ought to...get your checkup right away, too. Why wait for your vacation? One office visit to your doctor will probably give you enough answer.

When both parents are diabetic, your chances of being diabetic are about as high as they can get. And thirst is one of the early symptoms.

Diabetes (except in childhood) is a slow but steadily damaging disease. The longer you wait before starting treatment to control it, the greater the damage will be to your system in the long run.

If you continue to hide from the truth, you won't lose your eyesight overnight. You develop heart trouble tomorrow—but you may have to pay for that delay in the long run. And other conditions occur with diabetes, too. A longer the case remains uncontrolled, the worse the damage will be. In fact, circulation is impaired generally, so damage continues silently but inexorably throughout the body.

Stop putting things off. People with diabetes can live essentially normal lives if they start controlling it as soon as they detect it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it harmful to cross your eyes? I like it just as a joke, and my mother says it's a dangerous habit and they'll "stick." that way.—A. M. R.

No harm. It means you have control of certain eye muscles. Your eyes won't stick that way.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently I went to the dentist and had ace injection of novocaine to have a tooth filled. Next day I visited the television and radio stations and also called at two shopping centres and in the evening they enjoyed an instructive tour of several historical places in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Martin and children of Fitzroy B Harbour are spending a few days on vacation at the home of Miss Rotsea Sager.

John Barry of Ottawa was a weekend guest of Mrs. Frank Barry.

Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Ramsay or Orangeville spent the weekend in Queensboro.

Mrs. Miller of Toronto is spending some time at her summer home here.

I have had many shots of novocaine over the years but never experienced this. Should I forget it and continue to use it when necessary, or is this forewarning of perhaps a more serious reaction next time?—Mrs. D. M.

Sounds as though you had finally become sensitized after having had a number of injections. That's the conclusion I would draw—unless you can think of anything else that might have caused the hives. My advice is to warn your dentist or doctor of this experience. The risk of a more severe reaction next time is not to be ignored. There are other medicinal that can be used for the same purpose.

Queensboro

QUEENSBORO — Neil Johnston returned home from the Belleville General Hospital where he has spent the last month.

Mrs. Glen Moak and Morrison Laird are both patients in the Belleville General Hospital.

Fourteen members of the Queensboro branch of the W.I. went on a motor trip to Kingston on Wednesday afternoon for their annual summer outing. While in Kingston, they visited the television and radio stations and also called at two shopping centres and in the evening they enjoyed an instructive tour of several historical places in the city.

Opening lead — jack of clubs.

Let's say you're in six notrump and win the club lead with the queen. Your sure winners are two spades, three hearts, two diamonds and three clubs — a total of 10 tricks — and you need 12.

Obviously, the best chance for two more tricks lies in diamonds, where you have a two-way finesse against the queen. If you knew where the queen was, it would be easy enough to trap the declarer by taking a finesse in the right direction, thus making the slam.

Locating the queen is a crucial challenge and deserves the highest possible attention, for a misguess of the two-way finesse is sure to cost you the contract.

It is too early at trick one to take a position on the locacation of the queen, since you know next to nothing about the adverse hands, so you start a campaign to force East-West to reveal their treasures.

In line with this you cash the ace of spades, then play a low spade. West wing with the queen and returns a club to the ace.

You cash the king of spades and discard the suit loser on to be divided 3-3, also the eight, pitching a diamond. Finally you take the A-Q of hearts and king of clubs, dumping a diamond and a heart. East a heart.

Your worries are now over because the count of the hand is complete. West started with precisely six clubs (East discarded on the third club lead), three hearts and three spades. Consequently he started with one diamond.

So you lead the jack of diamonds to the king and finesse the ten on the way back. It's like taking candy from a baby!

Tomorrow: Test your play.

Inquest Is Told Different Story

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — An entirely different version of events prior to the death of Chilcotin Indian Chief Quilt was presented to an inquest jury Wednesday.

RCMP Constable Peter Aiken told the jury that he did not see Constable's Darby Sutherland "jump up and down" on Fred Quilt as members of the Quilt family testified Monday.

He said he came upon the Quilt truck parked at the side of a road between Anahim and Stone Indian reserves at about 6:15 p.m. on Nov. 28, 1971. He said he noticed a window being rolled up and went to the driver's door.

He said when he informed the man in the truck that he was a police officer, "the window was rolled part way down."

Constable Aiken said he then reached inside to open the door.

The RCMP officer said he received no response when he asked Mr. Quilt to get out of the truck.

He said from Mr. Quilt's appearance from one foot of vomit and of vanilla extract, and from the failure to respond, he concluded Mr. Quilt had "passed out."

Mr. Quilt he reached in and grabbed Mr. Quilt by both shoulders and "used it to pull quilt to get the 200-pound man out of the truck. He said Mr. Quilt was heavy for him to handle and that Mr. Quilt slipped to the ground.

He testified that Constable Bakewell was in the police vehicle when Constable Aiken left that side of the truck, and Mr. Quilt was on the ground, and walked to the other side of the truck.

He then asked Constable Bakewell to put Mr. Quilt in the police truck. Constable Aiken said he did not see Constable Bakewell lift the heavy man or put him in the police vehicle because he was dealing with the other three Quilts. He described them as "quite drunk."

Constable Aiken said Agnes Quilt, who Wednesday morning corroborated her sister's testimony that Constable Bakewell "jumped up and down" on Fred Quilt, was "extremely intoxicated."

He said she was cursing and was belligerant. He told the court he had to hold her up by one arm "to prevent her from falling down."

It was the alleged beating of Quilt by Constable Bakewell at this time which, according to the Quilt family testimony, resulted in the death of Fred Quilt.

Constable Aiken said he and his partner drove the Indians to the Anahim reserve and let them off under a street light.

When they went back to the abandoned Quilt truck on their way back to Alexis Creek, Constable Aiken said Constable Bakewell and he tried to push it to the shoulder of the road but could move it only a few feet. The constable said he left flares then went back to Alexis Creek to get a tow rope.

He said when he returned with Constable Bakewell, the truck was over the road back, about 35 feet from where they had last seen it, and was burning.

He said that after a coroner investigation the two returned to Alexis Creek. He said that at midnight he received a call from the Roman Catholic nursing sister who lived at the reserve asking for an ambulance for a Pat Quilt, who apparently was suffering from broken ribs.

Constable Aiken said the court he did not associate Pat Quilt with Fred Quilt at the time. He said he told the police that his NCO, Corporal Hex, was going to Williams Lake the next day and would take Quilt to the hospital.

Mr. Quilt, 55, died an hour after arriving at Williams Lake hospital, of peritonitis caused by a ruptured bowel.

A coroner's jury ruled in Williams Lake in January that the death was accidental and accidental but the inquest was quashed by the British Columbia Supreme Court because of an "association" between two jury members and the RCMP.

Board Named

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial Health Minister Richard Potter Wednesday named the committee that will be responsible for advising the government on standards for licensing dental technologists.

The committee will consist of: Barry Lowes of Toronto, former chairman of the Metro Toronto school board, who will serve as chairman; Donald Hutchesson of Ottawa, an insurance broker; Dr. Wesle Dunn of London, Ont., dean of the faculty of dentistry at the University of Western Ontario; Pr. Ivan Fernandes of St. Catharines dentist; Charles Jewson, secretary-treasurer of the board of dental technicians; and Patricia Johnston, past president of the

It's Second Time Around in B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — During a year when numerous labor contracts expire, the British Columbia tag team of labor, management and government, can be relied upon to get themselves into some curious, albeit exciting, matches.

But despite an occasional new twist, there are always the standard thrusts and counter-thrusts and those apparent retruns cast some doubt on the effectiveness of both government labor legislation and labor-management bargaining machinery.

The province-wide construction strike-lockout is a case in point with the contracts coming out 18 in April following selective strikes and then, six weeks later, the government ordering an end to the tie-up with its controversial back-to-work legislation.

It was the same scenario in 1970, another turbulent year, when about 35,000 construction workers were idle. The government stepped in and ordered the men back without contracts and, like this year, the unions that had not yet reached settlements refused to do so.

In 1970, when it became apparent the unions really would not go back to work and submit to binding settlements under the Mediation Commission Act, the government agreed to suspend the compulsory legislation if the men would return to work and a third-party mediator would sit in on renewed negotiations.

The men went back to work on their old contracts while talks began, but this year members of seven construction unions out of the 18 involved—the remainder reached settlements prior to the back-to-work order —said: "No contract, no work."

Charges were laid under the act against a number of union locals, alleging violation of the back-to-work order. RCMP raided various union offices to obtain evidence but the courts have since quashed the search warrants, saying there was not sufficient grounds.

This was more than a month after the back-to-work order was issued, supposedly in the public interest, the lokdout unions were still not back on the job but were bargaining with the Construction Labor Relations Association, which represents the contractors.

To further complicate things, the three-man mediation commission brought in its binding settlement Monday for the seven unions. It will go into effect if there is no independent settlement reached soon by the unions.

Union War Chokes Britain's Food Flow

Mine Blasts Ulster Train

BELFAST (CP) — Guerrillas blasted a freight train of Northern Ireland's main rail line today as gunmen and bombers kept up their hit-and-run attacks. A Protestant news vendor was killed by raiders, and his wife shot and wounded as she knelt over his body.

The train's locomotive and 10 cars plowed off the line linking the province with Dublin in the Irish republic when it detonated a 50-pound mine near Lurgan, 20 miles southwest of Belfast.

None of the train crew was injured. Army sappers found another home-made mine on the line nearby. A railway spokesman said the line, broken by a six-foot-wide crater, would take two days to repair.

Irish Republican Army guerrillas have made several failed attempts to blow up the line. Last month two barrels of explosives were found on the track near the border.

As violence continued throughout the province through the night, two suspects in Killen, 60 miles west of Belfast, outwitted guerrilla bombers who had planted a 100-pound bomb in an auto in the village's main street.

The civilians pushed the car into an open space and ran for cover. The bomb exploded two minutes later. The only damage was a half dozen windows shattered.

Several other bombs exploded in other towns but no major damage or casualties were reported.

Troops in Belfast said they hit a gunman in one of several battles reported before dawn. Another guerrilla was reported shot in an attack on a police station at Castlereagh, south of Belfast.

The army reported gunfights between IRA guerrillas and Protestant vigilantes around the Shankhill Road sector, a fiercely Protestant stronghold.

One man was killed and another wounded. They were believed to have been hit in the shootouts between the rival organizations.

Complaint Unionist MPs Speak For Rich

BELFAST (CP) — Some Ulster Unionist MPs "are not loyalists but leaders of the wealthy class," said a widely-known Belfast personality.

"We suffer from this night and day."

The statement came not from a spokesman for the Roman Catholic minority in Ulster but from Billy Hull, outspoken chief of a Protestant organization called the Loyalist Association of Workers.

It helps to explain why no single leader has yet emerged as dominant among the Protestants of Northern Ireland.

Hull's words illustrate a fact about the majority in Ulster which is often forgotten by outsiders—that the one million Protestants here do not form a monolithic bloc of interests.

In effect the crisis so far has been a fight by one section of the Ulster working class against another, since the Catholics here are themselves largely proletarian.

To a considerable extent, wealthy Protestants—pillars of the old Stormont constitution—have been spared the kind of destruction suffered by working-class residential areas such as Shankill road, or, on the Catholic side, the Falls Road

Highway Mishap Survivors Duel

BELEM, Brazil (Reuter) — Weary and soaked to the skin, two of the survivors of a bus crash which killed 13 persons managed to reach the bank of the river into which the vehicle had plunged.

Then, as other survivors watched in horror, the two drew knives and fought to the death.

The two had rekindled an old feud, police said, and decided to settle old differences there and then.

Joe Araujo Costa was stabbed to death. The other man was arrested.

Dockers, Truckers In Container Fight

LONDON (AP) — Militant truckers held London docks in a stranglehold blockade today and warned they plan to paralyze every port in Britain in their bitter dispute with longshoremen over who should handle container cargoes.

Union leaders scheduled talks to try to break the deadlock, but officials held out little hope of a swift end to the crippling feud.

The two sides—ironically, both part of the powerful Transport and General Workers Union—dug in for a protracted internecine fight to the finish over jobs. The truckers and dockers both are claiming the same jobs in handling container cargoes.

The dispute threatened to send food prices soaring as hundreds of tons of imports piled up on quaysides.

Port employers feared the shutdown could spell bankruptcy for some dock firms within a week and result in a sudden flood of layoffs among dockers to swell Britain's growing 800,000 strong army of unemployed.

A Port Employers Association spokesman said the blockade could cost the firms £6 million ($14.4 million) to pay London's 14,000 longshoremen even though they would be doing no work.

About 1,000 dockers were sent home on full pay Thursday when the truckers sealed all the port in retaliation for dockers' picketing of container haulage depots which began seven months ago.

The longshoremen claimed containerization was forcing them out of work and demanded loading jobs on the streamlined system now held by truckers. The truckers charged the dockers' action was forcing them out of jobs.

Most of the 54 ships in London waiting for warehouse space were expected to sail for European ports by the weekend if the blockade is not lifted quickly.

Picket leader Eric Reckitte claimed Thursday night the siege was "96 per cent effective" and would bring chaos if in London, Britain's biggest port, to a standstill by next week.

But dockers' leaders warned today: "We are not giving in. We will continue to fight for the jobs that are ours."

Heath convened an emergency meeting with senior ministers Thursday to discuss the crisis, but the government is not expected to intervene unless union leaders indicate they cannot end the civil war between their men.

Truckers in other major ports, including Liverpool, Southampton and Hull, have pledged to back up the London militants. But so far they have not been called in.

Lines of trucks up to four miles long clogged roads leading to London's big three dock zones, the giant Tilbury container complex, the inland group, the biggest port facility in Europe, and the Millwall group.

A small army of truckers picketed dock gates in the drab dockland district in a round-the-clock cordon.

In Liverpool, 10,000 dock workers—the entire labor force—went on strike in a dispute not related to the London controversy. The strike made idle more than 70 ships at Liverpool's Mersey docks.

South Ontario Still Hot, While U.S. Air Grows Foul

TORONTO (CP) — Near-record hot and sticky weather continued today across southern Ontario with predicted high temperatures for most centres in the 90s.

With lows tonight near 70 and little change for Saturday, a hot and humid weekend seemed in prospect.

The weather office said dis comfort levels will be high with a humidex reading at Toronto predicted of 100 and in the 90s in other localities. The reading combines temperature and humidity.

However, a significant change is taking place in the north, with cooler, drier air moving in to keep daytime temperatures in the 70s and night figures as low as the 50s.

The area between the cold and hot areas will see showers or thunderstorms develop.

The week-long heat wave over the populous U.S. East was blamed on a Bermuda high that stretched to the Mississippi River valley and pumped humid tropical air up from the Gulf.

With the listless air, pollutants tended to collect and increased to dangerous levels in some areas.

In the Pittsburgh area, a first-stage pollution alert forced industry to cut back operations. Eye irritation and shortness of breath were common complaints, especially in the downtown section.

"Based on meteorological projections, the current episode is expected to develop into one of the more serious we've had," said a spokesman for the Allegheny County health department.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis Little relief is expected today as humidex values will again climb over 100 and temperatures into the low 90s. A significant change is taking place across Northern Ontario as cooler drier air has pushed into these areas. The separation between these air masses lies across central Ontario. In this region, a few showers or thunderstorms are likely. South of this zone however there is a low probability of thunderstorms developing today.

Minimum Wage Rises Nov. 1

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal minimum wage is to be raised by 15 cents Nov. 1, the labor department has announced.

The federal minimum wage applies to workers in companies subject to federal regulation and not to those strictly under provincial authority.

For workers more than 16 years old, the increase will bring the hourly minimum to $1.90.

For those 16 or under, the rate is to go up to $1.65 from $1.50.

SAIGON (CP) — South Vietnamese forces have launched a new offensive on the central coast, in Binh Dinh province, seeking to regain control of three district towns, 200,000 inhabitants and a rich rice harvest the Saigon command announced today.

An emergency air pollution alert was in effect for four Ohio counties in the Ohio River valley steel-making region. State attorneys filed precautionary injunctions to bar industries from violating the order.

Hay Bay Cordon Remains

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Police maintained a cordon around the Hay Bay area near here for a third straight day in the continuing search for the remaining four of 11 long-term prisoners who broke from the Millhaven maximum security penitentiary July 10.

On Wednesday truckers found signs of the presence of seven one-packed-down grass and bushes stripped of berries, suggesting a person was sleeping out and living off the land. However, the manhunters sighted no one.

Still being hunted are Sreto Dramhaar, 25, and Gerald Laroque, 22, both of Toronto, and Charles Boomer, 36, and Thomas McCauley, both of Edmonton.

Canadian Army Wins Top Bisley Prize

BISLEY, England (CP) — For the first time in Bisley history, the Canadian Army won the top military shooting prize, outfiring the RAF today for the United Services Challenge Cup.

The eight-man Canadian team scored a total of 7,328 points out of a possible 1,400 in the combination shoot while the RAF's runner-up team had 1,318 points. The British Army and the Royal Navy came third and fourth.

As the Canadians planned a big celebration, team adjutant Lieut. R. M. Burrowes of Thunder Bay, Ont., said: "Our feelings border on elation."

The military marksmen had been disappointed with their early performances at the last year's Bisley competition but their eyes sparkled as they got the big one.

In addition to the cup, which went into competition in 1880, each team member gets a silver medal.

Couldn't Wait for Licence!

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — James Douglas Davis, 22, and Joan Kierszenowski, 21, were on the way to Utica's City Hall Wednesday morning to apply for a marriage licence.

However, Thursday morning they were scheduled to be on their separate ways to Utica city court.

It seems they had an argument a block and a half from City Hall. Miss Kierszenowski alleged that her fiance struck her on the head with a cane.

Arraignment on the charge of third-degree assault was postponed until Monday, however, when a court clerk reported that Davis had been admitted to hospital for treatment of an undisclosed ailment.

Miss Kierszenowski was treated at a local hospital for her injuries and released.

As for the marriage "It's all over," she said.

Post Office Project Costs Cut

By KENNETH SMITH
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton's municipal office-parking garage project got the official go-ahead last night from council after architects and engineers had shaved about $60,000 off the cost.

New price tag for the project is $718,934, of which $32,000 will come from the 1972 current budget and $356,447 will be debentured. Miron-Wiggers Construction of Trenton, low tenderer for the job, was awarded the contract last night.

The Trenton firm had submitted a bid of $435,000 for the original project designed by Lassing Associates, also of Trenton.

This higher - than - expected cost prompted council to cut out frills to bring the price into reasonable bounds.

It cut back the price. One area of the new municipal offices has been pared from 11,500 to 7,200 sq. ft. Howerman-Lassing spokesman said today the additional 4,000 sq. ft. could be added at a later date to the third-floor offices.

Also, elevation was made to replace the wall-to-wall carpeting by vinyl tiling, delete floodlighting of the structure, cheapen the wiring system and the types of hardware used in the building.

The result has been that the expense for the town office section falls well within the $351,000 figure that Trenton ratepayers had agreed to pay for new offices in a referendum in 1970. This referendum had been for a participation in a now-defunct condominium project also on the site of the former post office on Dundas West.

Taxpayers will pay about $242,000 of the total cost while the parking authority will contribute $183,000 from the two-storey parking garage between the office floors.

An intercom system for the building has been scrapped.

The Lassing firm explains, yes, the old limestone clock tower will be retained as part of the new structure and it will be used to house the elevator shaft. However, the door will not be through the Dundas tower entrance. Those entering the building will enter the elevator at the side of the tower.

Councillor Ted Parker is the man who is the most vocal "at no time did council plan to spend more than $251,000 . . . when the tenders came through at a higher figure, we knew it was wrong to go ahead at such a price so we sat back." He says he does not feel the cuts will make a great deal of difference as the town's operations but feels the new building will.

It is not known if the Ontario Municipal Board will give ready approval to the project or whether it will call a hearing prompted by letters of complaint pared automatically.

Parker says the letters received to this point have been based on pre-price cut costs not the actual revised cost acceptable to council. The believe Trentonians, ready to accept $251,000 two years ago, will accept the new price of the building now that the expensive part of the project is automatically.

A Lassing spokesman said this morning if the OMB approves the project this summer and Miron-Wiggers can get a September construction start, the new municipal office and garage may open by Christmas.

More Exceptions Made To Parking Regulations

TRENTON (Staff) — Council Thursday altered parking requirements of the new official plan before forwarding the document to the minister of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs for approval.

By its decision, council overruled the action taken by planning board Tuesday of shifting the parking requirement for the Elizmere highrise from 1¼ to 1½ parking spaces per apartment unit.

The formula for parking in the new official plan is one 1½ spaces per apartment unit. On advice from clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry, planning board did away with the Elizmere exception because the clerk had advised doing so may speed up approval of the plan.

Last night councillors discounted this advice, upheld the exception (which will be included in the official plan). Planning board had, however, allowed that senior citizens housing should require less space because as the mayor said "they don't have as many cars."

As an after-thought, council added a third exception to the official plan besides senior citizens housing and the Elizmencik tower to be built on the old Fraser estate.

Deputy clerk Arden Royce asked council what they planned to do about parking requirements for geared - to - income housing. He said council had told Ontario Housing Corp. it would require only 1¼ spaces per unit.

Rather than forcing OHC to conform to the 1¼ spaces rule, council wrote in geared-to-income housing as another case where 1¼ spaces will not be required.

Clerk - comptroller Larry had advised exceptions to the rules may hold up the plan when it goes to Toronto for approval.

Youth Medals for Visitors

International Air Cadets Entertained by ANAF

To various bagpipe tunes including the ever-popular Amazing Grace, 36 air-cadets from several European countries, Israel, and the U.S., were entertained in the Duke of Edinburgh Unit, Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans' Association hall on Front Street last night.

The youth, between the ages of 18 and 21, will be touring parts of Canada as part of the International Air Cadet Exchange program initiated in 1947. With the ANAF, in cooperation with the Secretary of State's department as hosts the visiting students will tour several cities on the eastern seaboard, Ontario and Quebec.

The veterans' organization arranges a program, while the government department handles train and air passage.

ANAF president Hank Ford officially welcomed the cadets to Belleville, after which each cadet was presented with a Canadian youth medallion by dominion president Jack Lundberg.

Jack's had a busy time of it recently. He has just returned from Vancouver, where he met and welcomed 40 cadets from Japan. Two youngsters will be touring western portions of Canada.

The ANAF's dominion president explained that since 1947, when 8 cadets exchanged visits between Canada and Britain, the program has grown to include all countries of the free world.

He said this year Canada sent 64 cadets to Britain, the U.S., Norway, Sweden, Holland, West Germany, France, Belgium, Spain, Israel, Switzerland, Portugal and Austria. On Aug. 11, another 40 will leave for Japan.

Belleville's Allan Rasmussen, of 16 Oriole Park Avenue is warrant officer with 602 Squadron, Royal Canadian Air Cadets, is in Austria for a three-week visit.

Two Belleville cadets selected for the Japan tour are WO Keith Watson of 233 Bridge Street East and Corol Ann Feeney of 412 Victoria Avenue.

They can't get in books what they're going to get out of these tours," Mr. Lundberg said, following the welcoming ceremonies by ANAF officials and Alderman Ellis Corke, acting on behalf of the city.

"We have a responsibility to help the future leaders of our countries become responsible adults."

Ceremonies over, the 36 visiting cadets settled back to view films of two Chicago Black Hawk games and partook of a luncheon prepared by the ANAF women's auxiliary.

Bused back to Trenton for the night, the cadets left for other parts of Canada early this morning.

Assaulted Police Jailed and Fined

A Belleville youth who tried to choke one police officer and spat in another's face will spend 30 days in jail.

Assistant crown attorney Glen Dellandrea told Judge L. L. Clendenning Thursday in provincial court that Robert Kirkwood, 20, of 24 Dundas West had apparently been drinking when he built into the Canning Street office of the Belleville police department at about 10 p.m. on June 25.

He refused to acknowledge a request by Sgt. Keith Wright to stay in the lobby area and a scuffle between the two ensued. Const. Thomas Burkitt came to Sgt. Wright's aid and the two officers took Kirkwood to the search room.

Kirkwood was asked to remove his boots and belt but instead jumped forward, grabbed Burkitt and proceeded to pull off the officer's tie and choke him with it. Sgt. Wright intervened and the youth was removed to a cell.

There, after he had taken off his boots and belt, Kirkwood attacked Sgt. Wright. During their encounter, the officer had all the buttons ripped from his shirt, his glasses knocked off and his wristwatch broken. Sgt. Wright also charged Kirkwood spat in his face.

Kirkwood told Judge Clendenning he had gone to the station to see a friend picked up earlier that evening. Sgt.

Weekend Rest For City Clock

Belleville's "Big Ben" stops the city hall tower is going to be silent and still over the weekend.

The reason for the clock stoppage is that hydro service to city hall will be cut off to allow a change-over to three-phase power which is needed for the operation of the new air conditioning equipment now being installed.

The power at city hall will be off from 4:30 Friday afternoon until 8 Monday morning.

The reason for the weekend clock stoppage is that "Big Ben" is now operated electrically instead of by system of weights which formerly kept the old clock in motion, although often with considerable irregularity.

Since the transition to electrical power, the city hall clock has been keeping good time — barring power interruptions — although maintenance superintendent Art Trites says synchronization of all four clock faces has still to be worked out.

Quebec Cousins

Alderman Gerald Joyce points to an interest spot while welcoming six exchange students from La Belle Province to Belleville yesterday. The visitors are among 15 who arrived last week for a two-week stay. Their hosts are the families of 15 Belleville youngsters who travelled to Quebec earlier this summer. Sponsored locally by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the exchange has resulted in bilingual accord although Tom Landers, right, was on hand to translate when necessary.

Manhunting Hot Work

NAPANEE (Staff) — Residents of this area have become increasingly worried about the suspected presence of three Millhaven prison escapers, believed now to be in the Hay Bay area.

Chief Inspector John Holmer, OPP co-ordinator of the mammoth joint police, prison and armed forces personnel search, admits many calls have blamed the hunters for not rounding up the escapers still at large.

During a press conference, arranged for Belleville reporters, the Chief Inspector admitted several sightings by both citizens and searchers have been made of suspected convicts.

However, dogs were far enough away to elude pursuers. "They keep leading our dogs into the swamps every time we've had a sighting," he said, referring to the six OPP tracking dogs still being used.

The area of heavy concentration has been narrowed down to the communities of Hayburn and Sillsville.

A military spokesman says authorities believe Stretu Dzambas; 25, and Gerald Larocque, 32, both of Toronto, and Charles Boomer, 33, of Edmonton, are in the dense swamp area now being combed. The fourth man still at large, Charles McCauley, 35, of Edmonton, is believed out of the area.

Chief Inspector Hilmer agrees the escapers seem to know what they're doing, eluding searchers, but pointed out it's easier to see several men approaching and escape than it is for several men to spot one who is intent on hiding.

He rules out that Stretu Dzambas is an experienced Hungarian Freedom Fighter as several news reports indicated. "He's from Yugoslavia and I don't believe he's a freedom fighter."

The OPP senior officer was asked to comment on the stories of Napanee area resident Donald Parkinson, who claims to have been forced to drive a knife-wielding man to Montreal, and Bernard Deir, 63, a Spencerville mail truck driver who says he was ordered to drive to Dorion, Quebec, by two men in khaki slacks.

"I don't associate whatever happened to him (Parkinson) with any of the escapers. I think perhaps he was confused as to the route he took."

Mr. Parkinson told Montreal police he was told to drive north on Highway 41, east of Highway 7, through Ottawa and on to Montreal. This route would have taken him directly through a heavily roadblocked area, which Chief Inspector Hilmer says would have been highly improbable.

As to the mail truck driver's story, he told reporters the man could not identify any of the escaped prisoners' pictures with the two men.

Congratulating the press for their co-operation in publishing up-to-date accounts of the search, plus pictures, newspaper copies of which are tacked up at roadblocks and police stations in the area, the OPP chief found fault with only one report.

That dealt with the assurance by newspapers that the fingerprints of Charles McCauley were found in a car stolen from Kingston and abandoned in Ottawa. "Reporters told police of this, not the opposite way around," he said, adding "there was some confusion as a result."

He believes other criminal types took advantage of these reports, and broke into several liquor stores in the capital city. Without any firm witness, he discounts reports that link escapers with the breakins.

The 328 army, 130 OPP and prison guards involved in the giant manhunt, are getting tired. They've been tired for several days now.

It's a monotonous chore, checking thousands of cars which pass through the regularly relocating roadblocks set up in the area. However, officials have registered surprise at the co-operation and friendly reception of the public.

Motorists emerge from their cars with little hesitation to help unlock trunks for cursory inspection. Occasionally jokes and light banter are exchanged. It all helps to ease the tension and the long shifts under hot sunshine.

Not only have motorists had their share of co-operation. Residents of the area have been quick to help, not only with dozens of phone calls reporting sightings of suspicious characters . . . an average of 25-40 per hour . . . but several have been quick to bring out coffee pots, cold drinks and other refreshments for the tired searchers.

One couple who wish to remain anonymous, have refused to take any remuneration for their steady flow of hot and cold drinks, doughnuts and cakes, to patrollers.

There have been touches of humor, too. The specially trained German Shepherds attached to OPP districts throughout the province, are trained to pick up a track from a point of sighting. Unlike the bloodhound brought in for a short time by assisting American police, the OPP dogs follow scents they are led to. The bloodhound, which went home several days ago, was given articles of clothing and bedding belonging to the prisoners, to sniff.

Two of the dogs, in separate incidents, picked up tracks and went in hot pursuit. One apprehended a porcupine, the other a skunk. The latter dog was kept out of service . . . at some distance . . . for a 12-hour period.

And the roadblocks have been coming in for it as well. Chief Inspector Hilmer says an average of three impaired drivers hit roadblocks each night.

Asked in comment on projected costs of the manhunt, which now enters its 12th day, the Chief Inspector said it would be impossible. "We could give you an estimate, but it could be out thousands of dollars."

He says he is prepared to keep the manhunt going until it is called off.

Asked if personnel have been instructed to use their firearms, he said none of the sightings have been close enough for positive identification. "I'm not going to order anyone to shoot on that basis."

While prison guards and OPP officers are armed, he told reporters . . . m . . . nel are patrolling with unloaded weapons. Each man has been issued with five rounds.

Never-ending Vigil

Ottawa - based OPP Constable Murray Campbell examines newspaper pictures of four Millhaven Prison convicts still at large, plus the faces of 10 who have been recaptured. This roadblock post on Highway 401, east of Marysville, is manned by six OPP and army men, who check an average of 250 cars an hour in a never-ending stream. Motorists have proven co-operative and most are quite cheerful about the checkpoints in the area.

Brief Respite

It's boring, hot work for army and police personnel who keep constant vigils in the Napanee, Millhaven, and surrounding areas, in search for two or three Millhaven Prison escapers believed to be still in the area. Here, Corporal Alex Gil, Sergeant Roger Daigle and Corporal Dudley Saunders of the First Canadian Signal Regiment, Kingston stop for a milk shake break . . . a brief respite in the hot sun.

Welfare Costs Steady

Welfare expenditures for the county of Hastings, Belleville and Trenton held fairly steady for the first five months of the year, although Belleville was in a slightly better picture than the other two municipalities.

Initial comparison figures for the department to the end of May show that 40.5 per cent of the year's budget had been spent.

The breakdown for the individual municipalities showed that the county of Hastings had spent 45.39 per cent of its budget as of May 31, Belleville had spent 40.62 and Trenton 43.13 per cent.

Hastings has a 1972 welfare budget of $704,200, Belleville $689,310 and Trenton $231,000.

Net costs to the municipalities after grants was $79,977 for Hastings, $70,376 for Belleville and $23,342 for Trenton.

Last year the net welfare budget for Belleville was $188,534 of which $171,000 was spent

The net budget estimated for this year is $173,000 with $70,376 of this figure having been spent at the end of May.

The welfare budget comparison was before city council this week and drew the comment from Mayor J. Russell Scott that if the trend continued the city would be in good position on welfare expenditures at the year end.

$400 Fine For Assault

David Robinson, a farm worker from Madoc, saw the girls for the first time when he went to the third floor of a 280½ Front Street apartment.

Assistant crown attorney Glen Deline told the court Robinson pulled one girl down to the second floor and kicked her when she struggled. Her friend tried to help but was slapped in the face by the man.

Robinson was halted by a police officer as he drove away from the scene.

Hookups Delayed

Several owners of new rural phones will have to wait until the strike between Ontario Hydro and the Canadian Union of Public Employees, Local 1,000, is settled before electrical power can be hooked up.

Norm Manning, public relations for eastern Ontario, says management personnel, already handling power stations do not have the resources to make installations.

The problem does not exist in Belleville or Trenton where the Utilities Commissions are not on strike.

Violence in North A Side Issue

Irish Republic Is Now Member of Common Market

By JOHN HARRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

One hesitates to use the expression, "the other Ireland." But the brutal civil and guerilla war in Ulster is separating the northern counties more than ever from Eire, the independent Irish state which makes up most of the huge island called Ireland.

As head of a separate and Catholic state, Premier John Lynch has pursued an admirable path of caution — and where possible, attempted reconciliation in curing the bitter and relentless Ulster civil war.

Ireland's Roman Catholic bishops have requested moderation from Ulster Catholics and Protestants alike. And both lay and spiritual leaders in Eire, including the prime minister, have accused the Irish Republican Army of excesses in the north and dissociated themselves from its programs of terror, bombings and killings.

In other words, unlike say Lebanon in the Middle East, which openly houses the various factions of the Palestinian Liberation Front determined to destroy Israel, Eire is not an easy sanctuary for the IRA — at least not so far as government and church leaders in that country are concerned.

This doesn't mean the IRA won't originate from Eire or that many older citizens of Eire, remembering its role in Irish independence, would support any effort by Dublin to root it out.

Eire, in spite of Ulster's revolution next door, is busy looking after its own affairs, the chief being the necessity of joining the European Common Market. With a better than four to one vote, Prime Minister Lynch in May secured a resounding approval from the Irish parliament for applying to join Europe.

Eire was one of the so-called Outer Six, which included Britain as the major member before she [illegible] and [illegible] entrance into the Common Market. Others included such peripheral states as Portugal, Norway and Iceland.

During the last decade, Eire has made great strides to diversify a once moribund, rural-based economy. Mining and manufacturing concessions have brought American, West German and Japanese industries to the country.

Tourism, pushed by an aggressive Irish Tourist Board and the jet-equipped state-owned Aer Lingus airline, has increased tremendously since 1950. And the ever-widening influence of incoming technology and management methods on Irish ways of doing things, have done much to modernize an economy and a country on the outward fringe of Western Europe, which was once going nowhere.

As in Britain, not everyone is happy about Mr. Lynch's successful move to enter Europe. But it is the new industries which have shown their influence.

Many of the new companies came to Ireland as a jumping-off point for big European markets in the near future.

African Unrest

The plight of the people of Burundi and particularly the Hutu tribe who are being kept in subjection by the ruling Tutsis has been described by Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lohnes, Methodist missionaries who are back home in Belleville.

It is perhaps understandable that the Hutus might revolt against the Tutsis — especially since the latter comprise only 15 per cent of the population, but when we learn that the rising that did take place may have been backed with arms furnished by the Chinese in neighboring Tanzania it takes on a more sinister connotation.

The Chinese are in Tanzania ostensibly to help build a railway but if, as suspected, they are also engaged in training and arming dissidents to operate in neighboring countries then the pattern of Communist subversion in Africa becomes all the more apparent. Mr. Lohne said in an interview here recently that one of the few American newsmen on the scene in Burundi named Tanzania as the source of arms and training for a 2000-man Hutu force rebel force.

Alarming as a Communist-backed revolt may be however, the brutality that has followed in the course of retaliatory measures by the ruling Tutsis must be of great concern to the outside world. Mr. Lohnes estimates some 50,000 people have died while perhaps half-a-million have fled the country.

The Chinese may be expected to exploit the situation further, for it is quite certain they wish to extend their influence on the African continent, under the guise of economic aid. They are busy trying to gain a foothold in other countries also, particularly those with left-wing sympathies. Ceylon, or Sri Lanka as it is now called, is one. Its Prime Minister, Mrs. Bandaranaike, has been visiting Peking where she had an audience with none other than Mao Tse-tung who was thought to have been seriously ill. The Russians are also interested in Ceylon and recently they made a "gift" to the country of a naval destroyer.

Countries such as these need aid, but when they get to become cauldrons of international power politics we can expect trouble. Burundi admittedly is run by a repressive regime but if the Chinese should ever gain control there, the people of Burundi may find they have jumped from the frying pan into the fire.

Youthful Initiative

Acquisition by City Council of the wooded hillside rising behind Station Street, which is off Dundas Street, and its proposed maintenance as a wilderness area after being cleaned up by Army cadets under a federal summer work grant, adds a further dimension to the city's beautification program. And all thanks to the students of Queen Victoria who in turn had been challenged to get some action on such a project by their teacher, Mrs. Helen Jones.

Years ago we visited friends who lived on the fringe of this little escarpment, atop the hill, but they have long since moved away — to Ottawa — and, like most Belleville citizens, have not paid all that much attention to it since. Every so often though, while driving along Great St. James Street we make a mental note to take a walk up that way to the Church Street end, but thus far have not done so.

We had also noted the litter which increasingly was spoiling this wooded area, all the way along from the intersection with Church — around the corner of which, incidentally, is that pleasant little area of well-groomed shrubbery on the slope below Tabernacle United Church.

Talks Resume

Remember the furore over the 18 mining of Haiphong harbor by the Americans the dire warnings by those who try to make out that only the United States is waging war in Vietnam. Well, like so many issues that are blown out of proportion Haiphong has now faded somewhat from public view. Instead we have the two sides back at the conference table in Paris, although with what results no one would care to predict. The fact that the North Vietnamese and the U.S. have resumed talks though is due in large pa-t to such strategic moves as have been taken by jhe U.S. and the South Vietnamese to blunt the Communist offensive, including the mining of Halphong.

Brockville OTC Sp arks Many Memories

Brockville Recorder and Times

A young man with whom we have a nodding acquaintance came up with a most worthy suggestion the other day. It has to do with an interesting part of Brockville's past, the Officers' Training Centre of World War II.

At one time young men from across Canada were pouring in and out of the local army base by thousands of them, training to be junior officers in the Canadian and British armies. In addition to the junior officers receiving training, there was also a permanent staff of hundreds of people from all over Canada. The OTC, as it was known, was a town within a town but nearly every man who passed through its portals came to know Brockville and some of its people. Indeed many local girls lost their hearts to young men here for military training.

One can scarcely travel in Canada without bumping into someone who was at OTC Brockville during the war. They start recalling the old camp and many of its landmarks when they meet you and they wonder what it's like now. Many more will tell you they've been to Brockville and there's been such a change they've had a hard time finding traces of the old "camp".

It was a famous training centre and some of the finest soldiers in the world visited it, trained there or acted as instructors. Field Marshals and Generals were regular visitors. But it was the young cadets, now middle aged men, who left their imprint on Brockville and who now recall their days at OTC.

There are few photographs of the OTC of an official nature by the many who may stay with us taken by families and friends. Several volumes of the RMA Bible (for Brockville Military Academy), the monthly magazine produced by the staff, are available as reminders that such stalwarts as the present chief of the general staff, General J. A. Dextrase was a cadet in the "Blue Army" here. Then was the designation of the French Canadian wing of the OTC. There was a "Purple Army", composed of padres taking military training. There was even one for the medics. Hon. Syl Apps, now Ontario minister of Reform Institutions, and outstanding Toronto Maple Leaf of his day, was a cadet here as was the well-known Canadian author, journalist and TV personality, Pierre Berton. Hon. James Auld, minister of the environment, was an OTC graduate who settled here after the war as did another graduate, Dean Seaton, head of Owen R. Davis Real Estate. There were many, many others.

To get back to our young friend and his suggestion: We were recounting some of the past glory of Brockville and the OTC as we drove around the area which was once the military camp grounds. It is now Churchill Park subdivision. There are only four buildings left: the chapel, now Moose Hall the transportation building, now the city garage, the fire hall, once EMO headquarters but now abandoned, and a "hut" at the corner of Ormond street and Central avenue. This young fellow wondered why someone hadn't erected a plaque to commemorate and mark the location of OTC. He suggested the corner of Ormond and Central avenue as a likely spot for such a plaque. We wondered too and agreed it should be done. There used to be an OTC Association. What ever happened to it ? Perhaps it could come to the rescue if the city fathers don't or some other organization.

'Conflict' Law Under Review

By DON O'HEARN
of The Intelligencer
Queen's Park Bureau

The government has taken a tentative step towards solving that old and very vexatious problem of conflict of interest on local councils and boards.

Over the years, there have been at least one or two instances of possible conflict in most municipalities of any size.

The fact is that conflict law until now has been so broad it has been practically unworkable. Under a strict interpretation, heads of people who had dealings with municipalities, local merchants for example, would be barred from sitting on council and boards.

Just before the end of the session, the government introduced new legislation, the Municipal Conflict Act, which aims at clearing up this situation.

The bill was not debated but stays on the order paper for consideration at the fall sitting. The debate on it may bring out weaknesses, but at first glance it appears that it should result in considerable improvement. For the first time it defines just who can be in conflict.

In the past, for example, it has been made impossible whether a substantial shareholder in a public company would be in conflict even though not an officer.

This now has been defined. Under the new legislation, he would only be in conflict if he was a senior officer or a controlling shareholder.

Further definitions straighten out the situation regarding private companies and employees of companies dealing with the municipality or board.

Broadly speaking, any of these people who were on council, or any others who had a pecuniary interest, direct or indirect, in a contract, would have to declare that interest and abstain from discussing or voting on the contract.

If he didn't, any taxpayer could take an action in the courts and he could lose his seat and be disqualified from holding any local office for up to seven years.

Over-all, the legislation could eventually mean some better men and women in the municipal field, for there is little question the uncertainty there has been about conflict has kept some worthwhile people who feared controversy from running for office.

Contrasts In Movies Analysed

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

In your editorial of July 11 there was a small item entitled "Human Values In Film" in which you pointed out that an x-rated film drew a full house while a Disney picture played to a smaller house next door. You also pointed out that the X film had no "offensive" warning while the other picture was called "absolute movie magic".

The movies in question are "Bedknobs and Broomsticks" and "A Clockwork Orange".

The first is a typical Disney cartoon — live action insert fantasy, made for an eight year lad or someone with an IQ of eight. Doubtless it will make money since some people prefer to dwell in a fantasy land. Now some Disneyite still doubtless save their flag and scream that the other movie is science fiction and thus fantasy also. May I point out that science fiction writers in the 30's were predicting the problems we would have to face today. Now we have such a problem we will have in 10 to 20 years. The Disney movie is not predicting anything.

You hinted that A Clockwork Orange's main content was violence came from obscene parts. Perhaps. But remember that society decides what is obscene and what is not. In the end it is the loss of open-mindedness and innocence that is obscene. Besides, I have noticed that judging from the reactions in an "obscene" cover on a copy of Analog science fiction magazine I can only conclude that science fiction fans are more open minded and mature.

Stanley Kubrick — the director — is asking a lot from the audience to understand his individual or a controlled human mind. Does this film is worth it?" for the editor. Does he consider 2001: A Space Odyssey, another Kubrick film, worth? The general public found it too intellectual. Perhaps it is. But so with A Clockwork Orange. The public has been fed so many Disney cartoons that most of their brains have gone soft. They are incapable of watching an intellectual film. Therefore the crowds at this film cheer me. They say it is obscene because it is not well come away thinking. Which, mister editor, is more than I can say for your fantasy world a la Disney.

GREG RAYFUSE,
Trenton.

Editor's note: A little fantasy is an essential element in human nature, perhaps even necessary to a reasonable level of IQ. It is just possible we need it also to remain normal in a world which sometimes seems close to the philosophy of George Orwell's 1984 and Big Brother than ever.

Sandbanks Report

Kingston Whig-Standard

On the whole, the recommendations of the report on the Sandbanks seem reasonable. Objections have been expressed by James Taylor, MLA for Prince Edward-Lennox, some of them relating to "job security" for the 200 workers employed by the company. Mr. Taylor thinks that the Government should be more concerned with finding another site for the company. There will no doubt be other objections as time passes but, if the government continues to approve the Tovell report in principle, it can be assumed that the basic problems have been reasonably well dealt with.

Hull Veto Egotistic Stubbornness

Ottawa Le Droit: The pettiness of the delegates of professional hockey is so flagrant it is revolting.

To refuse to allow Bobby Hull to play in the long-awaited match between the Canadiens and Russian hockey players . . . is proof of a discriminatory and irresponsible monopoly from any point of view.

By preventing Hull from playing against the Russians, the team owners appropriated to themselves powers which no one ever gave them. The government and even the countries calls only for the best hockey players in Canada and Russia to participate in an eight-game series and makes no mention of the allegiance of the Canadian players. It does not impose the one qua non condition that they be recruited from the NHL . . .

We remember clearly that the head coach, Harry Sinden, on the day he was appointed, counted on Hull's presence on the national team, wherever the former Chicago player made his career next season.

Now, the fact that Hull, or any other Canadian player, has decided to improve his position by joining a new league, should in no way hinder his participation on the Canadian team . . .

The egotistic stubbornness of the NHL directors, led by President Clarence Campbell, has thwarted the desire of those interested in regilding Canada's reputation on ice, what tarnished during the last decade in international hockey.

If the NHL remains obstinate and refuses to change its position, it will have been guilty of inconceivable pettiness . . .

And all Canadians, whether they are hockey fans or not, will demand that the league account for these acts.

Booklet Explains Plan, Questionnaire Included

People of the Lake Ontario region are being asked by the provincial government to express their views on the issues and conflicts of future development.

The ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs is now distributing a booklet, Prospects for the Lake Ontario Region, outlining several possible development plans. A questionnaire inserted in the booklet invites readers to answer a series of multiple choice questions on their preferences.

The Lake Ontario Region is made up of the counties of Durham, Haliburton, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland, Peterborough, Prince Edward and Victoria.

As well as polling public opinion through the questionnaire, the ministry is holding a series of public meetings throughout the district. One has already been held in Picton and Belleville's turn will come July 25 at 7:30 p.m. in BCI auditorium.

Prospects for the Lake Ontario Region outlines three choices for development up to the year 2,000.

First is "maximum dispersion", a plan that "would make smaller centres grow but would entail large investments of capital."

Under the maximum dispersion plan, industry would be distributed widely over all municipalities in the area, large and small, entailing, says the booklet, heavy expenses for sewers, water and roads. Good recreational land could be taken up for housing.

Second plan is "maximum specialization", the opposite of maximum dispersion. Under this plan, each part of the region would concentrate its future economic growth in one specialty. For instance, the plan suggests, Belleville-Trenton might concentrate on manufacturing and Peterborough on education.

The third plan, "maximum concentration", carries the concept a step farther, and shows all growth centred in Port Hope - Cobourg and Belleville-Trenton. Each centre would have diversified economies. Agriculture would be concentrated in a few well-suited areas and the trend toward rural residences for city workers would be curtailed.

Development would be restricted everywhere except in the communities designated for expansion and towns and villages would grow only slightly. Under this plan, Prince Edward County is zoned for recreational use along its shoreline and for agriculture in its interior.

Advantages of the concentrated growth approach to development are listed in the final section of the booklet.

They are: increases in social services, jobs and income for people in the lowland areas, more efficiency because of cost - saving in bigger operations and a rise in the standards of schools, colleges, universities, hospitals, shopping and entertainment because of population concentration.

Dispersement, on the other hand, says the booklet, would lower the standards of most services and either limit their variety severely or increase their cost enormously.

Prospects for the Lake Ontario Region can be obtained at City Hall, the Chamber of Commerce office on Front St., Radio Station CJBQ and The Intelligencer both in The Intelligencer building and at the County Building on Pinnacle St.

Jim Stavely Retires To Become Re-involved

James Staveley, after working with Canada Manpower for the past 10 years, has retired leaving his manager commenting, "the way Jim took care of this county, you would think he owned it."

Pete Karn, manager of the CMC, said, "I have only been here six years but I have gotten to know Jim as a very modest, experienced man, beloved by everyone in the area.

"His big thing is his ability to get along with people and to understand their problems," said Mr. Karn.

"He always had time for everyone."

As a counsellor for CMC, Mr. Staveley met everyone between Bancroft and Picton and busied himself in every new scheme adopted by his office.

He took the leadership and the initiative in refugee programs, taking care of the Czechoslovakians and the Tibetans.

"He created such bonds with people that the Tibetans will be asking for him and his abilities for some time," said Mr. Karn.

Mr. Staveley spent many of his evenings travelling the length and breadth of the county speaking at dinner meetings and going out of his way to help someone, said Mr. Karn.

Local Initiatives projects were the gleam in Mr. Staveley's eye and took most of his time.

Not content to sit back and wait for reports to be mailed into the office, Mr. Staveley would personally visit the job sites taking time to joke with staff and make sure everyone was happy.

Because of his involvement in the LIP scheme, Mr. Staveley was recently elected to the position of president of the Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail Association.

Now, two weeks after his formal retirement, he is back to work with the trail.

"We can't sit back, we must work on trail clubs starting in the area," said Mr. Staveley.

"We have to push forward, expanding and developing," he said.

His philosophy while working as a federal civil servant was to get active in every level of government.

"Civil servants are doing a job to help all the people so they have to be active with all forms of government," he said.

As far as he is concerned, he is not really retiring, but re-involving himself.

"The word is re-involvement, not retirement," he said.

"I have lots of interests in the community. Now there will be enough time to get to these interests."

He will be spending more time on his 100-acre, Amelias-burg Township farm.

"He looks and has the vitality of a man years younger than he is," said Mr. Karn.

"He is a very valuable man."

Storm Starts Fires In Two Locations

MADOC (Special) — The severe thunder storm which hit the area last week left its mark at two places in Madoc.

The local fire brigade was called to the Duffin cottage on Moira Lake around noon, where the mattress in one of the bedrooms had caught fire when it was believed lightning had struck the wiring in the wall nearby. However, Mrs. Duffin and her daughter Shelley, who were there at the time, managed to extinguish the smoldering mattress before it gained much headway. Shortly after, a blaze broke out at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Dusen, on Highway 62 at the south edge of the village when lightning came down the TV antenna and broke out in a blaze at the south east corner of the house. Mr. and Mrs. Van Dusen were away at the time, as passing transport driver, who noticed the flames, went to a neighbor's house, who in turn summoned the Madoc Fire Department. Firemen managed to control the blaze in a little while. Although the extensive smoke and water damages were covered by insurance, it was reported that they amounted to approximately $5,000 to the house and $4,500 to the contents.

BRIGHTON — Jane Doe has an apology to make to 20 men who have offered her their companionship. Jane already has companionship.

She is a Loyalist College student who placed an ad in The Intelligencer advising that she "wanted men, wealthy and attractive."

"Woman would like to meet men," the want ad continued, "between the ages of 35 and 50. Must be interesting. Please send photo, height and particulars to Jane Doe, General Delivery, Brighton."

Jane wanted the letters but not the companionship. The 21-year-old model needed the correspondence for use (in an English course research paper.

At her Brighton home last night she discussed, in a general way, the love-lorn missives she received from the 20 respondents, not all rich, not all interesting but all Bellevillians.

The petite student, a Margaret not a Jane, reflected "my English teacher (who recently left Loyalist) had been trying to get someone with enough gumption to try this." It paid off — Margaret got 90 percent for her efforts and now, she says, a male Loyalist student is trying to get wealthy women to write him.

Marg says most of her would-be suitors were "upstanding citizens, small c conservatives . . . one wanted to meet for a drink, another wanted to come for the weekend but they were mostly honorable men."

She recalled "a few prank letters," although these were from other Loyalist students aware of the hoax in The Intelligencer.

"They all levelled with me," she said. "I was told he practiced his musical instrument every day, adding if she were musical they could be happy together.

Only one man fulfilled all the conditions. He said he was middle-aged, "handsome and in excellent health" and holding down "a very good position" in Belleville.

Marg said this gentleman was one of the few to submit a photograph — a snapshot of himself on the battlefield of some foreign theatre of war.

One man told her in the tightest of prose he was in his early 40s, curious with "appearance OK" and "lots of time for anything interesting." He told Marg he was sorry he did not have a recent photo to send along for her perusal.

Another man of substantial means told her "I enjoy having fun and good times making others happy."

Jane admitted a sound educational background and well-rounded interests, issuing the challenge "Wouldn't you like to meet and tell me something about yourself?"

"I wish I could meet you and discuss things," Marg said.

Several openly admitted they did not meet the standards arbitrarily set by Marg. There were open admission like I am not a very wealthy man but I have enough money to last for a good while," or "I am quiet and lonely and read a lot."

Marg has several observations about the men whose identities she has not and will not disclose.

She says they are on the sidelines of the sexual revolution. "These men," she contended, "for the most part, could not go to hotels to meet people like younger men do.

"It is just the way they were brought up . . . it may be another one of the generation gaps," she said.

Marg adds she has become increasingly aware that there are many fine people who want to build lasting relationships but, for various reasons, may not be succeeding.

"Some are quite shy — raised in a time when it was wrong just to go up to someone and introduce yourself," she stated, but most of them really would be interesting and well worth meeting."

Jane does Marg think of the personal column approach to romance people?

"Well," she says, "I do not have the courage to meet people . . . but if I moved to a new place and did have trouble it may be a good idea."

To the 20 men who offered her companionship, Marg sends her thanks and asks them to keep trying. "I hope they can all find some great women to make them happy" she concludes.

Tremendous Change In Status of Women

LONDON (CP) — The spring of this year may well go down in history as the time when the final barriers that have prevented women from taking a full part in the life of the British community have tumbled down.

Alita Stanley of the Federation of Soroptimist Clubs of Great Britain and Ireland, a society devoted largely to advancing the status of women, summed up the situation:

"The last two years have seen a tremendous change in traditional attitudes to women, working outside the home, and a big advance in the acceptance of joint responsibility between husband and wife for home and family—with consequently greater importance being given to the advancement of the wife's career."

The 1970s seem:ed to be proving the decade of the breakthrough but developments came thick and fast this spring.

In May, for instance, came the announcement that women are to be admitted to the London Stock Exchange.

When earlier this year amalgamation of British and Irish Exchanges into one organization was agreed upon, it meant that all their members including the three men and women members of provincial exchanges would automatically become members of the merged organization. The London Exchange's council decided that this was in effect a vote in favor of admitting women, and so it will consider applications from women from March, 1973.

Another significant hurdle has been cleared with the first flat race for women jockeys under Jockey Club rules—held in May at Newmarket Park.

Eight men's colleges at Oxford, Britain's oldest university, are to admit women undergraduates: Balliol, Brasenose, Corpus Christi, Hertford, Jesus, New College, St. Catherine's and Wadham. The change aims at increasing the number of women students at Oxford—there are at present 1,568.

About one-third of the magistrates in Britain now are women, compared with fewer than one-quarter in 1968.

Last year, the Methodist Conference, governing body of the Methodist Church in Britain, voted that it was "practicable, desirable and timely to admit women to the ministry." This decision to ordain them means that by 1979 women may be in full charge of some Methodist churches.

Last year it was announced that one of the country's top scientific jobs, the directorship of the Royal Observatory, was to go to a woman—British-born Prof. Margaret Burbidge, who has done important work on quasi-stellar objects. She takes up her appointment this summer.

Meanwhile, new legislation has been encouraging women in Britain to follow careers. There is legislation to ensure that equal pay is introduced by December, 1975, by which time men and women must have the same terms and conditions of employment for similar work.

Last year, the government introduced legislation under which it is possible for married couples, starting in the 1972-73 taxation year, to have the wife's earnings assessed separately from her husband's for income-tax purposes. The basic effect of this is a considerable saving in tax for highly qualified professional working women, and will benefit couples whose joint income comes to more than £5,000 a year. This, as the chancellor of the exchequer said, is "something which working women have been asking for for a long time."

The Mount Pleasant 4H Girls Club displayed the articles which they had made in their recreation project, "Know Your Knits". Mrs. George Grills introduced the leaders: Mrs. Robert Hoard and Miss Brenda Williams.

Five club girls, Margaret Hoard, Linda Hoard, Marlene Foshay, Joanne Hearns and Cathy Grills gave a commentary of their cushions, lamp shades and fashioned their wearing - apparel which they had made. Margaret Hoard presided for the messenger program and she also rendered a piano selection.

Garry Couch and Dale Harry assisted with the worship service and readings were given by Llyn Joslin, Kim Barrett, Heather Hoard, Gail Merrick and Kenneth Hoard.

A piano selection was played by Jo-anne Campbell. Garry Couch contributed accordion music and Linda Hoard gave a trumpet solo. Vocal selections were given by Jackie Barrett and Isobel Ir.

Mrs. Stanley Williams voiced thanks to all who had contributed to the successful evening and the leaders then conducted a fish pond which the children enjoyed.

For the social hour, the UCW provided cookies, ice cream and a cold drink. There will be no UCW meeting in August.

Can Unmarried Counsellor Really Help?

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I understand you yourself have never been married. I don't mean to be rude, Doris, but what makes you think you are in a position to advise married couples about making marriage work when to the point of discussing intimate relationships? This Is A Challenge.

Dear Challenge: All right, how about the doctor who delivers a thousand babies and has never had one of his own? Wouldn't you say he knows more about it than any one mother?

This is beside the fact that the counselling I have done in a rather long career has been the practice of a profession which took me seven years at university to learn. I did a lot of studying about what makes people tick and why we live together in families; why in-laws are sometimes at daggers-drawn, children are frustrated and old people ingated.

After you've had experience and know in detail what has happened in hundreds of cases you get so you have a feel for the thing. Then again, a trained social worker can take an objective look at what is emotionally blinding to someone with a problem.

My advice works, as witness hundreds of reports, when given a chance. And that reminds me — what's eating you?

Dear Doris: For years I have wished I was in a position to read to blind students. (I am considered a very good reader.) However, living in the country, with no means of transportation, this has been quite impossible.

Since reading your column regarding The John Milton Society, I'm writing to see if there might be some avenue I could help, on a voluntary basis, through correspondence or whatever. — Country Reader.

Dear Reader: Perhaps you could help some blind or near blind person around where you live to get talking books for 16 and two thirds r.p.m. record players) or the publications in Braille.

Reading to blind students does present a difficulty, but if you should have blind friends in your community John Milton Society would be happy to supply you with reading materials.

The big news with the Society is that, thanks to a grant from the Women's Interchurch Council of Canada, they are launching a new Canadian Large-Type Magazine for the visually handicapped. Previously this was all done in the U.S.A. The first edition is planned as a Christmas issue.

The workers do want to reach more blind people, charge nothing for the material, and the work is mainly supported by the generosity of individual Canadians.

Dear Doris: I am 30 and married. I went to the doctor for a lump in my breast, had an X-ray report "Nothing of any significance".

The doctor explained that it was "an irregularity of muscle tissue" and to return in a month. Again the examination showed no tumor. He said it was fibrous tissue and to return in three months.

I was so upset over my condition when I left after the second examination. Could you explain fibrous tissue and tumor to me? I have heard of fibrous tumors in other parts of the body and this has all left me — Wondering.

Dear Wondering: My gynecological consultant considers your doctor quite conscientious. The checks and rechecks are reassuring; he is obviously keeping an eye on your condition. There are many types of irregularity in muscle tissue within our bodies, caused in various ways.

Give yourself peace of mind by relying on that good doctor.

From Art Gallery to Restaurant

VANCOUVER (CP) — Muck-a-Muck House started as an art gallery, but soon turned into a work of culinary art. . .

"We just wanted to get some things together for an exhibit of Indian foods," said Theresa Bjornson, one of the staff at the Arc Gallery in Vancouver who helped to turn the basement of the downtown art gallery into a unique restaurant.

Muck-a-Muck House is believed to be the only restaurant that serves the authentic foods of Indians living on the northwest coast of British Columbia.

The art gallery staff began work on the exhibit of Indian food, but soon ran into trouble from the city's licensing department when they wanted to show patrons how the food tasted, as well as looked.

From there it was a short step to turning the basement into a restaurant.

The motto of the house, "Delate klonhe muck-a-muck" means "real good eating" in Chinook Indian jargon. The restaurant is staffed by Indians and the cook, Mary Wilson, prepares dishes learned at her village in the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Muck-a-Muck House now is a smoothly-running restaurant, but staff members say it wasn't easy.

The first problem was lack of information about traditional Indian foods and cooking methods.

"Not many of the local Indian people keep up the traditional cooking," said Miss Bjornson. "We went through the whole province trying to get recipes typical of many tribes."

Traditional cooking ingredients were also in short supply.

"They don't make them any more," Miss Bjornson said. "Things like Rocky Mountain are almost extinct. We did manage to locate two women who still do them."

Another problem was the food itself.

"Dried meat and dried fish were too difficult to come by," she said. "Most of the original Indian dishes just aren't done these days. We decided to stick to seafood, cooked in simple ways."

Ann Landers

Letters Re Multiple Sclerosis

Dear ANN Landers: Five years ago we learned that my wife has multiple sclerosis. She is ranged to fly close by and yet not a handmaiden to her. I own and operate a summer camp for boys. In the winter I run a ski lodge.

It's an active, fun-loving 47. I enjoy mountain climbing, skiing, back riding, canoeing and fishing. I'm becoming frustrated because of what I feel I owe my wife. I'm very anything to put my arms around a woman and with the exception of her arms around me. I want to walk into a dining room with a woman at my side. I want to dance and swim and hike with a woman! Can you give us some realistic advice? — Signature Withheld On Request.

Dear Friend: It would be easy to be impressed with pious platitudes but your frankness and honesty deserve better.

Frequently, when I lack the knowledge or experience to help a person, I make a call on an expert. The expert I have called on today is a Chicago colleague. His answer tells you more about him than I could. Here it is:

Dear Ann Landers: Ann Landers has asked me to answer your letter. I do not have Ann's wisdom, but I do have intimate knowledge of your problem since I have lived with it for 19 years.

There is no universal solution because the needs and the temperament of individuals differ. A solution that makes sense to me may be unacceptable to you.

You say many normal activities are denied you because of your wife's affliction. I hope you have not magnified the importance of these activities merely because you feel you are being cheated. Some men have wives who can dance all night, but they have unhappy marriages.

Your wife's disability is tragic, but it would be tragic if a more tragic if you allowed it to embitter you. Try to think of her misfortune as your opportunity for personal fulfillment. How many people feel truly needed? Well, you are.

If you are frustrated and restless, I suggest you keep it to yourself. Remember, your wife is missing some things too. I also suggest that you steer clear of "companionable" relationships with other women. Such relationships are difficult to control.

The first step in your adjustment is to forget the alternative. Love your wife with you wherever you can, even in a wheelchair. Keep her hopes alive. Encourage her to exercise and do whatever she can to feel useful. I work with my wife every evening in therapy sessions. She has learned to some real lessons in courage.

We all admire maturity, self-lessness and compassion but no one is born with these qualities. Circumstances have given you a rare opportunity to acquire them. As Ann Landers says: "It's not what happens to us, but how we take it that counts."

—Anonymous, Please.

Home Recipe Plan Takes Off Ugly Fat

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds and inches of ugly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for Naran. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoonfuls twice a day as needed and follow the Naran Reducing Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way successfully used by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful youthful appearing and active.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Should kids be paid to be good?

THAT sounds ridiculous, of course. Yet parents do reward their children with love when they are good and withhold it when they are bad. If the "medium of exchange" is love and affection, payment, perhaps there might be a better relationship between parents and children. The "balance sheet" will still show variation, depending on the children's behavior; but at least love will be constant, since it won't be the bartered commodity.

Can people help being ingrates?

YES; but frequently those who repay kindness with indifference or even antagonism are unconsciously motivated. Dr. Doris Lee Dickens in "How and When Psychiatrists Can Help You" (Expositor Books) says the person who is self-conscious about accepting a favor may not only forget to say thanks but may fail to repay it because he doesn't want to be reminded of the circumstances that forced him to seek the favor in the first place.

Is marital tenderness out of date?

DON'T believe it. Attitudes may change in marriage; husbands in some cases may not be the perfect lovers they once were, but tenderness when a husband and wife are together and tender thoughts of each other when they are apart are the keys to a stable marriage work. Knowing they love each other, a husband and wife will find that it is tenderness that rubs smooth the abrasiveness that can crop up in the happiest marriage.

Labor Board Reserves Hospital Strike Decision

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Labor Relations Board reserved its decision Thursday night on an application to have a work stoppage by non-medical workers at Toronto Western Hospital declared illegal.

The Canadian Union of General Employees, representing 675 kitchen staff, nursing assistants, cleaners and male orderlies who left their jobs July 12, told the board the hospital had provoked the walkout by its actions in bargaining.

R. B. Potter, counsel for the hospital, said the board should issue a declaration that the union members are engaged in an illegal strike, contrary to the Labor Relations Act and the Ontario Hospital Labor Disputes Act, so that both the employees and the public will be aware the walkout is illegal.

The Hospital Labor Dispute Act prohibits strikes or lockouts, but permits the quitting of employment for cause as long as the quitting does not constitute a strike.

Negotiations between the two sides ended July 12.

During testimony at Thursday's hearing, union counsel George Miller asked hospital officials repeatedly whether they were prepared to adjourn the proceedings and begin negotiations immediately for a new contract. They replied the condition of a prior return to work by the union members, announced July 12, still stood.

Mr. Potter said the hospital had met every request of the union for a meeting prior to the strike and made three wage proposals.

He said there had been no response to the proposals from the union negotiating team.

Mr. Murphy stated earlier that the two sides are not far apart on monetary matters. The hospital's offer averaged about 10 per cent for each year of a two-year agreement. However, the two were in dispute at the time bargaining ended.

Mr. Miller told the board the hospital had connived at circumventing the walkout by refusing to bargain.

Back McGovern

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers International Executive board voted unanimously Thursday to recommend endorsement of Senator George McGovern by representatives of the union's 1.4 million members when they meet to determine the union's position in the presidential campaign.

Cadet Convicted

KINGSTON (CP) — A 21-year-old former cadet at Royal Military College, who refused to plead guilty to have his case taken from a military court to a civilian court, was convicted Thursday on a charge of possession of hashish.

Sentence was postponed for one week when provincial court Judge George F. Runciman said he wanted "to look into the mechanics of new legislation which would allow an order for absolute discharge."

This was the course suggested by counsel for the cadet, Martin McDonald of Calgary, and agreed to by the Crown prosecutor.

Consider Union

TORONTO (CP) — Delegates from provincial government employees' centres will meet here Sept. 17-23 to decide whether to form a union with a potential of 100,000 members, a conference chairman said Thursday.

The convention is being sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Government Employees Associations, a loose organization that represents all provincial employee organizations with the exception of those in British Columbia, Quebec and Manitoba.

Dockers Quit

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — A dispute over the unloading of cars from Japan kept more than 120 longshoremen off the job again Thursday, and a return to work before next week appears unlikely.

The association and the dock firm said the trouble began July 14 when longshoremen drove the cars directly from the dock into a fenced compound, instead of leaving them at the gate of the compound for Teamsters union drivers to complete the delivery.

Some of the longshoremen were suspended, two "mystery tickets" showed up at the terminals site, and the longshoremen walked off.

Sale Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission has approved sale of the Montreal Broadcasting outlets of Canadian Marconi Co., including CFCF radio and television, to Multiple Access Ltd. of Toronto.

Raise Minimum

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Senate Thursday night passed a bill which would raise the minimum wage to $2.20 an hour from $1.60—the biggest increase in history—after rejecting President Nixon's $2 recommendation. The vote on passage was 65 to 27.

Davidson Dunton Heads Ontario Press Council

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Press Council, formed last year by eight provincial daily newspapers, named Davidson Dunton today as chairman.

The 21-member body will consider complaints by the public against the press, plus other issues affecting the publication and coverage of news.

Mr. Dunton, 60, with a long career in information activities, said the council is ready now to receive any complaints.

The headquarters are in Ottawa. Named with Mr. Dunton as executive secretary is Fraser MacDougall, retiring Ottawa bureau chief of The Canadian Press.

The council will hold at least two meetings a year, in private. No complaint against a member newspaper will be heard unless the complainant has given the newspaper a chance to satisfy that complaint.

Further, the council can decide to refuse to hear complaints received more than six months past the event.

The founding members of the Toronto Star, Kitchener-Waterloo Record, London Free Press and five Southam group dailies—Hamilton Spectator, Ottawa Citizen, Windsor Star, Brantford Expositor and Owen Sound Sun-Times.

Avowed aims of the council are to preserve press freedom, help understanding between press and public, encourage high standards, consider complaints, review and report on restrictions on access to information of public interest and to publish periodic reports.

Study Pollution

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A study to determine the polluting effects on the Great Lakes of urban development and agricultural land use will begin within a month, the United States chairman of the International Joint Commission said Thursday.

Christian Herter, in Windsor with the Canadian chairman, Louis Robichaud and other IJC members, made the announcement at a news conference after a meeting of the commission.

Studies Ignored

TORONTO (CP) — Training courses in the city's vocational and occupational schools have an almost negligible effect on the student's eventual occupation, a recent study by the Toronto board of education shows.

A sample of 984 students showed that except in the field of sales and clerical work, a category described as "traditionally open to women," there is little "evidence of a relationship between (school) courses and jobs."

Goods Seized

MOUNT ALBERT, Ont. (CP) — Detectives Thursday seized more than $10,000 worth of cigarettes, underwear, fluorescent light tubes and other goods from a farmhouse near this community, about 25 miles northeast of Toronto. Margaret Mattie Koyan, 38, has been charged with possession of stolen property.

PM at Kenora

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and his family arrived here Thursday night and immediately went to Kalanalka Island to spend the night at the summer home of James Richardson, supply and services minister.

Probe Death

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A coroner's jury investigating a baby's death recommended Thursday that public health nurses be empowered to call directly for a doctor's examination when they find a home health problem.

Currently the public health nurses must refer the question to the family doctor, children services. Under the Child Welfare Act it is the latter authorities who must demand medical attention.

$133,000 Damages

SAULT STE. MARIE (CP) — Mr. Justice Mayer Lerner of the Ontario Supreme Court Thursday awarded general damages of $107,250 and special damages of $26,631 to a woman who suffered permanent brain damage in a car accident.

Violet Stevens, 22, of Blind River, had claimed general damages of $200,000 against Kurt P. Hoeberg of Sault Ste. Marie. Mr. Hoeberg was driver of the car in which Miss Stevens, her fiance and other relatives had been passengers when it left Highway 17 about 30 miles east of Sault Ste. Mrs Sept. 8, 1969.

Sub Tested

TOKOTO (CP) — A six-ton submersible, the first deep-diving vessel of its kind to be built in Ontario, was christened Thursday with the traditional bottle of champagne by Mrs. Darcy McKeough, wife of the provincial treasurer.

The vessel named Tudlik—Eskimo for Loon—then eased into Lake Ontario for a trial dive.

Hay Crop Short

TRURO, N.S. (CP) — Maritime farmers should harvest and save extra hay this season due to an expected shortage of hay, silage and feed grain in both Ontario and Quebec, Dr. J. S. Shinar, dean of science at the Nova Scotia agricultural college said Thursday.

Super Bowl Has Nothing on International Dart Tourneys

NEW YORK (AP) Midnight. Liz popped a pill in her mouth, took a long swig from a rum drink and poised herself in front of the dart board, arm cocked.

"The pressure—it's tremendous," she said. "You've got to have concentration. Believe me, the Super Bowl or the World Series couldn't be more nerve-racking.

Close by, a strapping New Jersey policeman with a mustache was busy flicking feathered, sharp-pointed, missiles at a big circle with numbers eight feet away.

"Three in a bed—you gotta have three in a bed," he said.

It sounded intriguing—if not downright risque—but it was really a harmless exercise. The area's dart-throwers had emerged from the smoky neighborhood bars and the hour of the owls to try out for the United States' international dart team.

The team, consisting of two men and one woman, will face a similarly constructed British threesome in a yet undesignated London watering parlor the week of Oct. 15 for the world championship.

"It will be bigger than the Davis Cup in tennis or the America's Cup in yachting," said a spokesman of the National Dart League.

A call went out over television and in the newspapers for all darters to assemble at the New Yorker Club, on the second floor of a mid-Manhattan skyscraper, to begin eliminations for the American team. They started Thursday.

The British are already busy choosing their best dartthrowers under the prodding of Pimm's Cup, a British libation which is sponsoring the international "classic" to be known as the Pimm's Cup.

The British will have a big edge in experience. They have been tossing darts since the 16th century when Ethbred the Unready, a Saxon king, christened that he was too short to handle the traditional bow and arrow, simply cut the arrow and threw it at his target. He was the first dart thrower.

It was not until centuries latter that the social doubleheader of drinking and darting was introduced to the New World.

"We have 900 tournament players in Queens alone," said Midnight Liz, whose real name is Elisabeth Marie Verro of Woodside, N.Y., a 37-year-old housewife who with her husband spends more time in the bars playing darts than in the kitchen at home.

"I got my name because I used to work from four to mid-night and I'd always reach the bar around midnight," she said. "We have a darter called Robin the beard and another Stan the Man. We like nicknames."

Midnight Liz says there are 5,000 tournament dart players in Los Angeles, new chapters in Boston and Washington, D.C., and mushrooming activity in Chicago, Cleveland, Denver and Tucson.

"The pressure and frustration are so great. I have to take pills to calm myself—like this composine," she added.

"It takes a couple of drinks to settle me down," said Jean Barnes, a buxom consultant from New York, who said most players belt about one drink a game.

"Six games and six drinks are an evening's average," she said.

The elimination tournament is held under British rules. Players use metal, instead of wooden, darts and aim at a board five feet, eight inches off the floor and from eight feet away.

Bruins Sign Bloom

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League have signed their first and second choices in the junior amateur draft last June, Mike Bloom and Wayne Elder.

The Bruins said both signed multi-year contracts and will report to training camp in September. Each is 20 years old. Bep Guidolin, coach of Boston Braves, the Bruins' farm team in the American Hockey League, has seen both play and speaks well of them.

When Guidolin was coach of London Knights the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, Elder played defence for him. At the same time Guidolin had an opportunity to watch the 6-foot-3, 2 5-pound Bloom playing against him for St. Catherines Black Hawks.

"Elder is a smooth workman on defence," Guidolin said. "He was young and inexperienced when I had him two years ago but you could see he had potential. Last year he blossomed that I thought he would."

Of Bloom, the Braves' coach said: "Bloom is a tough guy who'll knock you down and skate over you. He plays the left wing or centre and is an excellent penalty killer."

Barn-burner on Tap

REGINA (CP) — It may just be an exhibition game, but when Saskatchewan Rough Riders and Calgary Stampeders tangle in the Western Football Conference tonight there will be a little more at stake than a shaping-up exercise.

Riders have beaten Calgary in Taylor Field for the last two seasons and that alone should make for added impetus on the Riders' part.

Add to that the fact no other two clubs have met each other more often in the last six seasons than the Riders and Stampeders have and you've got a barn burner whenever they meet.

Rider head coach Dave Skrien intends to use the game starting lineup that defeated Edmonton Eskimos 16-11 Saturday with two new faces on the offensive line belonging to right tackle Hank Grimm and tight end Bill Barz.

Grimm is filling in for the injured Clyde Brock and Barz takes the place of Nolan Bailey who won't suit up.

The big news from Calgary's camp is that Jerry Keeling likely won't see action. He was discharged from hospital Wednesday after treatment for a groin injury.

Jim Lindsey probably will draw the starting assignment although Billy Van Burkeo could be called on.

2nd Team Canada Gap Created by Tremblay

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

J. C. Tremblay, always an elusive defenceman, has stickhandled his way out of the National Hockey League and created a second vacancy in the lineup that will represent Canada against the Russians in September.

The 33-year-old veteran of 12 seasons with Montreal Canadiens appeared at a news conference in Quebec City Thursday night and was unveiled as the latest recruit of the World Hockey Association. It was announced that he had signed a five-year contract with Quebec Nordiques.

Like Bobby Hull, who joined the WHA earlier as playing coach of Winnipeg Jets, Tremblay had been one of the 35 players invited to join Team Canada for the eight-game Russian series. But neither will be able to produce the signed NHL contract required to get him into the team's Toronto training camp Aug. 13.

In Moscow a few hours earlier, an agreement between Russian hockey officials and Team Canada representatives provided the Canadians with a pretty fair replacement for their missing defencemen.

The Russians, who had insisted that only 30 players could make the trip to the Soviet as he said the contract for an undisclosed sum with Quebec means "My future is assured."

President Clarence Campbell of the NHL said the defenceman has automatically disqualified himself from Team Canada.

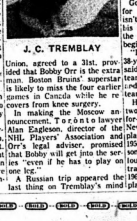
The Nordiques have yet to announce appointment of a coach and the Rocket presumably is available. Vadnais, a former defence mate of Tremblay with the Canadiens, was roasted by the Boston fans last spring when he joined the Bruins from California Golden Seals.

Did Sinden Commit Colossal Goof?

WINNIPEG (CP) — Chris Lang, secretary-treasurer of Hockey Canada, said Thursday there is no written agreement between Hockey Canada and the National Hockey League stipulating that Team Canada must be stocked with players who have signed NHL contracts.

He said most Canadians believe there is a written agreement between the two groups but said this could have resulted from invitations sent out to team members by coach Tarry Sinden.

When Sinden invited 35 players to attend training camp Bobby Hull was on his list. However, the letter sent out stipulated that to participate in the camp all players must have signed their 1972-73 NHL contracts, making Hull ineligible.

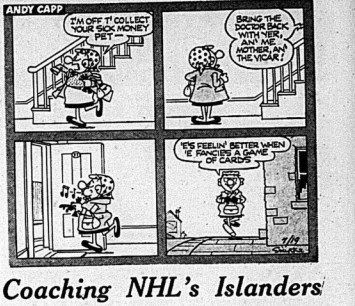


J. C. TREMBLAY

Union, agreed to a 31st, provided that Bobby Orr is the captain. Boston Bruins' superstar is likely to miss the four earliest games in Canada while he recovers from knee surgery.

In making the Moscow announcement, Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson, director of the NHL Players' Association and Orr's legal adviser, promised that Bobby will get into the series "even if he has to play on one leg."

A Russian trip appeared the last thing on Tremblay's mind



Goyette Coaching NHL's Islanders

NEW YORK (AP) — Islanders, New York's new National Hockey League team, reported to have been turned down by a number of other candidates, turned to Phil Goyette Thursday and signed him to a multi-year coaching contract.

Goyette, a big-league centre for 10 years, emphasized he isn't going to pass the buck in his new role as boss of the expansion team that will begin play in October.

"It's quite a challenge," the 38-year-old French Canadian said. "I was with expansion teams in Buffalo and St. Louis and know what it's like for a team to have problems."

He had few problems with the two other NHL clubs he played for—Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers. While he played for Montreal in the late 1950s, the club won the post-season Stanley Cup championship four straight years. After being traded to New York Rangers in 1963, he helped them move into playoff contention.

Bill Torrey, the Islanders' general manager, made the announcement of Goyette's appointment. The job was reported to have been rejected by several other persons, including Earl Ingarfield, currently an Islanders scout.

The terms of Goyette's pact were not announced, but he is believed to have signed for three years.

Cerrudo's Comeback Convincing

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Ron Cerrudo, knocked out of action for eight months because of a back operation in 1970, was one stroke off the course record Thursday on the vast stretches of the demanding Firestone Country Club course as he took the first-round lead in the $150,000 American Golf Classic.

His five-under-par 65, including a bogey on his last hole, on the 7,188-yard par-70 layout gave him a one-stroke margin over veterans Kermit Zarley and former PGA champion Ray Floyd in the wilting, muggy heat that featured temperatures in the mid-90s.

Next at 68 was a quartet headed by threatening Arnold Palmer. Also at that figure were Mike Reasor, who caddied for Palmer in the 1966 U.S. Open, veteran R. H. Sikes and tour rookie Martin Bohen, a one time Las Vegas croupier.

George Knudson of Toronto came home in 72. Wilf Homenchuk of Winnipeg was in a large group at 73 and Gaby Bowerman of Toronto struggled through over the bottom of the field with 81.

Bolger Ignores Judo for Wrestling

TORONTO (CP) — Pat Bolger of Dutton, Ont., said Thursday he must pass up his berth on the Canadian Olympic judo team and compete as a wrestler instead.

Originally passed over in the judo selections by the Canadian Kodokan Black Belt Association, Bolger protested to the Canadian Olympic Association which ordered the CKBBA to reconsider its decision. He was then granted a place on the judo team provided he did not compete as a wrestler.

Bolger is Canadian featherweight champion in both sports. "I may quit judo because of this mess," Bolger said. "No athlete should have to put up with this nonsense. I wanted to compete in both wrestling and judo. I was given a choice and have made my decision. I'm going as a wrestler."

Meanwhile the COA also ordered the CKBBA to reconsider its choice of Rainer Fisher of Kitchener over Philip Illingsworth of Lethbridge, Alta., who defeated Fisher to win the middleweight title at the Canadian championships in Halifax. The COA asked for a decision by July 25.

Magic Defending Feature Crown

You won't have to stay as long at the Quinte Exhibition and Raceway harness fixture this Saturday but you'll still get your money's worth when a total of 61 horses take to the track.

The betting should be heaviest in the fifth race of the shortened nine - race card, when three regulars go after the $500 purse. Ed Bastello, April M. Magic and Canal View Way will be the ones to watch as all have been near the top of the past feature races with Magic the defending winner from last week. Dominion Lad and Shelley Dean round out the field for the fifth and promise to be in at the wire.

Hunter's Hopes Given Jolt

FORT WORTH, Tex. (CP) — Convict Bobby Lee Hunter's hopes of a place on the United States boxing team were jolted Thursday night when he lost his semi-final bout in the flyweight division of the Olympic trials.

The 22-year-old Hunter, serving the sixth year of a 20-year manslaughter term, won temporary freedom last summer to travel to the Pan-American Games at Cali, Colombia, where he earned a bronze medal.

But he lost a three-round decision Thursday to 17-year-old Tim Dement and has only one faint chance of still making it to Munich.

After the trials, each division winner must face a challenger selected by the U.S. Olympic Boxing committee in a box-off with the winner of that bout bring named to the team.

Pullen Heads Archery Field

CALGARY (CP) — Wayne Pullen of Dorchester, Ont., scored 276 points Thursday to maintain his lead in the free-style competition of the Canadian archery championships.

Archie Lovelace of Regina was second with 532 and Stewart Bowman of Galt, third with 531.

The championships conclude today.

Cats Cut Nine

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats cut nine players from their Eastern Football Conference roster Thursday—six imports and three non-imports. Released were running backs Ollis Carson and Gene Moore defensive end Paul Schmidlin; wide receiver Ron Drake; and tackles Gene Chuy and Terry Bramstedder, all imports; Canadian defensive backs Mark Baldasaro and Walt Sehr and punt-return specialist John Couture.

Tiger Pitcher Home on Range By Taming Texan Batters

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Slayback felt right at home on the range . . . while making Texas Rangers feel downright uncomfortable at home.

"He pitched another great game, didn't he?" exclaimed Detroit Tiger manager Billy Martin after the 24-year-old rookie mastered the Rangers 5-1 with a five-hitter Thursday night.

Slayback, who only a couple of weeks ago was in the minor leagues, struck out 13 Rangers with an assortment of sliders and fastballs.

"Why did I strike out so many?" Slayback said. "It was just a matter of throwing a lot of good, two-strike pitches. I mixed my pitches pretty well tonight."

Included in his performance were four strikeouts of Texas slugger Frank Howard, a giant who inspires awe in most veteran pitchers, no less rookies.

"I got him on breaking pitches," said the Tiger rookie. "All four teams on breaking pitches. That's the first time I've ever faced him. He's so big, he scares you even when he's standing still."

In Thursday's other American League games, Boston Red Sox took a doubleheader from Oakland Athletics 2-1 and 4-3 in 11 innings; Milwaukee Brewers edged Minnesota Twins 2-1 and Baltimore Orioles downed Kansas City Royals 8-5 in 10 innings. Rain washed out California at New York.

In the National League, Atlanta Braves defeated St. Louis Cardinals 6-3 and New York Mets turned back Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1.

Slayback, who won his fourth game in seven decisions and lowered his earned-run average to 1.70, struck out the side in the first and the fifth innings and was in serious trouble only once when the Rangers scored their only run.

Marty Pattin pitched a four-hitter as Boston beat Oakland in the first game and Carl Yastrzemski forced in the winning run with a two-out, bases-loaded walk in the 11th inning to give the Red Sox the second game.

Joe Lahoud collected three hits, including a run-scoring double in the fourth inning, and rookie Gary Ryerson scattered nine hits as Milwaukee edged Minnesota. Merv Rettenmund delivered a bases-loaded pinch single in the 10th inning to help Baltimore trim Kansas City.

Earl Williams smashed a two-run homer and Ralph Garr drilled a two-run double to power Atlanta over St. Louis. Williams' homer, No. 15, sailed over the centre field fence after Los Angeles' Gary Gentry went the distance for the Mets, scattering seven hits, to record his fifth victory in 11 decisions.

Jenkins in for Nolan

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago Cubs has been named to replace Gary Nolan of Cincinnati Reds on the 1972 National League all-star team, league president Charles S. Feeney announced Thursday.

Nolan, named to the pitching staff by manager Danny Murtaugh Wednesday, is suffering from stiffness of the neck and shoulder and will miss his regular turn Sunday against Pittsburgh.

It will mark the third appearance with the National League squad for the right-hander from Chatham, Ont. So far this season he has a 12-8 record. In 186 innings, he has allowed 154 hits, struck out 119, walked 37 and has an earned-run average of 2.85.

Softball Ambassadors Split Local Twin-bill

By ERIC EMERSON
Sports Staff

Ed Mulford appears to be the stereotype of everyone's favorite grandfather. He is thin but wiry, with grey curled hair, glasses and the good natured air of a low-pressure travelling salesman. They're combine to give the look of a good amateur jazz musician (which he is) rather than a pitcher or shortstop.

It's softball not saxaphones however, that distinguish Ed Mulford from most men his age. At 52 he's bouncing grounders to short rather than grandchildren on his knee.

The Connecticut salesman is still a regular performer with the U.S. Ambassadors, who tour the United States and Canada each summer during their vacation to play exhibition softball matches, including one in Belleville against a Mead Johnson team Thursday.

Mulford conceived the idea eight years ago, "I used to play top-flight softball, but I just got too old for that class of ball. Since I still wanted to play, I decided to find out if some other people would like to combine travel and softball."

This summer marks the first time that the team has travelled in Canada although they've managed to tour 24 American States including Illinois, Wisconsin and Indiana.

"I was in Canada on business a few years ago and found there were a lot of nice people. So I said, 'This is a place we're going to have to visit'," says Mulford. So far the team has been highly pleased with their reception in this country.

"We were in Cowansville, Quebec and Carleton Place and the people were just great, and they seem to be the same way here too. We'd just left Iroquois, N.Y. and the fans there were real morons. People in Canada have been really friendly and a lo more progressive than w figured. It's a lot like the U. was 20 years ago, before w got TOO big."

The heavy travelling sched ule, which will see them pla 15 games in a week, takes t toll on some players. "It g hard to drive 200 miles ar then play a ball game ever night. I'd really like a nigl off," noted one. But at t same time Glenn Wyatt, o of three originals on the tea revealed that "We get to s places and to meet peo that the ordinary tou wouldn't. It's great."

The Ambassadors split doubleheader in Bellevill with Mead Johnson of the I dustrial softball League. Th American team wallope Meads 13-4 in the slow-pitc opening game but were beate 4-3 in the fast-pitch contest.

Despite winning the slo pitch contest in which th pitchers must hit the ball the plate and each team he ten players, Mulford refus to endorse this type of game "Don't let it get started fr people under 35 or they'll soo that's all there'll be. Around Bridgeport it's played about 95 per cent of the time and it's not really ball. It makes 400 hitters out of 400 men, but the good players don't get a chance to improve."

The American team, which carried a 5-3 mark into Belleville, appeared to be on their way to a sweep of Meads. They carried a 3-2 lead into the fifth behind the hurling of 50-year old pitcher "Wild Bill" Duncan.

The home team exploded for six runs in the fifth to clinch the win, with Garnie Adams' bases-loaded triple proving to be the key blow.

Duncan and reliever Pete Walky finished the contest with a nine - hitter, fanning four and not walking a batter. Meads' pitching duties were divided between Sonny and Don Holloway. They yielded six hits and four walks, while striking out seven.

Tim O'Connell had a single and double to kify Meads' win, giving him four rbi's for the night, while Al Faulkner of the Ambassadors went three-for-four in the slow pitch game. Faulkner, the only classA player on the visiting team was a standout defensively as was centre fielder Roger Bowoay.

Proceeds from the game will be donated to the Belleville Shrine Club to further their work with crippled children.

Beardsworth Beats It

Outfielder Greg Beardsworth of the U. S. Ambassadors puts on a burst to cross first safely in an exhibition softball game at the Alemite Thursday. The Ambassadors were beaten 4-3 by Mead Johnson of the Industrial Softball League after grubbing Meads 13-4 in a slow-pitch contest. The Americans team is on a week-long tour of Canada.

Johnston Paces Juniors

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jimmy Johnston of Peterborough PCOs has opened up a large lead in the Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A scoring race, statistics released Thursday show.

Johnston, after recently serving a large lead dwindle to a mere five points, has opened up a 20-point lead over runner-up Bill Foote of Lakeshore Maple Leafs

Johnston has 79 goals and 50 assists for 138 points while Foote has 30 goals and 79 assists for 118 points.

Sorry, Steve

It was a case of mistaken identity in Thursday's Intelligencer when Steve Vincent was erroneously confused with Mike Vokey as the receiver of a high stick in a Belleville Minor Lacrosse picture.

Steve is'n member of the Y's Men Club's peewee club and scored his team's only two goals in a loss to the Dairy Queen.

Lenders Reach Top of Heap

The Belleville Lenders' long drive to the top in division A of the Industrial Softball League almost took a wrong turn Thursday night but they corrected themselves in time to move into a tie with The Intelligencer atop the standings.

The Lenders and Brooke Bond exchanged leads six times before the Moneyman scored in the top of the seventh to record an 8-7 win.

Fred Smith came up with the clutch hit of the game driving in Norm Van Daalen for the winning run. Smith's game winner was one of three safeties he had squalling Terry Murphy's trio of hits.

Murphy was on the mound for the winners allowing 11 hits while fanning five. He took the decision from Dennis Genereaux and Bob Chamberlain, Brooke Bond's pitching duo.

In another last inning victory Morch's nipped Canadian Tire 23-21.

Bob Bogle smashed a home run, triple and single for the winners and Wayne Bowers had two singles and a triple besides driving in the winning run.

Paul Shaippe pitched six innings in relief for Morch's and took the win over Ken Williams.

Lee Westwell, Pete Calvert and Alec Belch each had two singles in the losers' 20-hit attack.

Delmonica Still Dominates

TORONTO (CP) — Delmonica Hanover continued her domination of the three-year-old trotting fillies Thursday night when she sped to a 2:02 2-5 win in the $21,000 Colla's Rousnel stakes at Greenwood Raceway's Grand Circuit meet.

Del Miller, president of the Grand Circuit and driver of Delmonica Hanover with Arnold Hanger of Lexington, Ky., as the sulky driver, raced seventh win in 11 starts.

Miller raised her behind pace-setting Speedy Carlene and then moved out in mid-stretch to win going away by two-quarters of a length over Killbuck Mary, driven by Jerry and Robert Critchfield of Wooster, Ohio.

Delmonica Hanover's time was the fastest ever by a three-year-old trotting filly in Canada. The old record of 2:04 was set by Doreet Wind in the 1971 edition of the Colla's Counsel. The win jumped Delmonica Hanover's 1972 earnings to $69,000.

She paid $4.10, $3 and $2.30 while Stakes racing winner returned $3.40 and $2.80. Speedy Carlene paid $2.60 and $2.10.

The daily double of Jenuine Sport in the first and Mizantrop in the second was worth $93.20.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Merrywood King won the $15,400 final third leg of the Ambassador Stakes pacing series Thursday night at Windsor Raceway. The daily double of Da Bunch and Merrywood Tona in the first and second races paid $36.50.

New NBC Series Has Unusual Twist

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television has come up with an antidote to all those Polish jokes: Banacek.

T. Banacek, as portrayed by George Peppard in his new NBC television series, is Polish and proud of it.

People mispronounce his name so often—it's Ban-a-check —that his chauffeur suggests he change it. The driver says, "You don't look Polish. Nobody'd know it." Banacek answers: "I would."

Banacek is a Boston-based modern-day bounty hunter, a man who specializes in "restorations." He recovers people and things that are lost for a cut of the insurance money. He lives in a Beacon Hill townhouse, collects antiques and drives a 1941 Packard Darrin.

At the Los Angeles Coliseum, where a football sequence was being filmed, Peppard said: "The Poles are a minority and when you do something on a minority you reprovide all minorities in a way. I don't think we should forget we're a land of immigrants."

Banacek is a twist upon the traditional whodunit. The evidence of each episode is how did-it-happen. In the football episode a pro ball carrier disappears on the field under a pile of tacklers. When they get up only the carrier's helmet and a ball are in sight.

In another show, an experimental automobile is on a train en route from Pittsburgh to Boston. The train does not stop, but both the automobile and the freight car vanish.

"We give no clues because if we gave you just one you could figure out the solution," he said. "It can be figured out. It's done.

"The thing that pleases me most is the individualism Banacek displays," he said. "The fact that he likes older things rather than new things. The objects we surround ourselves with reveal a great deal about a man.

"Banacek is an individual. Call him a loner, a bounty hunter, he's still individual and independent and distinct. He's warm and humorous. I'm drawn to that because of all the cold, steel-eyed men I've played."

Peppard said he was intrigued by his first opportunity to play a continuing character.

"When you do a character in a picture that's the end of the character," he said. "He doesn't die but you've ends. As an actor it's fascinating that this character goes on, to meet other people and do other things."

Mariposa Festival Beats Rain for Profit

TORONTO (CP) — Mariposa Folk Festival officials might well have been singing at the festival's conclusion Sunday evening.

And the song could have been Pennies from Heaven, starting with the line, "It rains, . . ."

Because, for the third time in the Mariposa's 12-year history, the festival made money, and did so even though on two of this year's three days it rained.

Dick Flohil, a festival director, announced Saturday that with 13,000 visitors that day Mariposa had broken even. Tickets sold on Sunday, some 12,000 again visited the Toronto Island festival site, were all profit. Of course, most of those coming to the festival Saturday and Sunday were holders of three-day tickets, or single-day tickets purchased in advance.

In 1971, he forecast last money.

This year's success, in spite of the weather which kept much of the grassy area in marsh-like condition, ensured that the format of daytime mini-concerts and musical workshops would be continued.

The format was started last year after 10 years of evening concerts featuring big-name artists. The change in policy followed gate-crashing incidents during the 1970 festival.

However, there was some of that old "star" flavor at this year's Mariposa, with regularly-scheduled performers such as Taj Mahal, the American blues singer and blind Canadian guitarist Fred McKenna, and an unexpected appearance by Canadian Joni Mitchell drawing several thousand people at one time to a single performance area.

The festival was divided into six performing areas, with musical activities going on simultaneously in each area from 10:30 a.m. to dark daily. There also were separate areas for crafts displays and a native peoples program by Canadian Indians and Eskimos.

Many visitors brought their own musical instruments and had their own jam sessions or accompanied the performers.

This year's lineup included Canadians Bruce Cockburn and Murray McLauchlan, American guitarist David Bromberg who was once Bob Dylan's accompanist, and blues musicians Roosevelt Sykes and Sleepy John Estes from the U.S.

About 200 musicians, singers, dancers and craftsmen took part.

The festival began in Orillia, Ont., in 1960, taking its name from the Stephen Leacock name for Orillia. Mariposa moved to the island five summers ago.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, July 22

Aries (March 21-April 19): Use care and caution even where you are familiar with the people and situation. It's not a repeat of anything that happened before.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Plans encounter reality testing. Make changes gracefully. Responsibility for family or group resources should remain with the whole group.

Gemini (May 21-June 21): This is a great time to clear the decks, get details out of the way. Later you can redirect your efforts with clearer view.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): You have set your course, unconsciously, contrary to today's suggestions. Reflect on what you really want and act accordingly.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Quick money remains illusory—just a wee bit out of sight, while hard gains made now build toward lasting stability. Get busy!

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be cheerful as you cope with monetary demands on your time and resources. Some definite priority on first things first must be set.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Letting well enough alone is difficult but rewarding. Expect nearly everybody to have plans which don't coincide with your own.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Seek reconciliation where needed. Apply newly learned skills experimentally once you have basic agreement among those concerned.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Concentrate on activities you can handle with little or no cooperation, get neglected chores done and out of the way.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): An early start helps in unexpected ways, averts endless and unnecessary confusion. There's more than enough to keep you busy all day.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Some accounting for your recent activity is in order. Make adjustments readily. Prepare for coming improvement.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): An early start helps in unexpected ways, averts endless and unnecessary confusion. There's more than enough to keep you busy all day.

To Your Good Health

'Athletic Heart' Diagnosis Unclear

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Due to weight lifting, I developed an athletic heart, and wish to know if this is dangerous. I had an electrocardiogram taken, and the doctor said I had an enlarged left ventricle.—P. J. F.

The popular idea of an "athletic heart" is largely a mistake. Under strenuous and protracted exertion (distance running is an example) the heart might dilate a little, but it really goes back to normal size. A healthy heart adapts to exertion very well indeed.

I suspect that what your doctor was talking about was that he noted a preponderance of what is called "left electrical axis in the left ventricle." That is not abnormal.

Assuming that you have had no heart disease (rheumatic fever, coronary disease, or congenital defect), such a reading does not imply enlargement of the heart.

Just exactly what did the doctor say? Did he just drop a casual comment, or what? If he added the word abnormality and you ought to keep track of it with further checks, that would be something else.

But if he wants to make a point of anything like that, then if I were you I'd relax and not worry.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have had high blood pressure for 4 years. I never was one for eating green leafy vegetables, but for the last two years I have been eating cabbage, string beans and egg plant two and three times a week.

My friends now tell me it is very bad for high blood pressure. I would appreciate some information.—S. M.

Sir, your friends are giving you some very faulty advice, because those vegetables aren't going to affect your blood pressure one way or the other.

You'll do much better for yourself to get some information on what really does and doesn't affect your blood pressure.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a high school senior planning to attend medical school in college, but I have a serious handicap. Whenever I see a substantial amount of blood, either in a picture or in real life, I get very faint, I become dizzy and sometimes pass out. Is there any way of overcoming this?—C. B.

I'll let you in on a secret. There MAY be doctors who didn't have the same experience when they were younger, but I don't know as I could name any. Well, maybe one or two.

It's a perfectly natural reaction, but most medical students adjust to this in the first year or two of medical school, in their lab work. You'll do the same.

I recall having a queasy feeling when I first witnessed an operation, but later, assisting at the operating table, no problem. Probably having something to do, rather than just watching and letting your nerves start galloping, has something to do with it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been told that baked apples are fattening. Is this true or false? —H. J.

Baked apples usually have sugar or syrup added, and that means extra calories. Nothing eaten in moderation is "fattening." It's when too much of anything or everything is eaten that we get fat.

Contract Bridge

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Spades. North leads the A-K-Q of clubs. South following suit, and shifts to the ten of diamonds. You cover with the queen and win South's king with the ace. How would you play the hand?

♠ 9 5 4
♥ Q 6 4
♦ A 10 8 6 4
♣ 10 9 7 6

♠ 2 6 3
♥ 10 9 7 5 3

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Spades and South leads the queen of hearts, which you ruff. When you play the ace of spades, North discards a low heart. How would you play the hand?

♠ A K Q 10 7 3
♦ A Q 8 6
♣ Q 10 2

♠ 9 8 4
♥ K 9 6 2
♦ 9 5 4
♣ A K J 9 4

3. If you drew trumps now, the outcome would depend wholly upon winning four heart tricks instead of the three that are certain. The probability of finding the hearts favorably divided is that is 3-3 or a singleton or doubleton jack — is only slightly better than 2-1.

This chance can be greatly enhanced by first cashing the A-Q of spades and — assuming that both opponents followed suit in trumps — cashing the K-A of hearts, following up the ruff of a low heart with a high trumps. Now a spade to the king permits you to discard two diamonds on the Q-10 of hearts if the adverse hearts are divided either 3-3 or 4-2.

If the trumps proved to be divided 4-1 or 5-0, you would have to draw them at once and stake everything on a favorable heart division.

2. Cross to dummy with a club, finesse the ten of spades, cash the K-Q and run the clubs until West ruffs with his last trump. That is the only trick you will lose. Played this way, you are certain of the slam, come what may.

Even if South had no clubs and ruffed the first club lead, you would prevail by later playing a diamond to the king and taking the marked trump finesse.

The trap to avoid is entering dummy with a diamond at trick three; instead of a club. Thus, if South had you would lose the slam by ruffing to dummy with a diamond, since South could prevent you from ever discarding a diamond on the clubs.

Tomorrow: A tough problem.

Jailing Stirs Crisis

LONDON (AP) — British cabinet headed today for a country-wide dock strike and fenced for the long-feared showdown between the government and the powerful trade unions after five dock workers were ordered jailed.

Worse still was the looming threat of a general strike that spelled disaster for Britain's limping economy, already badly hit by inflation and more than two years of damaging strikes by grumbling unions.

Half the country's 45,000 dockers angrily stopped work Friday as word that the National Industrial Relations Court had ordered the five top union militants arrested for defying court rulings to end an unofficial ban on container haulage depots spread like wildfire.

London's docks were deserted Friday night after nearly all the captain's 14,200 longshoremen walked off the job in protest.

The big ports of Liverpool and Hull were completely idle. Every other port in Britain was expected to be shutdown by Monday, unless the court bows to dockers' demands that the five "martyrs" be freed. There was little prospect the court would back down.

Auto workers unions, among the most militant in Britain, called for a general strike and their leaders said Britain's car industry would be shut down if the five are still behind bars in three weeks, when most auto men return from summer vacations.

Trade union leaders warned the country would slide headlong into a widescale stoppage of key industries.

The first sign of trouble from other unions came swiftly when the dockers' action. Electrical union men held up publication of all Britain's national daily papers Friday and a 90-minute protest stoppage. The newspapers came out several hours late.

The crisis struck gloom on the London stock exchange and wiped out millions of pounds of share values. The embattled pound sterling, notoriously prey to dockland troubles, weakened on international money markets.

"You men are all alike."

Belfast Terrorism Brings Army Drive

By COLIN FROST

BELFAST (AP) — British troops swept into Roman Catholic strongholds here early today under heavy fire from guerrilla snipers in continuing gun battles that brought the death toll from a two-day bloodpath of bombing and shooting to at least 18.

Gunfire erupted all over this battle-scarred capital when the troops launched their attacks in the wake of a terrorist bomb blitz Friday that killed 11 persons and wounded more than 130. At least seven others died in the gun battles.

The army said the soldiers came under guerrilla fire as they moved into the Markets, Lower Falls and Andersonstown sectors after midnight in "large-scale selected operations."

At least two soldiers were wounded in the offensive, ordered by the British administrator for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, in retaliation for the blitz Friday.

The army refused to say how many troops were involved, but units from several regiments advanced into the three zones, all known as bastions for the outlawed Irish Republican Army whose Provisional wing claimed responsibility for Friday's savage bombings.

An army spokesman said the bomb attacks were believed to have been launched from these sectors. He said troops found large caches of gelignite, hand grenades and bomb-making materials in the swoops.

A large number of IRA suspects was arrested, but many were later released. The spokesman said 31 were detained for interrogation.

As the troops shot it out with shadowy gunmen in the darkened streets, fierce gun battles were raging all across the bomb-scarred city.

At least seven persons were killed in the shooting which began Friday night as the city reeled from the 20-bomb blitz. The slayings from the bombs and gunfights brought the death toll in Northern Ireland's three years of relentless violence to 469.

The army claimed it stilled at least one gunman and hit at least 14 more in a string of gun battles and skirmishes in Belfast.

In one battle, an estimated 12 gunmen pumped a staggering hail of 900 shots into the Lenies Street army post in The Bone, a staunchly Catholic sector of the Ardoyne area.

The besieged troops claimed they saw five gunmen fall before they were dragged away by their comrades. The army said another five gunmen were believed to have been killed or wounded in the 2½-hour fight.

Wafflers Won't Run

TORONTO (CP) — Four members of the Waffle group of the Ontario New Democratic Party who have been nominated to run in the next federal election say they will not run.

James Lazer, Melville Watkins, Ellie Prepas and George Gilks made the announcement in a letter to fellow members of the Waffle group.

They said the party has shown its "indifference if not its hostility" to Waffle ideas.

Riot in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — A crowd that police estimated totalled 1,500 persons, mostly black, battered windows and broke into several stores early today in the Kennedy Square area of downtown Detroit. Four persons were arrested for breaking and entering and one police officer suffered a cut leg when a plate-glass window at a store was shattered in the trouble which started shortly after 1 a.m.

"I have no idea why the crowd was there," a police spokesman said.

Toronto Plant Bombed

TORONTO (CP) — An explosion believed caused by a bomb did $2,500 to $3,000 damage to a small electronics factory in northwestern Toronto late Friday night. Police said "a bomb device" had gone off at the rear of the three-storey building which was still under construction.

Ottawa Orders Lenient View In 'Pot' Cases

VICTORIA (CP) — The federal government apparently has suggested "a much more lenient attitude" by the courts toward first offenders in cases of possession of marijuana and hashish.

Cecil Branson, a senior lawyer among those who prosecute narcotics cases in Victoria for the federal justice department, confirmed Friday in Victoria provincial court that the department has sent instructions to such lawyers on the matter.

The instructions are that first offenders in cases of marijuana and hashish possession receive conditional discharges—a new type of sentence which became law through changes in the Criminal Code July 15.

New Canadian TV Network To Include Bancroft Station

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Radio-Television Commission opened the door Friday for a possible third national television network and slammed back at U.S. TV in Canada with the announcement of a new English television network for southern Ontario.

Global Communications Ltd. of Toronto was given permission by the federal regulatory agency to set up the third network with transmitters at Uxbridge, Paris, Windsor, Sarnia, Bancroft and Ottawa.

The new network will beam into Toronto and Burlington on Channel 22 from the Uxbridge transmitter, catch the Hamilton-London-Kitchener area on Channel 6 from the Paris transmitter and reach the Belleville-Kingston region on Channel 2 from Bancroft. The Windsor and Sarnia transmitters will send signals into the United States as well as Canadian cities.

The new southern Ontario network, which will have full-color production facilities in its studios at Ottawa and Toronto, is aimed at countering the growth of U.S. TV which has recently garnered an increasingly large share of the Ontario market.

"The resulting increase in programming hours available from Canadian stations in the from non-Canadian border stations," the commission said.

About $15 million worth of Canadian advertising money is spent in Buffalo each year for ads aimed at Canadian audiences.

The new network was greeted with mixed feelings by Canada's established TV networks. CTV's Stuart Griffiths called the move a "serious blow" and said it would cut into his company's advertising revenues from CJOH, broadcasting from Ottawa and Cornwall.

J. P. Gilmore, acting president of the publicly-financed CBC, said, on the other hand, the area will attract viewers away that the move "would no. affect us as far as I can determine."

Eight-day-old Baby Snatched From Fleeing Mother's Arms

WAUCHULA, Fla. — A distraught mother told police Friday that three men snatched an eight-day-old baby from her arms and drove away from the family's farmhouse after the mother refused to get in the strangers' auto.

Lieut. Gene Lanier said tiny Stephanie Byerly was reported abducted about 1.30 p.m. Friday as her mother, June, stood by the family mailbox several miles from this west-central Florida town.

"Mrs. Byerly told us three men she's never seen before drove up in a black-topped, red-bottom small car and told her to get in," Lanier said.

"One of them said, 'We'll take the baby away from you if you don't get in,'" he said. "The woman tried to run and another man grabbed the baby and they drove off. She kept going for help."

Lanier said the infant's father, Richard, was working in Wauchula at the time of the incident.

He said the couple "doesn't have any money and apparently none of their relatives are wealthy either."

It Will Be Cooler Tonight But Hot Again Tomorrow

TORONTO (CP) — Residents of southern Ontario will sleep a little easier over the weekend, but daytime temperatures will continue to be hot and humid, the Toronto weather office predicted Friday.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Although somewhat less humid air moved into Lake Huron and Lake Ontario counties Friday, southwesterly winds developed ahead of a minor system crossing the upper lakes today will draw the hot muggy conditions back again. As the day progresses, sunny, very warm 85 to 90 degree weather, fresh southwest winds of 15 miles per hour and high humidity will prevail over all southwestern Ontario farmlands. Chance of a brief shower or thunderstorms late today is 20 per cent overnight 30 per cent and on Sunday 50 per cent. Current indications suggest cooler less humid and dry conditions more conducive to comfortable working weather developing by Tuesday.

No relief is in sight before Monday night or Tuesday when slightly cooler and drier air is expected to move into the province, bringing a respite from the heat.

For southern Ontario and the cottage country around Georgian Bay, Haliburton and the Kawarthas, weekend day temperatures will be in the 80s, with a high of 90 expected Saturday at Windsor.

However, night temperatures will be a little lower, dropping to the mid-60s.

In Toronto, residents sweltered through another hot, humid day Friday, not at all consoled by the fact that the 86-degree high recorded was six degrees below Thursday's 92.

Thousands of people flocked to swimming and wading pools and used more than 320 million gallons of water. Many cars boiled over, causing congestion on the city's streets and freeways.

It was the same story all across the southern part of the province.

Six More European Countries Now Common Market Partners

BRUSSELS (AP) — Six Western European countries signed into a junior partnership with the Common Market today, launching the world's richest trading bloc.

The signers were Austria, Iceland, Portugal, Sweden, Switzerland and Liechtenstein. Finland initialled the treaties and is expected to sign formally after a new government is installed in Helsinki.

The newly-developing 61-nation bloc starts dismantling tariff barriers on factory goods Jan. 1 and promises to become a major challenge to the world's biggest industrial powers—the U.S., the Soviet Union and Japan.

Goods from outside will continue paying duties to enter the lucrative West European market.

The signing ceremony was in Brussels Egmont Palace, where six months ago Britain and three other countries of Northern Europe signed to become full market members Jan. 1, the day today's treaties take effect.

The six junior partners decided against becoming full members of the Common Market at present, but most have options to join later. Some are politically neutral and see full membership as carrying a commitment to the Atlantic Alliance.

Britain, Denmark, Ireland and possibly Norway become full Market members at the start of 1973, joining the original six—France, West Germany, Italy, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Today's treaties provide for elimination of tariffs on industrial goods in the 18-country area in one year stages, with most of the barriers disappear ing by July 1, 1977.

After that date, almost any article manufactured i any o. of the 6 countries will be sold duty free in any of the others. A, 17th country, tiny Liechtenstein, is part of Switzerland's trading area.

The treaties provide that no new trade barriers are to be erected in the area and they grant some preferences on farm products.

They are expected to put Canada, the United States, Japan and other outside countries at a growing disadvantage in selling to Western Europe. Spain is the only country in the region remaining outside the group but it has special trade agreements with the others.

As a whole, the 6 countries do more than three times as much trade as the U.S.

In 1970, their total imports and exports hit 274 billion, compared with total U.S. trade of $83 billion, $38 billion for Japan and $23 billion for the Soviet Union.

Canine Convenience

Snoopy isn't quite sure what's expected of him as he studies a dog comfort station erected in Toronto. Snoopy's owner, Mrs. Dulcie MacDonald, predicts the hydrants will soon be a popular neighborhood convenience for dogs, and she hopes to see more of them built for animals.

Multiple Charges Face Bellevillian

PICTON (Staff) — A Belleville man was apprehended by the Picton OPP detachment, Quinte Provincial Police, near Prince Edward Heights Friday morning, and charged with multiple offences.

William Baker, 37, is charged with possession of a stolen car, theft of a station wagon, and with break, enter and theft.

A spokesman for the Picton OPP said a car owned by Sandra Aubrey, of Trenton, was reported stolen Thursday night. This vehicle was found abandoned in a ditch on a back road near Wellington.

A second vehicle, owned by George Tesky, RR 1, Wellington, was later reported missing. It was in this station wagon that Baker was found asleep early Friday morning, by a commissionaire at Prince Edward Heights.

Hitch-hiker Is Charged

BRIGHTON (Staff) — Investigation of a fatal accident in which a rock was thrown through the windshield of a car on Highway 401 this morning has led to a charge of manslaughter being laid against a 19-year-old hitch-hiker.

Claude Richardson, formerly of 866 Queensway, Toronto was taken into custody along the freeway following reports that an individual had lobbed a rock into a car occupied by a woman and two children.

The incident occurred on 401 near Brighton's Highway 30 interchange about 4 a.m.

Brighton detachment OPP investigated.

Police say despite the attack the driver, who remains unidentified, managed to keep control of the vehicle.

Picton OPP were notified and Baker was arrested.

Other charges laid were laid in connection with the theft of cigarettes and chewing gum from the Orchard Drive Dairy Bar at Wellington, Thursday night.

He is scheduled to appear in provincial court here Wednesday.

Most Want No Deer Season

PICTON (Staff) — A random survey in Prince Edward seeking public opinion on a three day open season on deer has shown that the majority of residents polled oppose the idea.

Although county council has not forwarded a proposal for an open season, Ronald Baldwin of the wildlife management branch of the ministry of natural resources last month told councillors such a request would be considered by him.

Jack Stenning, chairman of the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority Tuesday informed council the PERCA committee received a random survey among 80 residents in the areas of heaviest deer populations and obtained 64 replies, 57 of which opposed the idea.

Mr. Stenning said the PERCA committee will convey results for county council's use should an open season become a topic for consideration.

County warden Ross Benway said he had received letters and calls from residents concerning the idea, but all vetoed it.

Hallowell deputy reeve Keith MacDonald observed if open season ever is held it should be scheduled when all cows are in stables from pasture.

RC Vote to Be Extended

Roman Catholics who are neither owners or tenants may be able to vote in municipal and school board elections for the first time this year.

A bill to give the vote to any Canadian citizen or British subject, 18 years old and living in a separate school zone, has received second reading in the Ontario legislature.

It is expected to become law before the municipal and school board elections on the first Monday in December this year.

The amendment to the Separate School Act will extend to Roman Catholics the same rights now enjoyed by public school supporters.

The largest group expected to be affected by the change are young people still living in their parents' homes, newly enfranchised by the lowering of the voting age to 18.

Separate school trustees were told this week that under the legislation as it now stands, it is possible for a person to run for, and be elected to a schoolboard, but not be permitted to vote in an election.

Wellington Sewer System Approved

WELLINGTON (Staff) — Wellington village council has voted to install a sewerage system pending the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board.

Wellington reeve Douglas Marvin claimed the sewerage system is essential to village growth and said it would cost the average householder from $15 to $130 a year.

The sewerage plant proposal endorsed by Wellington village calls for the ministry of environment to build and operate the plant and levy one half the cost of construction.

The remaining half and operating costs will be paid by the village during a 20-year period.

The cost of the plant, a lagoon system, is estimated at $1,250,000.

Half o fthis expenditure will be borne by the province.

Although no target date for completion of the sewerage system has been given, provided, it is approved, it has been suggested it will be in operation in 1971.

Search Cuts Crime

NAPANEE (Staff) — While searchers are narrowing down their efforts to find three of four Millhaven Prison escapees still believed in the area, the regular type of culprit seems to be taking something of a vacation.

At least that's the theory of OPP Chief Inspector John Hilmer, a co-ordinator of the massive police, army and prison guard hunt now centred in the Hay Bay area.

He told newsmen that since the search began July 10, regular crime in the area has been almost nonexistent. There have been only two accidents in the region in the past 12 days, and the number of breakins has dropped.

"In actuality a record for this detachment," he said.

However, the roadblocks in the area have been hampering by impaired drivers. Never a day or night passed without at least three picked up for a 24-hour period.

Chief Inspector Hilmer says actual break-in counts may be slightly out of proportion. Since the massive combing of the area, a large number of cottagers and campers have stayed away. He says there are quite a few unoccupied cottages.

Two Die In Collisions

A holiday visit for one family and return home of a young Agincourt girl, ended in tragedy last night in two separate fatal accidents.

Dead are Mrs. Lily Petrie, 86, of Belleville, and Nancy Martin, 21, whose address is given as Montreal.

Madoc detachment, Ontario Provincial Police report a car driven by Mrs. Gladys Hilken, 57, of 603 Coleman Street, collided with a vehicle driven by Mrs. Ruth Robertson, of Madoc borough, on Highway 62, south of Hamboy.

Mrs. Petrie had been staying with Mrs. Hilken. She was pronounced dead at the scene by Tweed coroner Dr. R. S. Bailey. Her 60-year-old son Harold, visiting from Regina, was also a passenger in the Hilken car. He was treated for minor arm injuries at Belleville General Hospital and released.

Mrs. Hilken was admitted to hospital for observation, suffering from lacerations and bruises to her knees.

Finishing Touch

No one would ever really call Gord Coopepr an artist at this job, but his paintings will be seen by more people than the average artist enjoys. Watching Gord apply one of the final direction markers to the resurfaced and widened Dundas Street is fellow city works employee Gary Lewis. For months Dundas at Macdonald Avenue has been torn up. Now a shiny black four-lane surface is available, with final direction markers being applied. Signal lights at the entrance to Belleville General Hospital, and ones at Macdonald and Dundas, will soon be in operation.

Camp Problems Beaten, Opens Early Next Week

After nearly a month of delays, a camp at Crowe Bridge Conservation Area will begin next Monday or Tuesday.

The camp, from the beginning, was seiged with problems including water, money and drinking water.

Now with most of the problems resolved, the 10 people responsible for the camp are prepared to go ahead immediately.

The project has been sponsored by the federal Opportunities for Youth program but because of a mixup in paper work, money was not forwarded to the group.

After a call to Ottawa yesterday, and after being assured that forms and eventually money would be sent, the group decided to take a bank loan to get things going.

The loan will cover the cost of food for the children. Counsellors will wait for the grant to arrive before taking any pay.

The camp is for underprivileged children, aged 10 to 14.

Each child will live at the camp for six days, sleeping in a tent and eating from a makeshift cook stove.

There is no cost to the child, and he need only bring a sleeping bag or blanket, clothes, bathing suit and eating utensils.

In the early stages of the plan, the group met with the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority and was given the use of some six acres of prime camping grounds.

When all was thought to be well, the group was told that unless they clean the drinking water, a licence for the camp would not be issued.

Before a camp can be started, the Board of Health checks the facilities to ensure public health.

The conservation authority immediately complied, and purified the well.

The 30 boys staying at the camp each week will be bunked in one of four tents.

In each tent there will be two counsellors.

For both safety and supervision there will be one counsellor for every three children during the day.

Vehicles will be at the camp in case of emergency, and transportation to and from the camp will be provided to the children.

It is expected there will be at least five of these camps during the remainder of the summer, accommodating up to 20 children in each.

More information on this camp is available by calling Jim Harvey of Belleville at 968-7555, Dave Raby at 968-3397 or Frank Green in Marmora.

Counsellors to Work In Separate Schools

Students training to become mental retardation counsellors will be getting some of their in-service training in Belleville separate schools.

Hastings - Prince Edward separate school board this week approved the continued co-operation with Loyalist College of the counsellors' training.

They will work with special education teachers in Georges Vanier, St. Michael's, St. Joseph's and Our Lady of Fatima Schools. The counsellors -- in -training will be in the schools for two week periods from October to June of the next school year.

In May and June of 1973, about 20 counsellors will be available to the schools, and they will work in special education classes through the county.

Training of mental retardation counsellors is a joint program of the Ontario department of health and Loyalist College. The program, now carried out at Prince Edward Heights, has been transferred to Loyalist College, beginning this fall. The two-year course prepares graduates to work with the mentally retarded in institutions such as Prince Edward Heights.

More Parking Planned

The city parking authority this week commenced work on a downtown project which will increase the number of its riverside parking spaces and at the same time provide an exit onto Bridge Street.

The municipal parking lot development is at the rear of O'Connor's Jewel Box where the Parking Authority has purchased part of one property and is negotiating the purchase of other small areas.

The increased parking space will be paved and metered.

Included in the development will be access to the laneway which exits onto Bridge Street just east of the Lower Bridge.

The city traffic committee has discussed the laneway and has suggested it be used for exit only from the municipal parking lot and that traffic be restricted to right turns onto Bridge Street.

Band Battle Planned

Garry Suddard, Kenneth Rath and Debbie Wiggins review the musical groups expected in Picton Aug. 11. Their appearance, dubbed the battle of the bands, is co-sponsored by the members of SOLE and the Picton Teen Set.

Three-student Project Adds More Activities

PICTON (Staff) -- Project SOLE (Summer of Learning Experience) has organized "a very free type" Yoga class at no cost to interested Prince Edward county residents.

Sponsored by the provincial government under its youth and recreation branch, community and social services, SOLE employs three Prince Edward Collegiate Institute graduates of this year, Debbie Wiggins, Kenneth Rath and Garry Saddard.

The young SOLE workers have headquarters in an office above the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce on Picton's Main Street.

The goal of SOLE, which will operate until August 11 on a $3,000 grant, is to encourage the public in all community activities creating interest.

A class in Yoga which is held regularly at Benson Park has attracted approximately 12 student and is free of charge.

Two musical workshops have been held at the County Centre under the direction of SOLE and have proved popular among local musicians.

Theatre workshops featuring warmup exercies, speech exercises and concentration periods are conducted at the Bluebird booth at Picton fairgrounds.

This year for the first time, SOLE with the Picton teen set will co-sponsor the battle of the bands, an annual community event.

Kenneth Rath, a member of SOLE and president of the teen set said this event is scheduled for August 11 and will feature the musical groups Warehouse, Belbeukus Ashton, and possibly two others.

The band competition will be held at the County Centre and SOLE workers will assist through advertising blitzes.

Mr. Rath said SOLE began in 1971 in several urban areas under the name SEED (Sched Experiences, Explorations and Discovery) and this year made its debut in Prince Edward.

A meeting will be held at SOLE headquarters here on July 24 at 7:30 pm to discuss the establishment of several college type courses, lectures and field trips.

A qualified biologist, Mary Coleman has agreed to assist in the program if sufficient interest is shown locally.

A number of children have visited the SOLE offices in recent weeks and it is hoped they might enjoy organized field trips to study ecology in Prince Edward.

Yesterday, SOLE organizers discussed the possibility of a new project connected with the county museum.

Several persons have suggested SOLE employees might document the epitaphs found in the churchyard surrounding the museum since no accurate records of all persons buried there have been compiled by the county.

Project SOLE, which opened in mid-June, will close in Prince Edward on August 11.

Bruce Curtis and Phil Snyder Agree

Two accounts are better than one, particularly if one is our Royal Bank Bonus Savings, and the other our Personal Chequing Account.
Our Bonus Savings Account pays high interest because you're not tempted to write cheques against it. You can't! But you can draw from it if need be. Even transfer funds when necessary.
As for our Personal Chequing Account (PCA for short), it's such a simple way to keep organized. You list all your cheques in your Cheque Book Register, as you write them. And we list them, too, in the monthly statement we mail to you — with all your cancelled cheques. Makes double-checking a cinch. You know exactly how you're doing.
And, with a Personal Chequing Account your name and address can be printed on all your cheques. You can even have them beautifully monogrammed with your family initial for a small charge.
Who do you talk this over with? You decide. (Or flip a coin!)

Waiting In Line

Worried about having to wait in line in the hot sun to get over the Bay Bridge — as when another hole developed last Saturday afternoon and again on Monday, when the swing section failed to close properly? Well, decent, docile and accommodating people that we are, we are all taking it in our decent, docile etc. stride.

Spare a thought for the folks who have been trying to get to the Magdalen Islands on the only ferry carrying 40 cars per sailing. The Islands are 70 miles from the Prince Edward Island ferry terminal and if you go to a motel for the night someone else will take your place. Survival of the fittest and all that!

Believe it or not, people got angry enough that they demonstrated and the RCMP had to come and quell things down while at the same time untangling the traffic jams.

A curious aspect of this whole affair is that the ferry is operated by Co-operative Transit Maritime Airline of the Magdalen Islands. Which reminds us that some 30 years ago we were able to travel with our car by British Freighter air ferry between Newtownards, Northern Ireland, and Castle Kennedy, near Stranraer, Scotland, a journey that took under 20 minutes. The same company operated an air ferry across the English Channel to France. A similar service would be a boon to PEI, the Magdalens and perhaps St. Pierre and Miquelon, although the smaller islands would require more tourist accommodation. There is the chance too that they might be overrun with tourists and quickly lose their charm. Nevertheless we can see how in many ways in Canada we are behind the times when it comes to getting tourists from place to place by the fastest means possible, as well as in accommodating the public need generally.

Equality?

The CBC has evidently decided to risk opening the way to women announcers. A lady by the name of Corkey Rawson shared the spotlight with a male announcer on the 9 a.m. radio news the other day. She sounded rather like the female voice which tells us we are viewing the CBC Television Service around 11 p.m., but that is all we are permitted to know of her. Does this mean that eventually we will have women announcers on television also, thus bringing Canada into line with other parts of the world which long since have employed women on an equal footing with men? We hope so.

The Stones

Well we feel we must get spaced out again man and admit that The Rolling Stones have eluded us all these years they have been rolling along. They have been around almost as long as The Beatles, yet believe it or not we have seldom if ever heard them do their thing, whether on radio or TV. We dig The Beatles of course, always have in fact and are quite prepared to remain in ignorance of The Stones who seem to be cutting quite a dash on this continent just now. So hello and goodbye fellows; we really cannot say we will miss you, for our paths just have not crossed. But a lot of others have, some explosively of late, so you have made your mark on our times.

Correction

In our reference to a Thunder Bay court hearing in which four city aldermen were unseated by reason of contracts entered by their companies with the corporation we described one, Alderman Hubert Badanai, as the Liberal member for Fort William and former Mayor of that city before amalgamation with Port Arthur. We are informed that this alderman in question is Hubert Badanai Jr., son of the former Mayor.

Opposition Keeps Up Pressure

A Catalogue Of Bungling—Yet Solicitor-General Remains

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Everything seems to happen to Solicitor General Jean-Pierre Goyer, lately of it good.

Liberals during and since the spring session plead that it is just bad luck.

The opposition — Conservative, New Democratic and Social Credit alike — insists it is incompetence and of such an extreme degree as to be dangerous.

Just look at the Goyer record.

He came into cabinet in December of 1970 as a bright young Quebecker, blessed as a protege of Prime Minister Trudeau, and expected to do "big things."

But he was scarcely in office when Kingston Penitentiary was ripped apart — to the point of complete inner destruction — in the worst prison riot in years.

He moved the convicts to the new, modern, even plush penitentiary of Millhaven where they staged a series of bigwigs strikes.

Later 14 of them were to go out through holes in two chain link fences during a baseball game.

Mr. Goyer, seemingly not the least bit upset by it all, pleaded the case of convicts, putting them on prevailing daily wage rates, refusing to dock their pay for damage they did. They are still getting it.

That, until now, was the Goyer record at Kingston and Millhaven.

Then there was the prison leave that convicted wife-slayer Yves Geoffroy turned into an extended vacation honeymoon in Spain with the "other woman" in the murder case.

Next break in the Goyer "luck" came when he was caught out changing the name of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to simply "Police." Lacking all credit it in the West but not in Quebec nor the National Capital.

He stubbed his political toe again when he revealed, under questioning, that he had set up his own "security branch," to become known as "Goyer's Gumshoes," over, above and apart from the RCMP's long established Security and Intelligence Division.

Through all these betrayers by fortune as the Liberals call them, of dumb incompetencies as the opposition termed them; the Prime Minister stood shoulder - to - shoulder with his Solicitor General.

But, the Prime Minister's patience snapped when one of the beneficiaries of Mr. Goyer's much - criticized prison "leave" program was charged with the rape-murder of a seven-year-old child.

Parliament, the police, the public, and finally the Prime Minister had had enough.

Mr. Goyer had his orders to stop his experiments in criminology — when the cabinet got word from the National Liberal Federation that the Solicitor General and his controversial "reforms" could cost votes — and seats — in the oncoming election.

Alert opposition parliamentarians are as sensitive as the Liberal Federation to Mr. Goyer's potential as an election issue.

Among them, Robert McCleave, Conservative MP for Halifax East - Hants, looking at the whole astounding Goyer record, is serving in on the releasing on "leave" of a dangerous sex offender since charged with a child rape-slaying.

"Who appointed the psychiatrist, prison doctor or whatever official was responsible for the release of the man?" asks Mr. McCleave.

"What is to be sacked for the incredible failure to keep track of what Mr. Goyer's department was a dangerous sex offender when the man was turned loose on society?

"Let us have the names of those involved.

"Parliamentarians and public must harry Mr. Goyer and the government until there is action. It is in the public interest to keep up the pressure."

The Goyer record as Solicitor General — and the government must be held responsible for he was the Prime Minister's personal protege — has been what Mr. McCleave calls "an unbelievable catalogue of incredible official bumbling, and a threat to public safety."

Mr. McCleave knows what is wrong with Mr. Goyer.

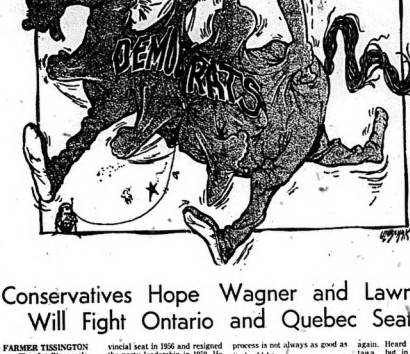
"Take misplaced leniency," he says, "and mix it with disregard for the public interest compound the whole with psychiatric experimentation.

"And you have an explosive substance that can blow up in prison riots and human killings of innocent people by criminal psychopaths. I don't know the worst they can get is a 15-year 'life' term with time off for good behavior.

"The police all say there is something radically wrong with system that lets dangerous sex offenders and convicted killers loose on leave and parole despite all warnings.

"This kind of thing must never happen again," said Mr. McCleave of the horror death of the seven-year-old.

"But it will. And it will go on happening. Until Parliament forces the government to reflect the will of the people. And implacably requires that if its public servants — and Mr. Goyer is one — fail to put the protection of society before all other considerations, they will cease, forthwith, to remain in public service."



Conservatives Hope Wagner and Lawrence Will Fight Ontario and Quebec Seats

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

The Progressive Conservatives are still hopeful they can induce two men to contest the coming federal election for the party—one in Ontario and one in Quebec.

The Quebec possibility still is Claude Wagner, whose name was bandied for months as a potential candidate and a Quebec lieutenant to party leader Robert Stanfield. Mr. Wagner is still non-committal, but a favorable decision would, in the view of some observers here, give the Tories a fighting chance in as many as 20 to 25 Quebec ridings with several Union Nationale big-wigs following Mr. Wagner's example. If he doesn't run, Conservative hopes are much dimmer and the main opposition to the Liberals in that province will come from Real Caouette's Social Credit party in the rural and hinterland areas.

In Ontario, the big gun being sought by the Conservatives is Allan Lawrence, the provincial secretary for justice who has been somewhat in eclipse since the Ontario leadership contest and the re-shuffling of the Ontario cabinet by Premier William Davis. Mr. Lawrence would have his chief influence in the sprawling Toronto metro area where the Tories must make a significant breakthrough if they hope to form the next government.

Stories that the federal cabinet was meeting night and day to decide on the date of the election were down-graded to the recently by veteran MP and cabinet minister, Arthur Laing. He admitted the cabinet was meeting long hours in the week following the adjournment of Parliament, but he suggested the final election decision might not be made until mid-August and when the cabinet returns to Ottawa following a month off.

Mr. Laing is not seeking re-election in his Vancouver-South seat. He first came to the Commons in 1949 but resigned in 1953 to take over the leadership of the B.C. Liberal party. He was elected to the legislature the same year but lost his provincial seat in 1956 and resigned the party leadership in 1959. He returned to the Commons in 1962 and has been re-elected since and has served as minister of mercantile affairs and national resources, Indian affairs and northern development, public works and, most recently, veterans' affairs.

Mr. Laing, like another veteran, George McIlraith, will be missed in the Commons. Their solid experience and general common sense were a useful, off-setting influence in a cabinet increasingly dominated by younger, less mature ministers whose understanding and appreciation of the parliamentary process is not always as good as it should be.

Mr. Laing isn't sure what the future holds. At 67 he is in good health and vigorous but he doesn't look with any great favor on the Senate or the possibility of an appointment to that body. He and a brother own a large and successful mixed grain farm in the Okanagan area and he can always go back to his first love, farming. He holds a BSA degree from the University of British Columbia.

As this is the silly summer season, I should report that the rumor about Prime Minister Trudeau packing it in before the election is going the rounds again. Heard not only in Ottawa, but in Toronto, is the story the prime minister will resign this summer and the party will hold a leadership convention in the fall. The new leader, presumably John Turner, would then seek a mandate in the late fall or spring.

But don't be on it. Leadership fights open old wounds and split parties, as witness the Democrats in the U.S. This is no sort of springboard for a party going into a general election. If Mr. Trudeau does call it quits, he would more likely do it half way through his second term as prime minister providing the Liberals win the coming vote.

Bourassa Government Tries to Maintain Aura of Competence

Montreal La Presse: In 1971, the Quebec Liberal party brought out the slogan to remind people it had been in power for a year. This year, it changed the style.

Several days ago, Robert Bourassa launched into works "of information, reference and documentation" prepared by the province's information commission.

What is first striking in the three documents is the very clear wish of the Liberals to present themselves as efficient, hard-working, competent, administrators. Impressive in social affairs, good in justice and finance, satisfactory in transportation, communications, education, environment, work in cultural affairs and pitiable in immigration, the realizations of the Liberal government somewhat resemble each of the musicians who all allowed them-selves relatively optimist with Claude Castonguay, liberal with Jerome Choquette (despite the declarations of recent days), aimed at efficiency with Raymond Garneau.

On the other hand, such a balance sheet would be at fair without taking into account the budget of each department.

After two years in power, the Quebec Liberal party still presents a composite, even confusing, image. One has the sense that the positive record which the party can offer today is based on an extraordinary work of a few ministers.

Others unfortunately succumb to mediocrity or let themselves become absorbed by the reactionary inertia of dull, blundering members-hip in the legislature.

What the information commission's record does not say is that the Quebec Liberal party is no longer a reformist party. . . .

Many party members still . . . dream of a union movement which, as in the past, would no longer control "the system" or become more federalist than Mr. Trudeau himself. Resolutions advocating the Liberal party's regional meetings testify to this.

"A quiet firmness has been our approach since the beginning of our mandate," Robert Bourassa recently told the Liberal members in Montreal. "We want this firmness to continue." A groan-out remember told him. After the events of the last few weeks, it can be asked whose such a firmness will benefit and who it affects.

Inflationary Conditions Put Squeeze on Province

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

There are financial problems ahead.

The problem of inflation, now getting to be such an old threat, is on its way to building up to a crisis stage again.

More and more indicators of a swelling dollar are beginning to appear. The most obvious of these is the pattern of wage settlements. New settlements have been going through with increases of from eight per cent to 18 per cent a year.

Three ships arrived at Roanoke Island, N.C., carrying 91 men, 17 women and nine children 385 years ago today—in 1587—to find that 15 people of an earlier settlement had disappeared.

The ships' crews stayed to sail farther, so the colonists landed, among them the ancestor-to-be, daughter, Mrs. Dare, who a month later bore the first white American child. Capt. John White returned to England for supplies and returned four years later to find no trace of the crews except for word "Croatan" carved on a tree. The mystery was never explained.

Palestine in First Century In Ferment Like Ulster Today

By The Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

The unsettled state of affairs in Ulster resembles the first century ferment in Palestine. The population was roughly a million. And things were rough, economically as well as politically. Imperial and priestly taxes strained off about a third of the national income. There was an underground movement. Some were vocal. Zealots shouted, "No King but God!"

Pontius Pilate became governor of Judaea in A. D. 26. He was going to prove who was boss. We have the story from Josephus, a Jewish historian some decades later. The governor's capital was Caesarea, on the shores of the beautiful Mediterranean. He gave orders for his troops to march to Jerusalem and set up imperial standards in the temple court at night. That would upset those Jews! It was deliberate desecration. The standards bore Caesar's insignia. And he was officially regarded as divine.

The next morning the city learned what had happened. Outraged crowds made off for that governor's seat. For six days they pleaded and argued. He threatened wholesale slaughter. They bared and bared their necks. Pilate could scarcely afford to take such a dare. He backed down. The offending standards were removed.

The news spread like wildfire. Rome had lost face. With excitement came expectancy. Word travelled everywhere that in the wilderness near the Dead Sea, from one of the local monasteries, a young Essene priest, a new Elijah, was baptizing to cleanse the nation in readiness for its King Messiah.

We may be sure those things were eagerly talked about in the carpenter shop at Nazareth. Did Jesus join in the discussion? Did he just listen and think? More pieces than wood began to take shape. The hour came when he set aside his tools and walked with fellow villagers to the focal point of interest more than a hundred miles away.

The curtain goes up with Mark's announcement "In those days, Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee and was baptized by John in the Jordan. And when he came up out of the water, immediately he saw the heavens open, and the Spirit descending upon him like a dove; and a voice came from heaven, Thou art my beloved Son; with thee I am well pleased" (1:9-11). Baptism Jesus identified himself with humanity in a way nobody ever did before or since. Each generation has endeavored to explain the miracle. In the process the miracle repeats itself. For instance, if you have not seen, you have heard of the musical "Godspell", that attracts capacity audiences, especially young people, wherever performed. Jesus is portrayed as the Harlequin, the clown or jester. In the Middle Ages, to be a clown or jester was the one person permitted to show up the foibles and shortcomings, even sins, of the king and his court. So Jesus is presented in this guise.

Reacting to criticism of "Godspell," one young lady wrote a letter to the Canadian Register. She said, in part, as follows: "At the opening, we may not expect a Christ in boxer shorts. But we have hoped for a Messiah he didn't exactly get—what they handed either. To their horror — and his ridicule — he ate with publicans and sinners."

She continued: "Suddenly I began to fathom the real extent of the power Jesus holds in our lives. And rarely is a Sunday liturgy have I experienced the sense of sacrament that was present in the re-enactment of the Last Supper."

In baptism Jesus publicly identified himself not only with humanity but with the will of God. He was not lofty-minded in thought. Nor did the River Jordan to Calvary's Cross, if the Gethsemane prayer means anything, I do not believe he had the details of his ministry worked out. He would take a day at a time as he taught us to do. And it was left to that day to reveal the next step in our lives. We presume to know God's will for others. Then, when things go wrong, we may be shattered. Is not death the ultimate in misfortune for the wicked? Who are we to say?

Would that we completely surrendered our wills to God's will as Jesus did. Another miracle repeats itself. Peace descends as a calm on a dove. In the quiet of the soul we hear, "With thee I am well pleased." This is enough. It is everything.

Eastern Orthodox Patriarch Chosen

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — To most Westerners, the ways of Eastern Christianity always have seemed somewhat strange and mystifying—its a w e s o m e liturgy, its icons, its elaborate vestments, its refusal to reduce theology to technical formulas, its deep sense of divine mystery.

But its qualities have sustained it through harshly-trying circumstances, both now and in the past, under hostile regimes, as in modern Russia, and amid the shifting powers of the Middle East.

Now, under another strained situation, the church has taken on generally unknown leadership.

He is the new Archbishop of Constantinople (modern Istanbul), the Eastern counterpart of the Pope of Rome, the pre-eminent spiritual guide of the world's 250 million Eastern Orthodox believers, Patriarch Dimitrios I.

His elevation this week was surrounded by difficulties and question marks that involved restrictions imposed by the Turkish government and left uncertainties about the church's future course and the status of its historic principal see.

Will it gradually be forced to move elsewhere? Will it do so by its own choice to preserve its rights? Might the new patriarch voluntarily go into exile in defence of the church's prerogatives?

"No one really knows what may happen," said Rev. George Bacopoulos, chancellor of the Greek Orthodox Church in the Americas. "We'll just have to wait and see whether the Turkish government takes further steps to demean the patriarchate."

Pressures on it by the government of the predominantly Moslem country were obvious in the election of the new patriarch, successor to the internationally esteemed and ecumenically inclined Athenagoras I, who died a week ago.

Among U.S. churchmen who attended the funeral, their ranks thinned by Turkish refusal of visas, Bacopoulos said the government there had barred the five most likely candidates from election to the office, and also ordered it filled hastily, within three days.

"This was unprecedented to force an election in 72 hours," said Bacopoulos, who said. Historically, it has taken at least a month's time for deliberation and global consultations among leaders of the various Eastern Orthodox churches.

But under the circumstances, the choice of the patriarchate apparently had no choice, other than outright defiance, except to comply. So it acted immediately to elect a new primate of the church from the limited roster allowed, resulting in the surprise choice of Dimitrios.

"He is unknown to most of us, but we understand he is a very pious and good man," said Father Bacopoulos, a highly versed and experienced hand in the church's worldwide affairs.

In the new patriarch's installation address, he said he hoped to continue in the footsteps of Athenagoras, the warm, expansive churchman who had led Eastern Orthodoxy out of centuries of isolation and into increasing alliance with Roman Catholicism and Protestantism.

But what obstacles the new patriarch may face—or what particular qualities he possesses for leading and inspiring the 30 closely-linked branches of Eastern Orthodoxy—remained clouded both by the circumstances and his own previous relative obscurity.

Welland Mission Has New Leader

By TOM McCARTHY

St. Catharines Standard

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — A young man from Nova Scotia who knows at first hand the hazards of the sea has just taken over the Welland Canal Mission to Seamen.

He is 26-year-old Arthur Taylor, a graduate of Moody Bible Institute in Chicago who is completing a bachelor of theology degree at the Ontario Bible College in Toronto.

Mr. Taylor succeeds Rev. Cameron Orr, 65, of St. Catharines, who has ministered to Great Lakes sailors and other seamen along the 27-mile waterway since 1939.

The Welland Canal Mission, administered by a board of nine Christian businessmen and others, is headed by school teacher Barry Gillham of Vineland.

The appointment of Mr. Taylor was made necessary by the retirement due to illness of Mr. Orr.

During his 32-year ministry Mr. Orr has spread the gospel, taught the Bible and cheered thousands of sailors who have come through the Welland Canal.

From the beginning of navigation in the spring until late fall this tireless pastor has carried out his ministry.

Five or six times a day, six days a week throughout the shipping season, Mr. Orr shuffled between the locks boarding upbound and downbound vessels.

Whether to deckhand or skipper his aim was to bring the word of God to all who would listen to him. And he became affectionately known as the "Sinbuster." If he failed to gain converts in all cases, he succeeded in sharing his happy disposition and optimistic outlook on life.

During the winter months he carried the message of his work to other organizations, preached and solicited funds which supported his work among seamen during the shipping season.

Last fall, after learning of his illness, he set out to find a successor for his work here. At Moody Bible Institute Arthur Taylor listened and was inspired to consider taking over Mr. Orr's ministry.

His thoughts were carried back to his boyhood when his grandfather was lost at sea off the coast of Nova Scotia. The eldest of a family of seven brothers and one sister, he and a younger brother hauled lobster traps in the mornings during school terms to help make ends meet.

In summer they carried on fishing with a grandfather and in winter shot ducks, geese and deer to keep food on the table.

Raised in the Anglican Church, Mr. Taylor said he didn't really accept Christ as his personal Saviour until he was 19. At that time he became associated with a Baptist church where "I enjoyed the fellowship."

In 1967 he left Lockeport, N.S. to study at Moody Bible Institute where he met his wife, a nurse from Galt, Ont.

After speaking to the St. Catharines clergyman about the Welland Canal Mission, Mr. Taylor came here and boarded a ship. With Mr. Orr he passed out literature and chatted with seamen.

"I was very pleased, the men were very warm and receptive," he recalled. "The biggest thing that impressed me was their interest in hearing someone come aboard who was friendly and whole smile."

An Impressive Donation

One of the largest donations the Women's Hospital Auxiliary has ever made, a cheque for $25,000 was presented yesterday to Mr. Philip Rickard, executive director of the Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. E. E. Nelles, president of the group (which holds 300 members) and Mrs. H. W. Adams, treasurer, presented this impressive donation. Hospital will help, defray costs for the new kitchens which should be in use by next week.

Social And Personal

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wiggleworth of Toronto, are spending their vacation at their summer home in Consecon, Ontario.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

MOIRA DIVISION

MADOC — With recent changes in guiding sections in Ontario, the town of Madoc is now part of the new Moira Division, in a new District of Hastings, along with Marmora and Tweed.

This new area extends from Brighton to the Quebec border and northern to Blind River. The Mohawk words DA - HON NEH were chosen for the area meaning, "they are joining."

Guiding has been inactive in Madoc in recent years and the Girl Guides of Canada would very much like to see it revived, as the potential is there.

Any interested females could write: Mrs. Beth Mason Girl Guides of Canada, DA-HON - NEH, Moira Division, RR4 Belleville

These persons need not be experienced in guiding, but must have an interest in girls, from 7 to 11 years of age. Training programs are available each fall for people new to the program.

Family Workshop Planned

TORONTO (CP) — A workshop on the family, on whether it is doing its job, will be held in Stratford, Ont., October by the National Council of Jewish Women.

The focus will be on the Jewish family in Canada, but organizer Marjorie Blankstein says discussion will not be concerned with what is happening with the family generally, as well.

"We will look at it as a total group and how we as mothers are reacting to what's happening and try to see what we can do about strengthening the family in whatever form it takes.

"There doesn't seem to be any way to transmit values to children except through the family, and it doesn't seem to be doing as good a job as it was."

She says there is little information available on the Jewish family in Canada, and council hopes to set up an information bank.

The conference will be led by professionals and attended by about 100 delegates from council sections and by people from Jewish communities where there are no sections.

It is hoped delegates will go home and set up similar conferences in their local areas.

Couple Wed For 60 Years

MADOC — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stewart, Eldorado, celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary on Sunday, July 16, 1972 with a reception in Sacred Heart Church Hall, Madoc.

Over 200 friends and neighbors came to offer good wishes to the couple, who have lived in Madoc Township ever since their marriage, which took place in Pembroke, Ontario, on July 2, 1912.

They have three children: Dorcas of Peterborough, Frederick of Marmora, and Margaret (Mrs. Don Hughes) of Comox, B.C.; 12 grandchildren and two great grandchildren most of whom were present for the happy occasion. Also present were the couple's bridesmaid and groomsman, Mrs. Stewart's sister, Miss Rose Brennan, of Peterborough, and Mr. Stewart's brother, William Stewart.

Family Reunions

SILLS CLAN

The fifth annual picnic of the descendants of Empire Loyalist Conrad Sills was held at Adolphustown Provincial Park recently. Approximately 125 adults and children registered and everyone enjoyed the abundance of food at noon.

The president, Mr. Donald Sills called the gathering to order and announced the children's games and races. All were invited to watch or they could visit with families and relatives.

After the games, the business meeting took place. In memory of those who had passed away in the past year, a minute of silence was observed. Mrs. Gerald Brenton, secretary-treasurer, read a report of the last Sills family reunion and also gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Ralph Sills historian, reported the information she had obtained from the archives and read a copy of the last will of Conrad Sills.

The nominating conveners for 1973 are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sills and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cross. It was decided to hold the reunion at the same place next year. A committee consisting of Mr. Russell Sills as chairman, Mrs. Herb Sills, Mrs. Frank Sills Seaforth and Mr. Harold Sills, Kingston was formed to investigate about securing a plot and erecting a cairn in memory of Mr. Conrad Sills.

Prizes were awarded to those who had travelled the farthest, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sills, Edmonton, Alta. The prize for the eldest person present was awarded to Mrs. John Chisholm. The couple married the longest was Mr. and Mrs. Herb Sills, Toronto. The most recently married were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Tummon who were awarded a prize also. The youngest member present was the Sletor-baby and the largest families present, were the Burton Hubble family and the Don Sills family.

Mr. Frank Sills, Seaforth, entertained everyone with his songs and imitations. Merle Switzer sang a number with two sons which was enjoyed by all.

ASIA THROUGH A BUS WINDOW
"Arrived in Isfanhan, Iran. Fantastic!"—Phyllis Walsh.

The autobus from London with its 29 passengers arrived in Isfanhan, Iran, on August 30, 1971, and Phyllis Walsh of Belleville notes in her diary:

"Tour of city. To Shah's mosque. Most elaborate I have yet seen. A series of courtyards, gardens, hallways, arches and domes in tremendous variety of style and color of tiles and mosaics.

"Then to carpet factory. Girls 12 years old, paid $2.00 for 8-hour day. The hands badly calloused, working so quickly I couldn't follow what they were doing. But carpets beautiful. I don't resent the price anymore.

"Went through native market. Also saw camel blindfolded turning a three ton wheel to grind linseed. A hopelessly archaic method. Then to see the shaking minaret and fire temple of Assyrians. Also to bridges of 5th and 6th centuries. We walked the streets and visited the Shah Abbas Hotel — most luxurious; double room for $13.40."

August 31, notes that, "Canada Dry orange drink sells as 'Canada'; we went for a walk on roof top of the bazaar. Fascinating. Little glass protrusions with holes in centre, drying carpet wool. Had good view of city. We saw brass painting, and enamel painting, silver carving, candy-making and shoe - making. There were pictures of Jack Kennedy hanging up often. Women's veil called chandra. This city much cleaner than Teheran."

On September 1st plans miss ought be at. . .Hospitality was so subtle. No fuss made about changing round the fan, tonguing ashtrays.

"For supper, had noodles and spiced mince, potato and meat cakes, rice, bread, salad, and tea. For breakfast, three eggs, bread and tea. Half way through the morning honey dew melon and watermelon. Coffee. Returned to join the group at hotel. What a change — it was so nice to be in a home!" (Phyllis still keeps in touch with this family. To be continued.

At Herat, Afghanistan, Phyllis found it "an exciting city. Primitive. Like a story book city. Friendly people." And was here "ate deep-fried sparrow. Very good."

On September 7, "we left Herat, travelled through miles and miles of flat land with the occasional rock jutting straight out. This is desert. Now 37c hot and dry." At Kandahar, "about three corners to Kandahar, built by the Russians of concrete. Very little traffic. Trucks loaded to the hilt. People standing on the back, luggage and people on top — worse than Nigeria. Women wear chandris, face completely covered and all over the eyes, Must be awfully hot . . . After supper, drive all night to Kabul."

Save the Children Is British, Too

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: A friend in England has been made Vice Chairman of the Local Woman's Institute and they are trying to find some ideas for things they could make as a joint effort, either for children to play with or to send to Charity.

She asks have I any ideas. Well I have just not, so if you can help I would be very grateful. — Hands Across The Sea.

Dear Hands: My friend at Canaave (Canadian Save The Children Fund) supplies the answer.

Your friend in England should contact The Save The Children Fund, 29 Queen Anne's Gate, London SW1H 9DH.

She adds that Save The Children is not only a fellow member of the International Union for Child Welfare, but indeed the "mother" Save the Children Fund. The founder of the British SCF was also the founder of the IUCW.

I know the British organization would be very glad to hear from your friend.

Dear Doris: My daughter-in-law and I have never had a quarrel, mainly due to my self-control. I just don't answer her pointed quips but keep praising her and trying to be friends.

Now she has three children and does the stenographic work in our family affairs. This seems to have gone to her head.

She resents me; swears; says she would rather have been a prostitute than have married my son; and that the Chinese in the restaurant make the best of all lovers. I am an old-fashioned Anglican Christian and do not know what to reply.

She says my husband is "after her" too, but I can't believe this. — Peggy.

Dear Peggy: She is making fun of you, taunting you and resenting your lack of response. If she is running your husband and your son and bringing into your family an element of Godless bad temper, this is helping no one.

She has mistaken your self-control for weakness. As the wife of your husband, the mother of your son and the grandmother of those three children, you are chatelaine of the household in your own right and should begin laying down the laws. This will surprise and shock her into a completely different attitude — or ought to.

Dear Doris: A suggestion to Troubled, (whose husband keeps throwing up her past):

Just put the question to your husband — Is he himself such an innocent virgin? Since he drinks, it is very very doubtful.

"Let him who is without sin cast the first stone." — What applies in this case — Just Being Helpful.

Dear Helpful: It's a good question. Let's hope "troubled" reads your message and asks him. If he is sober enough at the time, it might stop him in his tracks (but I'd rather recommend a counsellor).

(Your own dilemma may not be as hopeless as it looks. Write to Doris for help.)

Matter of Your Mind
by JOHN CONWELL

Are vacations only for relaxation?

NO. People get the most benefit from vacations that mean a complete change. Naturally, if a person relaxes all year, he doesn't need a vacation to do the same thing. Nor should people try to get too many "fringe benefits" from a vacation. For instance, if they go off on a trip that is more or less a social obligation to visit relatives or former associates they must keep up with, then they may not enjoy their vacation trip.

Can shame deter a drug addict?

NO; even if a person can still control his drug need, he isn't about to let anyone's opinion stop him. Nor will self-castigation keep him from using drugs. As a matter of fact, the drug addict probably started his addiction because he thought everyone had a low opinion of him to begin with. Now, he is going to make sure that his parents, wife (or girl friend), associates etc., will have reason to think of him the way they do.

Is a status-seeker a good husband?

YES, but only if such a man is striving to improve the status of his family to make his wife and children feel more secure and to prevent their being smugly self-satisfied. Yet a man in those circumstances can cause a crooper if he believes his struggle for even those good intentions will excuse him from fully accepting his responsibilities as a responsive husband and the mainspring of his family.

Ann Landers

Code for Parents to Follow

Dear Ann Landers: Reverend C. Gales was assigned to the Guelph Correctional Centre for his summer work. During his time there he tried to help the young lawbreakers at the institution and eventually he developed an excellent rapport with them. He asked the boys to delve into their backgrounds for clues as to why they had ended up in that institution for delinquents. Then he asked them to draw up a code for parents, using as a basis for the code specific areas where their own parents had failed.

Here it is, Ann, and I hope you can find space for it in your column.

1. Keep cool. Don't lose your temper in the crunch. Keep the lid on when things go wrong. Kids need the reassurance that comes from controlled responses.

2. Don't get strung out from too much booze or too many pills. When we see our parents reaching for those crutches we get the idea that nobody goes out there alone, that it's perfectly OK to go for a bottle or a capsule when things get heavy. Remember, your children are great imitators. And we lose respect for parents who tell us to behave one way while they are behaving another way.

3. Bug us a little. Be strict and consistent in dishing discipline. Show us who's boss. It gives us a feeling of security to know we've got some strong supports under us.

4. Don't blow your class. Keep the dignity of parenthood. Stay in that pedestal. Your children have put you there because they need someone to look up to. Don't try to dress, dance or talk like your kids. You embarrass us and you look ridiculous.

5. Light a candle. Show us the way. Tell us God is not dead, or sleeping, or on vacation. We need to believe in something bigger and stronger than ourselves.

6. Scare the hell out of us. If you catch us lying, stealing, or being cruel, get tough. Let us know why what we did was wrong. Impress on us the importance of not repeating such behavior. When we need punishment, dish it out. But let us know you still love us, even though we have let you down. It'll make us think twice before we make the same move again.

7. Call our bluff. Make it clear that you mean what you say. Don't be a wishy-washy. Don't compromise. And don't be intimidated by our threats to drop out of school or leave home. Stand firm. If you collapse, we will know we beat you down and we will not be happy about the "victory." Kids don't want everything they ask for.

8. Be honest with us. Tell the truth no matter what. And be straight-arrow about it. Lukewarm answers make us uneasy. We can smell uncertainty a mile away. This means being generous with praise. If you give us kids a few compliments once in a while we will be able to accept criticism more readily. We want you to tell it like it is. — From A Reader Who Loves Kids

Dear Reader: Thank you for your generous contribution to this space. The young lawbreakers who put together this guide for parents did a splendid job. And my warm regards to Reverend Gales. I can see why the kids love and respect him. Obviously he has a way of bringing out the best in them.

Loser Schreyer Re-appoints Man Who Quit to Fight Him

WINNIPEG (CP) — Premier Ed Schreyer, disappointed but otherwise outwardly unshaken by personal defeat of his efforts to extend tax aid to private and parochial schools, said Friday he will carry on.

And he told a news conference he has reappointed Sidney Green, who quit the cabinet in March to fight Mr. Schreyer on the issue, to his former portfolios of resources and urban affairs.

The premier met reporters in the wake of Thursday's defeat of his private member's resolution calling for a committee to examine all avenues of extended aid.

It went down in a free vote 30 to 22 as 12 of his NDP members, including four cabinet ministers, joined 17 of the 18 Conservatives present and one independent in the roll call against him.

"Obviously my powers of persuasion were unequal to the task," he said.

Mr. Schreyer, who as newly-elected party leader ousted the Conservatives in a 1969 general election and is expected to go to the polls again next spring, said he has no intention of resigning over the schools issue.

He noted his leadership is subject to review by the NDP's annual convention and added that if he is re-elected, it will imply endorsation of the way he handled the schools question.

Grant for Deaf

OTTAWA (CP) — A federal grant of $50,770 to the Canadian Rehabilitation Council for the Disabled for the formation of a national association for the deaf was announced by the welfare department Friday. The department also announced the formation of a "national consortium" which will help organize the proposed association.

Killed by Boxcar

OSHAWA (CP) — An Oshawa woman and her 12-year-old son were killed Friday when they were struck by a fully-loaded runaway box car that sped through a busy section of the city's east end.

Police said Nella Schumann, 48, and her son Christopher were killed as they were crossing railway tracks at an intersection, two blocks from their home.

Many Jump Ship

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian immigration officials said Friday that unprecedented numbers of Chinese seamen—many of them probably bringing heroin—have been jumping ship in Vancouver.

According to recent published reports the RCMP has been cooperating with the United States Central Intelligence Agency since April to smash heroin smuggling from Southeast Asia. Much of the traffic apparently travels through Vancouver.

Too Hot

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Workers at the three main Windsor plants of Chrysler Canada Ltd. were sent home Friday because of the heat for the second day in a row.

Breakfast Late

TORONTO (CP) — Walter Cobby, who will be 100 in October, watched from his window of the Guildwood Villa Nursing Home Friday as 17 striking employees gathered outside causing him to wait an hour for his breakfast.

"I've never believed in unions," he said, "but it's never bothered me to miss a meal or two."

Resume Journey

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and his family departed from this Northwestern Ontario town Friday evening after spending a quiet day on the Lake of the Woods.

As guest of federal supply and services minister James Richardson, the Trudeaus spent the night on Kaiamalka Island in Mr. Richardson's summer cottage, and spent most of Friday cruising the lake, and enjoying silence.

The CP Rail train carrying the prime minister and his party left here shortly after 8 p.m. about 30 minutes late, due to Mr. Trudeau's handshaking and autograph signing.

Clean Air

TORONTO (CP) — An air cleaning system at the Gordon Young Ltd. will prove a great relief to those who pass by it, especially if Toronto's recent high temperatures continue.

The plant on the city's waterfront processes animal carcasses into tallow and feed which accounts for one of the waterfront's least-liked smells.

R. G. Trickey, the plant's controller, said Friday the system will be operating "within two or three weeks" and may cost as much as $50,000.

Visiting Venus

JODRELL BANK, England (AP) — An unmanned Soviet spacecraft reached the area of Venus today, scientists tracking it from the giant observatory here said.

"It is now descending through the Venusian atmosphere," Sir Bernard Lovell, the observatory director, told reporters. The craft is called Venus 8.

No Strain

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro power exports to the United States have not created any strain on generating facilities despite a series of rotating strikes against the utility that began nearly a month ago, a spokesman said Friday.

Patients Move

TORONTO (CP) — Patients at the Queen Street Mental Health Centre will begin moving into the first of a new set of buildings next week.

The new development is being built in three stages and will be complete in 1974 when the existing 121-year-old structure, the first mental hospital to serve Upper Canada, will be torn down.

Murder Record

NEW YORK (AP) — There were 37 murders committed in New York City in the seven-day period that ended midnight Thursday night and Chief Medical Examiner Dr. Milton Helpern said Friday it was an all-time record. There were 816 murders for the six months ended June 30. For the same seven days last year the figure was 25. The police department blamed the hot weather, chance and the fact that relief cheques were distributed so that criminals knew there was money to be had.

Charge Laid

SUDBURY (CP) — A law student brought charges Friday against Balfour Township for violating the Ontario Water Resources Act.

The charge of polluting and of failing to inform the Ontario environment ministry was laid by Lloyd Greenspan with the support of the Sudbury District Committee on Pollution and the Sudbury branch of the Environmental Law Association.

Boo-Birds Hit Wrong Targets

Eric Emerson
Staff
Sports Writer

It wouldn't be fair to say that sports fans are stupid. Ignorant . . . yes; Boorish . . . certainly; misguided . . . by all means, but definitely not stupid.

After all, Joe Bleacherbutcher can pick out a missed bodycheck, from 143 rows away. He can also spot a hanging curve from the centrefield stands, a trap block from the end zone bleachers and a beer vendor from beneath his seat.

Joe doesn't ask much from his sports heroes. They simply must score 82 goals, hit 82 homers or engineer 82 more payoff drives than Andy Granatelli. Of course Joe realizes that not all athletes are capable of reaching this standard, but they aren't without his faithful following. All the marginal players have to do in order to attract a following is hustle to first on walks, break at least three opposing arms per season and growl when the team picture is taken.

If a player is large, hairy and homicidal he's sure to attract fan following. If he's J. C. Tremblay, he's more likely to garner catcalls, eggs and obscene phone calls.

Tremblay, a perennial all-star defenceman, was often a target of the Montreal Forum boo-birds (these same wonderful folks who heckled and cheered Terry Harper in the same play during the 1971 playoffs when the rearguard lugged the puck through a curtain of hometown jeers to set up an important Montreal goal).

Jean-Claude often drew the ire of fans for defensive lapses that sometimes presented the opposition with unexpected scoring opportunities. "You can't play the puck the way he does. You have to play the man," veteran observers would moan. Well he did play the puck, beautifully most of the time, setting up plays, staying cool in his own end and time after time, rising to the occasions with key Stanley Cup goals, he earned the right to make a few mistakes without drawing the razzberry from his home town "supporters."

Team Canada coach Harry Sinden showed an appreciation of Tremblay's specific skills by choosing him for the Canada - Russia series. The former Stanley Cup winning coach seemed to be saying that as well as such corner musclemen as Wayne Cashman and Vic Hadfield, a winning team required players of J. C.'s temperament and ability.

Because he seldom dealt out bodychecks or participated in the sweater - pulling derbies that often pass for NHL fights, Tremblay's courage was often questioned.

Well in last winter's hoist fire in St. Louis, who were the heroes mantle? It was Guy Lapointe and (ee, Jean-Claude Tremblay. The pair scrambled up and down shaky ladders to rescue people trapped in the upper stories. The average fan gets airsick riding the escalator to the upper deck.

Tremblay's fate certainly isn't unique in the world of sports. Henry Aaron drew all kinds of criticism for not hustling in his early years. Ever watch him fail to take the extra base in a tight situation or throw to the wrong base in a similar jam. Not likely.

Perhaps the most brutal performance put on by box seat and bleacher inhabitants occurred a few years ago in Baltimore when Colt fans rained boos upon quarterback John Unitas who has having a bad afternoon. That's the same John Unitas who holds virtually all of the NFL passing records and guided the Colts to a comeback win in the 1958 championship — "the greatest football game ever played."

Nor are local fans different. For the past few seasons the favorite pastime of many Memorial Arena inhabitants has been giving Belleville's version of the Bronx cheer to Dave Jones. Ralph Plase draws more applause for taking a high sticking penalty than Jones gets for setting up a play.

While Ralphie's checks and hustle are important so are things like accurate passing, winning face-offs and the ability to play different positions when needed. They are among the facets of Jones' play that seem to go unnoticed by many Belleville spectators.

In Montreal, at least, the fans will get a chance to rest their vocal chords. Tremblay has signed a contract with Quebec City of the WHA, where his talents may be appreciated vocally as well as financially.

Forum fans can now content themselves with the wheeling and dealing exploits of general manager Sam Pollock, who has been hailed as a genius by Montreal supporters, myself included.

But what is Sam really accomplishing when he adds three of the best Junior A hockey players in Canada (Steve Shutt, Dave Gardiner and Bunny Larocque) to an already imposing lineup; or dupes Oakland out of their top draft pick for five years; or pawns Phil Myre to Atlanta so they'll take the likes of Bart Crashley and allow him to protect Dale Hoganson and Bob Murdoch? He's ensuring that the boring 5-1, 5-2, 6-3 contests will continue and flustrate us Hill, rich get richer and its poor get poorer. Some genius!

Clarence Campbell, NHL president, could be playing on the gullibility of hockey fans when he releases a statement saying that "the number of letters I've received in my office has been incignificant," in regards to excluding Bobby Hull (and now J. C. Tremblay) from Team Canada.

Campbell claims to have received only "20 or 25 letters" of protest, although he disregards form letters, such as petitions, by labelling them "automatics."

From this, Clarence seems to suggest that hockey fans don't care less whether or not Hull plays. Do you? Do the people you've talked to, care?

Maybe Campbell greatly underestimates the dissatisfaction of fans concerning the matter. After all, he would attempt a snow job on such a knowledgable faction as the hockey public, now would he?

So while fans this fall will be blaming Tony Esposito for blowing long shots or Sinden for playing the wrong men, should we lose to the Russians, Clarence and Sam will be sliding safely back planning future NHL expansion into Kansas City and Washington.

Showing Good Horse Sense

Darcy Lawson shows both sides to Pony Club riding — the brisk work - out with jumps and cross - country (top) and the careful brushing and care of her partner Last Octave (bottom). Darcy and Octave proved to be the best of all B level competitors at the recent Ontario Region Pony Club event in which Darcy captured the over-all top individual award. Her victory sends her to the Canadian Championships in Langley, B.C. the first week of August.

Darcy Exceeds Highest Hopes

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

Darcy Lawson will be making an unexpected trip this summer — unexpected but not unprepared for.

Darcy will be heading for Langley B.C. come July 30 as Ontario's top B individual rider in the Canadian Championships and if her beginner's luck holds out she may be returning with more than just fond memories.

"I really surprised myself at the Ontario meet. I didn't expect to win anything," commented the 18-year-old Darcy, who had just attained her B rating earlier this spring. "It was really my first taste of a three day event. I was just out to do my best but was prepared for the worst. The 'worst' was victories in cross - country and stadium jumping, second in stable management and a third in dressage to easily give her the distinction of top rider and a spot in the Canadian championships.

Her trip to Langley will be the first major competition the six - year - old pony ring has faced but with the support and training she has had behind her, the pressure should be somewhat lessened.

Her father, Bill, is district commissioner for the Canadian Pony Club and founding member of the 40 strong Highland of Hastings Pony Club, gives her the necessary push from the home end while Norbert Schattman handles the training. Norbert was a three time junior champion of Germany and instructor at the Eglinton Pony Club, one of the biggest in Canada, which accounts for Darcy's B level rating, a position only a handful of riders have ever achieved.

Darcy has mastered the basics of handling and caring of the horses stressed in the Hastings Pony Club and now must concentrate on the riding end of the sport. But with Darcy, horses are not the object on practice; concentration and dedication are the strains words to Darcy.

She has been preparing herself for the upcoming championships but has not eliminated her other plans in the meantime. "This meet in B.C. will be great experience but I don't really expect to do much. I will be riding a strange horse and not totally don't do as well on someone else's horse but it is good experience," says Darcy whose own horse Last Octave will not be with her due to shipping costs. "Right now I'm training another horse, Barbarella, and that's what will keep me busy in the future."

Stamps Stomped

REGINA (CP) — A steady offensive effort by Saskatchewan Roughriders combined with an inability by Calgary Stampeders to capitalize on opportunities gave the Riders a 19-7 Western Football Conference exhibition win Friday before 10,105 fans.

The Stampeders stalled on four occasions after good marches into Saskatchewan territory. Each time they gambled and lost on third down.

Calgary's only score came late in the game with Jan Lindsay hitting Garry Kerr from 12 yards out to cap a 54-yard march. The drive was set up by an interception by Billy Van Burkleo.

Ron Lancaster started the game for Riders and threw an eight-yard touchdown strike to Bob Pearce, who took five passes for 111 yards in the game.

Bubba Wyche, who replaced Lancaster just past the midway point of the second quarter, threw a second-quarter screen pass to George Reed who followed good blocking for a 25-yard clinching score.

Jack Abendschan kicked two converts and a single of a 36-yard field-goal try, one of three he attempted. The others were from 45 and 40 yards away.

Larry Robinson kicked the Calgary convert.

Statistically the Stampeders held an edge in play, amassing 22 first downs to Riders' 19 and combining their running passing for a total offence of 378 yards compared with Saskatchewan's 363.

Gibson Blows Fastball Past Critics and Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If there was talk early this baseball season that Bob Gibson was finished as a top National Leaguer, he didn't hear it. If he did, he certainly didn't pay attention to it.

Gibson was 0-5 for the St. Louis Cardinals on May 16. He had been rocked badly. But now, a little over two months later, he is 11-5, winning his 11th straight Friday night with a 2-1 victory over Atlanta Braves. Besides his seven-hitter, the 36-year-old right-hander contributed a home run, his fourth of the season.

Did Gibson hear the remarks that his career was through?

"People are always saying something like that," said the five-time 20-game winner. "I'm satisfied as long as I'm pitching well. I could care less what people say.

"I just had two terrible games early," he said. "If all I have in a year is just two terrible games, I'll be fine."

Gibson is the hottest pitcher in the major leagues. His recent performances have convinced Manager Red Schoendienst he can't laugh to pick him as a member of the National League team for the July 25 game in Atlanta. It is the ninth time Gibson has been named to the squad.

Gibson's one mistake against the Braves was giving the opposing pitcher, Phil Niekro, who hit his 13th homer of the season over the right field fence.

Cards' manager Red Schoendienst tried to put Gibson's game in perspective.

"Simply," said Schoendienst, "he was a one-man show."

In other National League games, Chicago Cubs whipped Houston Astros 11-3, Cincinnati Reds defeated Philadelphia Phillies 11-5 Los Angeles Dodgers blanked Philadelphia Phillies 3-0, San Francisco Giants edged Montreal Expos 5-4 and New York Mets topped San Francisco Giants 3-1.

Billy Williams, a nemesis to Houston pitching, hit a homer, a double and single and drove in six runs for Chicago. His two-base hit scored three runs in the Cubs' six-run eighth. Jose Pagilone added a homer for Chicago while Doug Rader, Jim Wynn and Cesar Cedeno hit circuits for the Astros.

"They (Astros) have showed balls, curves, even a knuckleball or two," said Williams, who is 26 for 68 against Houston with six homers and 16 RBI. "Sometimes you hit good against one ball club and it's hard to explain.

"About three years ago, I hot good against San Francisco and another year it was Cincinnati," he said. "This year, I guess, it's Houston."

Willie Morgan hit two homers at Cincinnati, leaders in the West, beat Pittsburgh, leaders in the East.

BOB GIBSON

The Reds sewed up the game with two runs in the sixth, seventh and eighth and three in the ninth. Cincinnati has beaten the Pirates in seven of 10 games this season.

Wes Parker's two-run homer backed the five-hit pitching of Don Sutton for Los Angeles. Sutton, 12-5, now has five shutouts, best in the National League.

The Phillies threatened only once with two on and one out, but Sutton got a forcout and an infield fly to escape.

Nate Colbert's one-out sacrifice fly capped a four-run ninth inning for San Diego. Montreal led 4-1 going into the inning but the Padres loaded the bases with none out, then scored two runs on Derrel Thomas' single and another on an error before Colbert's sacrifice. Bob Bailey homered for the Expos in the top of the ninth.

Wilhelm Cut by L. A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hoyt Wilhelm says he can almost see the end of the road but the 49-year-old knuckleballing reliever wants to add yet another record to his string: most time pitcher for, career.

When Los Angeles Dodgers gave Wilhelm his unconditional release Friday, it was the ninth time he has been cut him free. The record is 10.

"If I don't play again this year," sighed Wilhelm at his home today, "it probably means my baseball is through. But I plan to contact some teams. I want to pitch again."

The first order of business, however, is helping the Dodgers for the last time. He says he'll pitch batting practice today before Philadelphia Phillies and Friday he'll face each other and "I'll work out with them next Wednesday, after the all-star break. Wednesday, Hoyt will officially be 49.

The resident of Columbus, Ga., drives home on the Friday with son Jimmy, 14, who had his appendix cut recently and can't swim for a while then.

"I have no hard feeling toward the Dodgers," said Wilhelm. "They gave me a chance when I didn't think I'd get another one. They've treated me right. They have a great organization and a great manager. He pitched me every chance he got, I'm sure of that."

Wilhelm and his knuckleball are almost legend.

He is the only man ever to pitch in more than 1,000 games. He has hurled 2,533 innings in a lifetime earned run average of 2.52. His 1,070 games include 1,018 games as a reliever. With slimmer in 1958, he pitched a 1-0 no-hitter against the New York Yankees. He has played 20 years in the majors and when he broke into baseball in 1942, the Second World War had barely begun.

His other records include most career victories in relief, 124; most games finished in career, 651, and most errors less games by a pitcher 311 in 1968.

Last season, in his second stint with Atlanta Braves, Wilhelm was on the disabled list for two months, then finally released June 29. He was at loose ends until the manager of the Dodgers' Spokane farm team, Tommy Lasorda, called Hoyt.

Lasorda asked only one question: "Can you still pitch?" Hoyt said, "Yes." He joined the Pacific Coast League team, compiled a 2-2 record and then the Dodgers brought him up. This year in 25 innings he allowed 13 earned runs for a 4.68 earned-run average.

He became expendable when Bill Russell, hitting .275, came off the injured list, his replacement, Lee Lacy, was hitting .316 and the Dodgers felt Hoyt would not be missed as much.

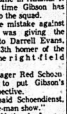
If no other team wants him, Wilhelm has been offered a pitching coach's job in the Dodgers' minor-league organization.

Tigers Mound Ace Keeps Rolling On

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I guess I stand a great chance to win 20 games," said Mickey Lolich in the understatement of the American League baseball season.

He should. He won 19 already. Lolich, the tireless left arm of the Detroit Tiger pitching staff, won No. 17 Friday night with a seven-hit, 3-1 beating of Texas Rangers.



MICKEY LOLICH

"I was ahead of most of the hitters and that always helps," said Lolich, who threw only 106 pitches. Seventy-five per cent hold of strikes.

"This was a little easier game than most," he said.

Not only did Lolich move his victory total to the highest in the major leagues, but the burly southpaw also completed his 19th game, the top figure in that department too. In addition, his five strikeouts gave him the American League lead in that category with 156.

"It was a typical Lolich game in the sense that he completed it and threw mostly strikes," said Detroit manager Bill Martin. "He has an enormous capacity for reaching back and getting a little extra gas when he needs it."

The Tigers' victory kept them one game ahead of Baltimore Orioles in the tight East race after the Orioles defeated Kansas City Royals 7-6. Elsewhere in the American League, Boston Red Sox tripped the Oakland Athletics 5-4 in 14 innings; Milwaukee Brewers stopped Minnesota Twins 2-0; Cleveland Indians beat Chicago White Sox 8-2 and New York Yankees took a double-header from California Angels, 6-0 and 3-0.

All Detroit runs came on homers. Dick McAuliffe hit a home-run shot in the fifth inning and Norm Cash hit a two-run job in the sixth.

Lolich gave up the only Texas run in the first when Dave Nelson opened with a double, took second on Marty Martinez's infield out and scored on Rich Billings' two-out single.

Bobp Powell slugged a 450 foot home run as Baltimore took an early seven-run lead and held off Kansas City to keep the East race extremely tidgely.

"I have a feeling the race is going to stay close but I have a feeling also we're really going to have to play hard," Baltimore manager Earl Weaver. "After 98 games last year, we were 2½ games ahead. We've got plenty of time yet."

Asked if anyone besides Detroit and his Orioles are threats in the pennant race, Weaver replied: "Boston is looking good."

Mays Follows Right Script

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — If a Hollywood script writer were doing the story, Willie Mays would hit a home run in his return to Candlestick Park as a member of New York Mets.

Mays wrote the story himself. He smashed a 400-foot homer to account for the winning runs as New York Mets defeated San Francisco Giants 3-1 Friday night.

Mays, who went to the Mets in a trade earlier this season, hit the homer off losing pitcher Jim Barr to highlight a three-run inning for New York.

WILLIE MAYS

"It was nice but nothing like the first time I played in New York," Mays said. He received a standing ovation the first two times he came to the plate.

The crowd of 18,117 went wild when he hit the homer.

Mays trotted around the bases for the 650th time of his major career. It was also his fifth game-winning hit for the Mets this season.

Former team-mate Bobby Bonds admitted he was happy to see Mays hit the homer.

"I couldn't cheer for him because he plays for the other team. But inside, I felt happy for him."

Mays also had a single later in the game which brought him another ovation. It also caused a fan to run on the field to shake his hand in the seventh inning.

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Ernie Miller, goaltender last year with Greensboro in the Eastern Hockey League, has signed with Barrie Flyers, the Ont a rio Hockey Association Senior A team announced Friday. Miller, a native of Barrie, had a goals-against average of 3.09 in three seasons with Greensboro.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Defensive lineman Ken Frith was revived with emergency first aid Friday after collapsing at Bill-more Colts' football training camp. Frith, who was in a 3-on-3 body cast most of the winter, recovering from a knee injury which he received while playing with Saskatchewan Roughriders last season, ill while running conditioning dashes at the end of the workout.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Garrett Hunsperger, outstanding defensive tackle with the British Columbia Lions, had the cartilage removed from his left knee Friday and will be out of action for at least four weeks. Eagle Keys, coach of the Western Football Conference club, said Hunsperger will go on the 30-day injury reserve list next Thursday, the day Keys must trim his 46-man roster to 32.

Peterborough PCOs ended their Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A season without a loss and Etobicoke was eliminated from playoff action in separate games Friday night.

Peterborough defeated Bramalea Ecoliers 8-5 in Bramalea, its 20th consecutive win of the season. Mississauga PCOs edged Etobicoke PCOs 9-8 while St. Catharines Legionnaires beat Rexdale Warriors 17-12.

Guy Legault led Peterborough with three goals and scoring champion Jim Johnston scored two. Bob Watson, Randy Bryan and Ted Floyd scored one each.

Meads Catch Trainmen, Lenders Lose to UIC

Mead Johnson have again caught the C.N. atop the division II standings thanks to AOCO, but the Belleville Lenders remained deadlocked with the Intelligencer in front of division A northbanks to the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Meads knocked off C division leaders AOCO 17-10 while UIC blasted the Lenders 14-2. In other Industrial Softball League action Foley's and the Independents battled to a 4-4 stalemate and Constellation ripped the Utilities 20-8.

Meads picked up eight runs in the fifth and sixth innings last night to erase a short-lived AOCO lead. Cliff Hinman paced Meads attack with a single and two doubles while Ken Osborne tripled and Ray Finkle added three singles.

Osbourne first ball for five innings on the winners' mound allowing all 10 runs. Sonny Holaway threw hitless ball over the final two frames. Ron McCoy went distance for AOCO and took the loss despite home run support from Doug McKay and B. Wallis.

UIC scored three times in the first inning and never looked back in whipping the Lenders. Joe Clarke smashed a homer and single and Clint Halliday and Bill Healy added a single and double each to the winners' 14 hit parade.

Zuger Zapped By NFL

HAMILTON (CP) — A new National Football League rule has barred quarterback Joe Zuger from joining Detroit Lions this season as a punter, he learned Thursday.

The unpublicized rule bars players who have attended a Canadian football League training camp from joining an NFL club the same season.

Zuger, prevented by a shoulder injury from reclaiming his quarterback job with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, had been waived out of the CFL and had hoped to catch on as a punter with the Lions, the team that originally drafted him from Arizona State in 1962.

He said he found out about the rule Thursday in discussions with Detroit general manager Russ Thomas.

In previous years, players released by CFL clubs after participating in one or more league games had been barred from the NFL, but the rule had not applied to training camps.

The rule also affects Moses Denson, top draft choice of Washington Redskins and a running back for the last two years with Montreal Alouettes. Denson had been negotiating with the Washington but attended Montreal's training camp and has participated in the club's pre-season exhibition games.

Also affected was fullback Dennis Duncan of Ottawa Rough Riders, who received his release a week ago in order to join New York Giants, although John Sauer, legal counsel for the New York owner Wellington Mara had told him he was unaware of the regulation.

Agro said he had been in touch with Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players' Association "and he's raising hell."

Staub Disabled

NEW YORK (AP) — Rusty Staub was to be discharged from hospital today following successful surgery on his injured right hand.

The star outfielder for New York Mets, who leads the National League baseball club in home runs and RBI, underwent a one-hour operation Friday and is expected to be able to play again in four or five weeks. Except for one game Staub has been sidelined since June 18.

In the operation, Dr. Richard Eaton removed the bone of the laminate bone of Staub's hand. Dr. Eaton was assisted by Dr. Peter LaMotte, the Mets' team physician.

Staub was placed on the disabled list by the Mets.

Wade Traded ?

MONTREAL (CP) — Quarterback Sonny Wade met with the general managers of the Montreal Alouettes and Hamilton Tiger Cats Friday to talk trade but no deal has yet been made.

The meeting was held after Ralph Sazio, general manager of the Tiger Cats, arrived at the Als training camp.

He met with Wade and J. I. Albrecht, Als general manager, for two hours.

Us coach Sam Etcheverry said "a trade is probable" but he said "some technicalities were holding up completion of the trade.

Gary McMurray threw the win firing a six hitter as he walked three and fanned six in taking the decision over Gary Bell.

Foley's waited until the fifth inning to push across three runs and earn them the 4-4 tie with the Independents.

Don Smith hurled for Foley's fanning nine and walking two. He received hitting backing from Doug Mason, Glynn Reynolds, George Foote and Bob Wannamaker who saw two hits apiece.

R. Green and H. Fornier each pulled three safeties for the Independents and Ken Bertrand crashed a homer and two singles. D. Campbell went the route on the mound striking out six and walking a pair. Constellation failed to score in the first and last innings but did enough in between to assure themselves of their third win of the season.

Wayne May led the winners with two singles and triple and Jim Lloyd had a double and single.

Bart Starr Retires From Green Bay

REENBAY, Wis. (AP) — Bart Starr, who made victory and the Green Bay Packers synonymous in a happier era, has finally conceded defeat to five years of injuries which eroded his once consummate passing skills.

The quarterback, 38, whose lifetime passing completion percentage is a National Football League record, decided on Thursday night to retire as knifing pain in his right arm and shoulder brought yet another sleepless night.

Flanked by his wife, Cherry, and coach Dan Devine, Starr announced it Friday at a news conference that was not unexpected, yet surprising for its suddenness.

Although he had not progressed as well as hoped after two arm operations, that sidelined him for all but four games in 1971, Starr had said July 1 he planned to return for a 17th season with the Packers.

"I have exhausted every effort to recover from the pain I have experienced in my arm," he read from a prepared text.

"After some 20 days of consultation with our doctors and the realization that my shoulder problem is continually aggravated by throwing, I have decided to announce my retirement today," he said. "Playing football has always been great fun for me, but, because of my discomfort this is no longer an enjoyable experience."

There was speculation Starr would rejoin the Packers as an assistant coach, but his only immediate plans are to spend a few days with his family. He has a thriving automobile dealership in Birmingham, Ala., and is about to open another.

Starr joined the Packers as a second round draft choice from Alabama in 1957 and was ineffective in his first few years.

He became a starter late in the 1959 season, Vince Lombardi's first as coach, and quarterbacked Green Bay to six divisional and five NFL titles in the next eight seasons. The Packers added the first two Super Bowls to their unprecedented collection of championships in 1966 and 1967.

Starr's best season was 1966. He completed 156 of 251 passes, or 62.2 per cent, for 2,257 yards and 14 touchdowns with just three intercepted. But his physical troubles began the next year when he was blitzed the Atlanta Falcons.

Despite a torturous off season program in an effort to strengthen his arm, it gave out on the fourth day of training camp last July.

He underwent a biceps tendon repair at the Mayo Clinic, and shortly thereafter a second operation to correct a blood leakage stemming from the first session. He came back to play in four games, completing 24 of 43 passes for 286 yards.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Sunday, July 22

Aries (March 21-April 19): There's nothing to be gained by reclaiming time and money by travelling just to be on the move. Stay near home and make yourself useful.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): A Sunday in an odd pattern promises nostalgia. Not much is new in the sphere of romance and sentimental concerns.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Gathered scattered friends and loved ones—make this a reunion Sunday for healing old differences. Correspondence is favored.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Smooth away yesterday's stresses—by being busy with Sunday routines. Social contact may possibly include romance.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Many of the temptations at hand are beyond your budget. You are better off around reasonable people who accept you for yourself.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Relax this Sunday and build your inner strength with serene prayer. Family get-togethers bring many pleasant benefits.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Those near and familiar produce surprises, enough to make a most interesting interval without ranging far afield seeking mariels.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Let others pursue their pet projects —they may have more enthusiasm than you. It's all right to follow the simplest, easiest path now.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be patient while early complexities run their course. There will be time to review your resources, plan future rearrangements.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): By afternoon you'll be glad you held your temper in the morning. Do your full share in community work. Find or give a party in the evening.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Make this a low-key day with only minimum activity. Study, meditation, prayer, bring slow-growing, profound spiritual gain.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Being gentle and friendly comes as naturally as any other approach now. You have energy to gain by simple acceptance of people.

Monday, July 24

Aries (March 21-April 19): Any error made now brings permanent complications. Nothing is what appears at first glance, so look twice before making suggestions.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Circumstances bring a tension which yields to simple explanation. Fresh ventures are off to a heavy start. Favor one-time only deals.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Your temper is more even than usual—you have a duty to help others bridge over this busy day's stress. Routine is preferred.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Early hours tend to proud achievement, strong results, after which details can be filled in. Avoid rushing important people.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Unexpected breaks inspire or provoke, give you an opening for a long-planned test. Care with all things mechanical is strongly urged.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Connections formed today are temporary at best. An old error repeats now. You have energy to gain by simple acceptance of people.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Friends, relatives tangle themselves in schemes meant for others. Where you move to restore balance, step a little short of your full capacity.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Deliberation should prevail over your impulses. Tact and persuasion normally swings nearly everybody into helping your ventures.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your money will be wasted unless it's lasting use. Delicate, perhaps harsh statements needed to be taken too seriously.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): New ideas aren't for immediate trial. Begin planning early, there's a lot that has to go on despite your divided attention.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Neglected loose ends need urgent action. Don't add any new issues. It's quicker to do it yourself than to show others how.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): A sudden change of circumstances keeps you alert. Personal relationships change. Leave room out of friendships and vice-versa.

Hormone Users Possibly Can Stop

By G. C. THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor passed away, leaving me with two refills of hormone pills.

I haven't taken any for several months. I felt awful, bloated and "busty" when I was still taking them for 20 days and five days off.

My question: At age 60, how much longer do I need to take them? I had a hysterectomy nine years ago. Could I take the pills for two or three days, as needed? I don't get hot flashes, just a warm feeling after I go to bed.—Mrs. R.S.

There's beza a phrase, much bandied about, that "once you start taking hormones, you have to take them the rest of your life."

Well, as the old song once expressed it, "it ain't necessarily so." Some women may be more comfortable in continuing hormones as long as they live. Others may be perfectly happy without any hormones. After all, before hormones were discovered, menopause managed to get along without them.

And still other women may find that a reduced amount of hormones may be all they need to remain comfortable.

Stop a minute and think: What's the purpose of hormones? Well, some women are quite uncomfortable from hot flashes and other symptoms after menopause, or after "surgical menopause" if their ovaries have had to be removed. Taking hormones in pill form (or sometimes by injection) can make up for the hormones the ovaries are no longer supplying.

The body, however, often manages to compensate for this. Perhaps that is there's no real purpose in continuing to take hormones "forever." The question boils down to this: Are you getting along all right without them?

Your own suggestion sounds valid enough: Stop the pills for a few days if symptoms occur. But since for several months you have been getting along without taking the pills at all, it wouldn't seem as if you found that you needed very little or even none.

At risk of being accused—again—of answering a question by saying, "See your doctor," I also suggest that it wouldn't be too bad an idea for you to get a new doctor, now that your old one has died, and have him check you over and advise whether your do or don't need hormones, or how much.

One of the chief reasons for continuing female hormones is to combat the bone changes of osteoporosis which can occur in some women well after the menopause.

Dear Doctor: May I have your advice on vitamin pills—not the kind prescribed by a doctor for a specific deficiency, but the kind sold over the counter? Mrs. H.J.

A vitamin is a vitamin is a vitamin, and it doesn't matter whether they're in a bottle or in the food you eat, whether prescribed or not.

I have no objection to those sold over the counter.

My only question is whether or not you need them. Your doctor can tell you this. A normal diet supplies all we need in the way of vitamins. If you have a poor diet, you need supplemental vitamins.

It's that simple.

Note to Mrs. J.L.H.: Your husband may have "heard about silicone shots" to enlarge the breasts, but they are not legal in the United States since their safety and effectiveness have not been proved. Shaped sacs, filled with silicone, can be implanted surgically, but that has nothing to do with "shots."

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♥	Pass
4♠	Pass

Opening lead — five of clubs.

Let's say you're West, defending against four spades. Having listened carefully to the bidding, you decide that this is not the type of hand on which to adopt super-cautious defense, so you make the aggressive lead of a club away from the king. .

Partner wins with the ace, declarer playing the jack, and returns the king of diamonds. You signal with the five and partner continues with the seven, which you win with the ace. On the diamonds declarer played the six and eight.

You have three tricks home and the question is whether to try to cash a diamond or a club. The bidding has told you that South has the king of hearts, so your next play is obviously crucial.

If declarer started with two diamonds and two clubs, you have to lead the king of clubs to stop the contract. If he started with three diamonds and one club, you have to lead a diamond to stop the contract.

Unquestionably this is a tough problem and it would be easy to go wrong. You might even think the right play is just a guess and therefore mentally toss a coin.

However, there is a logical way of solving the problem. You have to ask yourself whether partner would have defended in this fashion if he had five diamonds as opposed to four.

If we assume that East had the K Q 10 7 3, his proper play at trick three would be the queen, not the seven. Knowing that the defense could take no more than two diamond tricks, he would want to win the second one himself so that he could switch to a club at trick four to prevent you from going wrong.

That's failure to do this indicates he started with only four diamonds, and the proper play at trick four is therefore to finish declarer.

Ten Are Drowned In Georgian Bay

Dozen Were Aboard Twelve-foot Craft

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — Seven children and three adults apparently drowned in Georgian Bay Sunday night when their 12-foot aluminum boat, overloaded with 12 persons and camping equipment, sank despite their frantic efforts to bail the sinking craft.

Provincial police said eight children and four adults, members of two families from Aurora and Holland Landing north of Toronto, had set out in the 12-foot boat for a week's camping on nearby Snake Island.

They were about half way to the island, a rocky, uninhabited area six miles from here, when the boat was swamped and sank.

The only known survivors were a 10-year-old girl, who stayed afloat for more than two hours without a life preserver, and her mother, who swam safely to shore after five-foot waves tore her three-year-old son from her arms.

Names of the survivors or those presumed drowned have not been released.

The 10-year-old girl was rescued by a group of persons on a 30-foot cruiser, who overheard her cries for help.

Ernie Meissner of Kitchener had cut the engines on the cruiser while he got his bearings. It was during this quiet interval that a passenger, Barbara Gierer of Kitchener, heard

The child's first words when they hauled her aboard were

"I'm freezing. My brothers and sisters and mom and dad drowned. So did my uncle and aunt and all my cousins.

"They bailed and they bailed but the boat was swamped and we sank."

The girl's mother swam to a cottage area east of here known as Triple Bay Park. She was clad only in underwear, having kicked off most of her clothes to make swimming easier.

Diane Dorion, 29, a resident of the cottage at Triple Bay was awakened by screaming and pounding at her front door.

She said the woman told her that she wasn't a good swimmer, but somehow managed to stay afloat with her three-year-old son.

She kept hanging on and hanging on, but somewhere I lost him," she sobbed.

Mrs. Dorion said the woman told her that the boat contained no life preservers and "I know we never should have gone."

Mr. Meissner's cruiser searched in vain for other survivors after picking up the 10-year-old girl. But they saw no one, even with the aid of a large spotlight.

The two survivors were reported in fair condition in hospital today, suffering from shock.

The body of a woman, the aunt of the rescued girl, was recovered today. There was there was little hope that any of the other seven children and two missing adults had survived.

Storms Cut Off Power

TORONTO (CP) — Violent thunder and lightning storms flashed through the resort area north of Toronto Saturday night, uprooting two-foot-thick trees, knocking down hydro poles and causing power disruption to more than 10,000 homes, an Ontario Hydro spokesman said Sunday.

He said the hardest hit area was just north of Barrie where trees were knocked down.

The series of storms, with high winds, hit other large sections of the southern Muskoka Lakes district, forcing Hydro management crews to work through the night to restore power.

Late Sunday night, a Hydro spokesman said power had been restored to all but about 1,000 homes, with management crews doing all the work.

He said the striking union members were asked to supply emergency crews but refused.

A spokesman for Canadian Union of Public Employees, Local 1000, said the area was surveyed and it was determined that the power failure was because only an "inconvenience."

Supervisory staff was brought in from Toronto and North Bay to help repair power lines, the Hydro official said.

He said about 11,200 union members now are on the job Hearing only about 700 men working at the Bruce nuclear power station at Douglas Point.

The union started the series of rotating strikes June 25 to back demands for job security and higher wages. Salaries currently range between $103.20 and $294.84.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: The heat wave over southern Ontario is in its final stages today. Temperatures this afternoon will be down only slightly but humidex values will be about 95 with only a few localities reaching 100. During the peak of the heat wave the afternoon humidex was 105 to 110. By Tuesday cooler and drier conditions will be well established. Thunderstorms should be in the seasonally low 60s.

Sweat-box Days Coming to End

TORONTO (CP) — The weatherman predicts less discomfort for southern Ontario residents after four sweltering days. The forecast for today is less humidity and with the high temperature slipping down into the 80s. Daytime temperatures have been rising above 90th some places. The heat wave has been part of a sticky stretch caused by what weatherman call a Bermuda High — a high-pressure area over Bermuda causing a backup of warm and humid air to the west.

Beating the Heat at Outlet Park

Hot, humid weekend weather sent thousands to Prince Edward County in southwest shore, to cool off in Lake Ontario. Cars lined the highway at the toll gates and only 30 of 482 camping sites were vacant at Outlet Provincial Park by Sunday evening. Some cooled of in the water; others like the crew of the catamaran that skimmed by the beach Sunday, preferred to stay afloat.

Protestants Demand Army Retaliate

BELFAST (CP) — A British soldier was shot dead by a sniper in Belfast today and rioting flared in Londonderry killed one man and wounded at least four other persons.

A bloody violence continued. British troops swooped on two Catholic housing estates in Armagh southeast of Belfast and seat of the Roman Catholic Church hierarchy for all Ireland.

The soldiers, searching for IRA suspects and hidden arms caches, seized 10 persons for questioning.

Similar raids had been made during the weekend in Belfast by British troops in launching a tougher campaign against Irish Republican Army terrorists.

Protestant militants threatened to take action this week against the IRA's barricaded strongholds throughout northern Ireland.

A spokesman for the paramilitary Ulster Defence Association made the announcement at a news conference Sunday night and added: "We are not naming the day or specifying the moves we shall take.

"But to the Provisional IRA, we issue this warning: Look over your shoulders if and when you leave your ratholes or stop hiding behind innocent children and women's skirts."

The unnamed spokesman, who wore a webbed mask and military style jacket, said the UDA would erect no more barricades of its own in Northern Ireland.

But present Protestant no-go areas would remain until the IRA's barricades in Londonderry were dismantled.

There were signs the British government was also ready to take a tougher stance against the IRA.

Britain's administrator for Northern Ireland, William Whitelaw, and Defence Secretary Lord Carrington had talks with Prime Minister Edward Heath, and it was believed a new hard-line strategy was mapped out.

Pledges Given Israel By U.S. Motivated Sadat

CAIRO (Reuter) — Anwar Sadat said today that pledges and guarantees given by the United States to Israel had caused him to take his decision ending the massive Soviet military presence in Egypt.

"The attitude of the United States is the axis of the problem we are living with now and which led to the decisions I have taken regarding our relations with the Soviet Union," he said.

Sadat was addressing 3,000 Arab Socialists, senior Army officers and members of the Arab Socialist Union in Cairo University.

His speech was carried live by radio and television.

Sadat said the promises given by Washington to Israel were:

1. To prevent the UN Security Council resolution compelling Israel to go back to pre-1967 war positions.

2. To see to it that no settlement is imposed on Israel without direct negotiations.

3. To maintain military supremacy for Israel.

The Egyptian president also blamed the United States for the failure of the Big Four power talks on the Middle East and the failure of the peace mission by UN special envoy Gunner Jarring.

The Egyptian leader told the congress

"Whatever happens we will never accept that our land should remain occupied.

"We don't want to fight for the sake of fighting, but to liberate our land."

The president reviewed in detail exchanges between the U.S. and Egypt on the Middle East since he succeeded the late President Nasser in October, 1970.

Sadat charged the United States with waging a war of nerves against Egypt.

Since January, 1972, the president said the U.S. was pouring military equipment into Israel "as if to tell us 'What does the Soviet Union give you What can the Soviet Union do for you?'"

Referring to the Soviet Union's attitude towards the Middle East crisis, the Egyptian leader said Russia was a oil power which has her own policies and her own preoccupations.

"For then the Middle East crisis is not the No. 1 problem, but for us it is. Thus our view differed as all friends differ."

Sadat made it clear there had been Egyptian-Soviet differences in view in 1971 which he conveyed to the central committee of the Arab Socialist Union.

"I am keen to safeguard our friendship with the Soviet Union and I do not want our enemies to capitalize on this development," he said.

All British Ports Closed

LONDON (AP)—Striking longshoremen shut down all major British ports today to protest the arrest of five London dockers, thousands of workers in other key industries walked out in sympathy, propelling the country towards its first general strike since 1926.

By mid-day most of the country's 42,000 dockers had joined the stoppage that began Friday in London, Liverpool and Hull. Longshoremen in Southampton, Manchester, Glasgow, Bristol, Swansea, Ipswich and other ports walked out today.

Miners, printers, car workers and truck drivers also went on strike today in a massive show of support for the five longshoremen jailed Friday for illegal picketing in a London dock-land dispute.

It was the first order to jail workers given by Britain's new Industrial Relations Court set up under a controversial strike-control law that was enacted earlier this year. The ruling immediately touched off strike moves and a direct confrontation between organized labor and Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government.

Heath's cabinet met before the prime minister was due to receive leaders of the Trades Union Congress, the voice of Britain's organized labor representing nine million workers.

TUC leaders demanded during the weekend that the jailed dockers be released and the strike-control law be suspended if the government wants to avert a national dock strike. The government is expected to refuse both demands.

TUC leaders said they would resist pressures for the time being for other unions to join the walkout in a general strike, But some unions clearly thought otherwise.

Truck drivers went on strike today and their union leader predicted a total stoppage of freight haulage on British roads within 48 hours.

Ironically, it was a dispute between drivers and dockers that led to the picketing controversy in the first place. Both want to unload container trucks at Inland depot. Once the court ordered the dockers jailed, however, the drivers joined in condemning the ruling.

What Did Michelangelo Know About Good Taste?

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Last January, in an effort to brighten up the rather drab city hall building, Mayor S. Lester Ralph commissioned artist Paul White to do a series of murals.

One of them on the ceiling turned out to be a nude.

But soon lady identified as "Mother Nature."

Now the council, by an 11-to-0 vote, has adopted an order asking the Somerville Clergymen's Association "to review and evaluate the painting . . . and submit a report as to its . . . "

". . . as to the moral ramifications of such an exhibit upon the personal fibre of this community."

"I don't think city hall is the right place for the painting," said Ald. John Haberer. "I might be all right for the Sistine Chapel, but I don't think it's in good taste."

Loyalist Keeping Busy Through Summer Time

Although regular classes are out for the summer, Loyalist College is still humming with activity.

Construction on the college's third building continues with part of the structure expected to be ready for use in September.

And several classes continue to operate at the college. About 200 people are enrolled in the Manpower retraining division and they are attending the college full-time.

The accelerated accounting program of the business division has three classes of, in session, one in each of its three semesters.

The extension division is running classes in management techniques for the unemployees of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Although teachers work a 10-month year and have the two summer months off, the administrative staff continues on the job with a staggered holiday schedule.

Administrators expect enrolment to increase by one-third this September. Some programs are already full, especially the Early Childhood Education and Registered Nursing Assistant courses.

The Mental Retardation Counsellors course can accept about 10 more students.

The Assessment Administration course is now being overhauled so that its graduates will be able to qualify for a wider range of jobs. The name of the course is expected to become Assessment, Appraisal and Real Estate.

As a result of the addition of courses in real estate and appraisal in September, graduates may qualify not only for jobs with the provincial government, but also with banks, trust companies, mortgage lenders, appraisers, real estate firms and the federal government.

The college has notified potential students that more jobs are open to graduates in accountancy than to graduates of any other course taught at Loyalist.

"Accountancy is more than just numbers . . . almost anyone can master the numbers," says a letter to prospective students. "It conquerses the analysis and control of industry, commerce and government."

Loyalist offers 10 of the 14 credit courses required for the RIA designation of the Society Industrial Accountants. Comparable credits can be obtained at Loyalist for the Certified General Accountant designation.

Land Speculators Anticipate Policy

Has the provincial government's encouragement of industrial and residential growth in the Cobourg-Port Hope and the Belleville-Trenton areas encouraged land speculation?

More than 1,500 acres of land between Cobourg and Port Hope, south of Highway 401 was sold last week to unidentified Toronto interests.

All the land will be held for future development, said Walter Frank, head of W. Frank Real Estate company in Bowmanville, who handled the sale.

The tract involved has Highway 401 as its northern boundary. Most of the land purchased is now in farms. In the proposed official plan of Hamilton township, that portion of the tract south of Highway 2 is designated as future parkland.

A month ago, provincial treasurer Darcy McKeough said he was aware speculators had purchased large tracts of land between Cobourg and Port Hope, but the province had no intention of freezing land negotiations.

Last month, the government released Prospects for the Lake Ontario Region, a booklet outlining three proposals for future development of the region between Bowmanville and Kingston, extending north to Algonquin Park.

The proposal for concentration of industry and population growth in two centres in the region is described as more efficient and economical than decentralization of industry.

In June, Mr. McKeough announced the formation of a task force for the Cobourg-Port Hope area. It will study patterns of future urban-industrial growth in the area.

A public meeting will be held Tuesday night in BCI auditorium to discuss recommendations for the Belleville - Trenton area as outlined in Prospects for the Lake Ontario Region. Officials from Mr. McKeough's office will be on hand for the meeting, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Horses Freed, Foal Destroyed

PICTON (Staff) — A vicious prank at a Main Street East boarding stable last weekend necessitated the destruction of a two-week-old pony foal owned by Susan Taylor of Picton.

Picton police were called to the barn on the property of former Picton mayor H. J. McFarland Saturday night after a report that all animals kept there had been turned loose in an adjacent field. Among them were two stallions owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. Leversedge of Picton.

Miss Taylor's pony mare and foal were among the animals released from the stalls and the foal later was destroyed because of injuries inflicted by the other horses.

Police constable noted the stallions had been secured fastened in their stalls with loops of chain on the doors.

Police also are investigating complaints of intruders received from horse owners stabling animals at the Picton fairgrounds barns.

HAVE A PLEASANT TRIP

Many a vacation has been ruined by an ailment that is most common to tourists — diarrhea. In a great many cases, diarrhea can be traced to nervousness, tension or fatigue of the vacation and usually it will disappear after a day or two.

One way to possibly avoid this unpleasantness is to follow some common sense rules — don't wait until the last minute to get ready, don't drive too far each day, stop and stretch your legs and don't overeat while travelling. It might also be a good idea to stop by and let us recommend something to take along to cure the problems comes up despite your efforts to avoid it.

Greek Church Site Consecrated

Sunday marked a special day for members of the Greek Canadian Community of Belleville and District, Incorporated, when the ground for their first church was consecrated by the Orthodox Bishop of Canada, Bishop Theodosius of Toronto. This event was followed several hours later by a fund-raising dinner which resulted in $21,000 being added to the church building fund.

Heavy downpours of rain threatened to abort the sod-turning and blessing ceremony at the church site on the north end of Avondale road in Belleville's west end.

However, as Bishop Theodosius jokingly remarked, "My Boss, he gave us 30 minutes to do the ceremony." Showers again began to fall shortly after 5:30 p.m., when the crowd of approximately 30 members of the Greek community and Mayor J. Russell Scott on behalf of the city, concluded their memorable ritual.

Leading members of the Greek community began the ceremony in the grass-choked plot, by setting of a small wooden table, on which a clean white cloth was spread. This table symbolizes the altar which will be installed.

Dressed in black robes, cloaked in a gold-colored stole, Bishop Theodosius recited prayers and traditional blessing in the native tongue, interspersed with an occasional English translation.

Bible texts were based on quotations of the Apostle Peter. As The Rock, Peter's quotations are traditional for foundation blessings, symbolizing a firm base on which the church stands.

During the ceremony, the bearded Bishop dipped Basil leaves . . . a symbol of royalty in the Greek Orthodox Church . . . in Holy Water, and with cross in hand, blessed both the worshippers and the site for the new 110-foot by 44-foot church.

Members of the Greek community explained they had been incorporated in 1963, with approximately 60 member families. Since then, they have grown to 110 member families, with a total of 450 people.

Peter Zegouras, a spokesman for the Community, which includes Belleville, Trenton, Picton, Napanee and Campbellford, said he would go so far as to say "we are the largest organized ethnic group in the Belleville area, recognized by both the federal and provincial governments".

Since their inception, they have been without their own hall, or church.

Use of St. George's Church has been discontinued because of future demolition. From September until their new church is complete, the families will use St. Joseph's Church at the corner of Bridge and Herchimer.

They plan to move into their church in December, with construction beginning in September. Structured in brick, the building will serve as a joint church and community centre for the 110 Greek families.

Well known in the area for their colorful ceremonies, the Greek community, as members of the Quinte Arts Council, held an annual costumed week-long Greek Week. As well, they held an annual Greek Festival, this year to take place on October 28, at the Royal Canadian Legion Hall on Pinnacle Street.

Their annual Litany, known as a Epitaphios procession usually held from St. Thomas' Church down through the downtown district on Good Friday, is a tribute to the tradition and pagaent of their forefathers.

As a closely knit community, who wish to retain their heritage in Canada, the families conduct their own Greek language school which will be held this year at Loyalist College. A professional teacher has been hired to help teach the 50 youngsters who will be enrolled. As well, free interpreter and translation services are offered for court and immigration requirements

Bomb Warning Is Issued

TRENTON (Staff) — The Canadian Armed Forces has issued a warning that "despite efforts to rec over unexploded munitions several unexploded bombs are known to exist" in the Weller Bay - Brighton Bay area.

In a notice being posted in Post Office lobbies, the public is "warned of the danger of entering the described danger area and that the Crown will not be responsible for any damage or injury including death resulting from disregard of this warning."

The area including the westerly third of Weller Bay, the eastern end of Brighton Bay from Bald Island south to a point northwest of Robinson Point was part of the RCAF Consecon Air Weapons Range and was "formerly used by the RCAF for air weapons exercises."

Calculations indicate the area is roughly four square miles in area. A letter accompanying the notice says the warning about the unexploded bombs is a "routine" one.

Cable TV In Schools ?

Napanee - Deseronto Cablevision Ltd., now awaiting the outcome of hearing before the Canadian Radio Television Commission, has offered free time to the Lennox and Addington Board of Education to air taped educational programs. The board deferred decision on the matter until the cable company learns whether or not it will get a licence to operate. The firm, which hopes to carry five to seven hours of Ontario ministry of education programs, is comprised of newspaper publisher Earl Morrison, insurance agent George Grant and coin laundry owner Reginald Dawson, all of Na-raising drives, including the now defunct 50-50 draw, have brought the families closer to their ultimate goal for construction of the building.

Blessing Given at Greek Church Site

During ceremonial blessing of foundation site for the Greek Canadian Community of Belleville and District Incorporated church site on Avondale Road, Greek Orthodox Bishop of Canada, Bishop Theodosius, uses traditional Basil leaves to bless crowd and site. The 110 family member community will begin construction of their first church in Belleville in September. It will serve a dual purpose as church and community centre.

Even the Young

Even the young members of the Greek Canadian Community of Belleville and District, Incorporated, got in the act after their church fund - raising dinner last night. Here John Zikopoulos receives $8 donation from Georgina, fourmonth - old daughter of George and Tina Symetos of 16 Chatham Street. Funds raised for construction of the community's church, last night totalled $21,000 in donations from business and individuals.

Quinte Weekend Death Toll Five

There were five deaths in the Quinte area this weekend. Three were drowning mishaps, two were traffic fatalities.

Ontario Provincial Police divers, Garnet Brown and James McCormick, recovered the bodies of two victims of separate drowning incidents Sunday afternoon.

The first was the body of Keith Bernard Dean, 17, of Thomasburg, who got caught in fast waters at 3:30 p.m. Sunday below the grist mill dam at Chisholm's Mills, approximately 15 miles northwest of Belleville.

He had been swimming with friends, one of whom went to his aid. Keith Irvine of RR 2, Stirling, was unsuccessful in his attempt to rescue his friend and himself came close to drowning. As he slipped beneath the waters of the Moira River, a third lad, David Horton of RR 1, Thomasburg, managed to grab hold of him.

Removed unconscious from the water, the Irvine boy was revived by means of artificial respiration.

The body of the Dean boy was found after a one-hour search, approximately 20 feet below the dam in still waters. Coroner Dr. A. A. Hiscox of Picton and OPP Constable Gerald Brisson are handling the case.

At 4:30 p.m., shortly after a heavy downpour of rain, Mrs. Martin (Verna) Geertsma, 30, mother of five children, drowned while swimming off the main dock at the Tweed Park on Stoco Lake.

Mrs. Geertsma had been swimming with her son Martin, 10, and director Jackie, 8, when the mishap occurred.

The body was discovered in three feet of water in the wading area. Crowds were so heavy, that ambulance attendants were hard pressed to clear a path to the dock on which she was resting after recovery by the police divers.

A post mortem will be conducted at Belleville General Hospital today. She was pronounced dead by Coroner Dr. Allen of Tweed. Constable G. H. Rollins of the Madoc detachment, Ontario Provincial Police, investigated.

And on Saturday, a retired Ontario Hydro employee from Sudbury, who made the Picton area his summer residence, drowned while fishing in West Lake, approximately six miles southwest of the Prince Edward County seat.

Sylvester John Trumbly, 66, of RR 1, Picton, went fishing on the lake alone at approximately 8:15 a.m. Saturday.

Shortly after noon, cottagers on the lake observed his boat adrift. This prompted a search of the waters in this summer camping area.

His body was found by cottagers at approximately 12:30 p.m.

Picton detachment, Ontarion Provincial Police report he was a non swimmer.

In separate incidents Friday, two women died in motor vehicle mishaps.

Dead is Mrs. Lily Petrie, 88, of 403 Coleman Street, Belleville, a passenger in a car driven by Mrs. Gladys Hilken, 57, of the same address.

Mrs. Petrie was killed when the Hilken vehicle collided with a car driven by Mrs. Ruth Cross, 47, of Scarboro ough, half a mile south of the hamlet of Ivanhoe, on Highway 62. This accident occurred at 8:15 p.m.

At 10:30 p.m., 21-year old Nancy Wilson, whose address was given as Montreal, died on the Macdonald Cartier freeway near Trenton.

Constable Browne, who also handled this fatality, reports her Cricket automobile apparently went out of control in the west bound lane of the 401, at the Glen Miller interchange. The car struck a guide rail and rolled over several times.

She was en route to her parents' home in Agincourt.

Vacation by Train

Remember when Prime Ministers and members of Royalty campaigned or waved from an open-ended railroad car. Yes, those were the days; train travel was then one of the major means of transportation and meeting the people. In recent times passenger rail traffic has been in decline and to keep going the companies depend on heavy government subsidies.

For all their difficulties the railroad companies still afford one of the finest and most relaxing means of seeing the country and now we have none other than Prime Minister Trudeau with wife Margaret and baby son Justin making the famed transcontinental journey by CP's "Canadian."

Doubtless politics will be taking a back seat on this trip while the Prime Minister and his family enjoy the magnificent scenery en route. However the choice of the transcontinental train for the journey out west is surely a shrewd move. For one thing it is great publicity for CP and this form of travel at a time when it can use all the support it can get, and it is being made in a holiday-at-home atmosphere (they will end up seeing Mrs. Trudeau's family in Vancouver) that can do Mr. Trudeau no harm.

There is not a sign of a government aircraft anywhere, waiting to whisk them off to exotic foreign parts. Instead they are seeing Canada and likely will meet other travellers informally along the way, in a year that could bring an election.

Sandbanks

Newspapers, this one included, as a general rule do not publish poetry or comment in verse on public issues. One we have received, in this medium, however, on the subject of The Sandbanks, makes some pertinent points and we shall endeavor to pass them on.

Signed by "A Practising Environmentalist," the poem notes that in the name of environmental protection some people take the wrong path and seek to sustain an issue by emotionalism. The would-be saviors of nature, it goes on, fail to realize that the sand, like a creature, moves and destroys other natural things. So much so that if unchecked it could fill in the lake and cover the land, drowning all campsites included. At the same time use of the sand for commercial purposes (cement) helps save the forests and waterways from man's insatiable needs, by providing homes, highways, bridges and all — which in turn provide easy access to these selfsame beaches and recreational areas.

In place of a rolling dune, the poem suggests, there will be flat areas and a hedge against future encroachment of sand. It terms the cement company's lease "fortuitous" which had it not existed would have earned the government condemnation for allowing nature to go its way.

Interesting — and something, the letter suggests in conclusion, for the environmentalists to think about.

Vandals There First

If it sad to see the country's older homes falling under the wrecker's hammer, or being overshadowed by the mass apartment housing that is all right in its place but not in juxtaposition with contemporary or older structures, it is shocking to see the vandals get there first. This has been the case in Galt where one of the city's finest and oldest homés, at 59 Concession Street, has been damaged.

The home, due to be torn down to make way for a high rise apartment building, until recently had been occupied by Carman Thornton. It dates back to 1853. Now the interior has been badly damaged: railings stripped from the staircase, furnishings strewn around rooms and dozens of windows broken.

At least with the high-rise due to take its place we may be sure there will be the controlled egtry and security that are a feature of those buildings. Vandalism is not a problem in modern apartments.

Moscow Dissatisfied Soviet Withdrawal From Egypt Arouses Speculation

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

President Anwar Sadat must have jolted his Soviet benefactors by telling their military advisers and technicians to leave Egypt. The action can ngan important changes in the general Middle East picture.

For the Russians it is a new setback in an area where they had been riding high. A year ago their policies brought them into collision with the Arab regime of the Sudan, whose leaders had their fill of Soviet military aid and advice.

It may also involve a spinoff from the global diplomacy of United States President Nixon. Sadat's annoyance with the Russians showed through fairly plainly last May as Nixon headed toward Moscow.

Cairo quotes Sadat as saying: "All military installations and equipment which have been constructed inside Egyptian territory following the 1967 Israeli aggression should be put under Egyptian armed forces and be Egyptian property." This means all those arms the Soviet Union brought in to replace what Egypt lost in her seven-day debacle at the hands of Israel. It means the surface to air missiles the Egyptians began receiving early in 1970, manned by Russians.

Sadat had to have strong motives for this. The Russians have had between 10,000 and 20,000 advisers, and technicians in Egypt. Their departure likely will have an immediate effect on the already low efficiency level of the Egyptian military. Provided Sadat does not get carried away by his own threats to renew the war, Israel may be reservedly happy with the developments.

This is not the first Cairo-Moscow clash. Sadat's predecessor, Gamal Abdel Nasser, had his brushes with the Russians though he was able to smooth them over. Nasser always was suspicious of Russian intentions with regard to spreading communism in the Moslem world. Sadat, a devout Moslem, probably is even more suspicious.

But there was much more to all this than suspicion of political penetration, a matter frequently on the Egyptian public mind.

The Russians have seemed skittish all along about the possibility of a new war in the Middle East. There has been much flak from Cairo indicating bitterness at a lack of Soviet enthusiasm for sending fighter-bombers that might raise Egypt's offensive capability to a level with Israel's.

Sadat has been promising Arabs for a long time that the hour of decision in the conflict with Israel was near. He has been constantly postponing it.

He has little chance of attempting a showdown without more air wallop. He has wanted Soviet MiG-23 fighter-bombers, comparable to the F-4e Phantoms Israel has from the United States. This spring Premier Aziz Sidky said the Russians had promised the planes.

The Institute for Strategic Studies in London said several months ago that the Russians do not have enough MiG-23s to go around, and other Warsaw pact forces still lacked them.

They may have made a token delivery to Egypt, but it is probably far from what Sadat wanted to strengthen his existing force of 300-odd combat aircraft, much of it outdated.

Why do the Russians balk? One reason seems to be a disinclination to create a Middle East situation risking confrontation, and along with that the destruction of the new opening to the United States from which the Soviet leaders can hope to derive much domestic benefit.

The Russians have an edge. It lies in a record of Soviet irritation with Egyptian ineptness in the use of modern technology, both military and civilian. A week ago a Lebanese newspaper reported that the speaker of Lebanon's parliament, visiting Moscow in June, asked President Nikolai V. Podgorny why the Russians refused to give Egypt military aid matching that of the Americans to Israel.

Podgorny was quoted as saying:

"The problem lies in the ability of the Arabs to use modern weapons. Arab military cadres are short of the know-how to use modern offensive aircraft. Egypt has only a third of the pilots required for the planes in

"Spassky now appears to be employing a classic Russian defence . . . !"

Members of Cabinet Are Secretive About This Year's Vacation Plans

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — The problem of a fall general election is playing havoc with the vacation plans of cabinet ministers, many of whom now would be banking in foreign sunshine if they didn't have to worry about defeating new postholes for those political fences.

Most of the 30 ministers are staying close to their ridings this summer, grabbing the odd day of vacation when they get a chance. With opponents stomping the constituencies, it's not a good time to be caught in the Swiss Alps.

And those who did get away after the June 20 parliamentary recess — for those who plan to go — are saying little about it.

Solicitor General Jean Pierre Goyer now is on a short vacation somewhere in Canada. But an aide refused to go further than that. "We don't want that to get out."

The only ministerial vacation that's clear public knowledge is the prime minister's. Mr. Trudeau didn't mind saying he and his family would spend three weeks travelling west by train to do some mountain climbing in the Rockies and some boating in the Pacific.

When Mr. Trudeau left Ottawa Wednesday, External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp became acting prime minister. Next week, Mr. Sharp hopes to begin a two-week fishing holiday, and Veterans Affairs Minister Arthur Laing will become acting prime minister.

Mr. Laing will be taking some time on the West Coast, later and Treasury Board President C.M. Drury will become acting prime minister.

"There ought to other assume the responsibility," said an official in the prime minister's office. "There appear to be a lot of short trips on various weekends."

But before Mr. Trudeau left, he was assured that at least half a dozen ministers would be in Ottawa at any given time. Thus, if the need arose, there could be a cabinet meeting. However, no such meetings are firmly scheduled for the next three weeks.

Several ministers are able to combine foreign business with a few days of relaxation.

Health Minister John Munro is in Japan, working on social security problems facing Italian immigrants arriving in Canada, and Privy Council President Allan MacEachen is scheduled to open a highland event in Edmonton. With opponents stomping the constituencies, it's not a good time to be caught in the Swiss Alps.

The amount of water pumped at the Belleville filtration plant in June increased 31.6 per cent over the amount pumped last April, H. H. Scott reported. The increase was credited to higher temperatures this year as compared to last year.

The Belleville Ladies' Lawn Bowling Club opened first and second places in the tournament at the Yeomans Street greens as they rooted out 28 other teams from the 9th convention district. It was the largest show the ladies have had this season.

A record turnout was in evidence as the teams came from Port Hope, Brighton, Trenton, Deseronto, Kingston, Stirling, Delora, Campbellford and Petterborugh. Mrs. Gordon Vince, welcomed the guests and Mrs. Joe Legault convened the dinner supper in women events. Gerald Hydeassisted with the draw.

Ontario Place Playground Is Hit with Children

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's Queen's Park Bureau

Summer notes:

Ontario Place is still controversial but at least it is getting more public support this year, and for one reason.

Perhaps the dullest mistake in the concept for the multi-million dollar showplace on Lake Ontario was that there was no provision for children.

Last year when it opened it was acclaimed by the government as an attraction for the whole family. But the fact was there was practically nothing to do there for children except buy them a hot dog.

This year an elaborate and imaginative playground is a hers built. It has been a great success. And the public, or at least parents, appear much more sympathetic to the place.

Though the season has been adjourned here plenty of action is carrying on.

A record number of select committees have been appointed to study automobiles, land drainage, the municipal board, the Companies Act and auto safety. And this means there will be a constant flow of members throughout the two months between now and resumption of the session.

Opinions of the value of these select committees vary.

Some more cynical people look on them largely as make-work projects to keep private members occupied. They also question the worth of their judgments and decisions.

This is valid at least to the extent that the quality of findings of select committees has varied greatly over the years.

But along with this they have produced some good work. And they have a place in our system even if only for people the public a sounding board on questions about which there is a wide diversity of opinion — such as snowmobiles.

Then there is the hot fight of the summer — the banning of three-quart non returnable milk jugs.

The decision by the government has had the milk industry aroused — though it is not certain whether this is the whole industry or only that section of it which had made the substantial expenditure for the equipment required.

However there was one significant point from the government stand-point in that this was the first positive action it has taken in litter control.

And it leaves a question of whether it was a door opening to further steps.

Soviet Technicians Remain in Egypt

By JOHN HARRIDON
Thomson News Service

The withdrawal of Soviet troops and military experts from Egypt as such an unexpected order had for some time, any speculation why it really happened will probably be wide of the mark.

But speculation is very much the order of the day and will be the shape of future Soviet-Egyptian relations. Here observers have no doubt that the 1956 Suez War is seen in the blanket impression of having been a Egyptian lie by the Soviet specialist.

Not only did Russian military advisers direct the operations of Soviet jet fighters, bombers, tanks and infantry weapons, but Russian engineers and technological specialists have dominated economic planning and the construction of major projects.

Everything Russian in Egypt is done on a two-shift working basis. The High Dam at Aswan entered in May, 1971 is Russia's largest single engineering achievement in the Third World. Until the Aswan Bay power project in Quebec is complete, probably in 1980, the Aswan High Dam will remain the greatest single power project in the world.

The Soviet arms build-up in Egypt, from the late 1950's on, and completely re-furbished after the disastrous losses of the Six-Day War in June, 1967, is the largest aggregation of Russian weapons outside the Soviet Union itself. Not even Russia's Eastern European Communist allies have received as much Russian military equipment over the past five years.

And Communist China, once a major recipient of aircraft and warships from Moscow, has been off the arms list since the Russian-Chinese split in the 1960s.

One bit of speculation has it that President Anwar Sadat, wanted even more Soviet advisers in the operation of the latest SAM 3 missiles, in preparation for another war against Israel which Sadat has promised will take place.

Moscow, engaged in peaceful power politics with Washington in the hope of being the centre of any new war at the present time, prefers instead to co-operate. Sadat, with the most modern Soviet armory in the world outside the U.S.S.R., probably intuitively he can do without the Russians at this point and that the Egyptian military is well-enough trained at last to win against Israel next time.

Only the 20,000 military advisers have gone. An even larger number of Soviet technicians and technicians are staying integrated into Cairo's government level and probably be more worried about Egypt's intentions than the Russians themselves, since Sadat is determined to win back Egypt's lost lands and defeat Israel for the first time.

Only on this understandable Israeli confidence that they can always beat Egypt, can superpower left behind by the Russians is huge. And the Egyptians are determined that it will not be crushed on the battlefield.

Nine Caught In Mine

BLACKSVILLE, W. Va. (AP) — Rescue workers tried today to drill a two-inch hole into a burning coal mine where nine miners have been trapped since Saturday night. Hope for rescuing the men was fading.

There has been no word from the nine since shortly after the fire started. Officials of the Consolidation Coal Co.'s Blacksville No. 1 mine said Sunday night chances the men could be found alive were "quite dim."

"I don't think I am stating anything but a fact," said Jean Corcoran, Consolidation president. He called the situation a tragedy.

Officials said 31 of the 40 men doing maintenance work in the four-mile mine reached safety within minutes after the fire broke out.

The bore hole was being drilled in an attempt to reach the men or possibly communicate with them. Failing that, officials hoped to learn something about conditions in the mine 540 feet below the rolling hills of this West Virginia-Pennsylvania border community.

An official of the U.S. Bureau of Mines said temperatures in the immediate area of the fire probably were between 2,500 and 3,000 degrees.

Corcoran said at a news conference he felt conditions for rescuing the trapped miners were not favorable.

Rescue efforts have been hampered by the fire which continues to burn in the coal seal veins.

The fire started when a heavy piece of mining machinery being relocated in the main corridor about a mile from the inside elevator shaft hit a live electrical wire, generating sparks.

The fire had been localized Sunday night in an area of about 400 square feet less than a mile from the mine entrance, Consolidation officials said.

Drive to Jail Crime Bosses Seen as Putting All in Peril

LONDON (Reuter) — Proposed legal changes aimed at putting master criminals behind bars are arousing concern here that Britain's traditional system of justice may be in peril.

Some lawyers and criminologists fear that the changes may sweep away safeguards for the individual which they say have made British justice "a model" for the world.

Other observers support the plans to toughen the rules of evidence. They say formalities have turned criminal trials into courtroom farces, endangering the truth in pursuit of legal loopholes.

"As an Englishman, I'm very worried," said Tom Harper, editor of the New Law Journal magazine.

"It's my impression that the average person regards British justice with great admiration. It would be a shame to jeopardize that reputation and, of course, to harm the innocent."

Proposed changes include denial of an accused's right to silence, modification of rigorous rules on hearsay evidence, and limitation of the dividend police caution of witnesses.

Experts say the reforms would move Britain closer to the continental system, based on the Napoleonic code.

The recommendations to change come from a specially appointed committee, which has been studying criminal law reform for eight years.

The suggestions, in a 258-page report, are expected to be turned into legislation this fall.

The idea that life should be more tough for the criminal than it is now is in line with the tradition of Britain's top policeman, Sir Robert Mark. In a lecture, he charged that British courts are now soft, giving hardtime specialists too much leeway.

Mark, Scotland Yard's commissioner of police, advocated denial of the right of silence, both during investigations and in court. He would make it easier to police turn over parts of their investigatory role to the courts.

Support for the controversial "inquisitorial" system is contested by Mavis Maclean and Lord Shawcross, a Labor Party legal authority who was once his special in a former Labor government.

He said that in Britain the judge was more like an umpire. "But we can no longer afford to treat crime as a game," he said. "Our system is to make the rules to be weighted in favor of the criminal."

Commenting to British film Society gazette said the main objection to a change from the "accusatorial" system was that countries using the inquisitorial criminals who make a fortune out of crime.

"They can afford to frighten witnesses, pay for prepared evidence and hire the sort of lawyer who can drive a jumbo jet through the law."

The law society magazine said that if the laws were relaxed to make convictions easier, "then innocent people must be put at greater risk."

Sons of Ex-Canadian Abducted in Scotland

GLASGOW (CP) — The two young sons of a former lecturer at the University of Alberta were abducted by an unidentified man and woman during the weekend and the father, Andrew Borland, said Sunday he is seeking the help of a Scottish court to prevent the children being taken out of Britain.

Borland, a 29-year-old theatre director who returned to Scotland from Canada three months ago after the breaking of his marriage, said he will seek an interim indictment today from the Edinburgh Court of Session.

The two boys, Bruce, 6, and Giles, 3, were snatched Saturday before the eyes of a startled neighbor by a man and a woman who drove up in a dark blue car to the Borland house in the little village of Kilbarchan, a well-known handicrafts centre 25 miles west of Glasgow.

Police throughout Britain have been asked to look for them and all sea and airports are under surveillance.

Borland, who received a legal separation from his 28-year-old wife Susan in an Edmonton court last Sunday, said the woman may have been his wife, but he had no idea who the man might be.

She had made no mention of coming to Britain when she telephoned Bruce on his sixth birthday July 5.

Canadian police informed him she had left for a holiday in Europe five days ago.

Borland said under the Edmonton legal separation order he had received custody of the children.

"But this may only apply within the Province of Alberta," he added. He said he has given a copy of the court decree to police investigating the abduction.

Borland said his wife is the stepdaughter of Peter Holmes, owner of Trans Avia Airlines, which operates charter flights between Vancouver and Amsterdam. Within minutes of the boys disappearing, Borland's father, William Borland, set off for Glasgow airport to check on scheduled and charter flights for Amsterdam, but there was no sign of the children.

Oil Spilled Off Maine

PORTLAND, Me. (AP) — A full-scale effort to clean up Portland's worst oil spill in nearly a decade begins today along the oil-blackened shorelines of Casco Bay.

An estimated 40,000 gallons of No. 6 oil-a thick, gooey industrial fuel-spilled Saturday from a ruptured forward tank of the Norwegian tanker Tamano, which remained at anchor in Hussey Sound.

Specialists converged on Portland Sunday. A local coast guard officials acknowledged that the cleanup effort was being the capability of forces at hand.

The coast guard, meanwhile, continued to investigate the cause of the 20-foot gash in the Tamano's 80,000-gallon starboard tank.

The 812-foot tanker, operated by Wilheinin Carp. of Oslo, Norway, was en charter to Texaco, Inc., and was carrying a 500,000 barrel cargo to the company's South Portland terminal. The coast guard believes the tank ruptured when the Tamano ran aground on Soldiers Ledge. Officials said the tanker had a 16-foot draft and may have struck a portion of the ledge that rises to within 40 feet of the surface.

ERTS Satellite Is in Polar Orbit

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP) — Their long-awaited satellite tucked in a perfect orbit over the North and South poles, scientists are checking out systems aboard the ERTS spacecraft in preparation for receiving the first pictures of the earth Tuesday.

The first pictures will be made as the butterfly-shaped spacecraft sweeps southward across the Maritime provinces.

The $30 million spacecraft was launched Sunday from Vandenberg Air Force Base here to begin a year of global environmental measurements that scientists hope will usher in a new era of using space technology to monitor earth's natural resources.

ERTS, which is short for Earth Resources Technology Satellite, thundered aloft atop a Delta launch rocket that flawlessly boosted the 1,906-pound spacecraft 500 miles above the South Pole and into a circular orbit.

"Everything looks fine-in fact it looks excellent," said Dr. John Clark, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Goddard Spaceflight Centre at Greenbelt, Md. The centre will control ERTS during the year in which the 10-foot-long Satellite will circle the earth every 103 minutes.

Equipped with three television cameras and a special radiation-sensing device, the spacecraft will photograph the entire globe every 18 days.

The information to use the pictures to monitor natural resources such as crops, forests, extent of fish, water supplies and grassland.

They believe the pictures, taken through filters that measure radiation reflected from the ground, can help in mapping, spotting earthquake faults, systems and locating mineral and oil deposits.

"This is probably the most important thing that an unmanned satellite NASA has ever made," Clark said after ERTS was separated from the Delta rocket's second stage over the coast of East Africa.

Content, TV Needs Differ

SASKATOON (CP) — Content of children's television programs often has nothing to do with the needs of the child, a recent meeting of the Family Service Bureau was told.

"The Canadian Radio-Television Commission sets down no guidelines or policy with respect to children's programming", said Mrs. Joseph Mahr, chairman of the Children's Television Committee and member of the bureau's board.

Although some excellent children's programs are broadcast, she said Mrs. Mahr, most are of low quality.

A recent meeting in Toronto of the Children's Television Committee suggested that ideal children's programming "provides a mixture of information, entertainment, imaginative stimulus and ideas for children of the varying ages, backgrounds and interest."

Husband Not Consulted On Abortion

MONTREAL (CP) — A Montreal man is seeking damages against a Montreal hospital and three of its gynaecologists who, he says, authorized a therapeutic abortion on his wife without consulting him.

The plaintiff declares in a current Superior Court action that the news of the abortion was announced to him by his father-in-law a day after the operation.

The couple had been married for three years before the July 1970 abortion. His wife subsequently took proceedings against him for separation and divorce.

She is named as one of the defendants to the action which asks for the damages to be awarded "jointly and severally" against the four other defendants.

In the court document served through his lawyer, Jean-Paul Ste. Marie, the plaintiff claims his marriage could have "been saved" if the Royal Victoria Hospital's committee had not approved the abortion.

The plaintiff says he gave no permission for the operation and that there was no physical, mental, psychological or medical justification for the abortion.

He says his attempts to find out why the abortion was approved by the committee have been unsuccessful and he asks in his action that the report of the three doctors be placed before the court.

His marriage, he says, was a harmonious one and he and his wife had been particularly anxious to have children.

Successful Living

They'll Come Home Eventually

By DORIS CLARK

Mickie is married now, to his childhood love, Grace (my hairdresser) feels motherly about "the kids". Sees them valiantly struggling to furnish adequately, their first home.

So she wants to help out. To give them things. To offer a friendly hand.

But Pop says no. And in no uncertain terms.

He says, "Let them run their own show. If you want them to come to see you, leave them alone."

And do you know what? He is right. Mickie and Jane pop in every day or so. Their triumph over full possession of their lives and their love makes them shine.

Dear Doris: My cousin's wedding is in three weeks. I am in charge of the guest book, and being 21 years old I am getting tired of going to dances by myself. Is it proper for me to invite an escort?

Is he invited to the church, reception and dance? If I ask him to be my escort, or should he receive a separate invitation? If the fellow does accept, what does he do while I'm taking care of the guest book, and when and how long must I stay with the book?

Should I give him a gift for being my escort that day? — Lonesome.

Dear Lonely: Who wouldn't want to be up and dancing with the rest of the crowd! No need for an all night visit to get signatures on that dotted line; and you can desert your book when guests stop arriving.

Inviting an escort is another matter. If he is fairly your hostess will agree to your having a dance partner along with you. If he is sociable and fun, he can help you when it comes to bringing guests over to the book, handing people pens, and engaging in light conversation.

You can't invite him with out the bride's permission. He can only be a part of the church-and-reception party if he receives a separate invitation. If it is a large wedding, one more invitation may not throw the bride-to-be one bit.

But a gift for being your escort? Nonsense. You honor him with the invitation.

Dear Doris: There's a verse I have searched for for over 15 years. It haunts me because I am an amateur artist.

"Ten men went over the hill
Saw the expanse (or sun) and sky,
One saw the picture with an artist's mind and eye. And put it down on canvas for the other nine to buy." — Still Searching.

Dear Searching: Reminds me of the bricklayers who were asked what they were doing. One said he was laying bricks. The second said he was working to support his family. The third said he was building a cathedral.

We can't find your poem through the regular channels. What about it, readers?

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Is the henpecked husband happy?

HE may be, and often is. That is more than can be said of the wife who henpecks her husband. The husband figures that if his wife enjoys henpecking him, that "lets me off the hook" as far as he is concerned—and he might think the little "flak" he endures is a small price to pay for domestic tranquility. His wife, though, may be torn between having the dominant voice in the family and wanting her husband to assert himself.

Why can't some people take a joke?

THEY may be worried about themselves. It is not that people who can't take a joke are concerned about their health or that they might get hurt if someone plays a practical joke on them. No. They believe if they laugh at a joke it indicates they approve of it, and the type of joke it is ill-advised or forbidden. It is a risque one. Another thing, some souls can't take a joke either, since laughing would be a sign that they approve of the joke-teller.

Has TV helped teachers teach?

YES; conscientious teachers have taken up the challenge of TV and improved their methods of teaching. This has nothing to do with using closed circuit TV, either. Earnest teachers know that children are conditioned to learning from TV before they ever reach kindergarten. So the teachers try to make it just as stimulating for children to learn in a classroom as it is for them to "pick up" information from the tube in their own living room.

The Yoke Is Back In Most Fall Styles

ROME (AP) — The yoke is back.

Swiss designer Rica brought it back in his fall-winter presentation Monday.

And when he sun-pleated the fabric to flow down from above the breasts, the dress had a grace and ease flattering to any woman.

A stricter line was found in his two-in-one tulle dresses, the top reaching to six inches from the bust over the longer match ing skirt. Those were narrow and fitting and in bright colors.

For his patterns, Riva kept the brightly colored flowers he loves to strew all over his dresses. He also used a cross-stitch pattern inspired by needlework.

Earlier, Balestra stuck to whites and greys for his "noncolor" collection.

It consisted mostly of a large number of pants and trouser suits with long, loose, A-line jackets.

Feminists Criticized

NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Friedan, one of the founders of the women's lib movement, criticized sister feminists Gloria Steinem and Representative Bella Abzug (Dem., N.Y.) on Tuesday as "female chauvinists" waging "class warfare against men."

Mrs. Friedan, author of the Feminine Mystique and founder of the National Organization for Women, said it is time for the women's liberation movement "to be succeeded in our own consciousness by a two-sex movement for human liberation."

She criticized Miss Steinem, editor of Ms. magazine, for promoting what she called "a female chauvinism that makes a woman apologize for loving her husband or children."

She said she also disagreed with Miss Steinem's view that a conspiracy to preserve "the economic and social profit of men as a group" prevented women from achieving equality."

Of Mrs. Abzug, who unsuccessfully opposed Representative William Fitts Ryan in the June primary, Mrs. Friedan said:

"Only a female chauvinist would say that no matter how good a man's record—on peace, on women—women must support a female opponent just because she is a woman."

Ann Landers

Reader's Definition of 'Real Man'

Dear Ann Landers: I loved your definition of "a real man"—and I was glad to hear you say you are married to one. I am, too, and I'd like to tell you what I like best about my husband.

It's the way he gets down on the floor and plays with the kids, his big hands cradling their little heads as he helps them do somersaults. Or when he stays with the children for an evening so I can go somewhere. And when I come home I see the clumsy but tender way he has put on the baby's diaper and his little undershirt, backwards.

I adore it when he comes into the kitchen and follows me around and talks to me while I'm putting the final touches on supper—telling me about his day, yakking a mile a minute and sharing a part of his life that I don't see.

I love the way he comes with me to PTA meetings even though there are only three or four other daddies there.

I appreciate his kindness to my parents. He is generous, thoughtful and sweet to them.

Above all, Ann, he makes me feel like a real woman. And I guess that's what makes him a real man.—Big Jim's WIFE

Dear Wife: It's a joy to receive a letter like yours in the midst of the thousands of gripes from women who are full of complaints—many justified, I'm sure. Thanks for the day-brightener. Jim sounds like a gem. And so do you.

Dear Ann Landers: If I'm a nut on the subject, so be it, but I get wild when I read such stories in the newspapers as these (they all appeared within the past month):

"Two-year-old falls off a ball pony while watching a basketball game."

"Year-old tot tumbles out of grocery cart and is seriously injured."

"Four-year-old drowns in bathtub."

"Toddler in serious condition after drinking cleaning fluid."

"Youngster found at bottom of pool. Two lifeguards on duty." No one saw that the child was in trouble."

Tot suffocates in car while parents shopped for three hours."

"Five-year-old dies after eating 90 pills found in grandmother's purse."

"Child of 18 months killed on road in front of aunt's home."

In every single instance, somebody was not doing his job. I know the heartache and agony that such accidents can cause parents, grandparents or whoever was supposed to be in charge—but it doesn't change things. Nothing is so important as keeping an eye on children.

What's a baby doing in a grocery cart, or at a basketball game, or out playing in the road? What are cleaning fluid and pills doing where a child can get his hands on them? Why is a youngster left in a locked car or in a bathtub?

Please, Ann, print this letter and let's hope and pray that every parent who reads it will ask himself, "could any of these tragedies have occurred in my family this past year?"—Midwest Plea

Dear Midwest: Here is your letter, and my thanks for writing it. It's full of common sense and good questions and if it shakes up a few million mothers, I'm for that, too.

Friends Honor Bride-elect

Contests were conducted by Mrs. Frank Bailey and Mrs. Dick Knapton.

Miss Merrick unwrapped the miscellaneous gifts which were passed around for viewing and she later, expressed appreciation for the party and gifts in her honor.

Hanging Up the Pots

Graham Kerr, 38, television's Galloping Gourmet, has decided to quit television. Kerr, arriving back in Toronto after a four-month cruise of the Mediterranean Sea, said Thursday he and his wife, Treena, will spend the next four years sailing around the world. One of the major reasons Kerr is calling it quits is because of difficulties he has in standing up for long periods of time — an aftermath of back injuries he suffered in a car accident last year. China--As AP's President Sees It

Wes Gallagher, president of The Associated Press, is in China to negotiate an exchange of news and photos with Hsinhua, the Chinese news agency. He filed these notes Sunday.

Egypt Proves Point

PEKING (AP) — Ousting of the Russian advisers from Egypt has been received with considerable satisfaction here, as showing what happens to those receiving Soviet aid because of Soviet "socialist imperialism."

The Chinese recall their own experience when they refused to bow to Soviet demands: Russia withdrew the technicians and help it had sent to China.

In conversations the Chinese emphasize what they consider the key difference in the aid they provide other nations and the way the Russians provided aid. They say China wants to encourage social revolution but that each country must develop its own kind of this and be independent, not joining any bloc. The Soviets, in their eyes, provide aid only if it gives further Soviet control. They cite the Czechs in the Eastern bloc as examples of the Soviet way.

China Land Of Contrasts

China is a land of infinite contradictions and contrasts, defying generalizations or definitions—particularly by instant experts. Chinese officials repeatedly refer to this country as underdeveloped, but they concede there are basic differences between China and countries in other parts of Asia or in Africa.

China is far different, with a cultural history going back thousands of years, impressive universities, thousands of trained technicians, creative scientists, a massive disciplined work force.

Computer Experts

American computer scientists from Yale and Carnegie Mellon universities who are lecturing here say they have been surprised by Chinese advances in this field—that they are less than 18 months behind the United States in the most advanced computer theory and are rapidly closing this gap. They add that the Chinese are farther behind in programming, peripheral equipment and mass manufacturing techniques, but they believe the Chinese could build a single computer to suit any needed purpose.

Safe Airline

The Chinese airline is very safe because it does not fly in thunderstorms around Peking or en route. Our party, en route from Canton to Peking, was grounded overnight at Chengchou, the capital of Honan province, because of storms.

One passenger said that in three flights to Peking he had never reached this city without one grounding. This is apparently due to a lack of equipment for ground control approaches to the airport.

Chengchou offered a study in contrasts between modern jets and pre-war biplanes on the workhorse C-47 of the '40s, still being used as a passenger plane.

Comparison

Contrasts: Travelling to a new petrochemical plant near Peking, one goes for miles through farming areas where farmers labor with their hands as they have for centuries, using every inch of land. Back-breaking labor is done by immensely strong men and women carrying huge loads.

You arrive at a plant controlled by computers, built in a crash program and employing 12,000 persons in a setup contained unit with its own hospital, farm, etc.

We learned from your problems," said a plant leader, showing pollution control devices for both water and smoke.

Water cleared of pollutants is used to irrigate rice paddies of the connected farm, and to provide tanks for ducks and carp.

A plant official was asked what each family wants, in order of priority. He replied: a bicycle that costs 110 yuan, a sewing machine for 120 and a watch for 100. The wage range is 30 to 100 yuan monthly.

The petrochemical plant is not far from the caves where Peking Man, dating back half a million years, was found. Scientists have resumed digging there. Three exhibition halls for ancient digging finds from all over China soon will be opened to the public.

Many Bikes

Peoing has supplanted Copenhagen as the bicycle capital of the world. Workers by the tens of thousands fill the streets every evening, riding home from work, some with wife-members on the backs of their bikes.

With very few cars and only a fair number of buses, Peking has its traffic problem solved for years. But car and bus drivers move with their horns tied down—like cyclists may conform politically but they risk life and limb with proletarian disdain.

Competition

Under-industrialized China may be, but it is not underdeveloped in Western terms. A glimpse of the competition China will give the Japanese and others in Asia can be seen in a tour of an arts and crafts factory employing more than a thousand persons in a loft-type building lacking any air-conditioning. The workers keep to a pace far beyond that usually seen in the West. They produce items ranging from dolls costing less than $1 to carved jade items aimed for the $100,000 market.

In one room with 50 or more cutting lathes, a worker sat at his bench carving a large jade piece. It will take him two years and be sold for $90,000.

There is some assembly-line work, with each girl adding one feature to vases.

Meads Shatter Myths and Opponents

The Mead Johnson Squirts destroyed another myth over the weekend, along with picking up their fourth tournament championship of the year.

The local crew won three games in capturing the Markham Squirt Tournament including a 13-2 bombing of Grasshann, rumored to be one of the top squirt teams in Ontario.

The Belleville win over Grantham came in the semi-finals of the tourney and marked the Niagara team's first loss of the season including tournament play.

Belleville scored ten times in the final three frames to walk away with the game. John Henry smashed a homer and single and Bob Hedge a double to lead the winners eight hits.

Tim Soule blazed a one-hitter at Grantham, striking out ten and walking two, Soule piled up an impressive total of 34 strike outs and allowed only four hits in the three games of the tournament.

Soule fanned 14 and allowed two hits in hurling the win, the third over Barrie in tournament action.

John Henry had a triple and David Urch a homer in the winners' five hit output off Andy Browning. The Barrie pitcher struck out seven and walked one.

Belleville's toughest game came in their first match of the day with Sarnia supplying the opposition in a 2-0 Meads win.

Two errors allowed both runs to score in the fourth inning for Meads. Soule and Sarnia hurler John Wilhem both finished with one-hitters, the two unearned runs being the difference between victory and loss.

Meads, who sport an 18-2 record in tournament play this year, take a week off in preparation for their opening round of the O.A.S.A. playdowns against Napanee August 1.

The funs over and its time to go home, but the trip will be a bit brighter for Kelle Saarits and son Ray after winning the Ontario Fireball Championships held the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club at Burlington dismantle their torious duo from Bronte Harbor Yacht Club of Burlington dismantle their vessel which saw them through three wins and a fifth place finish which totalled 4 class leading ten points. The pair are off to Montreal this week-end for the Quebec championships and hopefully their second trophy in as many weeks.

Masterson Holds Midget Mates in Game

Belleville midgets blew hot and cold at the plate but still managed to avoid an Eastern Ontario Minor Baseball loss this weekend.

Saturday they hit high gear at the plate in a 27-5 win over Deseronto but it took the no-hit hurling of John Masterson to earn them a 9-0 split with Peterborough in a rain-shortened Sunday game.

Masterson and Peterborough's scriber matched no-hit pitching performances before rain halted play after the fifth inning. The Belleville hurler struck out eight and walked two, while Scriber had two strikeouts and no walks.

In Saturday's win over Deseronto Masterson clubbed a homer, two doubles and a single, while Dave Dent added a double and two singles and Doug Empey a triple and three singles in addition to splitting mound duties with Randy Pascoe. They gave up four hits while fanning seven. Doug Green took the loss for Deseronto. He collected one of their safcties with the others going to Kemp, Wannamaker and Heffernn.

The peewee all-stars dropped a close 5-4 Saturday verdict to Kingston. Peter Hall took the loss, throwing a seven-hitter with ten strikeouts and one walk. Mike Burke provided plate support with a homer and two singles. Belleville's other hits went to Bruce Bell, Howie Coons and Hall.

Thurlow's BYBF bantams took a 10-4 verdict from Deseronto Saturday behind the two-hit pitching of Ted Foster. The Thurlow pitcher fanned 15 batters and walked only three. Dave Andrews paced the win with four singles while Farley Vader and Foster had two hits each.

The Thurlow peewees won two weekend games, rapping Orono 22 - 14 Saturday and carrying a 9-0 Sunday verdict when Newcastle failed to field enough players fo a complete team.

David Blakely and Tom Masterson pitched the Saturday win getting support from Tony Parks with five singles, Leonard Legge with a homer and single, Jeff Heggie with a double and three singles and Doug Vader who collected two singles and a double.

Shifting Winds Can't Get Saarits Off Course

By RANDY DERRY
Sports Staff

The wind was tricky and the waters nowshot it was just what Kalle Sharits ordered as the Burlington boater sailed away with the Ontario Fireball Championships held over the weekend at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

Saarits and his crewel, son Ray captured three wins and a fifth in the five-race competition to take the honors over 20 other entries.

"It was my first time here and the bay made for very interesting racing. I'm used to sailing on Lake Ontario where the winds are pretty steady, but they were shifting today," commented the Bronte Harbor Yacht Club member who began competitive Fireball racing only four years ago. "In a steady wind you're mostly interested in boat speed and there's very little strategy involved but today with the wind as tricky as it was you really had to keep alert."

Saarits was alert enough to guide his home built 16-foot Fireball class boat around the three mile triangular course expertly enough to stave off competition from Toronto, Brockville, Ottawa and London.

"The competition was very tough today and it was wide open to the final race for the top three crews. This is a nice class to sail in, the competition is always good."

The Saarits are used to the good competition having just returned from the Canadian Championships in Edmonton where they managed to pull off a seventh place finish against the best of the nation, and they plan to enter into the thick of racing again next week at Montreal where the Quebec championships are being held.

"It was beautifully warm water and the wind picked up good today making for great racing. Except for some weeds the course was good and despite the wind shifts there were few capsizes," commented Saarits of the course outlined by the host Bay of Quinte Yacht Club in their first skirmish at Fireball competition.

Saarits 10 point total gave him the nod over Pat Roulstone of the Toronto Water Rats for the championships. Roulstone's 11.6 points was well ahead of third place finisher and junior champion Dan Kolson of the Brockville Yacht Club. An Schanberg captured fourth spot on the list while Peter Lovell took fifth.

There were no entries from the host Belleville club.

Lino's Practice Survival

Lino's Rovere survived some literally rough moments to record their fifth win of the Kingston and District Soccer League schedule, a 2-1 verdict over Portaloop.

John O'Neill had opend the scoring with a header from Kevin Kirby's corner kick in the first half but the Falcons came on strong enough to tie the game early the second half on a marker by Paulo Rega.

Numerous warnings for rough play from the referee and steady play by Lino's goalie Gary Donavon cooled the Falcon down and set up Tony Goncalves winning score on a rebound from Dave Zdravko.

Sizing the Opposition

Brent Woods is a little cut of his class, sizewise, but is still determined to test the "big guys" in races at Sunday's Quinte Sports Foundation picnic. The outing, held at Mohawk Park, drew a good turnout of local sports fans as well as several directors, players and officials from the senior A hockey team. Races, bicycle rides and a weightlifting demonstration were among the activities completed before heavy rains forced the participants to head for cover.

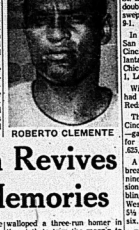
Clemente Paces Pirates Past Red-Hot Reds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Roberto Clemente, according to Cincinnati manager Sparky Anderson, "might be the best player in baseball for one day." When he has to perform like in the World Series when he wanted to prove he was the best-you see what he does."

Sunday was one of those days for Pittsburgh Pirates' brilliant right fielder, his first game in two weeks since being knocked out of action by an intestinal virus.

Clemente knocked in the game-tying run with an eighth-inning single-his second run batted in of the battles between the National League's division leaders-and moments later scored the winner on Willie Stargell's double as the Pirates slipped past the Reds 3-2.



ROBERTO CLEMENTE

Elsewhere in the national League, Philadelphia Phillies downed, Los Angele Dodgers 2-1, San Francisco Giants defeated New York Mets 5-2, Houston Astros beat Chicago Cubs 6-5, Atlanta Braves edged St. Louis Cardinals 3-2, and in a doubleheader, Montreal Expos swept San Diego Padres 2-1 and 7-1.

In Saturday's games, it was San Francisco 2 New York 1, Cincinnati 6 Pittsburgh 4, Atlanta 8 St. Louis 7, Houston 7, Chicago 2, Montreal 3 San Diego 1, Los Angeles 4 Philadelphia 1.

The victory by the Bucs-and Cincinnati's setback, of course -gave each team a 53-33 record for a winning percentage of .625, the best in the majors.

A year ago at the All-Star break, Pittsburgh owned a nine-game lead in the East Division while the Reds were stumbling along in fifth place in the West. Now the Pirates lead is 5½ games and Cincinnati's is six.

But for Clemente, who won the Babe Ruth Award as the outstanding player in the 1971 World Series, the '72 series wasn't foremost in his mind after Sunday's game. The All-Star Game was, He's scheduled to be a starting outfielder but is sure if he'll play.

"I don't know," the 38-year-old star said. "It's day-to-day but if I go I'll play. I'll be ready. I'm going to play. I won't make a trip for nothing."

Jim Wynn wrecked a bit of Chicago strategy with a game-tying hit for the Astros.

Larry Howard opened the ninth inning with a double off Ferguson Jenkins and Cesar Cedeno put the winning run at third. The Cubs' hurler then walked Roger Metzger and Cesar Cedeno intentionally to load the bases. He was followed by slashing a single off shortstop Don Kessinger's glove.

Hank Aaron drove in all three Braves runs, two of them with a first-inning grand slam and the winning one-with a tie-breaking single in the eighth.

Mike Torrez tossed a four-hitter, then rookie Balor Moore sent him one earlier with a three-hitter in the nightcap against the Padres. Torrez struck out six batters while Moore fanned 13.

In the first game, Jim Fairey drove in both Expos runs with singles in the first and eighth innings.

Then Montreal assaulted four San Diego pitchers in the second game. Tim McCarver had a 6-3 victory over Pittsburgh Sat-urday night, said he received the call about noon in his hotel room.

"The guy called up and said he wanted me to throw the game," Simpson said. "He said that if I came through he'd make sure was $1,000 bills were in my door after the game.

Simpson said he told the caller he'd think about five minutes in the presence of his room-mate, Hal McRae.

Reds Pitcher Offered Bribe

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pitcher Wayne Simpson of Cincinnati Reds said Sunday that he had received pronounced in telephone call Saturday offering him $2,000 to throw a game with Pittsburgh Pirates.

The 24-year-old Simpson, who pitched six innings in the Reds' 6-3 victory over Pittsburgh Saturday night, said he received the call about noon in his hotel room.

Simpson said he immediately notified Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson of the call.

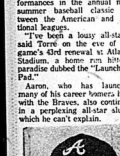
Simpson, who allowed seven hits and three runs Saturday night, said he was quizzed by FBI agents for about 30 minutes Saturday afternoon after reporting the call.

Sluggers Can Atone For All-Star Failures

ATLANTA (AP) — Joe Torre and Hank Aaron try Tuesday night to atone for poor past performances in the annual mid-summer baseball classic between the American and National League.

"I've been a lousy all-star," said Torre on the eve of the game's 43rd renewal at Atlanta Stadium, a home run hitter's paradise dubbed the "Launching Pad."

Aaron, who has launched many of his career homers here with the Braves, is also struggling in a perplexing all-star slump which he can't explain.



JOE TORRE

"I don't know what it is in all-star games," he said. "I'm not even done much in them."

Aaron, a lifetime .319 average for 19 years who has an unbroken .186 batting average in this star-studded affair.

Torre, the third baseman among the National League swingers who hope to pad the senior circuit's advantage in the series that began in 1933. The National League leads 23-18 with one tie.

The other National League starters include catcher Johnny Bench and second baseman Joe Morgan of Cincinnati Reds, and outfielders Roberto Clemente of Pittsburgh Stargell of Pittsburgh Pirates. Lee May of Houston Astros and Joe Torre and Don Kessinger of Chicago Cubs is the shortstop.

This year's American League team shows no power shortage, either, with a group of fence-breakers who can easily reach those tempting dimensions here -330 feet down the foul lines and 400 feet to straightaway center field-included among the American League musclemen is Reggie Jackson, the Oakland Athletics outfielder who started the American League to victory in last year's game at Detroit with a mammoth homer.

HANK AARON

A capacity crowd of 52,764 is expected while millions more watch on television beginning at 8:15 p.m. EDT.

The inter-league game is a homecoming of sorts for Torre, who played for three years in Atlanta before he was traded to St. Louis for the 1969 season.

"It's really a good feeling to play in an all-star game . . . an opportunity-and feeling because it's Atlanta," said Torre. "I was here for a while and I have a lot of friends here. It means more to me than anywhere else.

"I'd like to get rid of that lousy all-star jinx, and it would be nice to get rid of it right here in Atlanta," said the broad-shouldered third baseman who was the National League's Most Valuable Player last year.

Torre says his poor showing in six previous all-star games is "just one of those things."

"You don't go to a hot that many times," said Torre, who has only one hit in 15 appearances. "I think maybe in my

Campbell Won't Parade WHA 'Showpiece'

TORONTO (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Saturday night the NHL will not permit Bobby Hull and other World Hockey Association players to participate in the Canada-Russia series because "there is no reason why we should put on parade the snow piece for the other side."

In a television conference on Toronto station CFTO and a later interview, Campbell said the league has no intention of reversing its ban on Hull, who has left Chicago Black Hawks of the NHL to sign as player-coach of Winnipeg Jets of the WHA.

Hull and defenceman J. C. Tremblay, who moved from Montreal Canadiens to Quebec Nordiques of the new league, were among 35 players invited to join Team Canada against the Russians but are barred by a requirement that all players must sign their NHL contracts before reporting to the team's training camp.

"Defecting players represent a terrible exposure to the National Hockey League," Campbell said. "Is there any rational reason why we would want to help the WHA?"

Campbell said the NHL had made a "tremendous sacrifice" in agreeing to make its players available for the eight-game Russian series. Total salary of the players involved was $2,425,000 and "our biggest worry is the risk of injury."

He said it was at the insistence of the NHL Players' Association that the agreement setting up the team included the requirement that players sign their contracts first.

Campbell acknowledged that his office has received about 2,000 copies of a petition asking for Hull's reinstatement. "And they go right in the barrel the way they come from the post office, in bundles."

"I only pay attention to letters, I don't pay attention to time to write, then we read them."

He was the second victim of the championships. Another entry Janos Warkoczy was killed July 17 when his glider crashed.

Mix, who won the Canadian championship in 1961, 1962 and 1966, also held a number of Canadian soaring records at the time of his death.

He was followed later in the day by Des Benford of Maroubra Beach, New South Wales, who made the crossing in 11:50.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Paul Hendershot, a defensive halfback who played one game with the British Columbia Lions in his two years with the club, has been dropped from the team's roster.

A spokesman for the Lions said the 23-year-old from Waterloo Lutheran University left football to take another job he has been offered.

Hendershot was cut by Edmonton in 1970, and last year the Lions cut him only to bring him back for their last game, against Calgary.

Chicago Seeks To Halt Hull

TORONTO (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League will seek an injunction in an Illinois court to prevent Bobby Hull from playing for the new team, NHL president Clarence Campbell said Saturday night.

Campbell said in an interview the action, aimed at stopping the veteran left-winger from joining Winnipeg Jets of the World Hockey Association, is likely to be launched within two weeks.

Campbell, a lawyer, said the Hawks contend Hull violated the standard NHL contract, which contains an option clause binding a player to his team after the contract expires. Hull's current contract with Chicago runs out Oct. 1. His pact with Winnipeg is effective Oct. 1.

"Our experts have reviewed the situation position over and over again," he said, adding said he is certain the action will be successful.

Ward Wins Trap Title

A total of 33 marksmen competed in the second annual Quinte Open Trap championship held Sunday at the Quinte Trap and Gun Club. Taking part in the trap competition were shotgun enthusiasts from New York State, Picton, Cobourg, Kingston, Oshawa and Belleville.

In singles competition the Volve Cup went to Charlie Ottman. The American shooter broke 49 of a possible 50 targets to edge Grant Griffin and Bob Ward tied for second with 48 each.

The handicap event was a three - way tie by Quinte's Doug Johnston, Earl Marvin and Bob Ward, but Johnston was declared the winner because of shooting the farthest distance. All three broke 46 of 50 targets.

Jim Cole collected the doubles win with 43 of 50, while Doug Scrimshaw was second with 42.

Bob Ward was over-all champion with 135 hits in 150 attempts while Doug Scrimshaw placed second with 129.

Charlie Ottman of Fulton, N.Y. gets set to knock off another clay pigeon in the Quinte Trap and Gun Club's district championship shoot Sunday. The American marksman won the 33-yard event by breaking 49 of a possible 50 targets. A total of 33 shotgunners from the U.S., Brockville, Peterborough, Madoc, Picton and Belleville took part in the event.

Fresh Yankee Fades

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Speedy Crown has erased any taint on his world trotting championship.

The United States' four-year-old colt scored an easy victory in the unusual $150,000 challenge match at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

The owners of the eight-year-old French mare, Une de Mai, had raised some doubts when Speedy Crown beat Fresh Yankee of Canada in the $125,000 Roosevelt International Trot the previous Saturday.

Une de Mai, the defending international champion, had been ordered scratched by the New York State Harness Racing Commission which questioned her fitness to race because of a leg ailment.

The owners of Speedy Crown resented the slur and Duncan MacDonald of Sydney, N.S., owner of Fresh Yankee, expressed dissatisfaction with the three given to mare by Joe O'Brien of Alberton, P.E.I.

All of these factors led to the challenge match among Speedy Crown, Une de Mai and Fresh Yankee with the winner assured of harness racing's richest first prize, $100,000.

Win Howard Beissinger again in the sulky. Speedy Crown added his time in third place as Fresh Yankee, driven by McDonald for the first time, set the pace until displaced by Une de Mai nearing the one-mile pole.

On the bend into the stretch Beissinger took Speedy Crown to the far outside, quickly overtook Une de Mai and drew away from the French mare in the stretch for an easy one-length victory. Fresh Yankee, mean time, dropped back and finished 13 lengths behind Une de Mai.

The time for the 1¼ miles was 2:32 1-5 compared to the 2:32 1-5 Speedy Crown turned in for the International event.

In scoring his seventh consecutive victory in the big money events, Speedy Crown went off the 4-5 favorite with the crowd of 41,633 and paid $3.80. Une de Mai was 6-5 and Fresh Yankee 3-1. There was no betting only.

"There was nothing to it," said Beissinger in the paddock afterwards. "If I have known it was going to be that easy I would have put my 12-year-old son, Orrin, in the sulky."

"He was well within himself all the way and I just eased him along in the first quarter and let him win it as he pleased."

Speedy Crown now has earned $167,122 for 16 victories in 20 career starts for the Speedy Crown Stable of New York. Speedy Crown will get a week's rest, Beissinger said, then compete in stake engagements in Canada at Greenwood in Toronto and Blue Bonnets in Montreal where he may again encounter Une de Mai and Fresh Yankee.

Record Number of Tracksters Named to Canadian Team

TORONTO (CP) — The selection committee and a handful of athletics exceeded Olympic standards in the two-day Canadian senior track and field championships as a record 47 competitors were named to represent Canada at the Games in Munich next month.

The committee debated its choices for five hours before coming up with the list early today. It exceeded the number set by the Canadian Olympic Association and must be approved by the COA at a meeting in Montreal later this week.

No more than 30 track and field athletes have represented Canada in any previous Olympics.

Temperatures reaching more than 90 degrees and high humidity produced below par performances from most of the contestants, with only eight of them meeting Olympic standards in the 20 events. Half of them had already achieved the standards in previous competition this year.

The most effective hot-weather performers were Bruce Pirnie of Saskatoon, the only record-breaker of the meet, in the shot put and 17-year-old Glenda Reiser of Ottawa, who scored a double victory in the 800 and 1,500 metres.

Pirnie, a 29-year-old physical education instructor, won his event with a throw of 63 feet 3¼ inches, three inches beyond the Canadian record he previously held by Dave Steen of Toronto and Burnaby, B.C.

Miss Reiser, a comfortable winner at 1,500 Saturday in four minutes 16.1 seconds, scored a resounding upset Sunday in the 800.

Competing against Abby Hoffman of Toronto, a veteran of two previous Olympics and the Canadian record holder, she caught her more experienced rival in the last 100 metres and beat her easily, finishing in 2:05.8. Miss Hoffman's 2:06.1 in 1968 earlier in a meet at Essen, West Germany. Miss Hoffman has run the distance in 2:04 this year.

Bruce Simpson of Toronto earned his Olympic berth in the pole vault by clearing the standard height of 16 feet nine inches. Also, Kane of Burnaby and Kirk Bryde of Vancouver also made the team on the basis of past performances.

John Beers of Vancouver joined fellow-townsmen John Hawkins and Rick Cutell as the team's high-jumpers when he won the event with a leap of seven feet 4¾ inch above the standard.

A semi-final time of 53.8 seconds earned Joyce Sadowick of Burnaby a berth in the women's 400 metres although her time in the final was 54.1. The standard is 54 seconds flat.

Brenda Walsh and Liz Vanderstam of Edmonton and Joan McTaggert of Saskatoon will join Miss Sadowick, setting up a Canadian 1,500-metre relay team.

Tony Nelson of Lasalle, Que., and Rick McDonald of Toronto both got under the standard of 14 seconds flat in the heats of the 110 - metre hurdles and Louise Hanna got over it with a high jump of 5-9¼.

Debbie Brill of Haney, B.C., a six-foot jumper who was excused from the meet to train in Europe, also made the team, together with Sue Turpin of Toronto.

Stephanie Berto of Vancouver, who won the 200 metres and finished second in the 100 in the Pan-American Games in Colombia last year, missed her Olympic chance when she was forced to withdraw because of inflammation of both legs which will keep her out of competition for the rest of the season.

Emily McMullen of Toronto, who finished second in the 100 Saturday, was the only selection in the women's sprints.

The other four Pan-American gold medalists in women's track and field will go to Munich. They are Miss Hoffman, Miss Brill, long jumper Brenda Eisler of Vancouver and Debbie Van Kiekebelt of Mississauga, Ont., in the pentathlon.

One of the most exciting races was the 10,000 metres in which Jerome Drayton and Dan Shaughnessy of Toronto ran almost stride for stride until Shaughnessy pulled away in the last half-lap to win by 12 metres. But the winning time of 30:29 was more than 1½ minutes slower than the Olympic standard and neither runner made the team.

Stamps Want First Win

CALGARY (CP) — If Hamilton Tiger-Cats co-operate, coach Jim Duncan hopes to solve a few problems when his Calgary Stampeders meet the Eastern Football Conference squad in an exhibition game tonight.

The defending Grey Cup champions' major concern has to be a three-game losing streak after an impressive 23-22 win over the Canadian Football League all-stars here in June.

But Duncan says:

"I'm not too concerned, we're still taking a look at a lot of people. We're trying to work on our timing, that's why we threw a lot in Regina Friday night."

The interlocking class with also feature the return of Jerry Williams, now Hamilton's coach. In 1969, Williams left the Stampeders after a four-year stay to join Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

Canada To Play Swedes

STOCKHOLM (CP- AP) — Team Canada will play two exhibition games with the Swedish national team Three Crowns Sept. 16 and 17 before going to Russia for a four-game series with the Soviet national team, it was announced today.

Alan Eagleson, chairman of Team Canada and leader of the Canadian delegation in Stockholm, told news conference that the Canadian professional team will train in Stockholm before the games in Russia.

Eagleson said the two games with Three Crowns in Stockholm made a visit to Prague, Czechoslovakia, for a meeting with the newly-crowned Czech world champions, highly doubtful.

The 35-strong Canadian team arrives in Stockholm Sept. 8.

The first Team Canada-Three Crowns match will be televised live to Canada.

Petes Pound Ellis Jrs.

The Ellis Juniors welcomed the change of faces in their Saturday night exhibition game with Peterborough — but not for long.

The Lark City Juniors spotted Belleville 1-0 and 3-2 leads before erupting with three runs in the fourth inning to tie it 7-3 win.

Doug Gibson proved to be the spoiler for Belleville as the Coombes and Fergusson chucker threw third strikes past 14 Ellis batters. His team mates jumped on a pair of local pitchers for 12 hits, enough to insure the win. Doug McFadden snapped a triple and two singles. Gord Watts three singles and Art Pageant two singles for the winners.

Pete Stallkovich had Gibson's number for the Belleville Juniors stroking three singles. Terry Meagher pulled two safeties while Dave Akey and Ron Hill had the other two hits for the losers.

Herbert Survives Spill

There was a lot at stake during the Sunday harness racing card at the Frontenac Downs and Bart Herbert and Muddy George came out with the biggest piece.

Herbert survived a three horse spill in the second race of the day to record a win in the first division of the OHHA Belvedere Ontario Sired Pacing Stakes. His time of 2:14.2 brought $275 in purse money.

Muddy George ran the mile at even a faster clip to win the second division race in 2:09.1. Driver

He picked up an identical $2575 check, records for eastern Ontario.

The fastest time of the day went to Chris Zone who was paced by Barb Wemp to a 2:06.1 mile in the eighth race.

Flux and Chance Hill crossed in the tenth race for the biggest payoff of the day registering $123.20 in the exactor.

The first, third, seventh and ninth races all had something in common when the winning horses all reached the wire in 2:09.3. Willibrook May took the first race honours, while Hilford Jimmy captured the third, Cindy's Lady the seventh and Vic's Sven the ninth.

Rick's Satan Boy won the fifth race and Bertha Magic entered the winners circle in the sixth.

A total of $35,629 was wagered on the the second card of the year for Frontenac Downs. Harness racing resumes Wednesday night at 7:45 p.m.

Yancey Cuts In

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — "I guess maybe missing those two cuts in a row was a blessing in disguise," said Bert Yancey, who won $40,500 first prize Sunday in the American Golf Classic, beating Tom Ulozas in a sudden-death playoff.

He was discussing a recent slump which hit rock bottom when he failed to qualify for the final two rounds in recent tournaments at Chicago and Cleveland.

"It jolted me," said Yancey, for years one of the steadiest players on the tour.

"I just hadn't been investing enough time in my profession.

"I'd been trying to spend some time at home, then sneak out on the tour and win a couple of thousand dollars and go home.

That was fine, except that I wasn't winning the couple of thousand."

Duncan replaced him and guided Calgary to the Grey Cup in 1970 and 1971, winning the title once.

Hamilton has one win in three exhibition games.

Friends, Wife Died in 6 Days Adrift in Gulf

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — In the six days before he was found saturday, Richard L. VanBeber told his rescuers, he clung to his capsized boat and watched his friends drift away and his wife die beside him.

A U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said VanBeber told his rescuers this story of what happened:

When the couples sailed out of Marco Pass on Florida's west coast Sunday, July 16, they headed for the grouper banks about 25 miles offshore, but couldn't wait until they got there to wet their lines. So they cast over the side and in the excitement of the first catch, ignored the danger signals of a faulty bilge pump.

An hour out, VanBeber's 18-foot outboard started taking on water, then was nit by a big wave which flipped it and the four persons into the Gulf waters.

With no food or water and only a limited knowledge of survival at sea, the two couples began a struggle to stay alive.

VanBeber, barely conscious when coast guards lifted him into a rescue helicopter some 90 miles wnk of Fort Myers Saturday, said his friends get so thirsty they drank sea water despite his warnings not to.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs Williams let go of the boat and drifted away, followed an hour later by her husband, VanBeber said.

The next day a plane—perhaps one of 10 coast guard aircraft searching for the missing couples—circled so close VanBeber said he could read the number on its side. But the plane didn't spot the tiny bobbing object.

Neither did a rescue boat, which he said came within several hundred yards.

On the fifth day, VanBeber said, his wife died. He said she apparently strangled on the lifeline or a strap on her life jacket. In barely audible tones, he told rescuers he cut her loose and she disappeared.

He credited his survival to drinking rain water he collected in a piece of canvas and a belief that searchers would yet find him.

Saturday night VanBeber was listed in serious condition at Lee Memorial Hospital here, suffering from exhaustion, shock and dehydration.

'Kidnapped' Child Slain

WAUCHULA, Fla. (AP) — June Byrley, 18, who reported Friday that her week-old baby had been kidnapped by three men, was arrested Sunday and charged with first-degree murder after the child's body was found in an orange grove.

Sheriff N. H. Murdoch of Hardee County said in a statement the body of Stephanie Dime Byrley was found in a shallow grave in an orange grove near Mrs. Byrley's home in the central Florida town of Oak Grove.

Mrs. Byrley reported to police Friday her daughter was abducted by two middle-aged men and a younger companion when she refused to get into their car.

Cost Is Problem

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald returned home Saturday night from an eight-day tour of the Western Arctic, convinced that the critical problem facing the proposed gas pipeline in the North is its financing.

He said in an interview he foresaw no insurmountable problems arising from the viewpoint of technical feasibility, the environment, or native rights.

Scientists Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — More than 1200 scientists from 20 countries gather here today to discuss new techniques of measuring things as small as a bug and as huge as the universe.

The 12th international congress of photogrammetry is the first of four major international scientific meetings to be held this year in Ottawa and Montreal.

Equal Aid Asked

TORONTO (CP) Equal government financial aid for all students was called for Sunday at the conclusion of a weekend nearby breakwater, teach-in by students from nine provinces.

The students called for a change in the system whereby those in different provinces must borrow different amounts before receiving a grant for higher education.

Aid Drug Users

TORONTO (CP) — Young Toronto drug abusers will have a chance to kick their habit during a $14,500 camping program financed by the federal, provincial and municipal governments.

Project Deer Lake will take girls and boys, aged 11 to 15, on a two-week nature trip near Dorset, Ont.

"It's a low-keyed program," said Philip Fischer, 29, project director. "We aren't going to lecture the kids on how bad drugs are or what they should or shouldn't do with their lives. ... We want to offer them an alternative way of life and show them the importance of love, people and nature."

Body Recovered

TORONTO (CP) The body of one of two men who drowned Saturday was recovered Sunday by police.

The body of Paul Brown, 18, of Toronto, was pulled from Toronto harbor, and the search continues for the body of Robert McRae, 26, also of Toronto. The two were in a small power boat which capsized.

A third occupant, Jerry McDougall, also of Toronto, swam to shore with the aid of a life preserver.

When the boat began to sink, Mr. McDougall, a non-swimmer, grabbed a lifejacket. The others decided to swim for a nearby breakwater. ■

Lively Wedding

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — A wedding for a member of Satan's Choice motorcycle club which was attended by about 200 club members resulted in six arrests Sunday.

Regional police made the arrests outside the motorcyclists' clubhouse. About 50 police arrived at the wedding reception around midnight after complaints of loud partying and street-drinking had been made.

One policeman, Constable Ronald Boughen, was taken to hospital suffering from minor cuts after a scuffle with club members.

Fast Bathtub

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 14-year-old Nanaimo youth churned across the Strait of Georgia Sunday in an hour and 30 minutes to win the sixth annual Nanaimo international bathtub race.

The winner was David Lyle, who steered the Country Club Plaza Dreadnaught across the strait between Vancouver Island and the British Columbia mainland in record time. He shaved 11 minutes off the old time of two hours and one minute set in 1968.

Survey Over

BRANTFORD (CP) Federal officials ordered a five-man survey crew to discontinue its job on the Six Nations Indian reserve Friday following friction between the crew and reserve residents.

"The whole thing is pretty stupid as far as I am concerned," said Chief Councillor Richard Isaac when told that the white survey crew had been told to withdraw.

"You try to do something about people's complaints of bad roads on the reserve, and when the surveyors come, they chase them off."

Stuff Chi Chi

LONDON (AP) — Chi Chi, the maiden panda who died Saturday, will be stuffed and displayed in the Museum of Natural Science here, London Zoo announced Sunday.

Just Lucky

VANCOUVER (CP) — The skipper of the prawn trawler Greenpeace III said Saturday that it was "absolute luck" that none of the three crew members aboard the vessel was injured when it was in collision with a French minesweeper in the South Pacific recently.

"I could reach out my hand and touch the bow of that ship which is like a four-storey building of steel beside you," said Dave McTaggart.

Real Clean

TORONTO (CP) — Eight of the 15 clean-air cars invited to a display Saturday at the Ontario Science Centre caused no air pollution whatsoever.

Because of mechanical problems, they never showed up.

Pensioners Will Lose Drug Help

TORONTO (CP) — Nearly 950 Toronto pensioners will lose all or part of their special $20 drug and shelter supplements next month.

The decision by Metro Special Services Committee follows the move by the federal government to increase the old-age pension by $30 a month, to $285 per couple.

Some pensioners and politicians expressed concern over the weekend when pensioners complained about receiving reduced payments from the city.

Paul Godfrey, social services committee chairman, said Sunday night that the cutback will not be implemented until next month. He said reduced payments received by some must have resulted from their failure to make full claims to the city for drug or rent supplements.

Mr. Godfrey said that no one will get less than he did before the new pension increase.

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau arrived at this national park resort Saturday afternoon before heading out for a week at a remote mountain lodge.

The prime minister, his wife Margaret and their son then left for Bughorn Lodge about 30 miles southwest of Banff.

B.C. Shoot-out Leaves One Dead

PRINCE RUPERT, B.C. (CP) — A 25-year-old store shopping hostage with his own captor in fatal murder and three counts of attempted murder Sunday after a shooting spree in this northcoastal city that left one man dead and two RCMP officers wounded and in hospital.

The man was arrested by RCMP Constable L. J. Veenendall Saturday shortly after the policeman dived from his van to duck a bullet.

Police said Richard Janauer, 25, would appear in court today.

Witnesses said five shots were fired, inside a house and in the street. One of them also killed a small dog.

After the shooting, a man armed with a rifle walked into a gift shop with non-captal-ism and told a friend what he had done and thinking his head at stunned onlookers.

Police withheld the name of the 25-year-old man killed.

Wounded were RCMP constable Robert M. Thornbery, 30, of Victoria, shot in the left elbow; and Jerry K. Wilde, 21, of East Grey, Sask., hit in the chest and face.

The two police officers were in a Vancouver hospital after being flown south by a United States rescue helicopter from Alaska. They were reported in good condition.

Buttons and Bills

Shirley Martin of Vancouver holds her $3,000 and box of buttons that started it all. She bought a diamond appraised at $19,300 a month ago in a $1 box of buttons at a Salvation Army thrift store and Thursday sold it for $3,000. She had the buttons at home for two weeks before she discovered the gem. At one point, she was questioned by two RCMP at a jeweller's shop and swallowed the diamond because she was afraid she would be forced to give it up (CP - PHOTO)

South Vietnam Troops Make Major Advances

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese troops made major advances on two fronts today, fighting their way to the walls of Quang Tri Citadel in the northern counter-offensive and recapturing a second district town on the central coast.

On the air war, American jets bombed the southern sector of Hanoi Sunday for the second successive day, setting a battery plan on fire and starting a dozen explosions, the U.S. command reported.

Associated Press correspondent Dennis Neeld reported from Quang Tri that government paratroops pushed through a hail of North Vietnamese artillery on the approaches to the Citadel, then reconsolidating withering fire through two breaches in the 40 foot walls of the 19th-century fortress.

"The North Vietnamese are funnelling their firepower into the gaps in the walls, and it's murder in there," one officer said.

Officers said the South Vietnamese were taking substantial casualties but refuses to say how many.

Planting the South Vietnamese flag in the Citadel would symbolize a recapture of the northernmost provincial capital which fell to the South Vietnamese May 1. The South Vietnamese counter-offensive is recognized as the Quang Tri province began June 28.

Neeld said the paratroops launched their assault at dawn from a string of bunkers within 50 yards of the Citadel walls, moving behind a heavy artillery and aerial bombardment. The two breaches in the walls had been made two weeks ago by U.S. jets with laser-guided 2,000-pound bombs.

Meanwhile, in Binh Dinh province, on the central coast, more than 1,000 South Vietnamese rangers moving on foot and by helicopter recaptured the district town of Tam Quan, Associated Press photographer Neal Ulevich reported. He said the North Vietnamese put up only light resistance.

Before the assault, U.S. defenders bombarded the town from offshore, did heavy damage and left part of the town in flames.

As the South Vietnamese force moved in, at least 2,500 civilians emerged from underground bunkers.

The South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said that many factories and other economic installations and workers' collective housing area were destroyed, and many civilians were killed.

North Vietnam also claimed that 13 U.S. jets were shot down Saturday and Sunday and at least one pilot was captured. The U.S. command reported only two planes lost.

The command announced earlier that on Saturday air force pilots flew more than 30 laser-guided, 2,000-pound bombs into two 35-acre supply depots in the southern part of Hanoi. Pilots reported that they wrecked at least 13 warehouses and smashed piles of crated materials in an open storage area.

Burns Cripple Many Thousands

CHICAGO (AP) — A "silent epidemic" of burns in the United States is killing and crippling more people than polio did in 1954, its peak epidemic year. Three physicians made this assertion in calling for a national drive to reduce injuries.

"It is evident that burn prevention should be of high priority in our society," they write in an editorial in the July 24 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The physicians are Drs. Armond Goldman, Duane Larson and Sally Alstein, all of the University of Illinois medical branch in Galveston.

The doctors said a single government agency should spearhead a co-ordinated program to seek to reduce burn injuries and deaths.

The suggested steps include: better design and regulation of open space heaters, hot water heaters and other devices; education programs through the press, radio and government action to require manufacture of flame-retardant clothing.

"The incidence of burn injuries in the United States exceeds that of every industrialized country, and deaths and crippling due to burns in this country currently are considerably greater than the mortality and morbidity due to poliomyelitis in the peak epidemic year

Sees Depression

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau has swept Canada into a real depression through his lack of imagination and courage in battling inflation and unemployment, says Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield.

In an article published Saturday in Le Droit, Mr. Stanfield said Mr. Trudeau speaks with confidence of Canada's future while forgetting the present.

"This summer, Canada has the highest unemployment of the Mr. Trudeau held out during the 1968 elections," Mr. Stanfield said.

Big 'Speed' Haul Made

ST. THOMAS (CP) — Close to one pound of methamphetamine, the largest haul of the drug ever made in this area, was seized Saturday night when members of the regional drug squad raided an apartment.

A few hours earlier, London police seized about one-quarter pound of the drug in London as a car was stopped for a routine check.

Const. Charles Robbins, 25, of St. Thomas will appear in St. Thomas court today on a trafficking charge.

Ronald Edward Bridger, 22, of London and James Douglas Pickard, 22, of no fixed address, also will appear on trafficking charges.

Police said the combined street value of the drugs in both hauls would be more than $5,000.

Aries (March 21-April 19): If you must work, make it interesting by taking a deliberately naive view, or by trying to explain it to a stranger unacquainted with its principles.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Seek professional, technical advice for personal concerns. Launch an experimental project, speculate a little if you can afford the outlay.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Extra co-operation appears available, particularly for deals and exchanges. Avoid overloading of surplus or outdated possessions.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Start out with definite schedules which include room for reflection. It's a long day and you can do a great deal with it.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): There's opportunity for happy moments, improvement in your resources. Being alert in response makes the difference. Find time for meditation.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accept co-operation where you can get it, make the best of a good mood all around. Attend practical matters near at hand first.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): It is time for your creative contribution to community health and well-being. Bring in friends, get something organized. Open your heart for romance.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Cultural interests, educational needs can no longer be denied, along with the day's chores, work out plans for self-improvement.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Start out bright and early, show your strongest talents. Constructive action on several fronts will become possible.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Politicking pays off well if diligently pursued. Shift position if only to look at things from another viewpoint.

Toxemia Can Be Serious Ailment

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had toxemia when I was pregnant with my first child, and I was put in the hospital during my ninth month.

My symptoms were high blood pressure and I was over-put due to fluids.

What I would like to know is will I go toxemia when I become pregnant again? Also, how is toxemia harmful to baby and mother during pregnancy? —J.M.

The exact cause of toxemia is not really known, although it does affect a good many pregnant women, especially those who have not had early enough pre-natal attention—a very good reason for getting into early contact with a physician.

It is supposed that either an endocrine imbalance or a metabolic disorder is the cause.

A warning of the onset of toxemia in pregnant women is a rise in blood pressure. Often women with high blood pressure are more susceptible to toxemia.

Fluid retention, also associated with the disease, sudden weight gains beyond those to be expected naturally during pregnancy. Swelling in joints is especially noticeable, and many women complain of tightened wedding rings and bracelets.

It usually occurs in the last three months of pregnancy, although it can occur as early as the middle three months.

In mild cases, treatment involves diet restrictions (low salt diet), rest and diuretic drugs is sufficient.

In your case, your doctor felt that such treatment was insufficient, and to be on the safe side he had you admitted to a hospital for more intensive care.

Without proper care, toxemia can become a serious matter indeed, leading in extreme cases, to convulsions.

The practice of examining urine samples throughout pregnancies helps monitor patients for signs of toxemia. Abnormal amounts of albumin in the urine occurs.

I'd say that if you had toxemia during your last pregnancy, you would be a pretty good candidate for it in your next one.

The disorder is more common in areas where inadequate prenatal care is the norm than where good care is available.

It is dangerous both to the mother and the child, often leading to premature delivery.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Shouldn't a baby going on eight months be crawling around the floor and be able to pull its body up and sit up by now?—Mrs. G.P.

Statistics show that about 70 per cent of babies are able to get themselves to sitting positions anywhere between six months and nine months. Your baby may be one of those who performs a bit later than others.

Most behavior charts are based on averages of hundreds of infants tested and are not to be interpreted too strictly. Differences of two or three months from one baby to another are not uncommon.

Each accomplishment is but one of many that must be integrated as a group.

His physician should check his progress in the course of usual periodic visits.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible to become an alcoholic on beer?

We have been married for six years, and every night of those six years my husband has consumed a minimum of three quarts of beer—many times more.

We have a family and I'm concerned. He is 30.—Mrs. R.B.R.

Yes, it is possible. No question about it.

Opening lead — ace of spades.

If you make a phony bid in an effort to fool the enemy, there is always the danger that you will wind up fooling partner and that may of course yourself irreparable injury. But no lucky days a wild one will pay off, which is exactly what happened in this deal from the world championship match between Italy and Brazil in 1969.

Forquet and Garozzo were North-South for Italy when the bidding went in the manner shown. Garozzo was under-standably confident he would make a slam in clubs if he could step an opening diamond lead, and accordingly he bid two diamonds in an effort to inhibit that lead.

Garozzo's leap to six clubs undoubtedly should have silenced partner, but North apparently did not suspect the phony two diamond bid and he corrected six clubs to six diamonds.

This contract understandably did not appeal to Garozzo and he ran to seven clubs, which doubled after two passes.

The double conventionally barred a spade lead and called for West to lead either a diamond or a heart, depending on his hand. But the Brazilian West, for reasons best known to himself, trotted out the ace of spades—though he should have known from the bidding that the ace could not possibly survive.

As a result, Garozzo made the grand slam for a score of 1,620 points, instead of going down three — 300 points — which would have been his lot had West led the queen of diamonds instead.

All of which goes to show that it's better to be lucky than clever!

Egypt Forces on Alert For Reaction to Speech

CAIRO (Reuter) — Egyptian forces were on the alert today for any possible reprisal by Israel following President Anwar Sadat's criticism of U.S. and Russian policy in the Middle East and the shooting down of an Israeli jet.

Sadat, in a four-hour speech Monday to 3,000 political leaders parliamentarians and members of the Arab Socialist Union at Cairo University, attacked the United States for failing to keep promises to put pressure on Israel to withdraw from occupied Arab territories.

He also put part of the blame for the crisis on the Russians who had contributed to Egypt's dilemma by a reluctance to supply it with certain types of arms to match sophisticated weaponry sent to Israel by the United States.

Only 45 minutes after the president had spoken, a Cairo military official announced that one of four Israeli Phantom aircraft had been shot down by Egypt's air defences while trying to penetrate air space over the central region of the Suez canal.

The spokesman did not say what type of weapon was used, but Israel claimed ground-to-air missiles were fired, adding that none of its planes was hit. Egypt said the Phantom was seen to crash on the Israeli side of the canal.

The incident ended a lull on the canal front which had prevailed since June 13, when Egypt said it shot down two Israeli aircraft.

U.S. Senate Kills Military Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — After voting for the first time to force U.S. withdrawal from Indochina, the Senate has killed the military foreign aid bill to which the pullout provision was attached.

In the last of 10 votes that stretched into late Monday night, the $1,710-billion aid authorization was defeated 48 to 45.

By a 50-to-45 margin, senators voted to cut off funds for U.S. combat operations in Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia on four months, provided American war prisoners were released.

The aid bill was the first step in continuing for this fiscal year the U.S. military-aid program for friendly nations. But the Senate vote does not necessarily mean the program is dead.

The House of Representatives has yet to act on a military-aid authorization; it could send the Senate another version in committee. Or the Senate foreign relations committee could report another aid bill for Senate consideration.

Strikes Spread
May Free Union Men

LONDON (CP) — Britain's striking unions appear to be edging towards a major victory today with indications that judicial moves were under way designed to obtain the release of five militant dock leaders from Pentonville prison in the next day or two.

These men were jailed for contempt last Friday. Official Solicitor Norman Turner, a judicial figure, announced a decision to apply to the Industrial Relations Court probably Wednesday to get the men out of jail as demanded by the dock unions, supported thousands of other workers.

It will be up to Sir John Donaldson, court president, to decide whether the men should be released. Informants indicated earlier that Sir John was convinced that the men had spent sufficient time in jail to "purge" their contempt in refusing to obey a court order to stop interfering with container traffic in Britain's docks.

The official solicitor is independent of the government and is charged with safeguarding the rights of defendants before the courts.

Turner intervened after the top union leader warned that the strikes defying the government's new labor law would continue to escalate in the wake of Prime Minister Heath's refusal to release the five dock leaders.

A 10-hour meeting between Heath and the high command of the Trades Union Congress ended Monday night in deadlock over the dispute that threatens to plunge Britain into one of its worst industrial shutdowns.

The 42,000 member longshoremen's union closed the country's ports Monday, and the total of sympathetic strikers was expected to top 120,000 today.

Numerous stop-work meetings were scheduled to discuss widening in the movement.

"This will escalate, the longer the men are kept in jail, and will be catastrophic to the economy of our country," Secretary General Vic Feather said after meeting Heath.

Feather had demanded that the government free the five men jailed last week for defying the new labor court and suspending the controversial Industrial Relations Act that brought their arrest for illegal picketing in the container dock dispute over handling of container cargo.

Heath asked the labor leaders "Are we to have in this country the rule of law or anarchy? Is the law to be observed or not?"

Feather replied: "We do not recognize either the act or the court as being in line with and is generally accepted by trade unionists to be the law of the land."

Rank-and-file union militants clustered for a general strike of at least a one-day country wide protests.

Work or Be Fired, Hospital Strikers Told

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Western Hospital sent letters Monday night to its 600 striking non-professional employees warning it is prepared to fire them immediately if they do not come back to work today.

The warning came after the Ontario Labor Relations Board declared the strike illegal and a breach of the Ontario Hospital Labor Disputes Arbitration Act which prohibits strikes by hospital employees.

Leaders and members of the Canadian Union of General Employees made no move to end the strike following the hospital's warning.

At a meeting Monday, 150 to 200 strikers voted, with one person dissenting, to stay on strike until the union obtains a contract.

The hospital act required disputants to submit their differences to binding arbitration if they cannot reach agreement. The hospital and union have five days left before arbitration can be invoked, unless there is another mutual extension. A seven-day extension began Saturday.

Rogers Denies System Bombed

'Welcome aboard Flight 942. I'm Harry Bradshaw, your hijacker for this trip.'

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Nixon administration, obviously stung by UN Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim's reference to reports of deliberate U.S. bombing of dikes in North Vietnam, has mounted a swift rebuttal campaign.

In an unusually high-level reply to the United Nations' chief executive, State Secretary William Rogers immediately condemned the reports as false.

Furthermore, U.S. Ambassador George Bush protested personally to the secretary-general at the United Nations.

Waldheim, while saying he could not verify the reports, replied that he thought "it was his duty to speak out on the devastating consequences which might result" from either intentional or unintentional bombing of the flood control system along the Red River in North Vietnam.

A storm between the United States and Waldheim blew up Monday after the secretary-general held a news conference he had "private unofficial" reports via Hanoi of the bombing of the dikes. He appealed to the United States to stop.

After his meeting with Waldheim, Bush told reporters he had convinced the secretary-general did not want to give credibility to what Bush called a massive North Vietnamese propaganda campaign.

Bush said he accepted what Waldheim told him.

The U.S. delegate, replying to queries whether the incident might cool relations between the U.S. government and Waldheim, replied: "Not if I have anything to do with it, and I think I will."

Waldheim told the news conference:

"Through private "unofficial channels . . . we were informed that the dikes are being bombed, and we were informed also that even in cases where the dikes are not directly bombed, the nearby bombing causes cracking of the dams and that in this way the result is the same

Jilted by Monterrey Dancer, Enraged Mexican Kills Six

ROMA, Tex. (Reuter) — A young Mexican who killed six persons died Monday from 11 gunshot wounds he received in battles with police in two Texas towns after a mad dash from Mexico in a stolen car.

The bizarre chain of events began when Jose Angel Solis Garza, 21, was jilted by a girl at a dance hall in Monterrey, Mexico, Sunday. The girl became his first victim, Mexican police said.

He shot the girl as they left the dance hall and then grabbed a car after shooting its driver.

During his 125-mile drive to the U.S. border, he ran over a man who tried to stop him, and killed a gas station attendant.

Then in Roma, he shot it out with policemen and wounded several of them.

In nearby Rio Grande, he shot dead a couple and wounded another woman before he finally was gunned down, Texan police said. He had 11 gunshot wounds when he was brought alive but unconscious to hospital.

South Vietnamese Troops Enter Quang Tri Citadel

QUANG TRI (AP) — About 400 South Vietnamese paratroops fought their way into the Quang Tri Citadel today through withering North Vietnamese fire.

Reliable official claims in Saigon that the paratroops had won control of the Citadel and the recapture of Quang Tri City was completed, fighting raged in the 19th-century fortress through late afternoon. "N'x all of the Citadel is occupied yet," an army spokesman in Quang Tri said.

The Citadel was the last bastion of resistance in the devastated provincial capital which the North Vietnamese had occupied on May 1.

Hellyer Joins Conservatives, Asks Action Canada Follow

OTTAWA (CP) — Paul Hellyer, once a senior figure in the Trudeau government, announced today he would seek nomination as a Progressive Conservative candidate in the next federal election expected this fall.

Mr. Hellyer resigned as transport minister in 1969 in a dispute over federal housing policies. He later bolted the federal Liberal caucus to sit as an independent member for Toronto Trinity and subsequently formed his own political movement called Action Canada.

He told a news conference today most Canadians would prefer the movement to be aligned with an established political party.

"In reaction to this feeling . . . the national advisory council of Action Canada has now decided that the most effective way to pursue implementation of policies of opportunity is through the Progressive Conservative Party.

"Consequently we will urge Action Canada members to follow this course."

Mr. Hellyer said he had discussed the situation with national Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield and gained "a feeling of confidence in the openness of the Progressive Conservative party under his leadership."

"He has assured us that, in following this course, we will be at liberty to promote our policies within the party structure."

"I will be seeking a Progressive Conservative nomination in the forthcoming election and I expect several other Action Canada members will also . . ."

Mr. Hellyer prefaced his announcement by again attacking "the direction of government policy" under Prime Minister Trudeau.

Cottagers Divided On Dam Question

CLOYNE (Special) — Land and cottage owners in this summer resort area have been told they should arrive at a common front in a controversy over a proposed dam at nearby Marble Lake.

Construction of a dam on the lake — which reaches south from Mazinaw Lake — has aroused differences among property owners, aired at a meeting called here by the Mississippi Valley Conservation Authority.

Some owners feel water levels suggested as a result of the proposed dam are too high and present lakeshore lots would be flooded. Others profed the necessity of any such project. However, most property holders at the meeting felt some form of water control was necessary.

Again, other landowners feel no real control could be attained until water flows from the lake's Marmora Lake were rigidly controlled.

When the meeting showed no common opinion could be reached, authority vice-chairmn O. E. Rothwell suggested the owners form an association to sort out differences and report back to the authority with a recommendation.

Alex S. Arnold, authority resources manager, emphasized the lake level which would be created by a dam was as yet only a proposal. Final elevations would be determined by the landowners.

Eric Gaze, Tweed district forester, Department of Resources, said such a dam was the only one in his area which would virtually have no effect on fish.

Hot Spell Cuts Fires

TWEED — Humidity — the withering weather factor which caused most people to wilt during the recent two-week heat wave — was a boon to conservation.

Scorching temperatures might seem to have posed an extreme threat to Quinte area bushland.

Not so, says Donald White, department of natural resources forest protection service officer.

For one thing, the Quinte district's dense northern bushland received consistent rain during the hot spell that roasted the southern end of the region.

Too, the heatwave's accompanying high humidity—while enervating humans—dampened ground and forest growth, making it difficult for fires to spread uncontrolled. As a result there never was a "real fire hazard" in northern area forests.

The arrival today throughout the Quinte area of cooler weather and more rain, also meant a further lowering of the fire hazard rating, the official said.

Equipment Damaged

No value has been set on damage done to construction equipment owned by Lightfoot Construction Ltd., a company which is at present working on extension of Bell Boulevard.

Sometime over the weekend, vandals stole a rotor and gas shaft from a company truck, and damaged a gasoline line and sediment bowl in a bulldozer.

City police are investigating.

Trail Popular

The recently opened Quinte-Algonquin hiking trail stretching from Prince Edward county north to Lake St. Peter is seeing good use by tourists visiting in the area.

This was indicated Monday by Jim Stavely, trail association chairman and Lowell Hyatt, supervisor for 40 miles of the trail in the Trenton area.

Mr. Hyatt said that tourists using campsites in the immediate Quinte area are using the trail for daily hiking, particularly in the wooded shores of the Oak Hills district.

He said hikers were leaving the trail from the Presqu'ile Trail Campsite north of Frankford and from the area of the Oak Hills Flying Club.

"I don't know where the tourists are coming from, about the trail but we are getting lots of inquiries," stated Mr. Stavely.

Cigarettes Stolen, Left Under Bridge

TRENTON (Staff) — A successful break and enter proved of little value to thieves this morning. Their cache of stolen cigarettes was found by town police a few hours after the theft.

Police report a break and enter about 1 a.m. today at the snack bar on the town dock. Several cartons of cigarettes were taken in the haul.

Thieves gained entrance to the small building by forcing the door, a police spokesman said.

Later, this morning, while the investigation was being carried on, a member of the town force found the tobacco by the water at the west end of the Dundas Street Bridge.

1971: Low Water and "High" Beach... 1972: A Different Picture Due to Alewife Survival

Alewife Infestation Much Lighter This Year

By IAN ROBERTSON
Staff Reporter

Another chapter in the mystery of the alewife has been written this year.

By this time last year, the bodies of millions of these tiny, silver fish, were lining Quinte waters in slightly less than aromatic piles. Not so this summer.

The phenomenon of the alewife is one which can only be explained by theory. The two most popular, expounded by fishery researchers, tie water temperatures and strong currents to deaths of the fish.

Wayne Miller of the Glenora Fisheries research station south of Picton, says in the spring, the alewife begins to emerge from the depths of Lake Ontario to spawn on the rocky shores of the lake. Changing through temperature barriers can act as a shock to their nervous systems. Millions of the tiny fish die and began piling up on shore.

The second theory holds that as a fairly fragile fish, the alewife can't swim against heavy waves and they get washed up on shore.

As the accompanying photographs, taken at Wellington in 1971, shows, the beach was virtually solid with the rotting masses for 10 to 20 feet from shore. There were few bathers in the vicinity.

The second photo, taken this week at the same spot, speaks for itself. There were several dying alewives along the sands, but they were few and far between.

Glenora researcher Dr. Donald Harley couldn't offer any definite conclusions when contacted by The Intelligencer. He did however, admit the mortality count this year is noticeably down.

"The numbers we catch are quite high and it's not a quarter of them not being anywhere around here, because there are. They just aren't having a great mortality count this year," he said.

He cites the coolness of spring and early summer as a possible survival influence.

"It just happens to be one of the years we aren't going to have a high mortality rate. Usually it's an awful mess which lasts from two to three weeks at the most.

"Everybody is really quite happy when they're not around," he wryly observed.

The theory of temperature as it affects the alewife, was introduced by Dr. J. J. Graham of the University of Toronto, in the 1940s. As stated by Glenora Fisheries director William Christie: "They are not really acclimated to life in Lake Ontario."

Circumstances of their introduction to the lake are obscure. One thing is certain, the alewife is not native to Lake Ontario. They have been known in the Finger Lakes district of the U.S. as far back as 1848. Some researchers believe they infiltrated through the Erie Barge Canal system, across Oneida Lake and up the Oswego River.

The fisheries director explained stocking of these fish did take place by accident in the early 1870s. American Shad, a species which grows to between five and six pounds, were introduced and that alewife fry were mixed in during early plantings of the larger cousin fish.

However, director Christie does not place much credence on this theory. Historical records dating back to 1873 show massive schooling of the tiny silver fish off the shores of Lake Ontario. The first large dieoff on the Canadian side was noticed in 1931.

"It's easier to feature them progressively becoming landlocked, away from the oceans tributary streams. During the winter, the fish live in the deepest portions of the lake, emerging at spawning time in a rapid rush to warmer waters," he explained.

With spawning over by the middle of July, the alewife, incorrectly referred to as "shad," return in deeper portions of the lake to await another life cycle.

Pollution? Is this a major factor in the alewife dieoff?

"I don't mean to put down your old pollution, our principle headache." Mr. Christie replied, "but these fish have been dying since long before any pollution problems were noticed."

The Glenora Fisheries director says a conclusive theory on the life and death of the alewife has not been compiled. It is to this end that fisheries researchers are taking samples of the fish from local waters. In fact, such research is being carried out on most fish species in the lake.

Residents of the area can rest and breath easy this year. The period of the massive alewife dieoff has passed. However, next year is another story.

ANAF News

Last Thursday evening, the Duke of Edinburgh Unit members entertained 30 cadets from eight European countries, Israel, seven American states and Puerto Rico. They were escorted by Major D. F. Kilbendorf, U. S. Civil Air Patrol with Capt. T. E. Hott, CFB, Trenton ad liaison officer.

Youth Development Chairman Stan Melbourne was MC President H. G. Ford welcomed the lads on behalf of the Unit. Alderman Bert Corke extended the city of Belleville's welcome on behalf of the mayor. Major Kittendorf was then introduced and he, in turn, introduced the cadets and their home country. Dominion president J. C. Lundberg was then called upon to present Youth Development Medallions. Alderman Corke and the escort officers received the first ones and then Unit President H. G. Ford joined President Jack to present a medallion and pocket flash to each cadet.

Unit piper Fred Carpichisel and Don Anderson entertained with Scottish airs which were enthusiastically applauded by the cadets.

Two hockey films were shown of the Black Hawks with Bobby Hull giving the cadets plenty of thrills. The ladies had a well laden table of sandwiches, salads and other good things to eat while the singsong was kept busy handing out cold soft drinks. Group photos were taken and the cadets, all of whom had a useful knowledge of English mingled with the members and their wives. The Major gave a short speech of thanks and expressed regrets that their stay could not have been longer.

Both cadets and the members enjoyed a very pleasant evening.

Dominion President J. C. Lundberg had just flown back from Vancouver where he had met and welcomed forty Japanese teenagers who are in Canada on an exchange visit with forty Canadian boys and girls. Belleville was fortunate in having two teenagers chosen for the Japan trip. They are C.W.O. I. K. Watson, 606 Squadron and Miss Carol Ann Feeney, daughter of the hard working sports committeeman. It should be a great experience for them.

The Quinte exhibition is opening this year, Wednesday Aug. 9 with a Warrior's Day Parade. There will be 200 marching personnel and two bands from CFB, Trenton and the C.O. will take the salute on the grandstand. There will be buses at the Market Square to transport veterans to the East Hill playgrounds where the parade will form up. The Duke of Edinburgh Pipe Band and color party will attend. The buses will be at the exhibition grounds to transport the veterans back downtown after the parade. Medals, berets and blazers will be worn if possible. It is hoped for a good turnout of veterans.

Still on the sick list are colin Cadeau, Wallace, KGH, T. Brawley, G. Storms and A. Morris, all in the Belleville General Hospital.

Calf Death Rate Probed

A research program at the Kemptville Agricultural College aimed at finding a more profitable method of converting dairy calves to beef could mean more dollars for dairy-beef operators in this part of Ontario.

The experiment, under the direction of Lumir Dreyjary, a native of Czechoslovakia, is attempting to exploit the early growth potential of dairy breed (mostly male) calves with high grade nutrients.

The feeling is that at a time when Ontario is experiencing a beef shortage, too little attention is being paid to the province's annual crop of 300,000 obsolescent dairy breed bulls.

Last year a number of healthy calves were absorbed in small beef operations — usually as sidelines to dairy farming. Many others were used for veal, but an estimated one third were shipped out of the province.

According to Graham Hooper, chief of livestock operations at Kemptville College, the trick in a large dairy-beef operation is to bring calves together from different farms and keep them healthy.

For such calves the mortality rate is believed to be considerably higher than 25 per cent.

"Calves become more vulnerable in large operations," says Mr. Hooper, "because the passive resistance transmitted by this mother is often less effective against diseases not present on the home farm."

This official at the Sterling agricultural office said there is at least one Hungarian county farmer who had tried a dairy-beef operation and experienced the high calf mortality rate referred to by Mr. Hooper.

He is Roger Barrett, RR 3 Stirling, who as a result switched to the purchase of older and heavier calves for fattening.

Before large scale dairy-beef raising operations can begin in Ontario Mr. Dreyjary or some other researcher must solve this problem.

Only two years ago Mr. Dreyjary was living in a general cattle country on the outskirts of Prague. He had published two books, 31 scientific papers and more than 100 popular scientific articles, and as vice-president in charge of research at a large agricultural institute, his future seemed assured.

But he becomed unpopular with the post Dubcek regime and - possessing little more than the clothes on his back - he left Czechoslovakia by the back door. With him were his wife Eva, his 11-year-old daughter and 3 - year - old son.

A graduate in agriculture, Mrs. Dreyjary has become her husband's chief consultant in the Kemptville research experiment.

And both the husband and wife agree that the maternal instinct is a most important quality for a person engaged in calf raising.

"In the early stages calves are like babies," said Mrs. Dreyjary. "One morning they can be healthy and frisky and the next day down with a high fever. If you fail to detect a sick calf in the morning he may be dead by nightfall."

Mr. Dreyjary says that women are highly regarded in calf raising operations in the United States and are used almost exclusively in 24-h role in large state farms in Czechoslovakia.

But the low (five per cent) mortality rate in the Dreyjary project and the high weight gains with the majority of calves can only be achieved with sophisticated technological knowhow and sound business practices.

Jim Cochrane, head economist at Kemptville College said the Dreyjary project is no alternative for the non viable farm, nor can it solve low farm incomes.

But Mr. Dreyjary predicts the technological knowhow will be available within a year and the form the average farmer can understand. He hopes his findings will be published as a package to include management, calf protection and feeding.

Up, Up and Away!

To get really high in Belleville will be a simple matter for anyone in the Quinte region by the time the second week in August rolls around.

That alcohol or drugs will not be required to do the trick is what is good about the idea.

Coming to Belleville for the first full day of Quinte Exhibition's run from August 10 to 13 is a 50-foot diameter observation balloon. Its purpose is to take people aloft for a sweeping panoramic view of the city and the surrounding countryside from a height of 200 feet.

A basket below the balloon, filled with hot air will serve as a vantage point for the amateur aerial photographer or those fairgoers who want to remember they discovered a new way to generate excitement.

The balloon will be tethered to a tile inside the exhibition park and there will be a charge for riders. It carries a high-intensity light on top, that can be seen for 15 miles as a warning to low flying aircraft in the vicinity day or night.

This is a return to the turn-of-the-century hot air aircraft which visited Belleville and other Ontario communities. Various travelling shows included these as a highlight of their programme. They fell into disuse after a while.

The magnificent men in their flying machines sometimes not able to fly machines soon replaced these hot air balloons.

BCI Vandalized

City police were called in to Belleville Collegiate Institute on John Street at 9:25 p.m. Sunday, to investigate a break-in at the school.

Upon arrival, they observed two broken windows, Vandals gained entry by unlocking a window.

Police found thick black lettering obscene words, smeared over the walls of a Gentlemen' duplicating room. Ink was also spread over a television set and tape recorder.

Damage has been estimated at $110.

As simply stated as possible, it is an authority to a real estate broker given by an owner to offer the owner's property for sale or lease or exchange on certain terms and conditions.

It must contain an expiry date and be written out in duplicate, one copy of which remains with the owner.

While earning a commission on the transaction to be carried out, the broker is obliged under the law to be honest, loyal and diligent to his client in return.

The two principal kinds of listings are exclusive and multiple listing. The exclusive listing gives one broker only the selling right during a specified time.

A Multiple Listing Service listing is a development of recent years that permits the agent to use the services of other agents through a system operated by local real estate boards. The listing agent is responsible for advertising all all offers from other agents are submitted to the owner through him.

A listing with a broker who is a member of a real estate board, and is thus able to avail himself of the board's extensive facilities, is usually most advantageous to the owner. Such a broker is the only agent legally entitled to describe himself as a Realtor.

Police Busy

Both police and general public have learned some hard lessons from the concentrated search for the Millhaven escapees.

Regular crime in the area is reported to be almost non-existent and there have been fewer accidents.

One thing to be remembered though, cottagers and campers have been staying away so a full report of break-ins has not been possible. Even so, it appears routine crime in the area has been taking a holiday.

We don't like to think of a sudden upsurge again when things return to normal. Maybe the police will be able to increase overall surveillance without unduly straining their resources.

We note that there has been a fairly substantial haul of impaired drivers — reportedly at least three daily — and this confirms that the problem of drinking drivers remains a serious one.

Ulster Vacation

Among the things you don't hear about from Northern Ireland these days: the lake cruiser boom on Lough Erne in County Fermanagh.

A Belfast woman writes: "Cruising on the lakes (Upper and Lower Lough Erne) has become most popular and they have some 50 cruisers for rent, but there is such a vast area that it is not the least crowded. The amazing thing too was that practically all the cruisers had been hired by English people and there was one which had two Swiss aboard on their honeymoon. They had been planning to do this holiday for the past five years and they were absolutely delighted with their holiday, as was everyone else that we met.

"The owners of the boat we hired were English too and they had built a house on the lough shore and were delighted with the place, the people and everything. They said they had been having inquiries from all over Europe including one lot of people from Poland who were anxious to come."

The letter mentions passing through "the narrows" below Portora Royal School on its hilltop setting (alma mater of Henry Francis Lyte, Oscar Wilde and Samuel Beckett), the new extensions there, as well as Enniskillen, the country town, and its "excellent" shops.

The letter makes mention also of new hotels in the area — and here there was one unhappy note, in that one of them, built only last year, had been bombed only a few days before.

By and large though we are reminded once again that people are leading normal lives despite the problems over there. We read recently that a lot of Britons taking advantage of the Lough Erne cruise's because of the high cost of similar enterprises at home.

Fatalists!

Arriving at The Outlet Sunday afternoon just before a rousing electric storm we sat in amazement as we observed the antics of fellow citizens.

Our own instincts in such a situation are to find cover as quickly as possible, preferably the car or some building or other. Anywhere but the wide open spaces and certainly not under a tree.

One man and his wife and children were about to get into their car when they apparently decided to return to the beach to pick up more of their things. This they did as the thunder and lightning raged overhead. Two teenage girls, soaked to the skin, walked unconcernedly to the road and when things calmed down later we saw them returning to the beach. Two young men in a car beside us hopped out a couple of times to get some of their bits and pieces left on a picnic table.

People must be pretty fatalistic, we thought, to stay out in that stuff. Or else stupid. Certainly some seemed completely oblivious to the lightning still flashing all around and seemingly close at times to the ground.

Pensioners Champion Nominated Again in Simcoe North

By RICHARD JACKSON
from The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Taking an absolutely politically non - partisan view of it, the best election news for old age pensioners, and those approaching pensionable age, has to be the renomination of Dr. Philip Bernard Rynard in Ontario's Simcoe North constituency.

It does not matter if that "Doc" Rynard happens to be a Conservative.

He could have been a Liberal, a New Democrat, belonged to Social Credit, been a member of Paul Hellyer's Action Canada, or simply a rugged individualistic independent.

What does matter is that this 75-year-old veteran of seven elections and six Parliaments consistently — even overlordishly — has been the champion in the House of Commons, through the last 15 years, of the pensioner.

He has stormed, nagged, bullied, coaxed, pleaded, scolded, raged, and all but openly wept as he has fought with governments — the Liberal and his own Conservative during the six Diefenbaker years — for a decent pension deal.

If any one MP in the Commons can take credit for what pension increases there have been, it has to be the "Doc."

For the pilgot of the pensioner has been his prime interest, taking all of his parliamentary time and attention except for what he has been forced to spare, as the Commons' own "Doctor in the House," for health and hospital matters.

He went a long way in softening up the government's resistance to pension adjustments with a scathing literary diary that shocked Parliament.

With his usual zeal, he told the Commons, he had seen an elderly woman — an old age pensioner — creep into the dining room of Toronto's posh Westbury Hotel and scrape the scraps from the plates into a "doggie bag" before the busboys could clear the table.

But it was not really a "doggie bag" she was filling, it was her own "shopping bag", and it was her supper that she was scraping into it.

What most upsets "Doc" Rynard is what he calls "the cynical, frozen - hearted attitude" of the government to the pensioners.

— Governments, he says, and not just the current administration, routinely prate as the great benefactors of the elderly in supporting them with federal money.

These governments, he goes on, including this administration — some of whose members refer patronizingly to pensioners as "The Trudeau Bich" — traditionally regard pensions as a form of state charity.

To the old "Doc," such an attitude is nothing less than slanderous.

"Old age pensions are not charity." he spatters, his eyes blazing in anger, "pensions are not handouts by a compassionate government to the destitute old.

"They are annuities well earned, and now being returned to persons past 65 for investments, both direct and indirect, the government compelled them to make year after year.

"But the government is cheating them.

"It forced them, through income tax, during that "Tory" years, to pay first two, then three and then four percent of their taxable income into the pension fund up to a $240 annual maximum.

"And those pensioners now being paid these annuities on their compulsory government investments contributed to them with hard dollars.

"Hard dollars in the sense of their higher value, their better purchasing power and hard in terms of the difficulty of earning them when wages and salaries were very much slower."

And now, he charges, they are being "cheated" with a payoff for the "hard" dollars in "soft" dollars, constantly diluted as inflation wafers down their purchasing power.

Worse, suspects "Doc" Rynard, the government often siphons off millions of dollars from the pension fund annually for other purposes — or at least holds out on the pensioners.

And lest, he warns, those on the sunny side of 65 figure that pensions are not their concern, there is the reminder that old age, as it must to all men, eventually will even come to them.

Even more pertinent is "the money" — fact that no matter how young they might be, if they are earning a living they are paying four percent of their taxable income to a top of $240 yearly into the old age security fund.

So, insists the "Doc," it is everyone's business.

Oil Polluters Look Out!

Argus Patrol Aircraft Replacements May Have Dual Surveillance Role

By JOHN HARRIDON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Defence Minister Edgar Benson has announced invitations to tender on replacements for the 33 Argus long-range patrol aircraft. This not only means a $370 million order for about 24 new aircraft for a major British or American firm, but that Canada will continue her joint surveillance of the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with the United States.

The present Argus four-engined aircraft are very old and have been in service for 17 years. In spite of that, the Army simply runs curve out daily missions over the ocean areas around Canada, including the Arctic, searching out Soviet submarines and more recently, Soviet fishing vessels within our territorial waters.

This very large outlay for new military aircraft also begs the question of whether we will also stay in NORAD (North American Air Defence Agreement) which we renewed in 1958 with Washington for a further five year period.

The Trudeau government, which cut back our NATO strength in West Germany by about one half in 1970 and confrontated the CF-104 in Europe, last Jan. 1, could review the NATO role again, if re-elected.

The long expected announcement of replacement of the Argus aircraft indicates we are unlikely to withdraw any forth or from our present international defence commitments with the Americans and with Europe.

Certainly all our major political parties remain divided as to where we go from here in defence policy, including the ruling Liberal party.

There are Liberals and Tories who say we should get out of NATO completely. There are members of the New Democratic Party, the one most committed to our complete withdrawal from NORAD and NATO, who believe we should maintain their international defence associations.

The most recent white paper on defence, published in June, 1971, deals clearly and honestly with the international and domestic commitments of Canadian defence. For the first time we have a definite direction of command outlined if the military role in the four national forces that exist to-day in Prime Minister Trudeau in early 1970.

There emphasize maintenance of sovereignty and contentment, on national development, both of which are major roles in which the armed forces are expected to play a larger part.

The recently announced decision to replace the aging and costly Argus squadrons also bears on their more recent role of aerial surveillance of our territorial waters against foreign fishing fleets, because they perform a friendly inspection function and align Arctic oil is also spotted by use.

This essential overlap of the roles of international scientist ideally suited a "future Soviet enemy" on land or sea — and this is likely "enemies" in the air force to preserve our commitment, is not an easily transition for the armed forces.

Yet it is a necessary one, not only because of internal government priorities, but because the so-called "enemy" appears for the time being to be less menacing on Saturday in Peterborough.

OMB's J.A. Kennedy Plans to Retire Following Sometimes Stormy Career

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau h

Chairman J. A. Kennedy of the Ontario Municipal Board is retiring this fall.

One of the province's most prominent public servants, Mr. Kennedy has been noted for his integrity and his refusal to bend his principles.

A consequence has been that for years he has been very much in the hair of municipal councils (particularly in Metro Toronto).

It therefore, couldn't have been easy for him to face a speech to 2,000 delegates at the foundING convention of the municipal Association of Ontario (Amao) politics.

However, as was to be expected, he handled it with assurance and grace, if firmly.

He outlined his creed to his audience. It is a creed in which "people powers" comes above all else in which what he refers to as the interest of politicians comes last.

The opening chairman has steadily stuck to this, no matter how uncomfortable it might make his position at times. Recently, for example, he has three times refused to allow the city of Toronto to erect a police tower in a park.

This position necessarily would not be all this popular with the politicians in the new organization.

It therefore was gratifying to those of us who have known and admired Mr. Kennedy for years that when he was finished they gave him a rousing ovation.

Incidentally, it is expected that when the chairman retires there will be a substantial shakeup in the functions of the OMB.

Started in the 1950s, as a watchdog over the finances of Ontario municipalities, the board has grown into a powerful body with much authority in the municipal field.

Probably some of this authority is no longer needed. Much time of the board, for example, is taken up with giving approval to minor matters, such as small capital spending.

There also has been some conflict with the government over policies.

The government, for example, will have approved, or even ordered, a municipality to install sewage facilities. And the board will have countermanded this by saying it couldn't afford them.

There undoubtedly is some room for improvement.

But hopefully, the basic character of the board will remain the same. As Mr. Kennedy expresses it, this is that it is "an ombudsmon before the fact" on municipal matters.

Trust Fund Advocated

Brockville Recorder and Times

One of the needs in Brockville, we're told, is a foundation, or a trust, to which people and organizations could turn for financial support of a particular project. It may be the preservation of an historic home or building, or the restoration of an old mill. It could provide aid for parks, for needy students, for families. It could supplement the functions, for instance, of the Ontario Heritage Foundation, which doesn't seem to have the money to do the things that should be done to preserve Ontario's early history.

Such a foundation (it could be called The Brockville Public Trust) would appeal to many people who have a few dollars to give away. It could appeal also to people who are preparing a will and who may have a problem of what to do with their estate in the feeling that it is easy to give money away but difficult to do it effectively.

Many readers may recall that a few years ago an elderly Brockville resident, with a sizeable estate, left large sums to various organizations here along with a large sum earmarked for "the poor" of Brockville... Since it wasn't a public trust, the distribution remained a private matter. It was disclosed, however, that the many thousands of dollars had been given out in several parcels, none had applied for aid. Whether the money did any real good or not was never disclosed because the transactions were private and remain confidential to this day. Had a foundation, or a public trust existed at the time the money would have been left to the foundation for distribution and a public accounting. This is not to suggest the names of "the poor" should have been made public but examples of why and how the money was distributed should have been, we believe.

TAXPAYER

Third Network Worries CBC and CTV

OTTAWA (CP) — The new English-language television network in southern Ontario is an unpredictable new factor in the Canadian broadcasting scene.

It may reduce the advertising revenue now pouring into the coffers of the CBC and the CTV Television Network Ltd. But the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, which has approved the network, apparently does not accept this view.

It could be a headache to Ontario cable operators, already hard-pressed to find room for existing television stations. But the CRTC has the right solidly at hand if it wants to use it.

The picture probably will clear when the network begins operating Jan. 1, 1974. Organized by Global Communications Ltd., it will have transmitters at Uxbridge, Paris, Windsor, Sarnia, Barrcrest and Ottawa with production studios at Toronto and Ottawa.

Both the CBC and CTV networks opposed the Global application at CRTC hearings in Toronto last September because they feared a drain on their Ontario advertising revenue.

The CBC said the Global network would reduce CBC advertising revenue in southern Ontario by 12 to 20 per cent. It would endanger the existence of the smaller private affiliates of the network.

CTV said Global would finish off hurt its system and lower the quality of Canadian programming on the existing networks.

Global argued it would generate new advertising revenue and this is the argument the CRTC seems to favor.

Eugene Hallman, a CBC vice-president, told the commission last fall the CBC draws most of its revenue from the Ontario market. This helped support smaller stations in other parts of Canada which were neglected by national advertisers.

Murray Chercover, CTV president, said the network had been reorganized to free smaller stations from the financial burden of operating the system. But competition from Global in Ontario could force CTV to increase rebates to its smaller member stations.

He said the Global network would be "disruptive and destructive with respect to all of the priorities for an orderly and rapid development of the national system."

Global said existing southern Ontario stations are concentrating on national advertising and forcing a fruitful market in local retail advertising.

It also planned to attract Canadian advertisers, now paying time on U.S. border stations. An estimated $15 million is spent annually by Canadian advertisers on U.S. television.

One of the reasons Global hopes to get some of this advertising plum is that it plans to pull Canadian viewers away from the U.S. border stations.

Global says it will carry many U.S. programs not shown on the CBC or the CTV networks. It reasons that many Canadian viewers turn to U.S. television to see these shows.

In its decision announced last week, the CRTC seemed to agree with this reasoning. It argued that Canadian advertisers would return to Canadian television with the appearance of Global.

The commission also limited Global to eight minutes of commercial time each hour compared with 12 minutes for the other two networks.

Cable operators will have to find room for Global stations on their systems as the CRTC requires that Canadian stations get first priority.

In Toronto particularly, cable operators already are hard pressed to accommodate existing Canadian and U.S. stations on their 12-channel systems.

Several cable operators have asked permission to increase the capacity of their systems to 20 or more channels. They say it is technically possible to use at least 20 channels on a cable system.

The CRTC has not yet approved these applications but approval is expected before the end of the year.

If Global is right, the cable operators may find their systems will not object to losing a U.S. station anyway.

SWEEP Outlined To Rotarians

The biggest single project of its kind sponsored by the Ontario government, SWEEP (Students Working in an Environmental Enhancement Program) this year is employing 1,200 students, or "sweepers" as they like to be called.

With a $2 million budget, the students are working for the Ministry of Natural Resources and under the direction of the province's 21 conservation authorities. The government grant goes principally to meet wages and the remainder is used for equipment and operation of vehicles which have been donated by auto companies.

Senior supervisor for the project in this area is David McBride, a University of Toronto student from Campbellford. In an address to Belleville Rotarians Monday, he said SWEEP is carried out jointly by the Moira River and Lower Trent Conservation authorities. Twenty-one students are employed and in addition to providing employment and helping the students to pay for their increased tuition fees, a substantial contribution was being made to the betterment of the environment.

The crews made up of a foreman and six laborers each carry out the annual work which in the Moira watershed involves development of a new campsite area at Vanderwater Park and in Lower Trent, work at the Sager property southeast of Stirling. Here a stairway is being built up a steep bank, with construction of an observation deck, installation of picnic facilities and a general cleanup of the area.

Of four technical supervisors in the work force, two work under resources manager John Waite, one is doing a specific pollution research project for the authority and another is writing a booklet on the development of the Moira River Conservation Authority since its inception in 1947.

Mr. McBride noted that the work involves not only maintenance of existing conservation areas but the development of newly acquired properties and pollution cleanup — cleaning up litter and garbage from roads and waterways.

During a question period a Rotarian referred to junk, pollution and abandoned cars and asked if there was any way people could be encouraged to clean up their own front and back yards.

Another member spoke of children who throw away candy wrappers.

Mr. McBride suggested the only way to stop such habits was by example.

Most Ignore Life Jackets

TORONTO (CP) — The 10 people drowned in a boating accident on Georgian Bay Sunday were among many Canadians whose lives were lost for want of lifejackets.

Cheap, well-designed lifejackets are available almost everywhere, but disuse and misuse of them keep the toll of drownings high. A total of 40 people were drowned in Canada last week-end. As many as 1,200 may die in water mishaps this year.

Two types of lifejackets are made in accordance with government regulations and approved by the transport ministry.

They are the keyhole slab and

Hospital Cost Rise Predicted

TORONTO (CP) — Tight budget restrictions imposed by the ministry of health are costing taxpayers money, the Ontario Hospital Association said today in commenting on a report forecasting 1973 hospital costs.

The report Monday predicted an eight-per-cent increase in the cost of running Ontario's 230 hospitals next year, adding $75 million to the total bill without any new programs.

"If hospitals were given a lit the freer rein we could get into new programs which would enrich the province to save health dollars," said Peter Carruthers, executive director of the Greater Niagara General Hospital.

Health Minister Richard Potter said in an interview the government would not increase medical care premiums and that he was reluctant to accept the eight-per-cent figure.

He said cutting out "abuses" of the present system would eliminate the need for increased costs.

vert types. The keyhole slab has a canvas covering and is filled with unicellular foam. The vest a filler is kapok, a vegetable fibre.

The keyhole slab is square-cut, flat and not as bulky as the vest. The vest, however, is recommended by the Ontario Safety League for children.

The jackets of these two types are required by law in all pleasure boats less than 16 feet in length. The boats must also have floatable cushions of an approved type.

The approved type of life jacket will keep the wearer afloat for an unlimited period of time and keep him floating face up.

Jackets come in two sizes for children and one for adults. The instructions warn that children are difficult subjects to float in a safe position."

A bulletin issued for pleasure-boat owners by the Ontario transport ministry says: "Kapok lifejackets are susceptible to rough treatment and if the vinyl inserts which contain the kapok become split or torn . . . the fibres can become waterlogged and matted . . .

"If the jacket shows signs of being in this unsafe condition it should be discarded," the bulletin says.

It adds that the unicellular keyhole jackets are more durable but that rough treatment will break down the foam resin which also tend to shrink with age. Excessive exposure to heat and sunlight will speed up shrinkage.

Many stores display waterskiing jackets along with conventional lifejackets. The water-skiing type is interded for temporary use and will not keep the wearer afloat as long as the government-approved type.

Captain R. D. Mills of the Ontario transport ministry said in an interview that the water-skiing type may be dangerous in certain situations. The transport department is co-operating with the Canadian government specifications board to regulate manufacturing standards for the type to lessen the dangers.

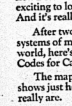
A new way to really get your mail moving: Postal Codes.

If you haven't already received it, in the next few days you'll be getting your new Postal Code in the mail. It's not very exciting to look at. But it is very necessary. And it's really not as complicated as it looks.

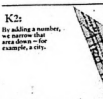
After two years of studying the systems of most of the countries of the world, here's how we developed Postal Codes for Canada.

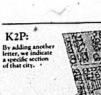
The map sequence on the right shows just how accurate Postal Codes really are.

To uncomplicate your Postal Code, you will be receiving a Postal Code Package. It contains your code, instructions on how to use it, a handy address book, special



Postal Code stickers for your envelopes, and postage paid address cards that you should send to your friends. If you don't have enough, you can get as many as you need at your nearest Post Office. Because, after all, your Code doesn't move your mail unless your friends use it.





And if you haven't received your Code by July 31st, please call your local Post Office. We will mail it to you immediately. It is possible however, that you are not in the EASTERN ONTARIO POSTAL DISTRICT, in which case your area may not have been coded yet.

Get the habit.

Typewriter Operates By Breath Control

VANCOUVER (CP) — The G. F. Strong Rehabilitation Centre here has unveiled its latest electronic marvel—a British-made typewriter that operates by breath control.

The device, called the Patient Operated Selector Mechanism (POSSUM), enables severely handicapped persons to use a typewriter by sucking in or puffing out their breaths.

Medical director Dr. A. C. Pinkerton said POSSUM was acquired two months ago to test whether it is a practical rehabilitation in an individual's home.

Several patients have been working with the $2,000 device but so far G. F. Strong's physicists haven't recommended to any tho; they should buy one.

Dr. Pinkerton said the device was designed for use by people in iron lungs who need to communicate but cannot move their arms or legs. But the centre was more interested in its application to cerebral palsy children.

Other models of POSSUM are designed to help a patient open the front door, turn on the furnace or radio answer the telephone or adjust an electric blanket.

"We try to obtain all the potentially useful equipment that can enrich our people's lives," Dr. Pinkerton said. "We want to prove to ourselves and to the patient that these are practical devices."

Dr. Pinkerton, who said the centre had the only POSSUM in Canada, warned against overemphasis on electronic gadgetry in rehabilitative medicine.

"Such devices are very ingenious," he said, but their applicability is to a relatively limited number of patients."

RARE VIOLIN

VANCOUVER (CP) — When the Vancouver Symphonial Club inherited a rare old Lupot violin from the estate of the late Ruth Jones, it decided to give it to a violinist who could never hope to own so rare an instrument. The club chose Gwendy Hechtle, a 12-year-old North Vancouver girl who won the British Columbia division of the national musical festival. The Lupot, considered the French Stradivarius was made between 1758 and 1825.

Brother, Sister Meet After 45 Years Apart

When Mrs. Connie Smith (nee Hayter) arrived in Canada last Friday evening from London, England, she still had a lot of catching up to do with her brother, Albert Hayter of Shannonville. There was the matter of Connie meeting her brother's family now two generations whom she has never seen before, except through pictures. It's been 45 years since Albert, aged 59 and Connie, aged 54 have seen each other.

"I still find it hard to believe, I'm seeing my only brother after 45 years," said Mrs. Smith. Albert was 14 years old when he left England on his three-year stint in the Royal Navy, followed by his arrival in Canada.

"Canada is grand. I find the people more friendly," commented Albert's sister. Since arriving, Connie has met her brother's family and their friends. Sightseeing and their cottage visit will come later but first there has been a lot of talking and visiting. Albert still remembers the time he took his little sister to play at the Stonehenge, on the Salisbury Plain.

When Albert left England, Connie was small to come, stayed on in England with their parents and later became a nurse, but she has always wanted to see Canada. Albert and Marie were as overwhelmed when his sister accepted the invitation in February to come to Canada. When he saw his sister descend from the plane at Montreal, they recognized each other through pictures sent previously by the same instant and she dropped her luggage overjoyed to see him.

When Albert's wife Marie was asked if she could notice any similarities between her husband and his sister after 45 years apart, she replied, "They resemble each other a bit and have about the same disposition."

It is quite an experience for Albert and his sister to see each other and they have covered about every topic including: plants, food, weather and economy; his family, now her's too and his son and his wife and their family of four.

It took five months for this sister and brother to see each other after 45 years and now Connie plans to stay on.

SHOWS DESIGNS—Lily Dee displays one of her creations for the Montreal fashion firm of Bilboquet Inc. Born in Czechoslovakia, she has been a refugee, a happily married woman, a single parent and a cripple. "If experience made a person rich, I would be a millionaire," she says. (CP Photo)

Budding Career Despite Tragedy

MONTREAL (CP) — The vibrantly-hued, swing sports-wear Lily Dee designs today bears little resemblance to her first creation—a midi coat fashioned from a woolly, dyed army blanket. But then the lady herself has come a long way.

"I have been a refugee, a happily married woman living in a bungalow, a single parent, a cripple," Miss Dee says philosophically. "If I'm a cripple once made a person rich, I would be a millionaire.

"I don't often think of the dark days and I have really preferred not to talk of them until now. But lately I have been thinking that perhaps my story might help someone else. If it does, then it is worth telling."

Miss Dee was born in Komarno, Czechoslovakia, and enjoyed what she says was a normal, happy childhood. At 16 marked the first deliberate turning point in her life.

"One day I looked at myself in the mirror and I said 'Lily, you are not pretty and you are not rich. You had better be smart.'

"It was during the Second World War and naturally there were no clothes or fabrics in the stores. At 16, though, I was desperate to look as pretty as possible, and so I improvised."

Her imagination took her to an old U.S. army blanket, which she dyed black and cut into a princess-line, midi-length coat which she wore for the next 10 years.

"I wish I had it now," she teases, "It would be right in style."

But what might have been a budding career was edged aside when Miss Dee married and had a son, now 23. By then it was 1948. Czechoslovakia was under Russian domination and the young couple decided they could not live in a Communist system.

One night, she recalls, they simply locked their door and disappeared.

"We took our son and I took a very fine sewing machine bag. In it we carried something very valuable—our son's pedigree."

Travelling through the nights, hiding during the days, they crossed the borders into Austria, Germany and then France. Once in Paris, they found a room in a refugee hotel and spent the next 18 months obtaining papers to enter Canada.

Toronto became their new home and a suburban bungalow the focus of existence for Miss Dee, her husband, son and a new daughter. Things were going so well they decided to take a real vacation, leaving the children with relatives.

But there was an accident on the way to the airport. Her husband was killed and Miss Dee thrown through the windshield. Her face was "a shambles," many bones broken, the right arm crushed and her vision impaired.

It was also months before doctors could pronounce the arm, held together with a cast and steel pins, saved. Another nine months passed before they declared Lily Dee fit.

"But I did not want to live. Friends and family tried to comfort me with talk of God, my duty to the children, the will to live, and it all meant nothing to me. But finally one day, a virtual stranger, a social worker came to visit me after I returned home, said something that made sense to me.

"She said, simply, that I must be brave. And that was when I finally started to assume my responsibilities."

After considering various ways of earning a living, Miss Dee turned once again to designing. Following a one-year course at Toronto's Gallaudet School of Design, she sold the bungalow and moved to Montreal.

"I felt I had to get away from the friends and family who were smothering me with love and inadvertently preventing me from becoming my own person."

Jobs were not hard to find, problems with household help were solved when the children grew old enough for boarding school and "somehow we all survived."

Five years ago, she remarried and felt the weight of single-parenthood begin to lift. In 1970, tired of being a journeyman designer, Miss Dee retired. But two days later, free now to regard designing as an art rather than a necessary means of earning money, she spotted a job advertisement which sounded appealing.

An interview followed and she was hired to create a new image for the fashion firm of Bilboquet Inc. Her retirement had lasted five days.

'Everywhere Life Is Full of Heroism'

By DORIS CLARK

Have you read that piece of philosophy, "Desiderata"? A reader has sent it in for us to share. I can only quote a few excerpts here:

"Go placidly amid the noise and haste, and remember what peace there may be in silence. As far as possible without surrender be on good terms with all persons.

"Keep interested in your own career, however humble; it is a real possession in the changing fortunes of time. Exercise caution in your business affairs, for the world is full of trickery. But let this not blind you to what virtue there is; and everywhere life is full of heroism.

"Many fears are born of fatigue and loneliness. Beyond a wholesome discipline, be gentle with yourself. You are a child of the universe, no less than the trees and the stars; you have a right to be here.

"With all its shame, drudgery and broken dreams, it is still a beautiful world. Be cheerful. Strive to be happy.

If you would like the music quotation, write in for it.

Dear Doris: Farm vacations are getting more popular and I am sending you our 1972 Farm Vacations brochure. Most families tell me they are getting more and more enjoyment. I am speaking for Ontario of course, but Manitoba has made a good deal of progress and Alberta is moving towards a similar program.

A clipping from the Wall Street Journal informs that modern campsites which are made available to vacationing guests. Recreation services of all kinds have increased, reflecting a desire on the part of vacationers for various kinds of accommodation.

I can supply names and any other information. — Director of Properties, Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

Dear Director: I can tell you one thing: our city kids get a great kick out of waking up on an Ontario farm where the air is clear, the rooster is crowing, and cud-chewing cows gaze placidly at them as they inspect the existing open spaces.

Most of the life is in the open, and the contrast with the city makes you feel you are in a different world.

Anyone wanting the brochure "Ontario Farm Vacations" may write in to me.

Dear Doris: Pleased send me your leaflet "Facing Forty". That is what I'm doing, at 44, and feel I need a little help to someone," as sae says.

What do men face at forty? — Facing Forty-Four.

Dear Facing: Talk to someone, by all means. What happens during the menopause is a combination of physical and emotional changes, with one affecting the other. For some women it is a blessing; others need all the level-headed understanding they can get.

My 20-cent leaflet is on its way.

Men have problems too, but usually the onset is more gradual. A man comes to discover he hasn't the virility he had at 20; he tires more easily he is a bit irritable, perhaps.

He doesn't snap back as fast as he used to, and his emotional depression results when all this dawns on him with a dull thump.

(Have you asked Doris about your dilemma? Perhaps no one can, as the Canadian Mental Health Association resource that will help.)

Ann Landers

Woman Thrilled With Face-lift

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to "Teresa," the woman who wants a face-lift but can't make up her mind? I was in her shoes a year ago at age 45. My friends were asking me with increased frequency if I was unwell or tired. The bags under my eyes and my drooping lids made me look perpetually exhausted, hung-over or ill.

It got so bad I hated to look at myself in the mirror. I never was a vain person, but the appearance of wrinkles and bags had a very depressing effect on me. I discussed a face-lift with my husband and he assured me that I looked great the way I was. When I reported his comments to the plastic surgeon he said, "Most husbands react that way. They don't want to be responsible for surgery of any kind."

I went ahead with the face-lift. After a three-week healing period, during which I was swollen, black and blue and a real mess, I can say without exaggerating that I was thrilled with the results.

A woman who is pleased with her looks is easier to live with. You said in a recent column that most face-lifts are done for emotional reasons rather than medical reasons—that a woman who has a face-lift frequently thinks it's going to make a big difference in her life, and of course it doesn't. Well, Ann, maybe it doesn't change a person's life, but it can certainly boost the morale and that's a good enough change for me.—Happier In Albuquerque

Dear Happier: If you feel good about your face-lift, and obviously you do, it was the right decision. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in the letter from the secretary who was pregnant and wanted to stay on the job until they have to rush me by ambulance to the hospital to deliver." It seems her boss's wife wanted her out of the office in her seventh month because her presence was "embarrassing."

The problem has been solved pregnant is a direct violation of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, according to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

Pregnancy and all disabilities related to it are treated the same as any other temporary disability in terms of leave time, seniority, reinstatement and insurance payments. Pass the word, Ann.—Wm. J. Cameron, MD, Dept. of Obstetrics And Gynecology, University Of Kansas, In Kansas.

Dear Dr. Cameron: Consider it passed and thank you for writing. (P.S. Are you aware that paternity leave is being offered by some companies? Yup. Poppa gets time off with pay!)

Dear Ann Landers: A lot of people who hate pets twist the facts to make it look like pets are taking over the country. A magazine article had this headline: "Pets outnumber people three to one." When I read the first paragraph I discovered "pets" meant cobalties, parakeets, hamsters, goldfish, turtles and pomics as well as dogs and cats. This isn't right. Please set the record straight.—Animal Lover

Dear Lover: The record IS straight. What would YOU call them?

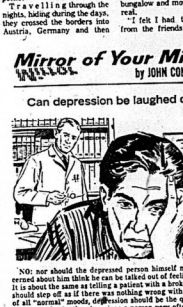
Wages of Sin

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — Because two unmarried pensioners receive more than a married twosome some couples in New Zealand are finding it profitable to stay unmarried. The difference comes to $436.80 a year, making the wages of sin $8.40 a week.

Mirror of Your Mind

by JOHN CONWELL

Can depression be laughed off?



NO; nor should the depressed person himself nor those concerned about him be encouraged to laugh out of feeling depressed. It is about the same as telling a patient with a broken leg that he should step off it and he will be free from pain. Perhaps of all "normal" moods, depression should be the quickest to get professional attention, too, since a person very often can find no apparent reason for being depressed.

Does constant moving harm children?

THAT depends on the children's family life, which can be stable even if they move a lot. Usually the children will help themselves making different friends, and their schoolwork may suffer from the constant change. If their parents strive to provide the stability and continuity in family relationships that children need, however, the children may derive confidence and self-assurance from their ability to adjust to each new home.

Has inflation slowed philandering?

NO. High costs have little effect on extramarital activities. If a husband, say, wants to philander he doesn't have to look far to find a woman willing to share expenses or if she is affluent—foot the whole bill. Yet inflation could indirectly increase a male's love for his wife. In their common worry about the cost of living they may come to appreciate their love for one another.

Committee Stages Second Demonstration

TORONTO (CP) — Members of the Ontario Committee on the Status of Women staged their second demonstration of the month outside a city supermarket Thursday to support their call for a national boycott of all products manufactured by Dare Biscuits Ltd. of Kitchener.

About 25 women marched outside a Dominion store on St. Clair Avenue, carrying signs and handing out leaflets.

The organization said the rally, like the first demonstration July 6, was to show support for women employees of Dare who have been on strike since May 29.

About 90 per cent of the 350 workers at the company, members of the International Brewery and Cereal Workers Union, are women, the company has offered wage increases of 55 cents an hour for men and 45 cents for women, and the union is holding out for equal increases of both sexes.

Basic rate at the plant under the old contract was $2.26 an hour, with women doing the making more than the women, the committee says.

The Ontario Committee on the Status of Women was originally formed to press for implementation of the provincial aspects of the recommendations of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women, but the committee now concerns itself with all issues involving women's rights in the province.

Lacrosse Season Over For All But Four

The party's over for most of the Belleville juveniles after last night's loss to Kingston in the Quinte Lacrosse League play-offs, but four players there will be a couple more for the road.

Kingston whipped the local crew 8-2 in Belleville last night to sweep the best of three series in straight games. Over 70 minutes in penalties kept the home team at the disadvantage for most of the contest while Kingston pressed.

Audie Brant scored both Belleville goals and along with goalie Doug Semark and forwards Kerry Reid and Dan Payne will be continuing into the Ontario Minor Lacrosse play-downs with Kingston.

Claytons Hungry

Pennant winning Clayton's TV were hungry Monday night but Turcotte Heating weren't hungry enough in a pair of Junior Girls' Softball play-off games.

Clayton's whipped Quinte Foods 27-17 but the runner-up Turcottes were spoiled 19-8 by Doug's Food.

In a lone senior play-off contest AVCO nipped Mel Barriage 10-8.

Tkaczuk Gets Pay Hike

ST. MARYS, Ont. (CP) — When Walter Tkaczuk broke into the National Hockey League with New York Rangers in 1968 he signed for $12,000 a year.

Last week, about four years later, the rugged centre put his signature on a three-year contract calling for about $150,000 a year.

The Emstedetten, Germany, figures he's worth it.

"I'm young and I'll be getting better in years ahead," he said in an interview Monday at the hockey school he runs in this community just southwest of Stratford.

"New York needs young players like myself, (Brad) Park and (Gary) Fairbairn to go with guys like (Vic) Hadfield and (Rod) Gilbert to win Stanley Cups. You have to pay guys if you want good players."

Tkaczuk disputed the widely-circulated $150,000 figure.

"Let's put it this way. It's over $100,000. If it includes bonuses, $150,000 is too low. If it doesn't, it's too high."

To pass the $150,000 salary figure, the 24-year-old Ranger centre must score 30 goals and 70 points and have a goals-for-against plus, the Rangers must make the play-offs and the Ranger goaltending must allow fewer than 195 goals.

Tkaczuk readily admits that the presence of the World Hockey Association combined with NHL expansion has helped him and other NHL players in contract talks.

After his first two-year contract expired, Tkaczuk and Emile Francis, Ranger general manager-coach, had a bitter contract dispute. Tkaczuk eventually signed another two-year contract but, "I thought I was worth more."

"But this year it went really smooth with both New York and Chicago Cougars of the WHA."

Before signing with the Rangers, Tkaczuk's lawyer arranged "two or three" meetings with the Cougars but Tkaczuk said he wasn't just playing one league against the other for more money.

"I was on the borderline of signing with Chicago. I was serious about it."

Tkaczuk said other NHL players are using the WHA to full advantage in contract bargaining.

"Everybody I've talked to so far is up 50 per cent or more (in contract demands)," he said.

During the summer, Tkaczuk has been busy at his hockey school which will have a total enrolment of 1,200 boys for the eight-week outing.

It's the school that will prevent him from playing with Team Canada against the Russians this fall.

Tkaczuk said he was invited to join Team Canada but had to turn the offer down.

"If I had known (of the Canada-Russia series) in the middle of the season, I'd have played. I'd love to play. But I advertised all year that I'd be at the school."

Tkaczuk said it's not the money that's making the NHL players eager for the series but "just to show them who's better."

"They'll be just as good without me. (Bobby) Hull would be a real asset . . . just his shot. They wouldn't be checking him as close as in the NHL."

Tkaczuk said if the Russians lose the series, they'll say they didn't use their best players. If the Canadians lose, they'll say they weren't in shape.

"It doesn't matter who loses. We'll both have excuses."

Hawk Gets Help

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $25,000 event in New Jersey this few tips from Jack Nicklaus has paye

Ken Harrelson, baseball's American League Most Valuable Player in 1968, convinced he will make it in pro golf.

"I've played several times with Jack," Harrelson said before starting in the Columbus Invitational Pro-Amateur Championship Monday at Scioto Country Club.

"He told me I didn't have to hit everything hard, that the ball will go just as far by swinging easy at it. And Harrelson's known affectionately as "The Hawk" in his eight major league baseball seasons with Kansas City, Boston and Cleveland.

It was with the Red Sox four years ago that Harrelson, now 29, had his banner baseball season: A major league leading 109 runs batted in, 35 home runs and the American League MVP award.

Then last year the mod dressing blonde quit a $100,000-a-year baseball job with Cleveland for the uncertainties of pro golf.

Despite winning only $3,000 in his new pursuit, the Hawk is far from discouraged.

"I've never been happier in my life. I don't miss baseball a bit," he said.

Harrelson stopped in Boston last week to see Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey after missing the British Open cut by one stroke at 152.

"California was in town, but it didn't even pop into my mind to see a baseball game. I didn't even watch one pitch. I just wanted to go out and hit some golf balls," the Hawk recalled.

Harrelson, now of Miami, Fla., brashly predicts he will earn his PGA Tour Players Division card this fall after failing in his first try in 1971.

"I played much better the last two months," he said. "I'm learning to curb my temper. I'm not teeing it up and letting it fly any more."

Since he turned pro, Harrelson's best finish has been eighth in the Dodge, Open, a minor

Pulford to Coach Kings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bob Pulford scored 281 goals and 362 assists in his 16 years of National Hockey League competition-yet as the new coach of the Los Angeles Kings he will concentrate on defence.

Meeting with reporters at the Forum, Pulford declared his system of coaching "will be a complete system on defence. We hope to be organized to keep other teams from scoring.

"Because hockey is so fast, offence has become a system but mainly it is the reflex of the individual players and their natural ability. On defence, you can definitely create a system wherein everyone knows what to do.

Additionally, the 36-year-old Pulford hopes to motivate the last-place Kings with a winning attitude.

"I think a coach motivates and handles people," he said. "If you can get a team mentally up, your chances of winning are very good."

And despite the fact the Kings have been mired the last few years, Pulford says, "I know we will make the playoffs."

The new coach said he thinks the new World Hockey Association could be good for the game if it creates new interest.

He won't return to playing but implied he'd miss it when he said, "Maybe there will be games and maybe I'll be back but I have definitely retired."

Sr. B Revived

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association senior B club will play its home games in Ridgetown and Point Edward, waicii will play in Sarnia.

don't think a man can be both a coach and player.

"To get the necessary respect and discipline, you have to just coach."

General manager Larry Regan said that in signing Pulford two years ago after acquiring him from Toronto in trade, "we were aware that he was a potential coach. We just didn't know how long it would take. But from the start, he set an inspiration for our other players."

Pulford was signed to a two year contract as coach in June during the NHL annual meetings, but Monday was his first news session in Los Angeles.

And at that same time, the Kings announced the signing of their top amateur draft choice, Don Kozak, a 190-pounder who led Edmonton of the Western Canada Junior League in scoring last year with 55 goals and 56 assists.

"We hope to be a more physical team and Kozak can help," said Pulford.

Jumping Jacks

Queen Elizabeth Reigns

It was a long hot day at the East Hill Playgrounds Track and Field Meet held yesterday at Moira but if Queen Elizabeth-Stanley Park decide to fan themselves with the ribbons they accumulated it could prove to be a cool summer.

Queen Elizabeth piled up 102 points to easily outdistance the combined team of Alemite and Holy Rosary who had 66 points in the runner-up spot.

The Thorton girls, Mickey, Tammy and Kim picked up 15 points for Q.E. each winning the long jump, broadjump and triple jump respectively in the 13 and under category. Richard and Andrew Shaw gave Q.E. another 10 points when they captured the ribbons in the eight and under long jump, triple jump and broadjump.

Don Pope took the honours in the boys ten and under running and standing broadjump. Dennis Thiffault won the 12 and under running and triple jump while Hugh Northey was victorious in the 60 metre dash and high jump for boys ten and under.

Single event winners for the team champions were Maureen Horne in the girls under 12 high jump, Lynn Claney in the girls eight and under high jump and Gordon Ludolph in the under ten boys triple jump. The champs also picked up relay wins in the girls under eight, boys under eight and the boys under 12 categories.

Bayview School picked up points from Mary-Anne Price with a win in girls under 12 75 metre dash, Cathy Lappan with a victory in the under 12 long jump and Sean Cogland who took the boys under eight high jump.

Canadian Tire Ends Win Wait

It was late in coming but at least it came and Canadian Tire are glad it did.

The Tiremen recorded their first Industrial Softball League win of the season last night by dropping Constellation 10-7.

The winners picked up four runs in each of the fourth and sixth innings to insure their victory. Triples by Wayne Trice and Duane Dryden drove in six CTC runs to stave off their 14th loss.

Andy Prudden went five innings for CTC allowing six runs on six hits. He struck out three before giving way to Ken Williams in the sixth.

Steve Gathum smashed a single and double for Constellation.

AOCO turned the tables on Morchs 15-10 to open a four point lead atop the division C. standings.

Ron McCoy went the distance for AOCO giving up eight hits and fanning five. He also had a triple for the winners longest blast of the night. Doug McKay kept his hot batting streak alive with a double and single.

Grant Parks cracked a homer and two singles, Paul Sharpe rapped a four bagger and Clarke added a triple, all in a losing effort for Morchs. Don Dysart and Sharpe saw mound duty for the division A trailers.

Plane's Concrete Mix Minor Wins

Plane's Concrete had two minors runnings last night in Belleville Minor Baseball action and the contests featured both the pewees and the tadpoles.

The tadpoles had it easy knocking off Cablevue 11-1 behind the two hit pitching of Scott Dafoe. Brian Conk right and Darren Vyne. The trio fanned 12 and gave up only two singles. Cronkright also hammered two homers in his own defense.

Plane's secnees found it a bit more difficult though eking out an 14-13 win over Mel Barriage.

L. Leggie had a double and two singles, D. Vader and S. Jung three singles apiece to give Plane's the win. Chris Labelle and Lucas Crawford had three singles each for the losers.

In another pewee contest Motorland Chrysler whipped the Kinsmen 11-3.

Terry Kingsmill had t. double and two singles and Greg McEachern a double and single for the winners plus combining for a six hitter on the Chrysler mound.

Stu Emerson and Allan Thompkins blazed a three hitter at Bob's Sports in leading Uniroyal to a 3-1 tadpole victory. The pair fanned 12 and Emerson's circuit clout was the big blast.

In the lone tyke game of the night Multrose's Sunoco blasted Jerry's Motorcycle Sales 24-6. Mike Vani pulled a grand slam. Lorne Andrews and Dan Manning combined two homers apiece and Pat Dunleavy and Lyle Kelleher had solo shots in the winners' 22 hit attack.

Rollins Shift Winning Format

You couldn't tell - Rollins Construction players without a scorecard Monday night, but somehow the fans were all too familiar to Quinte Hotel as they were shut out for the fourth time in as many meetings with Rollins this season dropping a 5-0 verdict.

The re-shuffled Rollins lineup had centre fielder Ralph Plane on first, regular first baseman Dale Duvall moving to shortstop and Paul Good fellow switching from short to centre field.

All of this shuffling behind him didn't appear to bother Rollins pitcher Ted Waite in the least as he hurled a three-hit shutout at the Hatchmen. It was his seventh white wash effort of the season giving him the league lead in that department. Waite struck out six batters and issued four walks.

The only serious scoring threat for Quinte came in the second frame when Hugh Brennan's drive to centre bounced over the fence for a ground rule double. Paul Mercaw and Scott Reid collected the other hits off Waite.

Reid went the distance for the losers, allowing eight hits and three walks while striking out two batters.

Carl Boomhower, Ralph Plane and Dave Lott had two singles apiece for Rollins with Steve Ling collecting a double and Wayne McTaggart a single.

Devolin Motors moved into a tie for third with Quinte on the strength of their 2-0 win over Howard and Robert Printing.

Don Holoway went the distance for the winners scattering four hits to earn the shutout win. He struck out six batters and allowed one walk to best Bob Swan who was touched for eight Devolin hits. Swan struck out three and did not walk a man.

Rick Rosebush paced the motormen at the plate with a three-for-three performance in addition to scoring both Devolin runs. He scored the game's first run in the fourth when he singled went to third on Tom MacDonald's single and came home when the hustling MacDonald drew a throw to second.

Rosebush added an insurance marker in the bottom of the sixth when he tripled against the centre field fence and came home on a pinch single by Ron Maracle.

The winners' other hits were collected by Pat Gilmour, Bruce Stickle and Holoway.

Junior Farmers Downed

Wannamaker and Bells Stars had their innings and downs in a Prince Edward North Shore softball game Monday night but finished on an up to record a 12-10 nine inning win over the Junior Farmers.

Trailing 7-4 after two innings the Stables took the lead with six big runs in the sixth only to see the Farmers tie the game in the seventh and send it into extra innings.

Gary Bentley was on the winning rubber for W&B allowing ten hits and striking out eight. Bruce Cannons and Ken Burkholder had triples in the winners eight hit assault.

Dennis Snell took the loss for the Farmers. He fanned five and walked six. Dennis Gale pounded two triples in a losing effort.

Kinsmen Tykes Leave Little Doubt

The Kinsmen Hawks left little doubt as to their deserving of first spot in the Belleville Minor Softball tyke division, stomping United Realty 28-2 Monday night.

Sean Monaghan fired a two-hitter for the winners with Brad Grey punching three singles in his behalf.

The second place Gib Waite Motors tykes hit bottom last night and didn't come up after dropping a 14-5 schoolboy win over Claude Lucas Spur. Greg Denard and Robbi Caverly had homers for the winners and Steve Yull had a solo shot for the Spur.

All-Star Starting Role Doesn't Suit Gibson

ATLANTA (AP) — Bob Gibson reluctantly throws the first pitch tonight in the 43rd baseball game, claiming all the while: "I didn't want to start."

The St. Louis Cardinal righthander, less than overjoyed about his assignment for the National League, faces Jim Palmer of the American League at Atlanta Stadium.

"If I had my druthers, I wouldn't start this all-star game," said Gibson, the hottest pitcher in baseball with 11 straight victories. "I'd rather just pitch one inning and leave. An all-star assignment might be an honor, but it's hard work, too."

BOB GIBSON

Gibson matches serves with Palmer, the right-handed Baltimore Oriole ace before a full house of 52,744 while about 50 million more are expected to watch on national television as the game starts at 8:30 p.m. EDT. —

The American League won last year's game at Detroit.

Gibson, known as a fierce competitor, created controversy with his position.

"Yes, I said that I didn't want to start but I didn't say that I didn't want to pitch—the writers said that." Gibson reinarked Monday at a news conference referring to a recent newspaper story.

He preferred to work just one inning in relief, which wouldn't interfere with his normal rotation during the regular season. It's usually the practice for an all-star starter to complete three innings.

"I guess I gotta start—what else is there to say?" said Gibson. "But, now, I guess I won't be pitching Thursday."

Gibson was scheduled to start against Montreal Expos on Thursday. Now, he said, he'll probably have to wait "until Friday or Saturday" to get back into action.

Earl Weaver, Palmer's manager at Baltimore and boss of the American League squad, stormed:

"This game is important to me and to every player in it. I don't think anybody should say he doesn't want to play. Ninety-five per cent of the gate from this game goes into the pension fund. This pays for my retirement and his, and he'd better not forget it."

National League manager Danny Murtaugh seemed unrattled by the Gibson storm.

When Weaver produced newspaper clippings of Gibson's remarks, Murtaugh said: "Well, Bob and I have different ideas. I named him as my starter . . . and I'm going to start him."

Murtaugh refused to commit himself past the first three innings, although he has a quantity of powerful pitching arms to choose from, including New York's Tom Seaver, Steve Blass of Pittsburgh Pirates, Philadelphia Phillies' Steve Carlton and Don Sutton of Los Angeles Dodgers.

With all that reserve pitching help, the National League is a solid favorite, but the odds are also based on slugging stars, including Cincinnati's catcher Johnny Bench, the major league's home run and RBI leader, and Willie Stargell.

The Nationals, with an all-star edge of 3-2, will lineup one at one tie, have a powerful stacked lineup that can easily belt the pitchers into Atlanta Stadium, a hitter's paradise (the "Launching Pad").

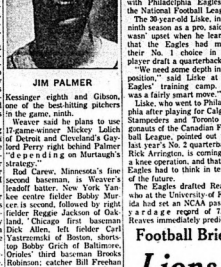
Included is Hank Aaron, playing in his 21st All-Star Game. The Atlanta Braves slugger, who has hit many of his 659 career home runs here, said he expects there will be more action one ball leaving the cozy park Tuesday night.

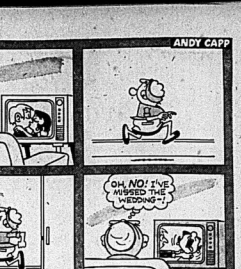
Aaron, despite a history of poor All-Star performances, will bat No 3 in the National League lineup. Joe Morgan, Cincinnati's second baseman, is the National lead-off man, followed by centre fielder Roberto Clemente.

Willie Stargell, Pittsburgh's left fielder, will bat in the clean-up spot, followed by Bench. Houston first baseman Lee May will bat in the sixth spot, baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis seventh, Chicago shortstop Don Kessinger eighth and Gibson, one of the best-hitting pitchers in the game, ninth.

Weaver said he plans to use 17-game-winner Mickey Lolich of Detroit and Cleveland's Gaylord Perry right behind Palmer "depending on Murtaugh's strategy."

Rod Carew, Minnesota's fine second baseman, is Weaver's leadoff batter. Next will be Kansas centre fielder Bobby Murcer is second, followed by right fielder Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Chicago first baseman Dick Allen, Detroit Gold Yastrzemski of Boston, shortstop Bobby Grich of Baltimore Orioles' third baseman Brooks Robinson; catcher Bill Freehan of Detroit and Palmer.





Starting Eagle Quarterback

Liske Faces Hot Rookie

READING, Pa. (AP) — Pete Liske says he isn't worried about rookie John Reaves taking his quarterback job with Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

The 30-year-old Liske, in his ninth season as a pro, said he wasn't upset when he learned that the Eagles had made their No. 1 choice in the draft a quarterback.

"We need some depth in the position," said Liske at the Eagles' training camp. "It was a fairly smart move."

Liske, traded to Philadelphia after playing for Calgary Stampeders and Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Foot ball League, pointed out that last year's No. 2 quarterback Rick Arrington, is coming off a knee operation, and that the Eagles had to think in terms of the future.

The Eagles drafted Reaves, who at the University of Florida set a record for passing yardage record of 7,512. Reaves immediately predicted

Lions Still Unbeaten

VANCOUVER (CP) — Brad Columbia Lions, unbeaten this season in games that don't count, scored another win Sunday by sweep of the West tonight when they welcome Edmonton Eskimos to Empire Stadium for a Western Football Conference exhibition game.

It is the final exhibition game for both teams, who meet Aug. 14 Edmonton in their league opener.

The Lions and Eskimos both missed the WFC playoffs last season. But in pre-season games this year, B.C. clubs have beaten Saskatchewan, Winnipeg and Calgary. Edmonton also defeated Winnipeg, Calgary and Montreal and Saskatchewan.

Don Moorhead is expected to start at quarterback tonight for B.C., although three other signal callers — Sam Locklear, Jack Long and Canadian Eric Guthro — should also see action. Coach Eagle Keys tries to find a No. 2 man to back up Moorhead.

Edmonton coach Ray Jauch has Tom Wilkinson at quarterback Bruce Lemmerman for "about half the game." Jauch, a football fans will probably see Dave Smye, former Saskatchewan Roughrider quarterback, and Tom Wilkinson, released recently by the Lions.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Nineteen players have been released after tonight's Canadian Foot ball League exhibition game with Ottawa Rough Riders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers but coach Jack Gotta says the cuts aren't "not very important."

The Winnipeg head man said Monday: "We have a few cuts still to make and we want to be able to give boys a chance. But the game is not very important. We'll try to keep our import Canadian ratio the same during exhibition games, to consequently you won't see us making wholesale substitutions at one time. we'll get everybody in there."

The game, starting 9 p.m. EDT, is the final exhibition contest for both clubs. Ottawa is unbeaten in three games while the Bombers have one win and a tie in three outings.

While Speziali had only four more cuts to make—three imports and one Canadian—Ottawa coach Jack Gotta must reduce his bulky roster by 15 to reach the 32-man limit.

Gotta released quarterback Tom Clements Monday, saying it was too late in camp to be trying to work with three signal callers.

"Harry is a good quarterback and I've somebody picks him up. But (Paul) Brothers, to my mind, has improved a lot over last year. He's throwing the ball much better this year and he has the advantage of knowing our system better because he was with us last year."

Spavital is also impressed with Brothers and Ottawa's other quarterback Rick Cassata.

"Both have a lotof ability I'd have to say Cassata is much improved over last season. They are now a very explosive ball club."

TORONTO (CP) — Leo Cahill, coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Football Conference says teams whose players are injured in the annual all-star game should get compensation.

Cahill, citing defensive end Jim Corrigall's sprained ankle, injuries in the all-star game should mean a team can add an extra player until the injury is healed.

He said he made the request to Canadian Football League commissioner Jake Gaudaur who was "sympathetic, but he said there was no legislation which would permit us to keep an extra man for a game or so."

Corrigall has missed Argos' three pre-season games so far. EDM's Jim Reed, a recruit from Montreal Alouettes and probably also sit out the regular-season opener against Alouettes Aug. 14.

Pre-season allments have been almost as hard as a regular campaign on the Argos this year. Dave Cranmer is probably out for the season after abdominal surgery, and there have been three broken legs-wide-receiver Richard Trapp in the intra-squad game, defensive back Tim Anderson in training camp and Ward Kaiser, a promising defensive back, in the exhibition scrimmage against Ottawa.

Alto injured, but less seriously, are Corrigall, John Trasure of someone coming in on him.

"He has a lot to learn. I can't blame him for wanting to start. Every athlete wants to play regardless of position."

Most first-year pro quarterbacks would do better if eased into the lineup gradually, he said.

"It's pretty tough and a lot of kids who get pushed in get destroyed."

Liske is looking forward to a continuation of the last season 1971 play that brought the Eagles six victories and a tie in their final nine games.

"I think we've come a long way," said Liske, who is his first year with the Eagles three 11 touchdown passes and completed 53.2 per cent of his passes.

"We matured quite a bit in that one year span of time. If we can pick up our running game to where we can gain about 50 yards more a game, we'll be ready to go."

Leo No Longer Top Cub

ATLANTA (CP) — Leo Durocher, who took over the downtrodden Chicago Cubs in 1966 and made them pennant contenders a year later, has "stepped aside" as manager.

Vice-president John Holland used that phrase in making the announcement early today. leaving it unclear whether The Lip had quit or been fired.

In any case, Whitey Lockman, director of player development, is the man picked by owner Phil Wrigley to revive the Cubs. They are currently languishing in fourth place in the National League East, 19 games out of first.

The Chicago Sun-Times reported today that Wrigley had summoned Durocher to his apartment Monday night for a "talk," he said.

Durocher had dropped from fifth to sixth and was unavailable for comment.

No key player changes are anticipated, said Lockman, and managing policies are expected to be drastically recamped.

"The first thing I'll do is to get together with the coaching staff and evaluate the club. We have good, solid personnel from the line and I think we have a good chance of contending for the division pennant," he said.

Lockman spent 15 years as a player in the majors, coming up in 1945 and retiring after the 1959 season with Baltimore and Cincinnati. He played under Durocher when he managed New York for 7½ years in the late 40s and early 50s.

When Bobby Thomson's ninth-inning home run took the 1951 Giants into the World Series over the Brooklyn Dodgers, Lockman was one of the baserunners who screened the plate.

Lockman's first assignment after joining the Cubs organization in 1964 was to manage Dallas-Fort Worth in the Texas League. He guided the team to a first-place tie and was named Manager of the Year in the league.

From 1967 to 1970 Lockman managed Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League. The Cubs won the PCL championship in 1969 and he picked up his second Manager of the Year award.

In 1970 he was appointed supervisor of player development-a minor league job-and two years later he was appointed assistant to the vice president.

Lokman claimed to have no knowledge of players' discontent with Durocher's managing although cash strife was apparent last year.

However, Holland quoted Wrigley as saying, "If there has been any friction between me and the players this year, then Leo's decision will allow the players in the remainder of the season to find out for them selves if they've been unfair contenders."

A perennial second-division Club until Durocher's arrival the Cubs caught fire a year later and finished an unexpected third in the next five years.

Over that period they had 356 games and low 379; a 51-game margin over .500.

Since he began managing in Brooklyn 33 years ago, Durocher has directed his teams to 1,875 wins, a high among active managers.

Holland said Durocher would work with the team "on a continuing basis in the coming months to help analyze our situation and help in future planning."

Lockman, Holland and other Cubs staff were in Atlanta for tonight's all-star game, in which Leo shortstop Don Kessinger is starting for the National League.

Yanks Sweep Davis Cup Series

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Wimbledon champion Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., and teen-ager Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., scored singles victories Monday to complete a 5-0 sweep by the United States over Chile in the American Zone final of the Davis Cup tennis competition.

Smith, who won the opening singles match last Friday and teamed with Jim Delaney of San Mateo, Calif., for the clinching doubles victory Sunday, capped the U.S. triumph, beating Patricio Cornejo 6-4, 1-6, 8-7, 6-1 in 2½-hour match.

Earlier, the 19-year-old Solomon registered his second singles triumph, overpowering Chilean champion Jaime Pinto Bravo 6-1, 6-1, 6-2 in 70 minutes.

The U.S. now moves on to the inter-zone finals in Barcelona, Aug. 5-7 against Spain, a 2-1 winner over Czechoslovakia in the European Zone B final.

Juan Gisbert beat Jiri Pantisek 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-0 Monday, clinching the victory for Spain over Czechoslovakia.

Gisbert's triumph gave Spain an unbeatable 2-1 lead in the best-of-five competition. In the ring round, Czechoslovakia beat Hungary 4-1.

Spain's Andres Gimeno, 40, has not played since 1968.

Calgary Clouts Former Coach

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders welcomed back former coach Jerry Williams Monday night by trouncing his Hamilton Tiger-Cats 28-16in a Canadian Football League exhibition game.

It was the final match for each team before the start of regular play and the victory was Calgary's first in four pre-season games. Hamilton also has lost three and won one in exhibition play.

The Stampeder defensive unit wrapped the Ticats into confusion during the first half as Calgary built a 17-0 lead.

Calgary's scoring came on two touchdowns, two singles, two field goals and three safeties.

Rudy Linterman got the opening score when he hauled in a 20-yard pass from quarterback Jim Lindsey. Larry Robinson made his first of two converts and picked up a single on the following kickoff which travelled deep into the end zone where Lewis Poeter conceded a single.

The other Stampeder touchdown came on the final quarter when Hugh McKinnis took a pitch from Lindsey seven yards around the end.

Robinson's field goals, both in the second quarter, came from 21 and 25 yards.

The three safeties were conceded by Hamilton punter Ian Sutter.

The remaining Calgary single was on a punt which rookie Don MacDonald took from the 32-yard line of Hamilton.

The Cats' first six points was set up when Ray Lagrasta r failed to field a punt by Calgary deep in his own end.

Sutter ball hopped into the hands of Ticats' Cord Christian, who carried it to the Calgary 17-yard line. Two plays later Buchanan was in from the right.

Sutter converted but his attempt on the other point after hit the goalpost and bounced on to the field.

Next second touchdown was scored 61 seconds later as defensive back Gerry Stemberg stepped into a pass from Calgary quarterback Jerry Keeling made his first of two attempts at the intended receiver and sprinted 52 yards with the interception.

Hamilton coach Williams was given credit for his expertise in Calgary since he bolted the Stampeder organization in 1968 to try his hand as a coach in the National Football League.

The Calgary offence came up with complementing passing in the second quarter, came from and 21 and 25 yards.

The three safeties were compared with 195 by Hamilton.

Announce New Healing Substance...
Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured and irritated tissue.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved ... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing. In the most important of all, results were so thorough that the improvement was maintained over a period of many months.
This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured tissue and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is now available in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Ointment. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

VD Test Denied Blacks Help

WASHINGTON (AP) — For 40 years the U.S. Public Health Service has conducted a study in which black human patients are diagnosed, given proper medical treatment, have died of syphilis and its side effects.

The study was conducted to determine from autopsies what the disease does to the human body.

PHS officials responsible for initiating the experiment, have long since retired. Current PHS officials, when they have occasion doubts about the morality of the study, also say it's too late to treat syphilis in any of the study's surviving participants.

But PHS doctors say they are rendering whatever other medical services they can to those to the survivors while the study of the disease's effects continues.

The experiment, called the Tuskegee study, began in 1932 with about 600 black men, mostly poor and uneducated, from Tuskegee, Ala., an area which had the highest syphilis rate in the United States at the time.

One-third of the group was free of syphilis; two-thirds showed evidence of the disease. In the syphilitic group, half were given the best treatment known at the time, but the other half, about 200 men, received no treatment at all for syphilis, PHS officials said.

As incentives to enter the program, the men were promised free transportation to and from hospitals, free hot lunches, free medicine for any disease other than syphilis and free burial after autopsies were performed.

The Tuskegee study began 10 years before penicillin was discovered to be a cure for syphilis and 15 years before the drug became widely available. Yet even after penicillin became common, and while its use probably could have helped or saved a number of the experiment subjects, the drug was denied them, says Dr. J. D. Millar.

He is chief of the venereal disease branch of the PHS Centre for Disease Control in Atlanta and now is in charge of what remains of the Tuskegee study. Dr. Millar said in an interview he has serious doubts about the program.

"I think a definite moral problem existed when the study was undertaken, a more serious moral problem was overlooked in the post-war years when penicillin became available but was not given to these men, and a moral problem still exists," Dr. Millar said.

Syphilis, a highly contagious infection spread by sexual contact, can cause, if untreated, bone and dental deformations, deafness, blindness, heart disease and central nervous system deterioration.

A 1969 study of 276 treated and untreated syphilitics who participated in the Tuskegee study showed that seven had died as a direct result of syphilis.

At the beginning of 1972, 74 of the untreated syphilitics were still living.

CP News Briefs

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — Out in the dark of Georgian Bay, Bill Hemung, dozing in a cruiser, was awakened when it came to a halt and he heard a voice calling: "Help, help, help," from about 50 feet away.

He leaped overboard, swam toward the voice and, groping in the wave-lashed, bay, caught hold of a 10-year old girl, one of two survivors after an overloaded boat sank Sunday night with the loss of 10 lives.

The girl had stayed afloat more than two hours without a life preserver. Unheard, her mother called for help 50 feet away.

The mother, only other survivor and a non-swimmer, somehow managed to float about 1½ miles to shore after waves tore an infant daughter from her arms after the sinking between 9 and 10 p.m. She told a relegate resident there were no life preservers in their 14-foot aluminum boat.

At daybreak today search resumed for the bodies of the two adults and seven children, ranging in age from two to nine.

Included were Richard Contois, husband of the surviving woman and their children, Marvin, 9, Anthony, 8, Nanette, 4, and a ward, Sheila Ryan, 2.

The others were Eugene Contois, brother of Richard Contois, husband of the surviving woman and their children, Marvin, 9, Anthony, 8, Nanette, 4, and a ward, Sheila Ryan, 2.

MONTREAL (CP) — Justice Minister Jerome Choquette says he is "personally aware" of attempts by organized crime to acquire influence at different administrative, police and political levels in Quebec.

He said in an interview that such attempts and other activities of organized crime in the province will be investigated by a special police inquiry commission next fall.

Got Court Order

EDMONTON (CP) — The Journal says the mother of two small boys abducted from their father during the weekend near Glasgow, Scotland has obtained a court order here giving her custody of the children.

The newspaper said today that Susan Borland, 28, separated in May, 1970 from her husband Andrew, obtained a decree July 5 from Justice Harold Riley in Alberta Supreme Court ordering that Bruce 6, and Giles, 4, be turned over to her.

In Test Area

WELLINGTON (Reuter) — One New Zealand protest vessel was in the French South Pacific nuclear test area and two more are on their way today, the head of the New Zealand peace media research project said.

Roger Bodnier said the 54-foot trawler Boy Roel left Tauranga July 3 and last made contact with New Zealand July 6, but he was sure she was in the test zone region. She had agreed to maintain radio silence on arrival, he added.

Park Scuffle

PARIS, Ont. (CP) — At least one person was jailed Monday night after local police had to summon police from nearby Brantford to help quell a series of minor skirmishes following a music concert in a town park.

No serious injuries were reported.

The incidents began after the concert ended. One youth apparently became involved in a scuffle with several other members of the audience.

Two Paris policemen arrested the youth and were walking him to the police station three blocks away when a crowd formed and followed them.

A scuffle broke out among the group following the policemen and the arrested man and continued in front of the police station.

The policemen called police Chief Jack Watts who called in seven Brantford officers when the youths began "getting mouthy."

Given 30 Days

HAMILTON (CP) — Robert Elliott, 22, of Hamilton was sentenced Monday to 30 days in jail and a year's probation for assault causing bodily harm to his 13-month-old daughter.

He pleaded guilty in an earlier court appearance.

Police said Elliott told them he had lost control of himself when the child, Carrie Anne, would not stop crying.

Sgt. Clive Paul said Monday the child has superficial bruises on both sides of her head but no concussion.

Trucks Upset

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Two transport trucks overturned on Highway 401 about six miles east of here Monday and halted eastbound traffic for five hours.

100,000 Students to Vote On Withholding Part of Fees

TORONTO (CP) — More than 100,000 of Ontario's 160,000 university and community college students will be asked this fall to vote on plan to withhold part of their fees as retaliation against increased tuition.

The Ontario Federation of Students, which represents students at 18 post-secondary institutions, voted to ask students to pay only their full-term fee in September and to consider not paying the winter-term fees if the province does not meet their demands.

A referendum will be conducted Oct. 10-12 concerning the fees. The federation will then assess support and decide what action to take.

At a meeting in Toronto Monday, the federation voted to make two demands. Students want tuition increases of $100 to $400 deferred pending more public discussion and publication of the report on the province's post-secondary education system.

They also want loan portions of student awards to remain at $600 rather than be increased to $800 as planned.

Federation representatives are to meet today with George Kerr, minister of universities and colleges, to ask him to meet the demands.

The OFS also passed a motion asking the province to allow the federal government to make more direct grants to students and institutions.

Nixon Regime Is Called Both Secretive and Elitist

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — Senator George McGovern said Monday that the Nixon administration is secretive, elitist, and is pursuing a fruitless policy of begging and bombing in North Vietnam.

The Democratic presidential candidate, for a vacation and a series of campaign planning meetings, also attacked the president on these points: for refusing to reveal the names of all his campaign contributors, for the administration's relationship with business and for partisan politics by State Secretary William Rogers and Defence Secretary Melvin Laird.

Of former treasury secretary John Connally, he said: "I'm not sure what he is . . . Republican or Democrat, left or right."

Speaking at the news conference on the terrace of the Sylvan Lake lodge neighbors, the South Dakota senator said of the list of unnamed contributors to Nixon's re-election effort: "I suspect that that's the elitist operation. I think you'll find a handful of major contributors there, perhaps the board of directors of ITT, some of the companies that have been helpful to the president, perhaps a grateful board of directors of the Lockheed Corp. These are the kind of entities that you ought to be brought into the open."

McGovern said he had no personal knowledge that officials of International Telegraph and Telephone Co. backed had contributed to the Nixon campaign. But "I think it's unreasonable to assume that they have contributed, he said.

The senator does not require either presidential complaint to disclose individual contributions received prior to April 7. However, McGovern has done so and has challenged Nixon to do likewise.

"But for some reason or other, President Nixon is unwilling to tell us who put up that first $10 million," McGovern said.

Cheese Caves

The growth of blue mold in a wheel of cheese is checked by Darwill Denny Swift and Company's cheese factory deep in bluffs at Faribault, Minn. Temperature and humidity are rigidly controlled for proper aging of the cheese in the caves that were hollowed with dynamite and tools so as not to unsettle buildings on top of the bluffs.

Foreign Service Cut But Harmony Achieved

By JOHN BEST

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau took office four years ago with the intention of cutting Canada's foreign service down to size and he proceeded to do just that.

Now, out of the confrontation, has grown a new harmony between the government and professional diplomats, exemplified by the external affairs department's central role in reviving the James Cross kidnapping crisis of late 1970.

Such is the conclusion reached by Peter Dobell, director of the Parliamentary Centre for Foreign Affairs and Foreign Trade, in a new book called Canada's Search for New Roles.

The 184-page volume on Canadian foreign policy, published by Oxford, was commissioned by the Royal Institute of International Affairs, primarary for British reading public.

Mr. Dobell, a former foreign service officer, writes that, when Mr. Trudeau became prime minister he was welcomed by many members of the diplomatic set "for his refreshing, pragmatic, outgoing approach to the world."

"They were not prepared for the attitude of suspicion of the foreign service held by many of the new ministers who came in Mr. Trudeau's wake."

The prime ministerwas convinced that Canadian foreign policy needed updating, says Mr. Dobell. He also believed that too many talented people were cooped up in the external affairs department.

"One effect, deliberate or accidental, of his downgrading of the foreign service has been that . . . a surprising number of foreign service officers have accepted senior positions in other government departments."

Frustration over the way foreign policy decisions were made in the cabinet of former prime minister Lester Pearson made Mr. Trudeau determined to introduce changes when he himself got the top job says Mr. Dobell.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin had a host of working things out in advance with Mr. Pearson, one result being that there was limited policy debate in cabinet. Mr. Trudeau and some of his colleagues had the feeling that Mr. Martin was "deliberately preventing them from exercising the influence to which they were entitled as ministers."

"When they took over, they were determined on change."

Assessing the record of the Trudeau administration, Mr. Dobell faults it for failing both to work out a comprehensive policy toward the United States and to cultivate relations with Europe as a counter-weight to the U.S. influence on Canada.

He adds his voice to frequently-expressed criticism of the government for neglecting discussion of Canadian-American relations in the foreign policy white paper of 1970, and for being content with the traditional "ad hoc" approach to dealing with Washington.

Hijacker Given Life Prison Term

LOS ANGELES (CP) — A Mexican-American who hijacked an airplane to protest alleged injustices suffered by fellow Mexican-Americans in the United States was found guilty Monday of air piracy and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Ricardo Chavez-Ortiz, 36, was found guilty of hijacking a Frontier Airlines jet at gunpoint over New Mexico April 13. Judge Charles Carr of U.S. district court imposed the sentence after a jury found Chavez - Ortiz guilty. Federal judges also ordered mental tests for Chavez-Ortiz and set another hearing for Sept. 18 at that time, the sentence could be modified.

An out-of-work cook and father of eight, Chavez-Ortiz ordered the plane to fly to Los Angeles where he made a 35-minute speech over local radio and television in which he identified himself as a member of the "Brown Berets."

Chavez-Ortiz became something of a hero in the million-member Mexican-American community of Los Angeles after his three broadcast speech which attacked injustices to Mexican-Americans in employment and the education.

Members of the community raised money for his $33,000 bail and for his defence expenses. A demonstration od more than 100 supporters demanding the jury be freed took place outside the federal courthouse when his trial opendd last week.

Golf Courses Reported Selling Liquor Illegally

TORONTO (CP) The Globe and Mail says seven public golf courses, five in "dry" areas of the Niagara Peninsula and two in "dry" territory near Hamilton, have openly been selling liquor illegally.

The newspaper adds that the courses and their patrons are violating a law that allows members of private clubs a drink after a game but denies it to other customers, unless the club owners provide it free.

The Globe and Mail names the clubs as the Ridgeview and the Southbrook in Binbrook Courses bordering Hamilton; the Riverview, Highland and Stonebridge, all in the town of Westbrook and Erie Breeze at Crawford Township.

In Ontario's dry areas, where a municipality has not yet approved sales by the drink, private clubs are one can even give liquor away without obtaining a "no sale" permit from the liquor licence board.

The seven courses named cannot get licences to sell by the drink, first, they are located in dry areas and, second, they do not meet the definition of a club under the Liquor Licence Act.

They are all privately owned, by one man or partners, the newspaper says. The board will grant sales licences only to non-profit social clubs in dry areas, private clubs are licensed on the basis that they do not operate for "pecuniary gain."

The Globe and Mail quotes Nick Tyhol, owner of the Erie Breeze course west of Port Colborne, as saying: "They've made a bucketful of us and honest man."

Ban Asked On Seal Pelts Use

WASHINGTON (CP) Seven cartons of letters and petitions opposing Canada's sealing hunt were turned over Monday to a United States member of Congress who is preparing bills to ban pelts and products from seals and other endangered animal species he banned by law from United States markets.

The presentation was made to Representative Jerome Waldie, a California Democrat, by Mrs. D. Davies of Fredericton, N.B., executive director of the International Fund for Animal Welfare and a vigorous campaigner against Canada's annual seal hunt.

Davies was originally scheduled to hand the petitions directly to Wilbur Mills, influential chairman of the House ways and means committee, whose vote is persuading Mills to approve the bills has been unfavorable.

Instead, Waldie will pass on the petitions to Mills, who will persuade him to approve the bills he introduced.

Davies said that although his organization is not at all anti-U.S., the signatures were gathered among Americans. He estimated there were 25,000 signatures — either on letters or petitions, and said a similar number had been sent to Mills separately.

Without the approval of Mills' committee, the legislation has little chance to pass Congress.

Public Asked to Aid Non-existent Sick Boy

PALERMO, Sicily (Reuter) — Police arrested a bachelor Monday who they said raised thousands of dollars by fraudulent appeals in Canada and the United States for funds to finance a heart operation for a non-existent son.

Natale Motta, 35, was charged with fraud after he claimed through an Italian-language paper in Canada that his 10-year-old son Giovanni was suffering from a serious heart disease.

Police said a man calling himself Motta's brother-in-law appeal in the Corriere Canadese newspaper under the title: "His life is in your hands." The article said the ailment could only be treated by Prof. de Bakey of Houston, Texas.

The paper collected $10,000 while a radio station in Cleveland, Ohio, raised $1,000 and air tickets from Italy to the United States and back.

Professor de Bakey said he would perform the operation, but Palermo police, acting on a request from the Italian consulate in Toronto, discovered that Noel was a childless bachelor.

The money was blocked and its air tickets were cancelled but Motta continued to make collect telephone calls to Corriere Canadese asking about the delay in sending the money.

In Toronto, Antonio Manuzzi, managing director of Corriere Canadese, said Monday night that police collected through Motta's appeal is being returned to its contributors.

Or, Manuzzi said Motta telephoned the paper repeate-ly asking that the money be sent to him but was told that it would be paid only to the Houston hospital where Motta's supposed son was to have an operation.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Projects related directly to what you already have in the works are favored, completely fresh or unfamiliar ventures quite the contrary.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Among the work you go over is a surprise or two. There may become competition for your time. Personal matters should take precedence.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Original thought should be put into action. Others will do the same things. Inventiveness, self-improvement programs work together.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Distant memories or very old things bring useful information. Don't allow new friends to take you away from routines altogether.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Early differences resolve readily with a low-key effort at holding communication open. Major events are few and pass you with little impact.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Spend the day lining up facts and figures for coming information. Where you must make promise or commitment, do it in the later hours.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Early tension in work efforts dissipates soon if you refuse too react to provocation and just keep going. Romantic episodes are exciting.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Skip details, get to the core of whatever the discussion concerns. Settle on a course of action, assign priorities, get busy.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Asking favors generally is not real trouble for the time being. Minding your own affairs even may be complicated by visitors.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Approach old questions with originality, particularly where money is concerned. You have wide latitude for experiments.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Personal plans involving other people are more open to progress than usual. Your sense of drama helps put over a fresh idea.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Your superior knowledge of the inside story puts you ahead of the group. Good listening gives you even more of the story.

Hard to Be Poise-y If Stomach Noisy

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What makes a noisy stomach? It seems if does it after a meal. It makes so much noise it is embarrassing.—Mrs. M. G.

The racket of a "noisy stomach" isn't in the stomach at all, but in the intestine where food goes from the stomach.

When food leaves the stomach, it is in liquid form, but there may be air and gas in varying amounts.

The air may be swallowed. Air-swallowing is a very common but little-recognized habit. Gas can result from the digestive processes, and possibly from fermentation.

Anyway, eating stimulates activity—movement—of the intestinal tract, and the noise you notice comes from the liquid and gases moving through the intestine.

There may be excessive movement, causing gurgling. There may be some narrowing or partial obstruction, but in this case there will be other symptoms, usually among them.

Another possibility: You may get so nervous and tense, waiting for the noises, that, consciously or not, you "tie yourself up in a knot." As the intestinal activity has to work against this tenseness, you get gurgles when the intestine finally manages to push your dinner through those several feet of digestive tubing.

My suggestions: Notice if the noise follows any particular type of food, particularly starchy, sugary, or fatty items. You may need medication to aid digestion of certain foods.

There are also tablets containing simethicone which breaks up gas bubbles. Your family physician may have other suggestions.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has just had abdominal x-rays. No malignancy but a diverticulosis of the colon exists. Should he be put on a diet of no roughage? From what I've read, conditions on this condition?—Mrs. H. A.

He should avoid foods with seeds or indigestible husks, but should not avoid roughages entirely. He needs some bulk in his diet.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: About peanut butter being high in cholesterol; is that natural or caused by additives?—F. L. B.

Peanuts are high in fat, but only a small amount of the fat is of the saturated type which is the prime source of cholesterol. Homogenization may raise that amount of saturated fat slightly but not enough to cause concern.

Whether other special treatments of peanut butter (hydrogenation, for example) would make an important difference is another question, and I haven't been able to find an authoritative answer to that.

The ordinary additives and preservatives used in foods would not increase the saturated fat level.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband just confronted me with the fact that he was on hard drugs at one time, and he is afraid that it may have or will hurt our unborn baby. I am two months along.

Will these drugs hurt my baby?—Mrs. P. F.

Your question gets us into the medical quagmire of genetic effects about which too little is know. Studies I have seen report no effect on unborn children from the father's use of such drugs. Some recent studies have suggested some such connection, though, between the mother and the fetus.

Don't brood over it during this important time of your life.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

Opening lead — two of clubs.

The time element vitally affects the outcome of many hands. A declarer will sometimes achieve a position where he has sufficient winners to make the contract, yet find himself going down because the defenders beat him to the punch and cash their tricks before he can score his.

A really careful declarer looks for ways and means to turn the time factor to his advantage. Today's hand shows how the deed is done.

Assume West leads a club, won by East with the ace. If East sees now foolish enough to cash the other two aces, South would easily make the contract. So let's say that East, in an effort to build up a heart trick before dummy's diamonds get established, leads the jack of hearts.

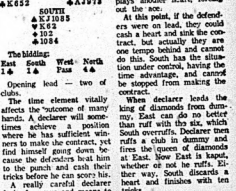
Declarer wins with the king, returns the ten of diamonds, which East ducks, and leads a low diamond, taken by the ace. East thereupon plays another heart, forcing out the ace.

At this point, if the defenders were on lead, they could cash a heart and sink the contract, but actually they are one tempo behind and cannot do this. South has the situation under control, having the time advantage, and cannot be stopped from making the contract.

When declarer leads the king of diamonds from dummy, East can do no better than ruff with the six, which South overruffs. Declarer then ruffs a club in dummy and fires the queen of diamonds at East. Now East is kaput, whether or not he ruffs. Either way, South discards a heart and finishes with ten tricks.

It's interesting to note that the defense can win the race against time if West leads a heart originally instead of a club. In such case, the defense would be one jump ahead of declarer.

Tomorrow: A bulls-eye.



Bennett Calls B. C. Election

VICTORIA (CP) — Gambling on his Social Credit party's past performance and a policy-laden package for the future called the Kelowna Charter, Premier W. A. C. Bennett announced Monday there will be a general election in British Columbia Aug. 30.

It will be the seventh election since he party came to power in 1952 and the eighth campaign for the 71-year-old party leader, who has been in power longer than any other head of government now in office in North America.

Leaders of all three opposition parties were quick to pounce on the premier's age—he will be 72 on Sept. 6—and his long stay in office by stating that one issue during the campaign will be the need for change.

Dave Barrett, leader of the New Democratic Party, said the Social Credit administration has rested on its oars over the last year despite a commanding majority in the B.C. legislature.

Following the last B.C. election on Aug. 27, 1969, standings in the 55-member house were Social Credit 38, NDP 12, Liberals 5. During the last year, two Social Credit members have left to join the Progressive Conservatives. There have been no byelections in the last three years.

David Anderson, newly-elected head of the B.C. Liberal party, said "we feel that the public view is that it is time for a change." The same statement was uttered by Progressive Conservative Leader Derril Warren, who added he felt his party would make sizeable gains, in the election.

Despite his statement following the last general election that it would likely be five years before the people of B.C. would again vote, Mr. Bennett called the election with a full two years left in his five-year mandate.

In his news conference Monday announcing the long-awaited election date, Mr. Bennett said his party has a platform for the future in the Kelowna Charter which he had announced in June.

The chart proposals include increases to provincial supplementary allowance for old age pensioners; boosts in social assistance to the aged and handicapped; an increase in the B.C. minimum wage; on-the-job training for young people and formation of a B.C. development corporation to aid farmers and secondary manufacturing industries.

British Union Chiefs Call General Strike

Meir Makes Peace Offer

JERUSALEM (Reuter) — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir personally appealed today to Egyptian President Anwar Sadat "to meet as equals and make a joint supreme effort to arrive at an agreed solution" to the Middle East crisis.

The Israeli leader made her plea in an address to the Knesset (parliament) where she described Egypt's recent move to order Soviet experts and advisers out of the country as a "highly significant event in the life of Egypt which may even contribute to positive developments in the area."

Mrs. Meir said: "This hour in the history of Egypt can, and, should be the appropriate hour for change, and if it truly is the hour for change, let it not be missed."

In what was seen here as one of the most conciliatory pronouncements in recent years, Mrs. Meir said: "When all is said and done, no foreign country . . . can solve for us, or instead of us, the problems which stand between us.

"The well-being and future of our nations depends upon such a dialogue.

"Negotiations for the establishment of peace are no badge of surrender or humiliation as Arab spokesman are wont to state. Negotiations for peace are a supreme revelation of sovereignty, of national honor and of international responsibility."

Hospital Strike Will Continue

TORONTO (CP) — Despite warnings that they may be suspended or dismissed, non-medical workers at Toronto Western Hospital voted Tuesday night to continue their strike.

About 300 members of the Canadian Union of General Employees, which represents the workers who walked off the job July 12, voted to ignore warning letters from the hospital.

Hits McGovern

DETROIT (AP) — Lynn Townsend, chairman of Chrysler Corp., said Tuesday that the election of George McGovern as president of the United States would be "a substantial setback to the free enterprise system" of the U.S.

Ottawa Reports Flying Objects

OTTAWA (CP) — A number of residents in the Ottawa area have reported unidentified flying objects in the sky at night.

Residents in towns southwest of Ottawa reported strange objects in the sky early Tuesday morning.

One housewife reported watching a red and green arrow shaped object for about a half hour before it disappeared. Another resident spotted a similar object and area provincial police reported a half-dozen calls from other witnesses.

Day Walkout Set for Monday

LONDON (CP) — British union leaders today ordered a one-day general strike to take place next Monday if five imprisoned militant dock leaders are not released before then.

As the industrial court prepared to hear new argument that may lead to freedom for the five men, the general council of the 18-million-member Trades Union Congress agreed in an 18-to-7 vote to order the 24-hour strike that would cripple the entire economy.

TUC Secretary Vic Feather said later that the strike will take place only if the men are not released before Monday.

The one-day general strike, if it comes, would be the first of its kind since the nine-day stretch in 1926.

More than 100,000 workers already were out in the showdown between Prime Minister Edward Heath's conservative government and organized labor.

As more and more workers joined the walkouts, almost all of London's bus services were shut down and traffic crippled at Heathrow, one of the world's busiest airports.

London was without fresh meat, fruit and vegetables the second day, since market porters walked out. All garbage was cleared by the strike of 50,000 longshoremen and thousands of other workers. Hundreds of ships were trapped.

Some 35,000 coal miners in South Wales closed key pits, and 10,000 truck drivers voted to strike in Liverpool's Merseyside docks complex.

Except for a few routes, the London bus system ground to a halt when 24,000 transport workers went on a 24-hour strike. Three thousand ground workers at Heathrow Airport walked off their jobs, causing many flights to be cancelled.

A walkout by blast-furnace workers at a giant British Steel Corp. plant in Port Talbot, South Wales, stopped iron production and it was feared the whole plant could close if the strike were prolonged.

The strikes could be resolved if the imprisoned dockers were released, and there were indications this may happen later today.

Sir John Donaldson, president of the National Industrial Relations court, prepared to hear arguments on a ruling that sent the men jailed last Friday and Saturday on contempt charges.

Whales Sink Yacht

Six Survive 37 Days Adrift in Pacific

PANAMA CITY (Reuter) — Six Britons, including three children, recuperated in Panama today after surviving 37 days and nights of a tiny dinghy in the Pacific living on emergency rations and raw fish.

They filled out their meagre rations with some oranges, lemons and onions which floated up from their sunken yacht and also caught turtles, eating the meat and drinking the blood.

Donald Robertson, 48, of Leek, Staffordshire, recounted Tuesday night the dangers and nights of survival which began on June 16, when their 25-ton yacht Lucette was sunk by killer whales. The yacht went down in 60 seconds.

His wife Robertson, his wife Linda, 32, their three children, and crew member Robin Williams, who was hitching voyage to New Zealand, just time to don lifejackets and cut loose a dinghy and liferaft.

"We sailed straight into the water," Robertson said.

Last Saturday, after 37 days, spent before and 40 miniles adrift, the Robertsons and Williams were picked up by the Japanese tuna boat Toka Maru No. 1. When the Japanese ship arrived at Balboa near here Tuesday the six Britons were taken off to a Panama City hotel by British consular officials.

Clad only in sun tanning shorts and light shirts, they endured chilly nights, hot days, storms and salt water sores while navigating toward Costa Rica. During their voyage, they covered 150 miles, drogerson said, and had only 250 miles to go to reach the Central American republic.

With a chart drawn from memory, he said he steered as best he could.

They left England 18 months ago for a three-year world voyage, and were travelling from Panama to Australia and New Zealand when the disaster occurred.

Robertson said it would have meant death to have remained at the scene of the sinking, 200 miles from the Galapagos Islands.

They would have met adverse currents by going back to Panama, so they set sail for Costa Rica 1,000 miles away.

A merchant ship which passed about three miles away failed to see their two parachute rockets and three flares, Robertson said.

They used up two of three remaining flares to attract the attention of the tuna boat.

Robertson said his family had lost all their possessions. The yacht, which he valued at between $15,000 and $17,500, was not insured. He had purchased it following the sale of his 12-acre farm in 1970.

Asked why he undertook the voyage, he said: "My children had been brought up in an isolated area and we planned to show them something of what the world is made of."

And the future "Get back to Britain and start life anew and give our kids the best chance we can."

Robertson said he hopes to earn enough from his story to repatriate himself and his family and get a start in a new job.

Jane Fonda to Reply To Treason Charges

PARIS (Reuter) — Actress Jane Fonda, just back from a trip to North Vietnam, says she will reply Friday to charges that she is a traitor to her country.

Miss Fonda, who showed a film here Tuesday taken by her widespread allegations that U.S. planes are deliberately bombing North Vietnam's dikes system, said she would answer her critics at a news conference in New York.

"I believe in my heart profoundly that the dikes are being bombed on purpose," she said.

The North Vietnamese news agency today reported a U.S. air attack on a dike in the Red River delta and said it was the third such attack on dikes in the district.

In a dispatch relayed here from Hanoi, VNA said six 10,000-pound bombs and six others whose size it did not specify were dropped on the Tra Le dike last Friday, seriously damaging a section about 800 feet long.

The actress, who returned from a two-week visit to North Vietnam, said that U.S. prisoners she talked to in the North expressed fears to her that if President Nixon remained in power they would "remain prisoners forever."

She said they asked her to urge their relatives back home to work for the election of Democratic Presidential candidate George McGovern in the November U.S. election.

Replying to a question, she said:

"I was crying all the time I was in Vietnam, but it was for the Americans and not for the Vietnamese. The bombs are falling on Vietnam, but the tragedy is an American one."

Ulster Thinks of Victims

Mourning Strike Is Staged

BELFAST (CP) — Thousands of Protestant workers left their jobs here soon today to observe a "day of mourning" for the victims of Irish Republican Army violence in Northern Ireland.

Many offices and factories shut down, but the work stoppage did not have the paralyzing effect of the Protestant one-day general strike of last March.

This was largely because power plant workers stayed on the job this time, providing electricity and power for essential services. The electricity board said it expected no major cuts in electricity. Buses also continued to operate in Belfast, providing public transport.

The day of mourning was called by two Protestant groups, the Ulster Defence Association and the Loyalist Association of Workers.

It was specifically designated as a tribute to the 11 victims of last Friday's bomb blitz in Belfast, but also was called in remembrance of the 472 persons who died through IRA violence in the three years of sectarian strife.

Today's strike was not backed by the labor unions, who urged their members to give a day's wages to funds of the victims instead.

Man Whose Horses Were Shot Will Defend Accused in Court

MONTREAL (CP) — Andre Masse, a Montreal lawyer and owner of a riding school in Ste. Scholastique involved in a shooting feud last month with Anthony Gilliland, is to defend the 20 year - old welfare recipient free of charge in a court case arising out of the incident.

Mr. Masse said Tuesday he made the offer and Gilliland accepted.

Mr. Gilliland, a former television repairman, pleaded not guilty Monday to charges of pointing a firearm at a peace officer, preventing a peace officer from carrying out his duties and unlawful possession of a firearm.

Preliminary hearing is set for July 31 in St. Jerome, Que.

The charges arose from a siege of Gilliland's house north of here last month after he allegedly shot and killed several horses belonging to Mr. Masse's riding school because they were destroying his garden.

Gilliland herded his wife and five children into his house where he kept up a three-day barricade, starting June 26 and allegedly ordered Quebec Provincial Police off his property at gunpoint when they came to investigate the horse shootings.

Most Area Residents Oppose Centralization

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

The people of Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties want growth and development dispersed over the entire area. They are opposed to concentration of manufacturing in the Trenton-Belleville axis.

This is the impression taken back to Queen's Park last night by Gillan Barber, a research economist with the ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs.

For the 1½ hours in BCI auditorium she fielded questions and comments on the booklet she wrote, Design for Development, Prospects for the Lake Ontario Region.

Three choices for development of the Lake Ontario Region were unveiled by provincial treasurer Darcy McKeough June 1 in Peterborough. Five public meetings have since been held to determine the initial reaction of people in the region to the report.

The Lake Ontario Region comprises the counties of Durham, Haliburton, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland, Peterborough, Prince Edward and Victoria. Ontario is now divided into 10 such regions, but after the meeting Miss Barber said the province will eventually be comprised of only five regions. This region will extend from the western boundary of Northumberland - Durham to the Quebec border.

Miss Barber denied that the government has a pre-determined policy favoring concentration of industry and commerce in the Port Hope Cobourg and Trenton-Belleville areas. She also denied that the section of her booklet "some questions to help you decide the best approach for your region" were planted to bring replies favoring manufacturing concentration.

"I personally favor growth in the north," she said in an interview.

A group of about 60 people, many of them industrial property holders, municipal politicians or realtors, attended the meeting. Miss Barber considered the turnout large and said it indicated the interest aroused by planning in the Quinte district.

The Lake Ontario Region has "a tradition of pleasant community life and we would like to see this characteristic maintained," Miss Barber said.

Several speakers agreed with her, among them Alderman E. A. Orr of Belleville, and Zdenek Kvarda, former chairman of Belleville and Suburban Planning Board.

Alderman Orr said he would like to see his city remain a cross-section of all types of activities.

Mr. Kvarda made considerable impact with his comparisons between Belleville and Toronto. Having lived in both places, he said, he found the quality of life in Belleville far superior to Toronto.

"But I live in Toronto because I like it," protested Miss Barber.

"Small centres seek growth not because they want it, but because they need it to provide services for people who move here to escape large cities," said Mr. Kvarda. "People here are satisfied with the life they have," he continued. "They are forced into growth to pay for services and to provide jobs for their children."

At least two speakers suggested the Ontario government would dictate development policy.

The prospects for the Lake Ontario Region booklet seems to indicate in advance what is going to happen anyway," commented Rev. David Sinclair of Cayuga.

Another speaker said he had arrived at the opinion that the Ontario government had decided where industry would be located.

"When will the pressure be put on" he queried.

"Within two or three years there will be policies out," replied Miss Barber.

Sidney's reeve, Jack Bush, intimated that the province had the cart before the horse in planning programs.

He referred to official plans now being prepared by individual municipalities and counties.

"Until the government lays down economic growth patterns and then leaves details to local people, we will get off the ground," he said.

"We are wasting money on official plans if the government is going to set guidelines for development," commented a Sidney resident.

Miss Barber was accompanied to Belleville by two members of the Information services of the ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs. Following meetings, after people had read her booklet, one will be held in the fall at the invitation of the municipalities involved, she added. In the meantime, the ministry is accepting written briefs from concerned residents of the region.

Money Determines Planning Decisions

The shape a community will take in the future is all a matter of money, a provincial government economist indicated last night.

And in this case, money means assessment, said Miss Gillian Barber, research economist for the Ontario ministry of treasury, economics and intergovernmental affairs.

Miss Barber agreed that certain areas such as Prince Edward county, could not be designated for recreational and agricultural use only "without adequate support" from areas enjoying a high return in taxes from industrial assessment.

"By the mid 1970s, there will be a change in the taxation system," said Miss Barber. "We need assessment reforms to accomplish this plan," she said of the patterns for growth of the Lake Ontario Region outlined in her booklet. Prospects for the Lake Ontario Region.

Mayor J. Russell Scott of Belleville raised the question of assessment early in the public meeting on regional planning held last night in BCI auditorium.

"Industrial areas don't want industry in their back yards, but they want the financial rewards," he said.

He said equalized industrial assessment was needed to alleviate high taxation and high costs of services in rural areas. An alternative was "amalgamation of areas," he said.

The later suggestion seemed to meet with the government economist's approval. Miss Barber referred to "pooled assessment areas" in which a recreational - agricultural area would be teamed with an industrial area to balance the tax levy.

But, she indicated, property taxation might be an antiquated way of raising funds for essential municipal services.

The old assumption that a 60 per cent industrial assessment in a community would support services for the 40 per cent residential assessment, is no longer feasible, said Miss Barber.

The provincial government's planning policy and its development policy will affect its assessment policy, she said.

Parks Association Enters Fray Over Sandbanks Quarrying

The National and Provincial Parks Association has asked the Ontario government to repudiate the Tovell report on the Sandbanks.

In a letter to Premier William Davis, Gavin Henderson executive director of NPPAC said Tuesday the government-commissioned report by Dr. Walter Tovell on removal of sand from the dunes was "incomplete and unsatisfactory" and the association has asked the government not to accept or act on the report until all the relevant information has been made public.

On releasing the report July 12, Leo Bernier, minister of natural resources, said the government had accepted it in principle. Dr. Tovell recommended that Lake Ontario Cement Company, now quarrying sand from 16 acres leased from the government, be allowed to remove 128,000 tons of sand in the next two or three years before being required to find another source.

Mr. Henderson noted that this recommendation was made after examination of only one of several possible sources of sand — an esker running along the Ridge Road southwest of Picton.

The NPPAC believes the Ridge Road esker is the eventual source of sand for the cement company.

"It has long been known that the sand contained in the esker is of a similar composition to that of the Sandbanks and could very well be used by the cement company before being screened," the NPPAC brief says. "While this would add considerably to the cost, this would be partially offset by the shorter hauling distance to the plant from the Sandbanks."

The brief says the Tovell report did not take into consideration the effect on the Sandbanks of the removal of sand from the esker.

The brief says the Tovell report did not take into consideration the effect on the Sandbanks of the removal of sand from the esker.

Mr. Henderson noted that Dr. Tovell asked to make and include a comparison of these points in his report".

Mr. Henderson said it is hard to believe that the engineers have not have its future source of supply already mapped out and reserved.

If NPPAC is correct in its assumption that the Ridge Road esker is the future source, failure of the Tovell report to deal with this source and recommend its use now instead of two or three years in the future invalidates the report, says Mr. Henderson's letter.

Because the key question of other sand sources was not fully explored in the Tovell report, it "raises the suspicion that your government is not really concerned about disturbing its present arrangement with the company over what it considers an issue of minor environmental importance" says the letter.

The NPPAC letter to the premier faulted the Tovell report on other points.

Dr. Tovell had not investigated several other sand sources, including material soon to be dredged from Wilfer's Bay and four other sites mentioned in a government memorandum of September, 1971.

He had not met with representatives of any of the concerned citizen organizations to learn exactly what they are asking and why.

And although Dr. Tovell was asked to investigate the esthetic effects of the sand removal operation, he made only one brief mention of this aspect in his report.

Lightfoot Lowest

TRENTON (Staff) — Lightfoot Construction of Belleville has submitted the lowest of five tenders for Trenton's Dundas East rewidening project.

At $333,280, Lightfoot was more than $35,000 below the second lowest tender from Bennett Paving of Oshawa.

Other tenders were from Harnden and King Construction of Cobourg for $383, 614.95, from H. J. McFarland of Picton for $388,324 and from Lemar Construction of Scarborough for $396,585.00.

The five tenders have been forwarded to consulting engineers Damas and Smith for review. Their report to council on which tender should be accepted will be received here by Friday and a special council meeting is expected for next week to approve one of them.

A Trenton civil servant said today "assuming the Lightfoot tender is OK, council will give it to them."

The project includes the widening to four lanes of the portion of Dundas East from Campbell St. (near the Dominion Store) east to the beginning of the present four-lane portion of Highway Two that begins at the town limits.

Included in the specifications are new sewers, curbs and sidewalks as well as the widening and paving.

Mayor Duncan McDonald explains that the town's share of the cost will be about $15,600 and that this will be debentured. This amount was included in the Trenton 1972 capital budget.

OMMB Denies Sponsorship

The Ontario Milk Marketing Board has expressed concern about some insurance salesmen who are using the board's name as the sponsor or supporters of their companies' insurance plans.

Kenneth Wright, writing for the Prince Edward County Milk Committee, points out that the OMMB does not sponsor or support any insurance company in its efforts to sell insurance to milk producers.

He says that the board does make milk deductions on behalf of producers for payment to companies or individuals who supply products and services to producers but this does not mean the board sponsors or supports any particular product or service to the producers.

Brigantine Grounds

The training brigantine Pathfinder today resumed a westward voyage toward Lake Ontario, after running aground in the Bay of Quinte near Redeerville.

The 60-foot sailing ship, with 30 teenage trainees aboard, put into Belleville overnight for an inspection that revealed only superficial damage caused by the incident, blamed on a navigational error.

Pathfinder, akin to a summer camp under canvas where teenagers are taught the craft of sailing, was aground about an hour before being freed.

"It was a navigational error. I hate to admit it, but that's what it was," said its skipper, 33-year-old Maurice David Smith. "We've only had two of these in 10 years.

The incident occurred in late afternoon when Pathfinder ran onto Anderson shoal, an underwater shale formation about three miles west of the Bay Bridge.

It was heading under sail for the Murray Canal access to Lake Ontario and an open house at Cobourg Thursday from its berth at Waupoos Island in Prince Edward County when the incident occurred.

Much credit for helping the craft out of its difficulties was given Stu Meeks, operator of Belleville's LaSalle Scuba and Diving. Mr. Meeks dashed to the scene in the LaSalle rescue boat, aided in freeing Pathfinder and later donned diving gear to inspect La hull in Belleville harbor.

The mishap apparently was first relayed to shore authorities by a Redeerville Rd. resident, Bill Tulham, who first spotted Pathfinder aground and telephoned provincial police in Belleville. The message was passed on to La Salle.

After attempts by the rescue boat to haul the brigantine's bow about, the rescue boat then dropped a 150-lb. storm anchor and hawser 300 feet from Pathfinder. The teenager crew then manned a winch, drawing the line taut and hauling the craft toward the anchor. Meantime, the rescue boat circled at speed, creating waves to lift the stranded hull.

Immediately his craft floated free, Capt. Smith headed for Belleville under engine power.

Tied up at the Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps Quinte dock, the brigantine leaked into cadet utility services and remained tied up for the night.

There, Mr. Meeks dived around the craft, circling around it underwater looking for damage. His inspection showed only a few scrapes along its heavy hull.

"We really appreciate what he did... it was really good of him," said Capt. Smith after he had personally thanked the rescue boat operator.

Early this morning, Pathfinder nosed west again up the Bay headed for the Murray Canal a day behind schedule but in time to make its Cobourg rendezvous, the skipper said.

For years, the brigantine, run by a non-profit Toronto organization, has been the highlight of a summer boyd' program, from a St. Catharines' base. This year the base was switched to Waupoos Island which Capt. Smith described as ideal for the Pathfinder program, which also includes summer camping.

Inspection Plunge

Skin diver Stu Meeks, whose LaSalle rescue boat earlier assisted brigantine Pathfinder off Bay of Quinte shoal, takes underwater plunge to inspect vessel's hull for damage. Only minor scrapes marked incident involving 60-foot vessel — used for training youth in sailing craft — and westward voyage to Cobourg continued today.

Schools Said Polluters

BLOOMFIELD (Staff) — Prince Edward school trustees have been notified by the regional inspector for the department of the environment that six county schools are contributing to air pollution through improper waste disposal facilities.

A letter from K. G. Willshire read at a recent board meeting observed that a survey showed the schools were burning refuse in improperly designed equipment.

Among the schools cited were Redeerville, Athol Central, South Marysburg, North Marysburg, Wellington and Sophiasburg.

Mr. Willshire said open burning of any type of refuse is discouraged because of resultant air pollution emission.

He criticized the incinerator at Pinecrest school in Bloomfield and said it did not meet the Air Management Branch incinerator design criteria which calls for the installation of supplementary fuel burners.

The survey by the department also revealed heating equipment in county schools is generally acceptable with the exception of North Marysburg school and Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

North Marysburg Centennial school will be studied for potential air pollution emissions because of the suspected contamination caused by the nearness of the ventilation intake to the boiler chimney.

The inspector's report suggested an extension of the chimney may be needed to alleviate the downwash effect of flue gases.

At PECI, boiler stack terminals are located only 30 feet from windows on the second floor in some cases.

The gas and fuel oil fume odors were detected in the school and a stack extension has been recommended to correct self pollution.

Trustees have been invited to meet with representatives of the department of the environment to discuss the survey.

Honey Shortage Boosts Prices

A world-wide shortage of honey as a result of the failure of honey producing crops in many countries has resulted in a sharp boost in the price of honey for Canadian consumers.

The retail price of honey on most supermarket shelves in Belleville this week is $1.99 for a four pound pail — up 33½ per cent from the $1.49 price quoted only a few weeks ago.

The recent increase is the second price boost for honey since the first of the year.

A. P. Mallory, Stirling apiarist, said today that Canada normally has had a surplus of honey but this had been completely wiped out in the past few months by heavy purchases by foreign countries.

He said Japan alone had recently purchased five million pounds of honey in this country.

As a result of the sudden shortage of honey supplies, producers in Canada are beginning to benefit from the price increase with wholesalers now offering up to 30 cents a pound.

And Mr. Mallory expects the honey shortage to last for some time with retail prices continuing to rise even more and then level off at something like $2.20 or $2.25 for four pounds.

Canada's honey surplus is produced mainly in the western provinces in contrast to this part of the country where production has been cut drastically during the past few years as the result of an infestation of alfalfa weevil.

The alfalfa weevil, which reached this part of Ontario from the United States, reduces the number of clover blossoms with result the bees are unable to collect the normal amount of honey-making nectar.

Mr. Mallory said that during the past two or three years the effects of the alfalfa weevil had so cut honey production that he had seriously considered going out of the bee business.

As late as last fall he was negotiating with a buyer who had the deal gone through, would have moved bees and all apiary equipment to Alberta.

This year, however, prospects are a bit brighter and Mr. Mallory has given up thoughts of selling — at least for the time being.

Happy prices are more encouraging but the main reason for Mr. Mallory's change of mind is the fact that the infestation of alfalfa weevil seems to have subsided this year with the result that there were more clover blossoms for the bees to work in.

As a result, he expects an increased local production of new crop honey which is just now coming on the market.

But the expected increased local production will do little to ease the world shortage of honey and increased prices are likely to remain for some time.

King Sized Lake Trout

Belleville city firemen Jack O'Neil and Robert Davenport caught this 42-inch - long, 35 - pound lake trout in Clear Water West Lake northwest of Atikokan in Ontario's Rainy River district. The two local firemen were holidaying with their families at Clear Water West Lodge ,when they landed the big laker after a 75-minute fight.

He Believes Canada Is More United

Prime Minister Chatty But Still No Word of Election

By FARMER TISSINGTON
From The Intelligencer's
Ottawa Bureau

Prime Minister Trudeau ran true to form at his pre-summer holiday press conference the other day. As is usually the case with the prime minister's twice-a-year formal jousts with the press, he had very little news to offer the scribes but he provided generous helpings of Trudeau opinion and philosophy. As befits his intellectual background, Mr. Trudeau is in happier crossing lances with the press gallery's deep thinkers than he is in announcing hard news and important decisions.

But, also as usual, he was erudite and witty and came up with a number of quips that had the press corps in a receptive mood right from the start. His only announcement, which had been made 13 hours earlier by Buckingham Palace and Governor-General Michener, was-that the Queen would visit Prince Edward Island and Ontario next July. When Gallery president Geoff Scott asked if that was the only announcement, Mr. Trudeau shot back with: "Yes, as far as the Governor-General is concerned." In reference to the long-expected visit of the prime minister to the Governor-General when he recommends the dissolution of Parliament.

Asked about rumors he might not be around for a second parliamentary term, the prime minister chose to believe the question-asker might be suggesting he could not be re-elected personally in his riding of Mount-Royal. He noted that he had not been in his own riding as much as he would like to be and that perhaps his constituents would not return him to his own seat. I suspect it is reasonable to discount that possibility.

In response to one question about the government's inability to get the foreign ownership legislation passed and the possibility that the government might have to continue its ad hoc approach to possible takeovers of Canadian business, Mr. Trudeau engaged in a long and amusing discourse in which the words "ad hockery" and "ad hocking" played a prominent role. As one wag suggested, all he needed in addition was "Add Hockey Canada."

But he reserved his best lines for a discussion about the part Mrs. Trudeau and their son Justin may or may not play in the coming campaign. Half seriously and half in jest he said that if his wife got any fun out of making a political speech, he certainly wouldn't stop her, but he made it clear he doubted such an occurrence would happen very frequently.

He also said he had a few campaign speeches lined up for Justin which were sufficiently audible for the people in Justin's development, not intelligible. Another press wit suggested that the prime minister and his son hire the same speech writer.

As a closing effort, the prime minister explained that he was going on a holiday to the west by train and "would probably stop at the Pacific Ocean." The only sea-going train we have had in Canada was the Newfie Bullet, and that has ceased operations.

But the press conference wasn't all jokes and quips and on such issues as national unity, bilingualism and the economy, the prime minister was fluent and serious. I think he was also serious when he suggested to a reporter that Canada was a more united country today that it was when he took over as prime minister in 1968. The prime minister obviously doesn't talk to the same people I do, as in my judgment, the English-speaking backlash against French Canada and Quebec has never been stronger than it is now.

Study in Contrasts

Relaxing at Victoria Park on a recent sunny evening there was an interesting study in contrasts. Horsing around, as our English slang aptly puts it, on the well-kept grass that nevertheless has its share of the inevitable litter, was a group of boys and girls.

Representative perhaps of the more earthly elements of our local society they were noisy, as anyone of that age can be. Tiring of play after a while they retired to a picnic table and some lit cigarets. Essentially it was all good clean fun and no harm befell anyone, unless we consider the long-term effects of smoking begun at such an early age.

We were left wondering though about the degree of discipline brought to bear at home on these youngsters and what their home life generally is like and what organized recreational activities are available to them?

For the contrast with this activity we had only to look a short distance beyond to the boats at anchor, some under way for an evening's sail. Boat owners and their families arrived at intervals and they strode purposefully to their yachts or tenders, carrying lifejackets outboard motors and other equipment.

Thus, on the one hand, were young people making their own rough kind of fun while nearby some of their better-endowed contemporaries were embarking on the family boat. If we are all equal in the seventies, some of us of course are still more equal than others.

Calling It Quits

Who is the Scotsman with the English accent and the irreverent (Irish?) sense of humor who started on the road to world fame when he cooked an omelette on New Zealand television?

As a further clue, he does his thing over CBC television — from its Ottawa studios — and his program is seen all over North America and beyond.

We refer of course to Graham Kerr, better known as The Galloping Gourmet, a name de plume which is further enhanced by the fact that he calls Sydney, Australia, home.

His fans will undoubtedly be disappointed, but Kerr is reported to have decided to hang up his pots as it were. In short he is giving up television. Arriving back in Toronto recently from a four-month holiday overseas sporting a new suit and tie but his hair a good deal longer and sporting a generously droopy mustache, Kerr said he and his wife Treena will spend the next four years sailing around the world.

One of the major reasons Kerr is calling it quits is because of difficulties he has in standing up for long periods of time, an aftermath of injuries he received in a car accident last year.

Mr. Kerr's reputation is deservedly high and his half-hour programs are still in vogue. There are likely enough on film to keep the series going for some time, with re-runs beyond that again. However the fickleness of fame being what it is, his retirement would be timely. His fortune established and the possibility of a continuing run of his current series, a man in his position — and there are not many of them — is well entitled to pursue a more relaxing schedule and the opportunity to see more of the world.

Doubtless there will be calls at ports "down under," where it all began about a decade ago. And we think in terms of catering for the New Zealand armed forces. Then came that fateful invitation to cook an omelette for television there. The rest is showbiz history.

Meter Maid

Fortunate in a way are the communities which can boast of having meter maids.

As a picture caption in The Ottawa Journal suggests, there are compensations to receiving a ticket when it is issued by one as attractive and well-groomed as Barbara Burry. She wears a new uniform which as one alderman put it "will probably do more to attract tourists to the community than all the Chamber of Commerce has done in the past 10 years."

Well now, we are not in the habit of soliciting parking fines but we have no doubt that the Pembroke scenery is all the more interesting for the presence of Miss Barry.

Chess and Fishing Rights Occupy Icelanders

By JOHN HARBRON
Foreign Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

Iceland is in the news because Reykjavik, her capital, is the seat of the world's international chess meet, stymied at the start by the incredible attitude of the American contender.

Iceland will be in the news again soon before the fall, when she announces extension of her territorial waters to 50 miles from 12.

The reason is clear — protection of her dwindling fish stocks, a result of the outdated ocean sweeps for fish of European factory trawlers. Icelandic inshore fishing is dangerously down in a country which relies on fish for 40 per cent of its exports.

Iceland, like other tiny countries in the world, is going to play a very large role in international affairs. The 12 mile limits have become the accepted national territorial limit inside of which fishing vessels of other nations may not operate.

When Canada unilaterally extended her territorial limit to 12 miles from three in 1970, the United States officially protested. Ottawa did not budge.

Britain will be hit harder than the 15 West and East European countries when she takes big fishing vessels in waters soon to become Icelandic. In fact, the British say they will oppose Iceland's policing of her new law in September.

This means the full might of the Royal Navy could be brought to bear against Iceland's minuscule gunboat fleet. That won't stir the Icelandic government, which has challenged the Royal Navy before.

Iceland's unilateral declaration, promulgated for Sept. 1, will become the latest test case in international sea law on how far any fishing power can extend its territorial waters.

Several Latin American republics, notably Peru, Chile and Ecuador, all major fishing nations, long ago declared 200 mile territorial water limits and have been policing them vigorously with modern gunboats, sometimes against U.S. fishing vessels.

As a result of a national need to have a basic industry, otherwise small and ineffective countries have been steadily forced into international disputes. They must be heard and their declarations cannot be ignored.

Iceland has always been more independent than most small fishing countries, no doubt because of its origins as first, a Norwegian colony and then as a Danish possession. The single-minded independence of Scandinavian colonizers has found even more fertile soil in Iceland.

In other areas of international co-operation, Iceland prefers to go it alone, chiefly in international air travel. Icelandic Airlines is the only one in Western Europe and Atlantic air travel trade which does not belong to IATA, the international rate-setting aviation organization.

As a result, that airline has constantly left its rivals in the dust. Private contracts between North America and Europe Icelandic Airlines rarely flies alone but are not booked solid or do not have a waiting list.

However, motives will not go so smoothly for Reykjavik by defying fishing states with their 50 mile territorial-waters declaration. What is needed is private or government meetings on behalf of the law of the sea, the next such conference not scheduled until next year.

Council Decision Queried

Editor
The Intelligencer.

The conflict of interest controversy that city council pondered at its last meeting did not clear the air for the average citizen.

As certain aldermen went through their bovine routine of chewing the political cud it soon became painfully obvious that the majority had no intention of rocking the municipal boat.

Alderman Soutter presented the case for an inquiry with restraint and pertinence. He made it quite clear that his purpose was not directed toward maintaining the dignity and credibility of the office of Mayor and not based on any witchhunt approach. As he said, the citizens must have faith in the integrity of their elected officials and, should any occasion arise when that integrity is placed in jeopardy, or even any such suggestion, then citizens have a right to expect full exposure, all of the circumstances to reinforce their confidence in the democratic principle.

It should be suggested, that Alderman Soutter, or the seconder of his motion, Alderman Robin Jeffrey are anything but responsible citizens and effective aldermen—thus the arbitrary dismissal of their arguments as irrelevant is all the more disturbing. Alderman Paul Russell, from his usual position on the fence "was quite prepared to support the motion for an enquiry "but wanted more proof. He, of all the members of council should well know that on matters of this nature proof does not usually come readily wrapped for deliberation. A judicial enquiry usually brings forth the documents and books that are relative to the issue for all to see — this is what Alderman Soutter appeared to be doing.

Alderman Orr did not think he could allow some $9,000 of the taxpayers money to be spent on an enquiry. Such sentiment is laudable and would have been more believable had we seen Alderman Orr's concern for the taxpayers' dollar demonstrated at such times as voting tax dollars to organizations such as the YMCA and the Chamber of Commerce.

The Mayor's attitude leaves a great deal to be desired in this issue. He should realize that not only has he been challenged, but the office he holds has been maligned. To this end, I feel the citizens of Belleville have a right to expect their Mayor to rise up and defend that office with all the reason, logic and truth he can muster. To sit behind section 96 of the Municipal Act is not enough. Either Mr. Soutter, and the seconder of his motion, Mr. Jeffrey have a case or they have not. Only a full and open investigation by the Mayor can clear the air once and for all.

The performance of those aldermen who voted to prevent the citizens of Belleville from learning the truth of this matter did Belleville a disservice. My congratulations to Alderman Robin Jeffrey for having the courage of her convictions in supporting the motion before council with one of the best and most relevant speeches in council chambers.

Utilities Required

The following letter has been addressed to Dr. Richard Potter, Minister of Health and MPP for Quinte.

On July 28 it will be necessary for me to move into a home that is not yet built. Since I live on the Massassaga Road, this also means that my family and I will be without water.

Many people would be faced with the same problem unless something is done regarding the current hydro strike. When the use of a public utility is denied to the public, resulting in people being deprived of basic necessities, I would suggest that it is time the government took some action.

Your efforts in alleviating this situation would be greatly appreciated.

Revision of Laws on Liquor Under Way

By DON O'HEARN
From The Intelligencer's
Queen's Park Bureau

Solicitor-General John Yaremko has told the house that a general revision of our liquor laws is under way. Mr. Yaremko is the minister responsible for liquor administration.

Apparently, the revision won't be seen this year. It is being undertaken by a special committee of cabinet and the minister forecasts it will be a year from now before it is completed.

Evidently, though, when it does come it will be significant and perhaps will not the final ties with the system of restriction that was started in 1946 when sale of liquor by the glass was introduced in the province.

One hint Mr. Yaremko gave was that there might be a change in the form of administration at the top—that a single liquor licence board and a liquor control board have the final responsibility.

The control board well could disappear. There is very little call today for a board to administer the selling of liquor, which is all the LCBO does.

A general manager reporting to government should be able to handle the job.

The board approach was taken originally to keep the government one stage removed from the political sensitive question of sale of liquor.

In today's moral climate there is little need for this.

This climate also could mean we will see dropped another foundation stone of the system: the local option vote.

It is notable that Opposition Leader Robert Nixon proposed the end of these votes in list of recommendations he sent to the premier after Judge Challenged to go on the record.

Now, Nixon says, he could see no further need for these votes. Local residents, he said, could debate liquor sales at municipal tions but beyond this he didn't see a need for further local control.

These votes were the heart of the system when it was introduced. There could have been very great opposition without it.

But now it has served its purpose. Actually when Owen Sound voted in favor a short while ago, the last substantial municipality in the province left the dry ranks.

And the government undoubtedly would be glad to get rid of the votes. They are a nuisance and expensive.

Successful Living

Is Moving A Problem?

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: We are selling our farm and moving a hundred miles to a town. My husband will be away a great deal on his new job.

I need direction on living in this new situation. We have five children, ages 15 to 5. How hard will the move be on them? Are there certain things I could do to bridge the gap for them? — Up And Away.

Dear Up And Away: I know a man who, as the son of a military officer, spent his growing up years moving from one posting to another, right across the world. He now says that he feels he could hang his hat anywhere, in any country, and feel at home.

If you can take this move as a great new adventure, your children will take their cue from you. It is not easy to say goodbye to dear friends, but letters can be written and youngsters can be helped to make new friends.

Just as soon as your girls and boys get settled in their new school, start inviting them to bring a friend or two home. When a birthday turns up, give a party.

Your people are eager for life and can find this move exciting, if you keep your courage high.

Dear Doris: Is it correct to wear gloves at a wedding or other occasion when one isn't wearing a hat?

I say gloves should only be worn when a hat is worn but some of my friends wear them when bareheaded. I was guest at a wedding yesterday and I didn't wear gloves, but many people did. — Hatless: Dear Hatless: Etiquette changes. Time was when one wouldn't think of showing up in church without a hat on, and gloves and hat certainly went together.

Yesterday I attended a funeral in a church, and there was just one hat on one elderly guest. But there were several pairs of gloves in evidence. The hairdos were lovely and the ladies looked trim and properly dressed.

A great deal depends on the weather, the formality of the occasion, the time of day, and the community you live in.

We don't dress in mourning the way we used to, thank heaven. And we seem to be worrying considerably less about trying to do exactly what the other person does or trying to abide by hard - and - fast rules.

The only rules that always hold all the time everywhere are those which say: Try to be helpful, consider the other person, make yourself easy to be with, and don't bog the conversation.

Dear Doris: Thank you for your assistance in the planning of an anniversary party.

My speech went over very well and the party was a success. — Betty.

Dear Betty: Your message gave me a lift. I had just been wading through a pile of human problems.

"You deserve a medal for tackling the party at your youthful age, in the first place, and if your speech went over, that took some imagination and courage on your part. Glad I was able to point you in the right direction.

Mirror of Your Mind
by JOHN CONNELL

Are busy children happy children?

• YES—If they are not being busy just to hide inner fears. Parents can usually tell when children are trying to camouflage their feelings. When a child is busy because he is interested in almost everything around him, flourish. It appears to please him, every project he undertakes with a gusto that derives from the joy of being fluent. His parents may get jaded when tired but looking at him, he'll notice them happy, too.

Does 'reverse' psychology work?

OCCASIONAL success with "reverse" psychology in its various forms is obvious. Perhaps, for instance, confidence to state the theme that it can effectively control malfunctions and harmful behavior. The accretion to "Encephalgia or Psychology" (published by Hertzler and Hertzler, and edited by Dr. H. V. Hyssen), although it is recognized that aversion therapy can be effective, it is also advised that the technique requires refinement.

Must an Adonis 'best off' the woman?

MAYBE while he is "playing the field," a very handsome man will have to "best off" a flock of pursuing women. (Of course, he is not complaining). Marriage, on the other hand, can be something else. Women do not seem to pat as much of a premium on appearance in wooing a husband as men do in selecting a wife. For proof, look at the women movie stars—still plenty of plains. The men? Not a Robert Taylor in his "Camille"-days prime among them.

Ann Landers

Parent Should Not Betray Child's Confidence

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing about a problem that I'm sure perplexes many parents, yet I don't remember ever seeing it in your column.

What should a parent do if his child (junior high age) tells him that a friend is planning to run away or is smoking pot. One 14-year-old daughter often hears such confessions and in turn she tells me. I am not concerned about her becoming involved or being led astray, but I do wonder about my obligation to the parents of the children. Many of them are virtual strangers to me. I do not see them socially, or at PTA, or anywhere else.

I am not a meddler and I don't want to put my child in the position of being a stool pigeon. Yet it seems to me these kids are looking for help or they wouldn't be confiding in my daughter.

Should I talk to the teachers or the counselors or to the parents? I feel an obligation to do something but I don't know what is or how to do it. Please consult your panel of experts and use your own expert advice to counsel me.—Knew Too Much

Dear Too Much: A parent who violates his child's confidence destroys something precious. Don't do it. You could, however, suggest to your daughter that she encourage her friends to talk to you if they are unable to communicate with their own parents. You then could attempt to give them information and set them straight. It would be wonderful, of course, if you could obtain permission from these children to ask their parents to consider counselling. This is, of course, what is needed.

Dear Ann Landers: Help me, please. I'm about to go out of my mind. My husband and I got into an argument over some small thing. One word led to another and before we knew it we had a terrific fight going.

In the heat of the battle I said something about his mother. Then he blurted out that six years ago he had had an affair with my sister. She was only 16 at the time. My husband and I were both working very hard that summer and I had invited my sis to stay with us and take care of the children. My husband said the affair lasted all summer.

My sister married when she was 18 and was divorced at 20. She is now living with my mother. To say I was shocked by all this is putting it mildly.

Now I wonder if we should cancel our plans to go visit Mom in September since Sis is still living with Mom. I remember that she and my husband seemed quite chummy last summer when we were all together. My husband swears there is nothing between them and he has asked me to have faith in him.

Mom knows nothing about this. Should I tell her so she'll know why we have changed our plans Or should we go?—No Name Pa City

Dear N.N.N.C. Go. And keep your mouth shut. It's bad enough that you know. Don't! Confidential to Mast Stinky Gal: Descenting a skunk is an intricate and unpleasant surgical procedure. It is also expensive. Some veterinarians refuse to do so. And you can prove that to do it for any amount of money. Since most "pet" skunks were once wild there might be a danger of rabies. That is why some states have banned skunks as pets.

Tyendinaga Mohawks Protest Combined Grant System

Canada' secretary of state's office "is trying to cause dissension among the Indian organizations in Ontario" the president of the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians charged today.

Carl D. Brant, a member of the band council of the Bay of Quinte Mohawks on Tyendinaga Reserve, says the federal government is "throwing a small amount of funds into the centre of a ring and expecting the Indian associations to fight over it."

Crux of Mr. Brant's discontent is the secretary of state's method of distributing funds amounting to $381,000 to the three Indian associations recognized in Ontario.

In former years, each association received separate grant cheques from the government. This year, the secretary of state's office, which took over grant distribution last year from the department of Indian affairs, insists that the three associations federate before receiving grants.

The three associations are the Association of Iroquois and Allied Indians, whose executive members are all elected band council members and who represent 20,000 Indians, the Union of Ontario Indians which represents about 30,000 Indians, and the Grand Council of Treaty Three, which represents about 7,000 Indians in the extreme northwestern part of the province.

The grant money had already been allocated in the federal budget and the government has made a commitment to fund the three organizations.

But, says Mr. Brant, at a meeting of the AIAI executive and secretary of state Gerard Pelletier July 4, the Indians were asked to set up a paper organization with representatives of the three associations to receive and distribute the funds.

This poses problems of distribution and auditing that are unacceptable to the AIAI, says Mr. Brant.

In the meantime, Fred Plain, president of the Union of Ontario Indians has accused the AIAI of holding up the funding body for all Indians.

"It is regrettable that Fred Plain appears to have fallen into the trap set by the department of the secretary of state's senior officials with their dictatorial attitude," says Mr. Brant.

Last week, Mr. Plain led a sit-in at the Toronto office of the secretary of state to protest the delay in receiving grants.

At that time he said Ontario is too big for one organization to represent its 57,000 Indians. The new federal policy of recognizing only one Indian organization in each province makes no allowances for cultural and economic differences or varying needs between the industrialized areas of Ontario and the remote communities.

A spokesman for the secretary of state says the government does not want to make more than one grant per province for fear of encouraging renegade groups.

Mr. Brant says his association wants the department of Indian affairs reinstated as the funding body for all Indians.

"The funding of the association was initiated by the Minister of Indian Affairs, Jean Chretien, in order to enable the Indians to meet, to develop and to accomplish self-determination," he says. "And now, since the funding has been transferred to the secretary of state's office, it would seem we must conform to its guidelines when determining our future, or they will withhold funds."

Mr. Brant said his association told secretary of state officials at the July 4 meeting that his association represents eight bands, all of whom must make application by "duly signed band council resolution."

"The one senior official that seems to do all the talking for Mr. Pelletier (whether Mr. Pelletier is present or not), said band council resolution support 'means nothing to him'", says Mr. Brant. "I have a feeling that the total Indian population in this country falls into that category as far as they are concerned.

"We have no intention of doing battle with our brothers of the Union of Ontario Indians or the Grand Council Treaty Three over the $381,000 allocated for the provincial Indian organizations," says Mr. Brant. "However, we would like to see the problem sorted out as soon as possible. The one branch of government does not want to take the responsibility of dividing the funds between the three organizations. The government has so many experts on its payroll it seems very strange that it cannot solve the problem."

The AIAI received $54,000 in federal government grants from the secretary of state's department in 1971. In 1970 the association received $18,000 from the department of Indian affairs.

Mr. Brant said the money was used to cover the expense of meetings and for preparation of a position paper on the Indian Act.

Trenton's Mall Opens Tomorrow

TRENTON (Staff) — Trenton's second annual downtown pedestrian-mall opens tomorrow morning along Dundas West and Front St.

From 9 a.m. Thursday until 6 p.m. Saturday, Dundas will be closed from the bridge through to Division St. and Front St. will be sealed from Dundas up to Elgin St.

Lloyd Wells, president of the Trenton Retail Merchants Association and one of the leading mall organizers, said today "the merchants will be trying to create an even better relationship with their customers during the sale" that will be featured along the length of the mall.

The mall opens officially Thursday evening at 7 p.m. with Mayor Duncan McDonald, Hon. George Hees (Prince Edward - Hastings), and representatives of the merchants' association in attendance.

Shortly after the opening ceremony, a Miss Trenton beauty pageant will be held on the mall. Participants must be 17 years or over says Mr. Wells.

Organizers have scheduled a calf-milking contest for Friday evening. However, the exact time of this has not been set.

Throughout the mall days, childrens' amusement rides, games of chance including bingo and food from various concessions will be available.

Square dancing displays by the Trenton Pairs and Squares are also scheduled.

Alberta Action Canada Backs Hellyer's Move to PC Party

EDMONTON (CP) — The Executive of the Alberta branch of Action Canada is 100 per cent behind Paul Hellyer in his move to the Conservatives, provincial chairman W. J. Brown said Tuesday.

"Whatever the chief does, we'll do," he said in an interview, adding that he planned to meet in Calgary today with other provincial officials of Action Canada to discuss the situation.

Mr. Brown said he was not sure what the position of the two declared candidates for Action Canada would be. The two are to Calgary Centre and Medicine Hat.

"My personal opinion is that I don't see how a candidate can stand for Action Canada without a leader."

In announcing that he would seek nomination as a Progressive Conservative candidate at the next federal election Mr. Hellyer, a former Liberal cabinet minister, said in Ottawa Tuesday he expected several other of his group's candidates to do the same.

The Conservatives in Alberta have already remitted candidates in all except one of the province's 19 federal ridings. The exception is Medicine Hat, where the local Conservative party executive has decided not to hold a nomination meeting until the election writ is issued.

Mr. Brown said Action Canada now will likely become more of a pressure group than a political party.

Many of the movement's members and supporters had preferred this kind of approach to start with but Mr. Hellyer had wanted to field candidates in the election, he said.

He expected that most members would support the return to the Conservative group's status.

"We'll be sort of like the Waffle group in the Conservative party."

Going to East

MONTREAL (CP) — Labor leader Michel Chartrand, president of the Montreal council of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, leaves Saturday on a month-long fact-finding tour of four Middle East countries.

"I was invited by the Canadian-Arab Friendship Society of Montreal to visit Lebanon, Syria, Egypt and Iraq to see what is going on there," Mr. Chartrand said Tuesday in an interview.

Arena Closes

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Town council has decided to close the Whitby Community Arena after a consultant's report indicated the timber-frame building is unsafe. Council decided to demolish the arena after the report showed renovations would cost $151,500.

Need Money

SUDBURY (CP) — Greater use of educational facilities will require more money for school authorities, the chairman of the Ontario legislature's committee on educational facility use said Tuesday.

Charles McIlveen (PC—Oshawa) said the demand for money has been heard by the committee at every one of its meetings across the province.

He Gets Letters

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — Senator Edward Kennedy disclosed Tuesday that North Vietnamese officials sent him letters from 24 United States prisoners of war—the first release of communications from a U.S. official instead of leftist peace groups.

CNTU to Fight

QUEBEC (CP) — The Confederation of National Trade Unions launched a "consolidation campaign" Tuesday to fight the erosion of its ranks by the new Centrale des Syndicats Democratiques. The labor body intends to use all its resources to re-establish order in the threatened unions.

Attendance Cut

TORONTO (CP) — Attendance at Ontario Place, the province's $23 million waterfront showplace, is little more than half of what it was at this time last year, officials said Tuesday.

Opposes Cottages

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ottawa Pollution Probe spokesman has urged the provincial government to limit the number of lakefront cottages as part of an effort to reduce natural algae and other plants in lake waters.

George Bedard, a Pollution Probe co-ordinator, told a seminar on ecology Monday that rapid increases in the number of cottages could destroy our natural environment by leading to the dumping of phosphates and other pollutants into lakes.

Rochdale Branch

TORONTO (CP) — Rochdale College, the co-operative student residence in downtown Toronto, is developing a rural branch in the Ottawa Valley, 50 miles south of Pembroke.

Hellyer Hopes to Keep Riding Friends

TORONTO (CP) — Paul Hellyer met with Conservatives in Metropolitan Toronto Tuesday night after announcing he had joined the party and said he expects "quite a few" of his supporters to stay with him.

But Liberals in the Trinity riding, who had nominally supported the former Action Canada leader as an independent Liberal said they will actively campaign against him.

Mr. Hellyer will seek the Conservative nomination in the riding, which he represents now.

"I haven't had a chance to speak to them individually, but I feel that quite a few of my old friends will stay with me," Mr. Hellyer said, "and the perhaps three or four who felt bound by party loyalty will support the Liberal party - perhaps not too enthusiastically."

John Medcof, executive vice-president of the riding's Liberal association, said: "I would anticipate that the riding association would stay with the Liberal party, and as a matter of fact, I think Hellyer's switch to the Conservatives means even more of them will come to the Liberal side."

He said at least 90 per cent of the 200 members of the riding association have stayed with the Liberals and "many people who joined Action Canada in good faith have now found that their leader and founder plans to turn them over to the Conservative party."

Arthur Eggleton, a Trinity Liberal association member, said the association executive will support the Liberals and "I think a lot of them don't particularly relish campaigning against Hellyer or supporting a candidate against Hellyer, but I think they're willing to do it."

More Jobs

OTTAWA (CP) — There was an average of 43,900 full and part-time jobs available for immediate employment in the first three months of this year, up sharply from 25,100 in the same period last year, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

Spassky Must Play for Draw

REYKJAVIK (AP) — Bobby Fischer's one-game lead in the world chess championship match appeared safe today as he and Boris Spassky prepared to resume play in the adjourned seventh game. Experts said the only the Soviet champion could do for was a draw, which would make the score 4-3 in favor of the American.

The game continues at 1 p.m. EDT today with the opening of a sealed envelope containing Spassky's 41st move.

Spassky opened aggressively Tuesday. For a time it looked as if he had a winning game and would even the match at 3½-all. But the Russian faded in the middle stages.

Fischer, with a one-pawn advantage when play stopped for the night, "appeared in little danger of losing", but there were many possibilities for a draw, international grandmaster Isaac Kashdan said in an analysis for The Associated Press.

Spassky also was under the gun in playing time because of his slow play. Tuesday he had only 20 minutes left for today's first 16 moves, while Fischer had 1½ hours.

When play adjourned Tuesday night, Fischer had four pawns, two rooks and a knight. Spassky had three pawns, two rooks and a knight.

Playing the white pieces, Spassky opened by moving his king's pawn two squares, Fischer's favorite opening.

After 10 moves the Russian side was all smiles.

"It's good for Spassky, he has come out kicking," said Prof. Nikolai Kurgius, one of the Russian seconds.

The smiles faded when Fischer introduced a stunning innovation at the 11th moves.

He moved a pawn to king's rook 3.

Spassky frowned over the board for 35 minutes, then offered a second pawn sacrifice.

The Russian recovered one of the lost pawns but never succeeded in equalizing or successfully attacking.

When Fischer refused a queen swap on the 19th move, some experts predicted he would win. But his play was below his best in the end game.

New Defence Headquarters

The new National Defence headquarters (centre right), built at a cost of $32 million in downtown Ottawa, is almost completed and staff will begin moving in this fall. The complex, overlooking the Rideau Canal, will house 4,000, about half of the total defence department staff. The others will remain scattered in the Ottawa area. (CP Photo).

Laughter Rings At Stratford

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — The Stratford Festival proved again Tuesday night that laughter bridges the centuries.

The festival's production of Oliver Goldsmith's She Stoops to Conquer, written in 1773, easily won the applause of a capacity first-night audience and almost unanimous plaudits from the critics.

From seconds after the first two characters appeared on stage, hearty laughs from the audience were never more than a couple minutes apart throughout the entire 2½ hours.

While initial credit needs go to the author who has written a play that is no less funny today than when it was written 159 ago, Stratford Festival director Michael Bawtree merits praise for assembling a uniformly-fine cast and employing their individual talents in harmonious and complimentary style.

In a complex plot of mistaken identities and reversals of fortune that defies simple description, Tony van Bridge and Alan Scarfe were popular favorites in their respective roles of Hardcastle and his stepson Tony Lumpkin.

As Hardcastle's daughter Kate, now "stooped to conquer," Pat Galloway played her third role in the festival's 20th season. She also plays the title role in Alfred de Musset's Lorenzaccio and one of the king's three daughters in Shakespeare's King Lear.

Some comments from critics.

Urjo Kareda, Toronto Star: "Engaging, thoughtful mayhem. . . . The play breathes with utter ease, moves naturally, develops with relaxation . . . a dream cast."

Herbert Whittaker, Toronto Globe and Mail: "Mistakes were impossible to find . . . a remarkable well-chosen company . . . a highly satisfactory combination of efforts on all sides."

Dulferry Campau, Montreal Gazette: "Magnificent production . . . an almost flawless cast.

McGovern Learns Eagleton Once Mentally Ill

CUSTER, S.D. (Reuter) — Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern stuck by his running mate, Senator Thomas Eagleton, today despite Eagleton's disclosure that he received psychiatric treatment during a six-year-period for "nervous exhaustion and depression."

His illness ended six years ago, Eagleton said, and his health now is sound.

In a taped television interview to be shown tonight, McGovern said his decision to keep Eagleton on the Democratic ticket was irrevocable.

Eagleton himself told reporters that he offered to drop off the ticket, but that McGovern refused to let him go.

The 42-year-old freshman Missouri senator made his offer at a news conference Tuesday after telling reporters that from 1960 to 1966 he was in hospital three times and underwent psychiatric care and electric shock therapy, which he said was "routine procedure at that time."

In his television interview with ABC, McGovern was asked if his decision to keep Eagleton was irrevocable.

He replied: "Absolutely . . . I would say that I don't know any one of my 100 colleagues in the Senate who's, any sounder in mind, body and spirit than Tom Eagleton. I am delighted to have him on the ticket."

McGovern added: "I think what happened was that in the earlier years of his life he just didn't have the good judgment to go to bed. He'd just work himself to the point of exhaustion and when that happens, a person gets depressed.

"Fortunately, he has had the good sense to go to the hospital and rest up and get over it . . . for the last six years he hasn't had the slightest bit of trouble."

But despite McGovern's brave face, many of his top advisers think the revelations may hurt what many Democrats consider to be an already weak ticket.

South Dakota Lt.-Gov. William Dougherty, a close friend and adviser to McGovern, thought the Eagleton disclosures might end up as a "plus" for the ticket. Noting that he himself is a former alcoholic, Dougherty said there would be backlash against any party or politician who tried to use the fact of Eagleton's former illness against him.

In Washington, politicians of both parties pointed out privately that Eagleton had been less than candid with McGovern.

It was not until rumors persisted that the Missouri senator decided to tell McGovern about his medical history, Eagleton recalled that he made the admission on the weekend after the convention.

Now the role originally set out for the vice-presidential candidate will have to be altered drastically.

For one thing, Eagleton will not be physically able to take on the 14- or 15-hour campaign days that are common with McGovern.

Neither will Eagleton be able to take on the rough-and-tumble aspect of campaign oratory, matching Vice-President Spiro Agnew speech for speech with charge for charge.

There also were some fears expressed among some Democrats in Washington that McGovern's sources of campaign funds might dry up in the wake of the Eagleton disclosures.

Olson to Meet Agricultural Ministers

HALIFAX (CP) — Federal Agriculture Minister H. A. Olson is scheduled to sit down with his provincial counterparts today for a round of talks on Canada's farming industry.

The provincial ministers, meeting behind closed doors for the last two days in their 23rd annual conference, expressed "considerable disappointment" Monday at the lack of progress on a plan for agricultural development submitted to the federal government last year.

C. M. Shelford, British Columbia's minister, said in an interview Tuesday "a very little was done" by the federal government on the plan and "we'll try again this year."

Dr. William Gillis, Nova Scotia's minister and chairman of this year's conference, told reporters Mr. Tolson would be presented with a number of joint proposals by the provinces. These include development of national producer marketing boards, plans for greater domestic and foreign export markets, and a national farm credit program on a short-term basis.

Details of the proposals would not be released until after they were presented to the federal minister for his consideration, Dr. Gillis said.

Canada to Buy British Tanks

LONDON (CP) — Canadian Defence Minister Edgar Benson says he hopes a contract will be signed within weeks for a $40-million purchase by Canada of British-built Scorpion tanks.

Benson told a news conference Tuesday that Canadian forces hope to obtain about 100 Scorpions to replace the Centurion tanks now in use.

"As far as the military is concerned, we'd like to have the Scorpion and we have been negotiating a contract and talking about numbers," the minister said.

The purchase was one of the items discussed by Benson and British Defence Secretary Lord Carrington during a formal meeting Tuesday following the Canadian minister's arrival Monday for a week-long visit.

Benson said he also is looking at the British Nimrod aircraft to replace the 33 Argus long-range patrol planes now in service with Maritime Command.

The Canadian cabinet earlier this month approved a presentation by Benson and Trade Minister Jean-Luc Pepin recommending replacement of the Argus. The cost is expected to reach up to $700 million.

The government appears to hope the expenditure will produce new high-technology jobs in Canada and persuade the defence industry to rationalize its operation.

For this reason, Benson is striving to make certain that any purchases made in Britain are offset by Canadian sales to this country, primarily in the areas of electronics, aircraft and aircraft parts.

But the Canadian government is expected to invite other applications for an Argus replacement from Lockheed Aircraft Corp., the McDonnell Douglas Corp. and the Boeing Co., all of the United States. The Nimrod is built in Britain by the Hawker Siddeley group, owners of the Havilland Canada Ltd.

Pioneer Prince Edward County Home Has Storied Past

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — The impressive brick farm home built by Anglican rector William Macaulay in the early 1800s has been listed for sale in Picton.

This historic house now owned by Jerry Bond, sits on a four-acre parcel of land against a backdrop of trees towering from Macaulay Mountain.

Nearby is the Old Church of St. Mary Magdalene which has been restored as a county museum. Reverend Macaulay was rector of this church for 47 years and is buried in the churchyard.

William Macaulay arrived in Picton in 1819 and as the son of a Loyalist, was granted a 500 acre land parcel on what is now Church Street in Picton.

Reverend Macaulay opened a missionary school here and in 1823 established the parish of Hallowell.

The land for the Old Church of St. Mary Magdalene and the surrounding church yard was donated by Reverend Macaulay from his estate. The wealthy land owner also paid for construction of the church which was built between 1825 and 1827 and was one of the first Anglican churches to be built in Upper Canada.

Reverend Macaulay also donated land for the county jail and court house and sold the Roman Catholic Church property for a place of worship here at a nominal figure.

Macaulay Take 23 kh indent

His gracious farm home now offered for sale featured a wide hall entrance with a sweeping staircase. The main hall opened off to spacious rooms on either side.

Mr. Bond said it is believed the magnificent marble used in the construction of several of the home's seven fireplaces was imported from Italy.

Ceilings in the rooms were 11 feet high and living quarters were brightened by light from French doors and numerous windows.

A small stone stable believed to have been built at approximately the same time as the Macaulay house still stands and today houses a pair of Standardbred horses owned by Rev. W. Hamilton of the Church of St. Gregory the Great, Picton. Floors in the house were constructed of two-inch plank.

Two chatelaines occupied Reverend Macaulay's rambling brick home.

His first wife, Ann Catherine Geddes wed him at St. George's Church, Kingston, and died in April, 1819.

She is buried beside her husband in the churchyard and her epitaph recalls, "A holy woman who trusted in God."

Reverend Macaulay was married to Charlotte, his second wife, several years later and the couple had a baby daughter Mary Rose who died in infancy.

The second wife of the Macaulay mansion died in 1884 at 69 years of age, having outlived her husband by a decade.

She, too, is buried with her child, in the Macaulay family plot.

In a book of local history called The County, written by Janet and Richard Lunn, it is observed that Reverend Macaulay "was respected by his parishioners but he was not the kind of man to inspire love or affection or the kind of man who could draw crowds of converts to the altar rail on a Sunday."

The book noted that he enjoyed "a gracious life" in his fine home and was assisted by curates in his religious duties. His estates were run by men in his employ and to the common man Rev. Macaulay may have seemed somewhat remote.

"But Macaulay was as isolated from the real life of Prince Edward County as if he had lived on the dark side of the moon," according to a description of him given in The County.

Reverend Macaulay died at 78 years of age after spending 56 years in the ministry.

His name has remained alive in Prince Edward as local residents refer to Macaulay's Mountain, the ski slope owned by the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority.

His home now offered for sale, still carries the air of prestige and grandeur which it did more than a century ago.

After the Picton squire's death in 1874, the house was occupied by various owners and was eventually purchased from the provincial government by Mr. Bond.

The four-acre land parcel is what remains of the sweeping 500-acre land grant accorded to William Macaulay, Anglican rector in Prince Edward's early days.

Men, Machines, A Lot of Trash

City employees are bringing in the big stuff to help battle the mounting piles of trash and assorted garbage being placed on roadsides in Belleville. For the past week, workmen like Tom Rogers of 27 Westmount Drive, have been picking up, loading up and dumping tons of tree branches, old tires, rusty bartecues, lumber and whatever comes along. To help keep cops, the public works department brought in front end loaders which are filled by the men and then dumped in trucks.

Lockman New Cub Commander

CHICAGO (AP) — Whitey Lockman, new manager of Chicago Cubs, will hold a news conference at Wrigley Field today, one day before taking official command of the club.

Ex-manager Leo Durocher, who celebrates his 66th birthday Thursday, will bid farewell to his former players Saturday, when the Cubs open a home stand against St. Louis Cardinals. Thursday, the Cubs will be in Philadelphia.

Durocher's departure was announced Monday night when the controversial manager agreed with owner Phil Wrigley to "step aside" midway in his seventh season with the Cubs.

Durocher, who helped boost Chicago attendance over the million mark despite annual "bridesmaid" roles in the National League race, was given a consultant's role for the remainder of 1972.

The shelving of Durocher came after a huddle with Wrigley, who finally backed off from his previous defence of Leo against long-running criticism from the Cubs press.

Lockman, who once played for Durocher with New York Giants and has been in the Cubs' organization since Leo's arrival in 1966, inherits a team with a 46-44 record, 10 games behind the leading Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League East.

Lockman apparently is on trial for the remainder of the season, although Cub vice-president John Holland has not termed him an interim manager.

"I'll tell the players Thursday that I think we have enough talent to win this thing," said Lockman, who managed five seasons in the Cubs minor league system.

"I think we are strong at every position, and all we need is hard work to come out on top," he said.

As for 1973, Lockman said: "I told John Holland I would like to evaluate the team until the end of the year, and after we win the World Series, we can get into the subject of whether I'll manage next year."

Fergy Surprised By Leo's Demise

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — "A complete surprise," was how star pitcher Ferguson Jenkins termed the news of the end of Leo Durocher's managing career with Chicago Cubs.

Jenkins was at his home in Chatham Tuesday prior to leaving for the All-Star Game in Atlanta. Durocher's resignation was announced by the Cubs Monday night.

"It must have been coming for quite a while," said Jenkins, "but there was certainly no indication before Leo or the Cubs' management."

Seniors On Tee

VICTORIA (CP) — Only bad weather, Royal Canadian Golf Association officials agree, can prevent the 1972 Canadian Seniors Championship from being the best in its 11-year history. And the word on the weather is that it is likely to be excellent.

The 54-hole tournament starts today at the Uplands Golf Club, with a record field of 184.

Among them is 57-year-old Hank Mitchell, a member of Richmond's Lesgara Club who last year brought British Columbia its second victory.

Nicklaus Fingered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, pro golf's leading money winner of 1972, was in hospital Tuesday for treatment of an infected index finger on his right hand. Doctors said he will remain there for 48 to 72 hours.

Quarry Quits Ring Career

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Jerry Quarry, saying his enthusiasm for boxing has wilted, announced Tuesday he is quitting the ring to pursue a career in public relations.

Quarry said he decided to retire after watching his brother Mike get knocked out by light-heavyweight champion Bob Foster in a title bout in Las Vegas which preceded his last fight, a TKO loss to Muhammad Ali June 27.

"I lost my desire when Mike lost his fight," said the 27-year-old Quarry. "Watching my brother lose like he did was seeing him go through the same frustrations I'd gone through."

Quarry was in Pittsburgh to promote a rock concert for Reb Foster Associates, the same firm which handled publicity for his fights.

"I decided that if the right position came along I would take it," Quarry noted. "The only regret I have is that I never attained the heavyweight championship, but everything else came out just beautiful."

Quarry's dream of a heavyweight title eluded him through more than seven years of professional boxing, including 53 fights. Though he won 43 of those bouts, his bid for the championship was dashed by champion Joe Frazier.

In his June rematch with Ali in Las Vegas, the referee stopped the fight in the seventh round, after the former champion had pounded Quarry almost at will.

Morgan Reluctant All-Star Hero

ATLANTA (CP) — After his 10th-inning single drove in the winning run Tuesday night, Joe Morgan said he would have been satisfied to leave the all-star heroics to National League team-mate Hank Aaron, who had hit a two-run home run four innings earlier.

"When Aaron hit the homer it was like watching a Hollywood movie," Morgan said in the dressing room after his team's 4-3 victory. "I thought he should be the hero."

But Aaron's big blow before 53,107 hometown fans was nullified when Cookie Rojas of Kansas City Royals produced a two-run shot of his own in the eighth inning to give the American League a 3-2 lead.

"I thought, 'Gee, it's not supposed to end that way'," said Morgan.

The Cincinnati Reds second-baseman got his chance to edit the script when Lee May of Houston Astros bounced a single to centre in the bottom of the ninth, driving in the tying run.

After relief ace Tug McGraw of New York Mets retired the American League three on second time in a row in the top of the 10th, the Nationals wasted no time setting the stage for Morgan.

Nate Colbert of San Diego Padres, pinch-hitting for McGraw, led off with a single and was sacrificed by second baseman Chris Speier of San Francisco Giants. Then Morgan came through with his game-winning hit off Dave McNally of Baltimore Orioles.

"It was some kind of breaking ball, but I don't know if it was a slider or curve since I've never seen him before," Morgan said of the pitch he hit.

Aaron coaxed the standing room-only crowd of 53,107 to an ear-splitting roar when he belted his two-run homer over the 375-foot mark in left-centre in the sixth.

Aaron called his home run "the most dramatic" he has hit. "It made me feel good because most of the folks came out to see me hit one," said Aaron, who has unloaded 659 career homers in his chase toward Babe Ruth's record 714.

His latest blast was collected off Cleveland's Gaylord Perry, an old "friend." He hit his 600th homer off Perry when he was pitching in the National League. "It was a splitter," said Aaron. "It was not one of his best . . . but it was a spitter."

Danny Murtaugh, the former Pittsburgh Pirate manager who came out of retirement at request of baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn to manage this game, was nervous right to the spine-tingling end.

"I went into retirement because of close games like that," said Murtaugh. "I didn't see anything out there, tonight that makes me want to un-retire."

McGraw claimed the victory after fanning four of the seven batters he faced in the ninth and 10th innings.

"I'm happy the National League has recognized the importance of relief pitching in modern-day baseball," McGraw said. He was one of two bullpen workmen named to the National League staff. American League skipper Earl Weaver of Baltimore named only starting pitchers to his staff.

"Weaver does not recognize them, like the National League does," said McGraw. Platoonings, pinch-hitting and relief pitching. That's the National League way. That's contemporary, modern-day baseball."

Meads Put Down Intelligencer Bid

Mead Johnson and the Intelligencer were both up for their Industrial Softball League confrontation last night but Meads just a little higher — 13 runs to be exact.

Meads slammed the Intell 19-6 behind the one-hit pitching effort of Soon Holoway and ripped through a pair of Intell moundsmen for 17 hits.

Holoway fanned 11 and walked only two in blanking the Intell and leading Meads into first place in division B, one game ahead of the idle C. N. Gary Genereaux capped off the winners seven run first inning with a home run for the big blast of the night. Cliff Hineman pulled a double and two singles, Ken Leeds three singles and Blaine Young a double and two singles in Mead's field day at the plate.

Terry Hiddleston's sixth inning single was the only blemish left on Holoway's game card. John Edwards and Ron Cullodon saw mound duty for the Intell who remained tied with the Leaders atop division A.

In the only other game last night Brookes Bond closed the gap on AOCO in division C by trouncing Morels 19-4.

Bob Chambers hurled the win allowing ten hits while striking out eight and not walking a man. Jack Walsh stroked three safeties for the Bond with Al Colden and Dennis Genereaux adding a pair of singles each. Paul Sharpe and Don Fobert took the loss for Morels giving up 11 hits.

The pitchers were the only big batters for the losers with Sharpe having two singles and a double and Fobert hitting two singles.

Ellis Girls Win

Its been a long summer for the Richard Ellis Printers of the Belleville Girls Softball Association but last night's win over AVCO made it all worthwhile.

Ellis whipped the AVCO-ettes 16-9 and with it captured the senior division championship and the Chalet Honey Fried Chicken Trophy.

In a pair of Junior play-off games the top place teams poured on the coals to pick up important wins. Lucas Spur massacred the Dairy Queen 52-18 and The Yardmen blasted Ed. Thomas 29-19.

Errant Drives Costly on Quinte Holes

By ERIC EMERSON

I used to have this golfing view
That others often call a slice
But I'd just call it, "that sunuvabitch"
"Darn" moron" or anything which
My tongue could jurn as my Spalding flew
Out of the fairway to yonder blue.

Strokes and distance and scoring slumps
Ponds, mosquitoes 'n stones 'n stumps
And hours spent in unfriendly rough
Till I decided that enough's enough
"I quit! I quit!", I cried with ire
I'm gonna set by clubs on fire."

But my partner George said, "don't do that Fried Chicken Trophy.
We'll fix your slice in nothing flat
It's easy buddy now you've learned
That those who slice will oft get burned
Things aren't as bleak as they may look
We'll play these next shots by the book".

Now he'd read Arnie and Jack and Bill
And a thousand others who claim they will Teach you the secrets of pars and birds
With a few direct, well-chosen words
So backed by these illustrious names
George set out to improve my game.

He shifted my feet and flattened my swing
Straightened my elbow and changed some things
Like grip and shoes and mental state
So I charged to the first tee, feeling great,
I turned my hands over; kept my head still
And said to the foursome, "you see, I will Deposit this pellet on yonder green"
(And not in the woods where it has been
My sorry lot to start each round
Four over par and 10 cents down).

I hit the ball with a solid crack
It split the centre, but then curved back
To left, not right, where it always went
And George sighed softly this sad lament —
As I screamed, "come back", but on it raced
Past out of bounds towards outer space
Over the highway and into a brook —
"You can talk to a slice, but not a hook".

There will be quite a few golfers talking to slices and hooks, or maybe just talking to themselves, when they look five-irons on the two new Bay of Quinte fairways.

The new holes, both tricky par fours, will replace numbers one and 13 on the old layout. The first hole, a 289-yard par four and the 13th, a 180-yard par three were two of the easier holes on the Quinte layout.

Their replacements won't provide problems, distance wise for the club's big hitters, but could call for some golfing strategy if long hitters hope to stay in the fairway and out of the drink.

"We had this in mind when we had the holes designed," admitted Quinte president John Hull, "they require a little more finesse than some of the holes we already have."

The eighth hole, 375 yards from the blue championship tees appears to offer little trouble. However a hidden identification of the 100-yard pond that separates the 12th from 13th fairways, combined with a large fairway bunker will combine to provide trouble for strong drivers. A 250-yard drive will have only about 40 feet of fairway landing to avoid either the trap or pond.

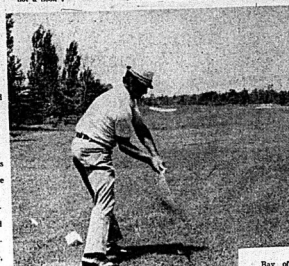
The 12th is 386 yards from the blue tees, with the added feature of out-of-bounds down the left hand side. On the right is the water hazard, while a fair-way bunker 230-yards out will provide another pitfall.

Both greens are average size-(about 5,000 sq. feet) and are well trapped.

"A mid-80's player could reach the greens with anything from a six or seven-iron on down," notes club pro George Bakara. "that's if they decide to use a driver off the tee. Some players may decide to go for a lower club for more accuracy."

The two new holes will increase the golf course's yardage on the Quinte course from 6,561 yards to 6,977 yards a jump of 376.

Under the new arrangements, play will begin at the old number 1 hole and follow the old course through holes 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 and nine before jumping to the new number eight. The front nine well finish on what was previously the 17th fairway. Play for the back nine will begin on the old number 14, a 588-yard par five and finish on number 18 at the clubhouse.



Bay of Quinte Country Club pro George Bakara sends the first drive of the season down the new eighth fairway. The two new Quinte holes will provide plenty of water and sand hazards, in addition to increasing the yardage on the 18-hole course. Quinte members will get their first chance today to test the challenging new layout, now a par 72.

Juniors Come Up Short

The Commercial Softball League saw the long and the short of it in a pair of games Tuesday night — but it was too short for Quinte Hotel and much too long for the Ellis Juniors.

The Juniors lost a 12 inning two hour, 45-minute marathon 12-8 to Globe Hotel in the first game of the double - header but Howard and Robert weren't about to let that long stopping Quinte Hotel 1-0 in only 56 minutes.

It was an uphill battle all the way for the Juniors, coming back from 4-0, 5-3 and 8-5 deficits before finally succumbing to the Globe in the 12th.

A pair of errors and three singles gave the eventual winners four big runs in the first inning but the Juniors kept nibbling away with runs in the first, third and fifth innings to tie the game at 8-8 and send it into extra innings.

Gary Johnson gave what appeared to be the straw that might break the Juniors back when he smashed a two run homer out of the park in the eighth inning. A pair of walks and Lionel Gorsion's single gave Globe another run and a 9-5 lead, but a pair of errors, and John Romano's double allowed the winless Juniors to tie the game again.

The Hotelmen took the lead for the final time in the 12th inning on four singles from Ted Wallwork, Bill Dewey, Barry Hineman and Bill Harrison.

Harrison pitched the entire game for the winners allowing only 10 hits and fanning five. Wallwork, Dewey and Hineman each had three singles in Globe's 18 hit surge. Brian Hineman poled a triple while Sid Davies and Harrison had a pair of singles each.

Wayne Andrews had a fifth inning homer for the Juniors and Ron Hill smashed a triple and two singles. Hill went the final five innings for the losers taking over from Dave Horwood.

Bob Ethier and Scott Reid made it short and sweet in the Printers win over Quinte.

Ethier gave up only three hits and fanned eight in picking up the shutout and stretching it and R's second place lead to four points over Devolin Motors.

Scott Reid lost a two-bitter on the Quinte mound. The righthander added to his league leading strikeout count with eight more last night.

John Campbell was the hero for the Printers punching an opposite field triple to drive in Gary Goyer for the only run of the game. Larry Potter singled for the other Printer hit while Larry Mavety, Marvin Walsh and Rob Parsons stroked singles for Quinte.

Wellesley's TD Not Enough

WINNIPEG (CP) — Three long, sudden touchdowns powered Winnipeg Blue Bombers to a 29-28 Canadian Football League exhibition victory over Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday night.

Paul Williams capped a tough come-from-behind victory before 17,619 fans with a 65-yard touchdown on a pass from Don Jonas with 19 seconds left.

Williams got behind Herbert Marshall, grabbed the pass on the Ottawa 27-yard line and dashed down the centre of the field to score. Williams also caught an 11-yard pass from Jonas for Winnipeg's first touchdown in the second quarter.

But it was Mack Herron, the smallest player on the field, who electrified the fans with his 76-yard touchdown run in the final quarter. The fleet-footed halfback broke a pair of tackles on the Winnipeg 40-yard line and scooted down the sidelines getting a key block from Jim Thorpe on the Ottawa 23. The touchdown put the Bombers in front 23-20 just 29 seconds into the quarter.

Ottawa appeared to have its fourth exhibition victory wrapped up after Gerry Organ's two fourth-quarter field goals had given them a 2-23 margin with just 1:17 left. Organ had a chance to win it for the visitors but his 49-yard attempt on the final play of the game was wide, leaving him a total of four field goals in the game.

Rhome Nixon, on a 25-yard pass from Rick Cassata in the second quarter and Terry Wellesley on a one-yard scamper in the third, scored Ottawa's touchdowns. Organ converted both, giving him 14 points for the night. Winnipeg conceded a safety in the final quarter.

Bob Larose got the Bombers' other touchdown, a 31-yard pass-and-run dazzler in the third quarter. Jonas had two converts and rookie Walt McKee, on his first professional attempt, booted a 48-yard field goal in the second quarter.

Cassata directed the Ottawa team to 310 yards total offence, picking apart the middle of the Winnipeg defence with passes and the running of Wellesley. Art Cantrelle and Alan Thompson.

But while Ottawa was consistent, it was the unpredictable Winnipeg offence that prevailed.

Except for a brief second-quarter march that produced Williams's first touchdown, Winnipeg's offence was ineffectual until the second half. Then it wasn't consistency but spectacular plays that produced the wins.

Cassata completed 24 of 35 passes for 385 yards, more than 70 per cent of them right up the middle. Jonas was good on 14 of 28 pass attempts for 253 yards.

It was the final exhibition game for both clubs. Ottawa's winning three of their four, Winnipeg picking up two wins and a tie.

Buy Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — The nine-member ownership group of Chicago Bulls voted unanimously Tuesday to sell the National Basketball Association club to a Chicago group including Arthur Wirtz, owner of Chicago Stadium.

The action apparently ended the off-again, on-again proposed sale of the Bulls, although the NBA's board of governors must give official approval expected Friday.

Previously, the NBA rejected sale of majority club interest to Marvin Fishman, former official of the NBA's Milwaukee Bucks, and Peter Graham of Vancouver, owner of San Diego International Sports Arena.

Eskimos Spear Lions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Edmonton Eskimos, using an air-tight defence, crumpled British Columbia Lions' hopes for an undefeated exhibition record as they blasted the hapless Lions 34-0 in a Western Football Conference exhibition game before 23,411 fans Tuesday night.

The Esks thwarted all Lion scoring attempts in picking up their second pre-season victory in four games while handing B.C. its first loss after three consecutive victories.

Eskimo coach Ray Jauch used three quarterbacks—Bruce Lemmerman, Tom Wilkinson and Dave Syme. Lemmerman appeared in the first half and along with Wilkinson, looked effective in moving the club. Lemmerman completed a 68-yard drive for the Esks' first touchdown at 7:34 of the first quarter when he hit veteran Bobby Taylor on a 10-yard pass with Lions' Brian Donnelly defending.

Edmonton held B.C. two consecutive times and then drove 90 yards from their own 20, with Lemmerman scampering 32 yards and Sam Scarber picking up 22 yards in the drive.

Roy Bell burst over from the two-yard line and Dave Cutler, converted again to give Edmonton a 14-0 lead at 4:15 of the second quarter.

Cutler rounded out the scoring in the first half with a 25-yard field goal with 12 seconds remaining.

Wilkinson and split end George McGowan combined for an 88-yard pass-and-run scoring play in the third quarter before defensive back Dave Keates picked off a Don Bunce pass for a 32-yard touchdown at 6:54 of the final quarter.

Rookie Award

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian Football League's rookie of the year will be honored for the first time this season in the annual Stanley Knowles awards, a spokesman said Tuesday.

Details of the creation of the new award were announced jointly by the board of trustees of the Canadian Schenley Football awards and Donald W. McNaughton, president of Canadian Schenley Distilleries Ltd.

"Wishing to honor and encourage top players in Canadian football, it was the unanimous opinion of the board of trustees and our own that we should extend the awards and sponsor the fourth category in addition to the most outstanding player, the lineman of the year and the Canadian player of the year," Mr. McNaughton said.

The winner of the rookie award will receive $1,000 while the runner-up will get $250.

Cutler added a field goal late in the game to complete the scoring.

The Lions looked inept throughout the contest, with only flanker Larry Highbaugh and running back Johnny Musso providing a spark to the offence.

B.C. will face the Eskimos in Edmonton next Tuesday in the opening game of the regular season play.

The Lions held to their pre-game plan of going to the air against Edmonton Tuesday night, but they didn't go far.

Using four quarterbacks—Don Moorhead, Don Bunce, Rocky Long and Eric Guthrie—B.C. tried 31 passes, completing only eight.

Sanderson Will Join Hull on Sidelines

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Derek Sanderson is taking Ivan Ruzman's holiday. He plans to spend the rest of the summer trying to lift a penalty to Bobby Hull.

And Alan Eagleson, the lawyer-politician who handles the affairs of the National Hockey League Players Association, is about to take, up international diplomacy as a sideline.

Eagleson took an eight-day furlough from the controversy over Hull's exchange from the eight-game hockey series between Canada and Russia in September to visit Europe with a Team Canada delegation negotiating final arrangements for the Moscow portion of the series.

When he returned to Toronto Thursday night, he found an urgent invitation to go to Ottawa for talks with senior officials of the external affairs department.

The diplomatic summons out troubled by the cheques accepted by Hull from the World Hockey Association which barred him from the series. Their preoccupation was with the Czechs rejected by Eagleson and his Team Canada colleagues in setting up their European exhibition schedule.

"I gather there is some concern at the government level over the Prague situation," said Eagleson. In response to Russian protests, Team Canada had cancelled a scheduled visit to the Czech capital before the last four games of the series in Moscow.

Meanwhile Sanderson, who has spent the last five years trying to keep Hull and other NHL sharpshooters from scoring while Boston Bruins were shorthanded, lined up with the Golden Jet Thursday.

"Under no circumstances will I play for the Canadian team if Hull isn't on it," the Boston centre said. "The NHL is just not as good without Hull as it is essential one in the wheel" Canada is to win big against the Russians."

That left The Turk in his [illegible]

e status of the great left-nger, who needs a signed ...contract to obtain identity Team Canada's training camp Aug. 12 and would have to be back nearly $3 million to Winnipeg Jets of the WHA if he ...se to return to Chicago Black ...hawks.

Even the players themselves who insisted that the agreement setting up the team included the stipulation that all of its members sign their NHL contracts beforehand, Eagleson explained. They feared that a player suffering an injury while playing for Canada might be cut adrift by his NHL employers if he were unsigned.

DEREK SANDERSON

"At least eight players have told me that unless they get a guarantee in writing from their clubs that their pay will go on ...ntinuing salaries, they won't turn up."

Sanderson may not turn up in any case. Still unsigned with the Bruins, he said he is seriously considering an offer of a $2,625,000 five-year contract from Philadelphia Reserve of the WHA, the team which has signed Johnny McKenzie, his friend and former team-mate, as playing coach.

With defencemen J. C. Tremblay lost to the team because of his switch from Montreal Canadiens of the NHL to Quebec Nordiques of the WHA, Sanderson's move would create a third vacancy among the 35 recruits assembled for the Canadian team by Coach Harry Sinden.

"I consider it a privilege to play for Canada," Sanderson said. "I'm only a little apple in the basket, but if enough of us make a today, maybe the NHL will stop this stuff against Hull and Tremblay."

As for the negotiations with Boston and Philadelphia, the 23-year-old centre said he is confident that, whatever happens, he will do very well for "A skinny kid from Niagara Falls with a Grade 9 education."

Eagleson said the Russians, while vetoing plans for a Canadian exhibition game against the Czechs, gave their blessing to arrangements for a Saturday-Sunday doubleheader against the Swedish national team in Stockholm Sept. 16 and 17, three days before the team arrives in Moscow.

CFL Execs Discuss Players' Demands

CALGARY (CP) — An emergency meeting of the Canadian Football League executive committee has been called for today in Winnipeg to consider its position in discussion with the players association.

League commissioner Jake Gaudaur left the announcement for release then caught an airplane for Winnipeg.

Gerry Patterson, director of the players association, met Monday and Tuesday with the league players-relations committee and submitted a revised proposal, Mr. Gaudaur said.

The executive committee consists of representatives from each of the nine member teams.

Later, Norm Kimball, general manager of Edmonton Eskimos, confirmed the meeting was scheduled for 10 a.m. EDT.

"It wouldn't be in our interests to discuss the proposals," he said.

Patterson, who said earlier that "we'll either have an agreement or an impasse Tuesday," left immediately for Montreal after the meeting without making a comment.

In Toronto, Pete Martin, player representative of Toronto Argonauts, said Tuesday his team-mates have voted to accept the latest offer from the Canadian Football League.

Need Enforcement Of Safety Rules

TORONTO (CP) — Vowing that "this carnage has gone on too long," a spokesman for 25,000 building tradesmen urged the provincial government today to take over responsibility for job-site construction safety.

Clive Balleceine, business representative of the Building Trades Council, told a news conference that municipal control of construction safety may have cost the lives of 368 workers during the last eight years.

Mr. Balleceine charged that opposition from Ontario municipalities is holding up new provincial legislation making construction safety the responsibility of the Ontario government.

Government officials acknowledged Tuesday that friction and opposition from municipalities was responsible for Bill 198 being held up after first reading in the legislature. The new legislation has been referred to committee for study.

Mr. Balleceine, noting that the average number of construction workers killed annually in Ontario is 47, attributed half the deaths to failure to comply with construction safety laws.

"There is every indication that if the enforcement of the safety laws were to come under the direct control of the department of labor's safety branch, the number of fatalities would be reduced considerably.

"We in the building trades unions do not intend to stand idly by and allow petty politicians to be played where the safety of our membership is at stake.

Mr. Balleceine also noted that a joint submission by labor and management went to the province's labor management committee in 1969, and revealed that of 67 Ontario municipalities reporting, only 25 had full-time construction safety inspectors.

Man Convicted For 14th Time

HAMILTON (CP) — Gerry Klayman, president of the Toronto-based Starvin' Marvin's, was convicted Tuesday of operating an all-night, all-nude burlesque theatre in Hamilton without a theatre licence.

The convictions bring to 14 the number of convictions in the last month on the same charge.

The licence was revoked by Hamilton's Police Commission after the cheque for the licence was returned by the bank.

Klayman and his lawyer, Frank Weatherston, claim the licence is still valid because only two members of the commission participated in cancelling it.

Optimistic Forecast On Economy Justified

MONTREAL (CP) — Bank of Montreal says earlier forecasts of buoyant economic growth in Canada and the United States seem to have been generally on the right track.

The bank said in its latest business review the Canadian and U.S. economies are experiencing a strong upward trend but that unemployment still remains a problem.

In both countries the expansion in sales has been exceptionally good. So far this year they have exceeded the sharp gains of 1971, and a continuation of this trend appears likely.

The bank noted that progress is being made even in the problem areas of unemployment, inflation, trade and business confidence.

Unemployment, s t i l l North America's number one economic problem, has gone down slightly since mid-1971. In Canada as of June there were almost 300,000 more jobs than a year ago, and in the U.S. the increase had topped the 3.1 million mark.

The high rate of inflation—the other main concern of policy makers—has also shown signs of improvement since about mid-1971.

However, Canadian labor demands have been of concern and negotiated wage increases in the first quarter were at the highest level in the current inflationary period.

More Young Canadians Are Travelling

OTTAWA (CP) — The number of young Canadians travelling around the country is slightly higher than last summer, Brian Gilbuly, co-ordinator of the federal hostel and kiosk program, said Tuesday.

He was commenting on a report Monday which suggested an apparent decrease this summer in the number of young travellers.

Monday's report, Mr. Gilbuly said, was based on figures from two weeks ago provided by Larry Steinman, regional co-ordinator of hostels in Toronto and southwestern Ontario, showing a decrease of 10 to 20 per cent in hostel use in the region.

"At that time, the weather in Toronto was awful. It was only a temporary decline. Otherwise, the number of people using hostels is up a little from last year."

The hostel and kiosk branch receives weekly usage reports from its 12 regional co-ordinators across the country and regular reports from individual hostels.

The government has 117 hostels operating this summer, on a budget of $1.2 million, compared with 96 last year. This means an additional 500 beds over last year. The capacity of the hostels varies from 15 to 200 beds.

"Hostels this year have been operating at two-thirds their capacity," Mr. Gilbuly said.

"The most popular area this summer has been the Prairies.

"The government is trying to create more hostels while at the same time making them smaller."

Ottawa's two hostels were made into four smaller ones this summer.

"We're finding that kids are trying to bypass the larger cities. So we want to set up more hostels in the smaller centres."

He later said this might be another reason a large city like Toronto would report reduced use of its hostels.

"We'd also like to establish more hostels along alternate routes."

Government hostels are located along the Trans-Canada Highway system, the Yellowknife Route in the west and north and a circular route around the Maritime provinces.

Mr. Gilbuly said more young people would like to travel north but there just aren't the hostels to accommodate them.

In response to one Toronto youth worker who claimed in Monday's report that the government had taken the challenge out of travelling for young people by providing cheap and available accommodation, causing the alleged decline, he replied:

"So many people complain that by setting up hostels, we created this mass migration.

"The hostels are not Holiday Inns. Kids are travelling and it isn't merely because of the hostel situation. Travel is just a normal part of learning about our society."

CANNABIS REPORT OF THE COMMISSION OF INQUIRY INTO THE NON-MEDICAL USE OF DRUGS.

The text of conclusions and recommendations of the Le Dain commission on drug use. As a report which calls for a continuing policy to discourage the use of marijuana, it has aroused differing reactions from the general public and from those involved in services among users. The Le Dain report suggests that the focus of our social concern should be the use of cannabis by adolescents, and the principal object of our social policy should be to restrict the availability of cannabis to them as much as is reasonably possible.

ILLUSTRATED HISTORICAL ATLASES

In the later decades of the 19th century, county atlases appeared throughout Ontario. These contained maps of towns and townships, indicating property owners, pictures of the homes of subscribers to the atlases or perhaps of the subscriber himself. Each included some historical introductory materials. Many of these are once again available in reprint editions. Among those counties represented by the reference collection are: Hastings and Prince Edward, Peel, Bruce, Simcoe, Grey, York, Norfolk, Ontario, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington, Wellington, Northumberland and Durham, Perth and Huron Counties. They all make interesting reading and looking.

Shoplifter on Crutches Is Too Fast for Police

Before they responded to a call for help, a shoplifter on crutches was able to get away from a store a block from the police station and whip out of town by hitch-hiking.

And Mayor Gray Willson wants to know why.

He has lodged a complaint with the police commission saying it took 25 minutes for the police to answer a call to the store in this town 15 miles southeast of Hamilton.

Mr. Willson said the man on crutches and another man entered the store June 27 and stole a coffee pot. Two clerks tried to hold them but let them go because they feared they may have been armed.

The commission is expected to release a report in a month. But in the meantime no one at the office is commenting.

Economy of Bangladesh Picks Up Slowly

DACCA (Reuter) — Six months after what is called "liberation" from Pakistan, the economy of Bangladesh is picking up—but only slowly.

The law and order situation in many areas is strained. Unemployment among the new nation's 75 million persons is high and the government seems unable to take firm decisions.

While fears of widespread famine in this closely-packed country on the northwest edge of the Bay of Bengal have been calmed, there is no underestimating problems facing the new nation.

With foreign aid, about 80 per cent of the many vital bridges destroyed during last year's civil conflict and the December two-week Indo-Pakistan war have been repaired.

Thanks to huge shipments of food from abroad, most of the population is being fed—even if not adequately by Western standards.

The 55,126 square miles is not much more than a huge river delta, criss-crossed by water. At the best of times this hampers movement and is a nightmare during the three monsoon months from late June to September.

Tidal waves driven along by roaring cyclones play havoc with the lives of the people. In one of the worst disasters—in November, 1970—at least 200,000 persons died and much damage was done to crops.

United by Islam, the Bengalis of the former East Pakistan nevertheless have a different cultural and linguistic background to the people of West Pakistan and their development was slower. The region had also traditionally been unable to meet its own food requirements.

The main supplier of far has been India, but the U.S. now is moving in a big way to help after an initial slowness stemming from its reluctance to recognize Bangladesh as an independent nation. During the war, the U.S. stand was pro-Pakistan.

U.S. sources say their total aid commitment is now more than $200 million in cash and goods.

The Soviet Union is undertaking a difficult salvage operation to clear the main port of Chittagong of vessels sunk during the last 10 months of trouble.

Questions And Answers

By The Ontario Motor League

QUESTION: We are motoring out to Vancouver, B.C. in August. Could you please give us a good route and some of the attractions to visit, especially in the Rocky Mountains.

ANSWER: The best route out is by the Trans Canada Highway. This takes you through many flat lands in the prairies which are rather a drag compared with the beauty of the Rockies. Calgary marks the end of prairies and from there the Trans-Canada climbs 80 miles into the Rocky Mountains, where the splendor of the scenery and the abundance of wildlife will slow your progress to a crawl. The resorts of Banff and Lake Louise, in Banff National Park, lie directly on your route. If you follow the 142-mile spectacular Icefield Highway north to Jasper, you'll see the most beautiful scenery in North America. Along this highway lies the Great Columbia Icefields, a remnant of the ice age and the largest mass of ice south of the Arctic. You can rent pre-recorded tapes and lightweight players at either Jasper or Banff. The tape leads you along the road, tells you what you're seeing and even fills in historic details from Indian and fur trade days in the Rockies. There are few areas in the world better suited to the auto tape idea. The Banff-Jasper Highway affords the most spectacular scenery in North America and it's the kind of thing you don't want to take your eyes off. The car's lighter attachment is used as a power source for the tape player. For the full trip between Banff and Jasper these tapes rent for about $9 and are well worth it.

West of Lake Louise, the highway enters Kicking Horse Pass and goes into British Columbia. Ahead lurch three more National Parks — Yoho, Glacier and Revelstoke — and more eye-popping alpine scenery. It cost a million dollars a mile to blast a highway through the Selkirk mountains in Glacier National Park. The result, known as the Rogers Pass, is an engineering and scenic marvel. Beyond Revelstoke, 140 miles west of Lake Louise, the highway waves like a paved roller coaster through central British Columbia. Farther west of Revelstoke, it picks up the Fraser River as it enters its roaring canyon, then follows it from Hope, B.C., to Vancouver and the soft air of the Pacific. At Vancouver there are ferries to Victoria, on Vancouver Island. There are also many cruise ships around the Islands, which are delightful.

On your return you can take route 3, near the U.S. Border, which is very scenic and takes you to Waterton National Park, lying on the U.S.-Canadian border, adjacent to Glacier National Park, Montana. These two parks are virtually one and are noted for their scenery. Waterton Lakes Park covers 204 square miles of mountain and lake area, a scenic paradise not as crowded with tourists as Banff National Park. Here you can rent boats and horses, camping facilities are available, and there are good motels and hotels. From here you can take highway 3 east to Medicine Hat, Alberta and the Trans-Canada Highway home, or you can take U.S. No. 2 and 13 to Glendive, Montana, fast interstate 94 and 10 to Duluth, Minnesota, and route 29, south of Lake Superior, to Sault Ste Marie, and Trans - Canada Home. Mileage from Belleville to Vancouver is approximately 3,000 miles.

Pair Will Keep Money Found in Garbage Dump

TORONTO (CP) — Two Toronto men who discovered $7,300 in a Unionville, Ont., garbage dump will probably receive the money Friday because a 90-day police search has not up debris with a dump truck for a developer in the St. Jamestown area.

Clare Robinson, 19, and Paul Dickinson, 24, are neighbors who were working at cleaning turned up its owner. The money was in two peanut butter jars.

The opening of fair-price shops in Dacca and other cities has helped curb the rising cost of living, but life is as much a struggle to survive as it ever was for the Bengali earning two or three rupees, or 24 to 36 cents a day, and having to support a large family.

Pepin to Test Trade Winds

WASHINGTON (CP) — Jean-Luc Pepin, Canada's minister of industry, trade and commerce, is visiting Washington today to find out whether more agreeable winds have begun blowing through the United States treasury department, will discover a completely different personality in charge.

But the same old problems of trade and economics are expected to be on the table.

John Connally, a Texas Democrat with a hard-driving and dynamic approach, resigned last May and has since committed himself to working for the re-election of a Republican administration under President Nixon.

George Shultz, former budget director and labor secretary, is a complete contrast. An economist where Connally was a lawyer, Shultz is also quiet-spoken, less politically motivated and possessed of an ingrained respect for mediation and negotiation instead of head-on confrontation.

Some of those factors may have prompted Ottawa's decision to make a fresh attempt to break a deadlock dating back to February.

One treasury department official indicated Tuesday that the meeting may be a test of sorts for Canada's position.

"If John Connally was really the main problem, and not just the fall guy for Canada, then the new secretary should make all the difference."

However, he said, he and other career officers in treasury had been discussing many of the same Canada-U.S. trade problems long before Connally appeared. He believed the problem was one of issues, and a change of secretary might not be the whole solution.

'Clean Arctic' Act Soon Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Problems relating to liability requirements that have delayed for more than a year proclamation of the Arctic Waters Pollution Prevention Act now have been overcome and the Act will become law Aug. 2, the government announced Tuesday.

While the Act deals only with pollution, it has been widely interpreted here also as an assertion of sovereignty by Canada over its Arctic waters.

The legislation sets stiff regulations and cleanup costs for ships plying waters in the Arctic archipelago and 100 miles to seaward.

Parliament passed the Act in late 1970 during the time that the supertanker Manhattan was trying to prove that oil could be moved through the Northwest Passage.

The U.S. always has maintained that the Passage is international waters; Canada insisted it is Candian.

The pollution bill going into effect next month; allows Canadian officials to inspect any ship going through the Passage to make sure it is adequately equipped with pollution-safety devices.

A government spokesman said at the time that the bill thus means that any ships going through such Arctic waters "go through subject to Canadian authority."

The government discovered after the bill's passage in Parliament that its liability regulations were so stiff that few ships would risk a voyage to Churchill in northern Manitoba.

"They had the effect of closing down Churchill," said one government official.

In its announcement Tuesday, the government said that ways now have been found whereby the absolute liability placed on ships in Arctic waters can be insured.

Such insurance was not available when the bill was first passed.

Inquest Told Indian Suffered Heavy Fall

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — Fred Quilt fell heavily to the ground two days before his death but did not appear to be hurt in the fall, an RCMP constable told a coroner's jury Tuesday.

Constable Daryl Bakewell, appearing at the second inquest into the death of the 56-year-old Chilcotin Indian, testified that on the evening of Nov. 28, 1971, he and Constable Peter Eakins investigated a complaint that a truck was blocking a highway near Alexis Creek, B.C.

In testimony Monday, Constable Peter Eakins said that he pulled Mr. Quilt out of the truck by the shoulders but could not support his full weight, and Mr. Quilt fell to the roadway.

Constable Bakewell told the jury Tuesday that he picked up Mr. Quilt after the first fall and leaned him against his pickup truck.

He described the Indian as being extremely drunk.

Mr. Quilt, he said, fell face down on the gravel road. He said he noticed, as he turned him on his side, that the Indian was breathing normally. "I could see there was no injury."

Canada Builds Super Warship

SOREL, Que. (CP) — From a distance, DDH-280 is a marvel prepossessing than its name. Its severe contour, box-like superstructure and squat silhouette somehow fail to convey the image of a deadly fighting ship.

But its builders, Marine Industries Ltd., and the Canadian Armed Forces, about to become the owners, describe it as the most sophisticated warship ever constructed in Canada.

The 4,000-ton, helicopter-carrying destroyer will be christened at this St. Lawrence River port Saturday by Mrs. Iron Gen. Jean Michener, wife of the governor-general.

Simultaneously, bearing the name Iroquois, it will be delivered into the inventory of Maritime Command as the first of four such vessels to be put in commission this year and next, at a total cost of $332 million. They will be based at Halifax.

The others are DDH-281, Huron, also being built by Marine Industries; DDH-282, Athabaskan, and DDH-283, Algonquin, under construction at Davie Shipbuilding Ltd. in Lauzon, Que.

Showing reporters about Iroquois Tuesday, navy and company officials rhapsodized over the ultra-modern equipment—from computerized command and control systems to gas-turbine propulsion.

It is the first ship of its size anywhere to use gas turbines exclusively. Among the advantages are full power in less than half an hour from a cold start, compared to a half-day minimum using steam.

"The problem now will be to extricate sailors from supermarkets, theatres and their girlfriend's arms fast enough to match the turbines' performance," one officer remarked.

The computer system for each of the four warships costs $11 million. It enables the ship's master to see the total tactical situation facing his own and accompanying warships.

Expert Explains

Sleep Is Key To Good Life

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Drug addiction cuts off an important part of sleep, and this in turn adds to drug dependency, an Ottawa neuropsychologist said Tuesday.

Dr. Roger Broughton said when a drug wears off during sleep, an addict is often plagued by nightmares. To stop them, he takes another dose.

The associate professor of medicine at the University of Ottawa was addressing the International Symposium on the Science of Creative Intelligence at Queen's University. About 1,000 students and teachers of transcendental meditation are attending.

Dr. Broughton, president of the Association for the Psychophysiological Study of Sleep, said each person has his own sleep requirements and should obey them. He said he knows one person who needs 90 minutes of sleep a night and others who need more than eight hours.

Dr. Broughton said it appears on the basis of research data that extroverted, dynamic personalities need less sleep than introverted persons.

During a question period, Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, who teaches transcendental meditation as a way to increase awareness, said transcendental meditation corresponds to Dr. Broughton's description of sleep. Dr. Broughton, who practises meditation, agreed.

Dr. Broughton sees sleep as both a creative and evolutionary force. During sleep "certain conclusions focus unconsciously, that cannot be reached by logic."

Writers, musicians and scientists find creative stimulus from sleep and dreams, he said.

Four of Six Accused Denied Drug Case Bail

MONTREAL (CP) — Four of the six men charged with conspiracy to traffic heroin were denied bail Tuesday and a fifth, John Fecarotta, 37, of Detroit, had bail fixed by Seniors Court Judge Guy Guerin at $25,000.

The four denied their freedom at the bail hearing are Montrealers Guido Orsini, 37, Santo Mandola, 39, and Vincenzo Balsamo of Windsor, Ont.

No bail application had been made for the sixth accused, Jean-Pierre Buffa, 34, of Lyons, France.

The six men are accused of conspiracy to traffic in 18½ pounds of heroin valued at $3 million and of actually trafficking in it.

Mandola is also accused of possession of the total quantity and Balsamo and Koroneey are charged with possession of 7½ and 10½ pounds respectively. Fecarotta faces a charge of possession of 7½ pounds at some time between June 28 and July 13.

Union, Stelco Reach Accord

TORONTO (CP) — Tentative agreement was reached last Tuesday night on a new contract between the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. and Local 1005 of the United Steelworkers of America, which represents 12,000 Stelco employees in Hamilton.

Details of the contract are being withheld until an open meeting of the steelworkers is held Thursday night at Ivor Wynne Stadium.

The contract terms will be outlined at that time to workers, whose ratification vote will be held Friday at the plant gates.

The agreement came after 15 days of bargaining and with the assistance of W. H. Dickie, assistant deputy labor minister and Victor Scott, director of mediation and conciliation services for Ontario.

Ron Tipler, Local 1005 president, said union bargainers will recommend that local membership ratify the agreement. He called it a balanced settlement, covering all areas where change was sought.

The union originally had asked for a package increase of $2.30 an hour with wages, pensions, shift premiums and improved vacations as the major goal items. The first company offer, the only one made public, called for an increase of 80.8 cents an hour. The current average wage is $3.99 an hour.

"It is a good agreement, a damn good agreement," said Mr. Tipler, who said he was looking forward to presenting its terms to the local's membership Thursday.

Mr. Tipler said the situation this year is different from the 1969 one. At that time, the union bargaining committee was decided on the agreement and the local already was on strike when the ratification vote was held.

That agreement was rejected and the strike dragged on for 81 days.

Mr. Tipler and most of his bargaining committee returned to Hamilton today for a meeting with the union's executive board to discuss the contract. The 280-member stewards' council will get a look at the pact Thursday prior to the meeting.

Union officials predicted that agreement on the contract is expected to speed up the Algoma Steel talks also under way here.

Mr. Tipler said, however, that Algoma bargainers do not yet know the terms of the Stelco agreement, and will not until after Thursday night's meeting.

Stelco Will Build Plant at Welland

TORONTO (CP) — The Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. announced today it will build a new plant at Welland capable of producing large-diameter pipe for Arctic pipelines.

The mill will be able to produce 1.7 miles of pipe, almost five feet in diameter, a day and is scheduled to begin production early in 1974.

Employment is projected at 350, but will depend on orders.

Stelco now has a pipe mill at Welland and one at Camrose, Alta. Employees at the existing Welland plant will operate the new plant if pipe orders are not sufficient to keep all plants operating.

The new plant will produce pipe between 30 and 60 inches in diameter by the spiral-weld method, which uses plate steel to form pipe the way the stripes are painted on a barber pole.

The Camrose plant can produce pipes of up to 42 inches in diameter, and the existing Welland plant, 36 inches.

The new facility will be located in a six-acre building on the Stelco property north of the existing plant. The total operation, including ancillary build ings and storage space, will re quire 15 to 20 acres.

Stelco estimates construction cost will be about $18 million

Death Comes Before His Inheritance

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — "Some people are born with brown eyes. I was born with money."

That was Lance Reventlow's offhanded comment about the $50 million to $100 million he would some day inherit from his mother, the much-married Woolworth dimestore heiress Barbara Hutton.

His mother outlived him though. Reventlow and three other persons died in the crash of a light plane near Aspen, Colo., during a thunderstorm Monday night.

In his 27 years, Reventlow used his mother's money to lead an adventurous, sporting life. His viewpoint: "Money? Why it's just a convenience."

Reventlow's biggest extravagance was racing cars. He designed his own model, and its beetle-like shape dictated its name-the Scorrab. In his early 20s he raced the car on the grand prix circuit, winning the Nassau race in 1958.

His racing contributed to the dissolution of his first marriage to actress Jill St. John. "Lance has taken out his racing license again," she told a reporter when they separated in 1962, after two years of marriage. "A big fight resulted."

In 1964, Reventlow married Cheryl Holdridge, 19, an actress who had once been a member of the Mouseketeers of the Mickey Mouse Club television show. She said that she didn't insist on it but Lance gave up car racing. In his last years he devoted himself to polo and skiing. He had maintained a home in Aspen for six years.

Federal investigators are attempting to learn the cause of the plane crash.

The bodies of Reventlow and the other victims—Robert Wolf, 35, a ski instructor; Gifford Hooker, 27; and Mrs. Barbara Baker, 45, all of Aspen—were taken to hospitals in Grand Junction—west of Aspen, for autopsy, a Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said.

Authorities said from the condition of the wreckage, found at the 10,500-foot elevation, it was believed the plane had plunged nearly straight down into trees in a heavily-wooded box canyon.

College Dean Shot 5 Times

NEW YORK (AP) — A 21-year-old suspended Columbia College student was sought today for questioning in the shooting of Dean Henry Coleman, apparently after a heated argument in his office.

Coleman, 46, dean of students, was shot five times Tuesday and taken to St. Luke's Hospital, where he was pronounced in good condition after surgery for chest and other wounds.

Police said the student, Edward McKinney of Chicago, had met with Coleman to demand that his suspension for poor grades be lifted and that he be readmitted to the college.

Christopher Trump, assistant dean of the Graduate School of Journalism, said McKinney had argued the matter with other university officials Tuesday and then announced he was going to see Coleman.

A search of university buildings failed to turn up a trace of McKinney, who had just completed his sophomore year.

Coleman was a reputation for calmness and sympathy during the violent confrontations between students and police in 1967-68, when he was acting dean. He was appointed dean of students for the college in June, 1971.

Bad Weather Hampers Search for Victims

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — Rain and choppy water have hampered the search for the body of nine-year-old Martin Contois, who vanished in the darkness of Georgian Bay Sunday night praying to God to forgive his sins.

Also missing and believed drowned are Michael's father Richard Contois, of Oak Ridges, about 15 miles north of Toronto; Michael's brother Anthony, 8, and sister Bernadette, 4; Mrs. Eugene Contois of Holland Landing, about 20 miles north of Toronto; Eugene Contois' children, Karen, 9, Michael, 7, and Denis, 6; and Sheila Ryan, a ward of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Contois.

The body of Patricia Contois, Martin's aunt, was recovered earlier.

By Tuesday night all the searchers had found were avon groceries, washed ashore on Snake Island, the destinators of the family that night, and some clothing found on Grandview Beach in Midland Bay.

Sgt. Maj. William Conworth of the Midland detachment of the provincial police said high waves had created difficulties for the seven boats and 51 searchers, including nine divers.

The search resumed 6 a.m. Tuesday with another boat and airplane joined the search. Patrols of the beaches around the bay were enforced.

There were only two survivors of the 13 people aboard the 14-foot boat when it was swamped — Richard Contois' wife, Claudette, and her daughter Monica.

Mrs. Contois said she was clinging to Nanette until Provost waves pulled her little daughter away from her.

Mrs. Contois, 28, said she listened helplessly to her son, Martin, prayer. She also said that after Nanette was pulled away from her, she felt like giving up.

But she thought "No, that's stupid — I've got to do something." And she started swimming for lights she could see in the distance.

Finally she dragged herself ashore, about two miles south of Snake Island.

Monica, 10, was rescued after she caught the attention of a man aboard a cabin cruiser with her cries. She had stayed afloat without a lifejacket for two hours.

Fitzgibbon Fenced

Fitzgibbon Construction couldn't bulldoze their way through the fence in a Belleville Minor Soccer game last night dropping a 5-3 score to mosquito division leading Supreme Fence.

In a closer mosquito contest the Golden Mile and Lino's Pizza battled to a 2-2 tie.

No Respect !

Respect for their elders seems to have passed to the wayside for the Mead Johnson squirts as they continued their rampage through the Belleville Minor Softball peewee division Tuesday night.

Quinte Muffler were the victims losing 22-0, giving the squirts a 9-1 won-loss record in house league play. Tim Soule fired a 10 strike out no-hitter for Meads while his team mates piled up 11 runs in the first inning and coasted to the win.

Andy Rositt pounded a homer and single, Bob Hedge a homer, Allan Brooks two doubles, David Urch three singles, Gilbey two singles, and Darrell Coltman a single for the winners.

Brian Trent took the loss for Quinte Muffler.

Split Decisions

The Belleville Minor Baseball League came to a pair of split decisions last night as the Golden Mile bantams battled to a 5-5 deadlock with Richard Ellis and Alhambra 10 tied Hastings Caretaking 4-4 in tyke.

Brian Turner went the route on the Golden Mile mound fanning 13. Paul Weeks had a double and Jeff Merrill two singles in his support.

Larry Stapely, Mike Burke and Peter Hall all saw duty for Richard Ellis combining for seven strike outs. Stapely had a double and two singles for the Printers big stick.

It was a pitcher's duel in the tyke contest as Larry Hanlan and Mark Pearson picked up 15 strike outs for Alhambra and Bill Stark and Steve McQuarrie managed 14 killings on the Hastings mound.

Coffey Spilled In One-hitter

Larry Coffey needed a break in last nights South Hastings Baseball contest between Planes Concrete and Read, but he didn't get it.

Coffey fired a one hitter for Read but still wound up on the short end of a 1-0 score. Coffey fanned seven, walked only two and allowed only a single to Bob Robb but his team mates couldn't produce a run for him.

Larry Adams tossed a four hitter for the winners and gained the shut - out victory. He struck out ten and issued three free passes.

Pete Enright had two singles for Read and Bert Sherry and Glenn Milligan a single each but couldn't put them together for a run.

Seven for Seven

Robert Masterson may not be superstitious but it's guaranteed that he'll remember a pair of lucky sevens for a long time to come.

The seven year old Belleville youth fired a hole-in-one on the par three, 65-yard seventh hole at the Barcovan Golf course yesterday.

Robert, a member of the junior program at that course, used a four wood for his shot and it helped him card a 40 for nine holes of play.

Midget 'A's Always Come First

It's always A before B in the alphabet and it was that way in Belleville Minor Lacrosse action last night when the Midget All-star A team stopped the Juvenile B team 5-2.

Jim Scott and Bill Donald each had a pair of tallies for the midgets while Rick Belanger added the odd marker. Wade Grier and Al Tebworth netted goals for the juveniles.

In a bantam game last night any one of Towers Food City scorers had enough to win the game as they whumped Bud Gill's 11-2.

Rob Prewer led all scorers with five goals but Sterling Wilson and Jim Scanlon each accounted for three Towers scores. Bob Crawford fired both Bud Gill goals.

In a closer bantam game the R.C.A.F. nipped Bobs Sports 3 - 2 behind the three goal performance of Jamie Kennedy.

What the Stars Say

By JEANE DIXON

Thursday, July 27

Aries (March 21-April 19): Remember that your skepticism may be taken as personal rejection, temper with tact. Creative projects bring merits.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Outside actions turn bright, if you have the energy to press hard. Home life, social programs conflict with other demands.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Firm agreements elude final definition, are not to be forced. For you, a streak of contrary glee in all this. Allow time for travel.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Rehearsing an unsatisfying experience wouldn't bring good results. Come to terms with yourself; you did the best you could at the time.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): If you're single it's a romantic day; if you're married, you'll need patience. Career projects are helped by social endorsements.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Stick to your budget and your neighborhood. There's much to do about your daily living. Disseeing habits for what they really are.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Uphill but worthwhile is the mood for today. Do the best job you can, expect no immediate response. Word from places and people is likely.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Substantial revisions of plans are possible, at the expense of both leisure and working time. Lengthy discussion may be needed.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Everybody wants to tell you all the details, but nobody wants to hear much of your story. Have you changed it lately?

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Contrary opinion is natural for you today. Anything you say or sign is subject to interpretation, so the less you do, the better.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Being reasonable isn't enough. You need to know where you stand. Fresh contacts are an open door to future progress.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Seemingly petty details in this mixed day turn out to be important, so you shouldn't get careless or hasty. Evening brings good news.

Renal Colic Rare In Hospitals

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write about "colic." I don't think it would benefit a great number of people.—Mrs. A. V.

"Colic" is one of those words that means whatever the user wants it to mean. The dictionary defines it as a severe paroxysmal pain in the belly (such as a gallstone attack).

With babies, the term is used for anything from fussiness to energetic crying. The baby may have a pain—or he may be just restless, hungry, itchy, wet, or bored.

Some significant observations have been made. "Colic" rarely occurs in a hospital nursery. It seems to manifest itself most when baby has been taken home. Ordinarily it disappears in the first four to six weeks of life. It's more common with first babies.

The implications are that hospital nurses know a bit more about how to keep tiny babies contented, and perhaps that a tiny baby may be upset by a new environment — it may be noisier, with feeding schedule may not be what he expects or wants, he may need more regular burping.

Colic is often attributed to an intestinal disturbance. I say that it may not be. A little gas (or air) is normal in an infant's innards, but too much swallowed air can make him crampy. Regular, adequate burping after each feeding pays off.

Likewise small babies need frequent, small feedings. A harried mother may try to stretch the intervals between feedings. Or formula may be thickened. Baby may get hungry between feedings, and he protest.

In about 10 per cent of colicky babies, allergy to cow's milk can have a bearing. In such cases, watch for other symptoms — diarrhea, eczema, or a family history of allergies. Such trial can be passed on.

Intolerance to carbohydrate (sugar) or fats also may call for modification of the formula.

Many pediatricians are pretty well conditioned to emotional reasons can be part of the trouble.

A small baby may not recognize any words yet, but still can be influenced by a mother's anxiety—nothing sneered at.

One frequent question: Wait and give baby a pacifier? Some object to pacifiers. I don't, and I think the general tendency to accept their use, since it can satisfy the sucking instinct.

Dr. F. M. Smith, Jr., of Louisiana, argues that there's nothing wrong with permitting this form of gratification—and don't older people chew gum, smoke and indulge other forms of oral gratification?

Denying a baby a pacifier, he says, is sheer hypocrisy.

If baby likes his pacifier when he's small, let him. But don't, of course, try to make that the answer to everything. If it doesn't calm him readily, and he goes on fussing or crying, look for a reason. Babies are reasonable critters, and don't fuss or cry unless they have cause.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife recently had a IUD inserted. I tend to have this done, she told the doctor that she has had a baby and that she has not.

I was wondering if there is a possibility of complications.—A. B.

There is no connection between her having had a baby or not having had a baby and the insertion of the intrauterine device.

And why, for heavens sake, did she tell the doctor she'd had one?

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in my middle 60s and have bunions which are considerably out of whack. Would it be too late to have them removed by surgery? How long would I be in hospital?—Mrs. V. J.

No, it's not too late for surgery, but how long you would have to stay off your feet would depend on the particular case, and I can offer no estimate or suggestion except to ask the surgeon (orthopedist or, in some cases, podiatrist) to make an estimate.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three LA, LE, LO's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Contract Bridge

By B. Jay Becker

(Top Record-Holder in Masters' Individual Championship Play)

A Bull's-Eye

South dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

WEST		EAST
♠ AJ108		♠ Q653

	♥ K93
	♦ K76
	♣ KQ103

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	2♦	Pass
3 NT	Pass	3NT

Opening lead — queen of hearts.

Let's assume you're East and partner leads the queen of hearts, which you win with the ace.

If you return a heart to South's king — paying blind obeisance to the custom of returning partner's suit — you will soon have cause to regret the play. South will reel off eleven tricks and so put a quick end to the matter.

But if, at trick two, you stop to consider the chances of beating the contract, you realize that returning a heart is bound to result in your early demise. Dummy's wealth of tricks — at least seven are in plain view — should persuade you that declarer's only possible weakness list is spades and that, if he is not vulnerable there, you simply cannot stop the contract.

Having reached the conclusion that a spade shift is mandatory, the only remaining problem is which spade to play.

Ordinarily, with such a spade holding, you play your fourth best card, the three, but in the present case, where your only hope is to garner four spade tricks at once, you should return the queen.

As it happens, the queen lead works like a charm. You find partner with an ideal holding in spades and South runs down one before he can even say Jack Robinson. (If you return the three, instead of the queen, declarer makes the contract by simply playing low from his hand.)

It's all very handy, of course, but that is a commodity one must always carry in stock. You just can't sit there and take a beating by blindly returning a heart at trick two, when there is a reasonable possibility that a high spade return may do declarer in.

Tomorrow: The Blackwood convention.

Canadian Development to Buy Polymer

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has agreed to sell Polymer Corp. of Sarnia to the Canadian Development Corp. for $62 million and a share of Polymer's profits in the next two years.

C. M. Drury, president of the treasury board, said Tuesday the sale will mean that the CDC —which the government now owns, but which is instituded to become a shareholder-owned corporation—will be able to let Polymer grow and realize its full commercial potential more quickly.

Since its founding early in the Second World War as a synthetic rubber plant, Polymer has been fully-owned by the government. It has had to clear all major policy decisions, plus capital intentions, with the cabinet.

Anthony Hampson, president of CDC, said the corporation has already talked with Polymer about its capital expansion plans. Decisions will be taken in the next few weeks, and can be taken more quickly than would be the case of Polymer had to work through the cabinet.

Polymer is CDC's second investment. The CDC bought Canaught Laboratories recently from the University of Toronto, and it is considering the purchase of the federal government's interest in Panarctic Oils, Northern Transportation, and Eldorado Mining and Refining Co.

CDC wants to offer its share to the public as soon as possible, after it has acquired four or five investments that would make public purchase of its shares worthwhile, Mr. Hampson told a news conference.

The government put about $40 million into Polymer when it was formed in the early 1940s. Since then, the company has generated its own capital requirements. Its book value now is about $120 million.

The government is selling it to the CDC for $62 million, plus a share of the profits in the next year, not exceeding an additional $10 million.

The $62 million to $72 million price was the result of negotiations between CDC and the government, Mr. Drury said. But it was based on an assessment of Polymer's worth made by two federal government departments and Wood Gundy Ltd., private investment brokers.

Billion for Science

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government will spend more than $1 billion on scientific activities in 1972-73, science ministry figures show.

The statistics, to be released officially later this summer, show total costs for the natural sciences, including indirect departmental costs such as administration as well as total expenditures, will be more than $1 billion. This compares with about $840 million for 1971-72.

As well $201.7 million will be spent on the human sciences.

About 46 per cent of the $1-billion total costs of natural science activity will be for work through government department. Another 17 per cent will be directed toward the industrial sector, 15 per cent to educational and non-profit institutions and two per cent to other Canadian and foreign performers.

A breakdown of the costs by departments and agencies show that environment with $240 million; the National Research Council with $155 million; industry, trade and commerce with $101 million and national defence with $96 million were the leaders.
